It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

FOR THE YEAR 1864.

OHIO STATE ASYLUM FOR IDIOTS, }
November 10, 1864. }

To His Excellency JOHN BROUGH, Governor of Ohio:

SIR,—The Trustees of the Ohio State Asylum for Idiots herewith transmit to you their Eighth Annual Report, with the request that it be laid before the General Assembly.

P. HITCHCOCK,

To the Honorable the General Assembly of the State of Ohio :

The Trustees of the Ohio State Asylum for Idiots respectfully submit to your honorable body the Eighth Annual Report of that Institution.

During the year just passed, there has been nothing new or striking in the operation of the Institution, to which we deem it of importance to call your attention.

We are happy to state that the wearying toil necessarily incurred by those who look after and train the class of youth here cared for, has been cheerfully borne by the officers and teachers of the Institution,—they laboring with an earnest purpose to succeed in effort for the elevation and improvement of the poor unfortunates committed to their charge.

The task of caring for and instructing this class is no idle one, and requires, to insure success, a devotion on the part of those engaged in it, which tires at no obstacle. We are pleased to say that in the conduct of those in charge of the Ohio State Asylum for Idiots, there is abundant evidence of this devotion.

Persons not having made this subject a study, have little conception of the difficulties encountered in the attempts for their improvement. Notwithstanding these difficulties, we can repeat that the pupils generally are making gratifying progress—even, in many instances, exceeding the expectations of parents and friends. Few are aware of how much can be accomplished in behalf of this unfortunate class of children; and on this account there is less of general interest in the attempt for their improvement than there otherwise would be, and than we regard its importance to demand.

We are glad, however, to know that there is a constantly increasing interest manifested in sustaining this Institution, both on the part of the General Assembly of the State, as also of the public generally. This is shown by the largely increased number who visit it, and the almost unanimous expression of surprise at what has been accomplished, and of confidence in the importance of the enterprise.

Visits of inquiry and inspection by members of the General Assembly and others, are at all times earnestly invited; and the officers take pleasure in affording all who may come, every facility for becoming acquainted with the mode of training this class, and general management of the Institution. We feel this to be important, not alone on account of securing increased interest in the effort, but also on account of the encouragement afforded the pupils, which aids much in their improvement.

The friends of humanity, of feeble-minded youth, and especially the unfortunate of this class, have cause of gratitude for the substantial interest manifested in their welfare by the present General Assembly at its late session, in making provision for the "permanent establishment of the Ohio State Asylum for Idiots."

By the Act of March 28, 1864, twenty-five thousand dollars are appropriated for the purchase of a site for permanent location of this Asylum, and the erection of buildings thereon. This action of your body, setting apart a sum of money for this purpose, and placing the same in the hands of the Board for disbursement, devolved upon us a responsibility we would gladly have avoided. It becomes our duty to report to you our doings under the Act making this appropriation.

By the Act above referred to, the Trustees are authorized to "receive by gift a tract of land suitable for a site;" and by previous action of General Assembly, to accept "donations of land, money, or building materials."

The Legislature seemed to expect that benevolent individuals or communities, desiring the location of this Asylum in their vicinity, might be disposed to make voluntary contributions towards its establishment. This expectation, and the hope of the Trustees in this respect, have been entirely disappointed.

Soon after the adjournment of the General Assembly at its late session, the Board met at Columbus, holding a consultation with the chairmen of the Senate and House committees upon "Reform Schools and Asylum for Idiots." Those gentlemen advised that in purchasing or securing by gift a site, we should accept of not less than fifty, and from that to one hundred acres of land contiguous, and that all parts of the State should have the opportunity to secure its location by offer of inducements therefor.

This advice concurring with the opinion of the Board, it was at this meeting resolved to issue circulars inviting propositions to donate or sell land for a site, which were sent to prominent men in the different counties of the State, with the request that they be published, or noticed in their respective county papers. In response to this, propositions came but from two or three places, except in the vicinity of Columbus. They were all for sale.

The Board spent some little time in looking at these, as well as at other points which they supposed might be desirable. In determining upon a location, they felt it their duty to look not alone to what at first view might seem cheapest, and as most desirable, but rather at what would ultimately be for the interests of the State, the prosperity of the Institution, and the greatest good of the unfortunate class for the benefit of which it is established.

Regarding it in this light, as central, as easy of access, as nearly equal in price of supplies, as the point where most of the other Benevolent Institutions of the State are established, and as under the immediate eye of the General Assembly, they decided that unless superior inducements were offered elsewhere, the location should be in the vicinity of the Capital. No such inducements were offered. In fact, in most instances, the State being a party, the only object seemed to be to get a good price for property, if sold. In the vicinity of Columbus many points were examined, but the same difficulty met us here as elsewhere—the large amount required for the site, leaving no available sum for building.

Our attention was turned to the State Quarry tract, as by the Act above referred to, the Board were authorized to use it, if deemed practicable; but after thorough examination, no suitable location for building could be found, the railroad tracks passing through the tract spoiling what otherwise might have been a desirable location. Still the idea of building here was not entirely given up, until, previous to the temporary establishment of the United States General Hospital upon this tract, in a consultation, by invitation, with His Excellency Gov. Brough upon the subject, we were advised by him that in his opinion the interests of the State would be better consulted by purchasing such a site as would be adapted to the purpose for which intended, than by attempting to build upon that tract. In the same interview he also advised, that although we might be unable to build with the appropriation made, after purchasing a site, that we should secure the latter, trusting to the Legislature to make such increased appropriations as might be necessary for building.

With the increased expense of building, in the price of building materials, in labor, and in the cost of living, the Board found it impossible to purchase a site and erect such buildings as would answer the purpose intended, with the appropriation made, and on this account seriously thought of reporting the whole subject back to the General Assembly without further action. On further reflection, however, they concluded to follow the suggestion of the Governor, and secure the site.

Among the numerous propositions made to the Board in the vicinity of Columbus, we concluded to accept of one made us by the Franklin Bank of Columbus, for the sale of one hundred acres of land at one hundred and thirty-five dollars per acre. None other within reach of the city, adapted to the purpose, was offered at less than five hundred dollars per acre.

It is situated on the National Road, two miles west of Columbus. The site selected for the building is near the brink of the elevated plain, on the west side of the Scioto valley. The situation is a beautiful one, overlooking and presenting a fine view of the city, while it is in plain sight of the Capitol. A very fine maple grove runs around the entire front of the high ground, and at the same time the principal part of the land is in the Scioto valley, and is easily susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. The site for building being upon high, dry ground, is easily drained. There is upon the premises a barn, which will answer present purposes of the Institution; also a very good cottage house, which may be used to advantage during the time of building, and may afterwards be made available to some good purpose. A little distance in rear of the point selected for building, the necessary amount of brick can be manufactured upon the premises, at about half the cost if purchased elsewhere, and saving almost the entire expense of hauling. The nearness of the State stone-quarry also saves a large expense in the item of stone and hauling. The location is near enough to the city for all practical purposes, is easy of access by the National Pike, while the building will be far enough therefrom to be sufficiently retired.

The Board are unanimous in regarding the site as preferable to any offered them, and we feel that the members of the Legislature will be pleased with its location, and adaptation to the wants and uses of the Institution.

In running the lines in accordance with the proposition of the Bank, it was found that the rear line would run directly across the site selected for the building. This involved the necessity of extending the east and west lines further south, including thirty acres more of land. This is a larger tract than the Board thought of purchasing, or would have done under other circumstances, and they hesitated long about taking it in this form, but feeling that it was so much more desirable than any other offered them, and less by the acre, although large in the aggregate, they finally concluded to do so.

That this is a larger amount of land than is important in connection with an Institution like this, we do not suppose; and it is earnestly hoped that the Legislature may regard it in the same light. The necessity of milk for use of an Institution like this, and the much cheaper rate at which it can be furnished when pasturage and food for cows can be had upon the premises, the large saving of annual appropriations for feed of stock, as also—which is more important—the necessity of physical training, and abundant room and facilities for out-door exercise of the class of children here cared for, make it highly important that there should be a sufficiency of land in connection with the Institution, for the sure accomplishment of these ends.

In considering upon and adopting a plan for building, the Board have sought to select such as, while it would be the least which in their opinion the State ought to do, yet if the General Assembly should in its wisdom think differently, a part might be complete in itself, and so arranged as that it might be extended in the future as might be deemed desirable. They have not intended to select anything for display, but simply that which should make a good substantial edifice, which, while it is adapted to the purpose for which intended, shall be no discredit to the State.

The plan adopted by them (which will be laid before your body) is for a building, which, as a whole, is intended to accommodate two hundred and fifty pupils, and, used to its utmost capacity, three hundred. At the same time it would be capable of further extension, if in the future it should become necessary. More than this we would not at this time recommend, and this much we would most earnestly urge. Early in the past season it was thought that if a site could be procured without expense, the main part of this building, with capacity to accommodate one hundred pupils, could be put up and completed within the appropriation made; but the rapidly increasing expense of building, referred to before, and the disappointment in securing a site, precluded all hope of completing a building without further action of the General Assembly. They have therefore gone no further in regard to building, except to secure the quarrying a large amount of stone, and to make excavation for the main building.

This much they have ventured to do, believing that your body, having commenced a good work, will not leave it unfinished, but will make the necessary provision for its final completion.

The estimate of the architect who has furnished us with plan and specifications for building, of the expense of completing the same, is $125,000.

We trust your body will appropriate an amount sufficient, together with that already appropriated, to complete this work.

As before intimated, a portion of this building—say the main building, or the main building and one of the wings—might be erected at this time, leaving the balance to be completed in the future; but it is always better that such a building, foundation and superstructure, should go up together. If built part at a time, additional expense is incurred in bringing the different parts together, at the same time that there is danger of loss in strength and permanency of the building.

The estimated expense of the main building and of the wings, taken separately, is, for the main building $55,000, and for each wing $35,000.

We cannot feel it our duty to ask less of you than an amount sufficient to complete the main building and one of the wings.

In dismissing this subject the Board can only repeat the hope, before expressed, that having commenced the work of providing for this class of unfortunates, your honorable body will not hesitate to finish it. Every consideration of justice and humanity seems to demand that it should be done. We will not tire you by repetition of oft-repeated arguments in favor of this course, but rest the matter entirely with you, where it appropriately belongs, feeling that Ohio's Representatives, who have always been so ready to make provision for the less favored children of the State, having recognized the claims of this class, will not fail to make for it all needed provision.

Below is found a summary showing the financial condition of the Institution, with estimates for the coming year. It will be seen that for rent, for wages, for fuel and provisions, necessary repairs, &c., these are larger than for the past year. We had hoped to keep them so as not to exceed those, but find it impossible to do so, although, as will be seen, the amount in aggregate is not so much larger than was used in the year past. We are notified by ex-Gov. Dennison, attorney for Mrs. Neville, that the rent is raised; therefore we are compelled to ask this appropriation. Good help cannot be obtained unless the same is paid as in private families. Wages paid employees in the Institution are now lower, and must continue so, unless the amount asked is appropriated. As to fuel, provisions, &c., it is unnecessary for us to say anything, as every member of your body is aware of the large increase in price of all articles coming under this head.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

OHIO STATE ASYLUM FOR IDIOTS,
Columbus, Nov. 10, 1864.

To the Board of Trustees :

GENTLEMEN,—The Eighth Annual Report of this Institution is herewith respectfully submitted.

In the past, as in the preceding year, we have been pursuing our humble course of good as steadily and diligently as our limited facilities would permit. The Legislature having at its last session provided for the permanent establishment of this Institution, the purchase of a site and the erection of suitable buildings thereon, we have been inspired with new hopes, and rejoiced beyond expression at the prospect thus opened to us of extending our usefulness. In thus recognizing the full measure of its duty to a class which has been until recently almost wholly abandoned to life-long misery, simply because the weight of their affliction seemed too great to be either alleviated or removed, the present Legislature has put the crowning act of completion upon our great system of State charities. And it is fitting that an act of benevolence, so kind and sympathetic, and for a class so utterly helpless—and, apparently, also, even hopeless—should thus constitute the climax of our public munificence, thereby illustrating in its full spirit that provision of our Constitution which enjoins the fostering care of the State towards all her unfortunate children. Considered in connection with the desolate condition of the poor unfortunates whose lot it is intended to ameliorate, this Institution will be regarded by many as the most touching and tender of all our State charities. Aside from our own gratitude, therefore, at the prospect of its permanent establishment and enlargement, it is with no ordinary degree of satisfaction that it will be regarded by the friends of humanity everywhere. The contemplation of beneficent conduct, either in a State or in an individual, always excites in the breasts of mankind the most proud and pleasurable emotions; but in reflecting upon the final establishment of this charity, the act is rendered still more illustrious, its beauty intensified, and its kindliness ennobled, by a consideration of the circumstances by which we are surrounded as a State and nation, and it will have a strange effect upon the citizens of Ohio, if it does not only make them greater lovers of their race, but also increase their fealty and devotion to a State which, while putting forth the most gigantic efforts to uphold the Federal Union, is yet so cherishing of all her children that she does not forget even the most deformed or least lovable of them.

The number of pupils in the Institution during the year has been 59; of this number 13 have been removed as discharged. Four of these had attained such a degree of usefulness that their friends deemed further training unnecessary; four had reached the point contemplated when admitted; one was discharged on account of an incurable disease which is liable soon to prove fatal; two were confirmed epileptics, their improvements promising no permanency; one has been detained at home against the advice of the officers of the Institution, the improvement made while here rendering him more manageable there; one was found to be too old after admission, and was consequently discharged to make room for a younger child. Of those now in the Institution, nine have been recently admitted; twenty-two read and write; seven of those remaining are mutes, one being deaf; twelve of the number read words, and ten read and write words, and are progressing towards the degree of improvement attained by the twenty-two above reported. Eighteen of these pupils have been regular and efficient workers; and sixteen more will become so, when their strength will permit, and we can provide them with suitable labor.

It will be unnecessary to present any analyses here of the mental condition of our pupils, if you will bear in mind the fact that this Institution is the last resort of parents after every other means of teaching their children have been exhausted; and that they are placed here only when experience has rendered the conclusion inevitable, that their deficiencies are too great to admit of instruction, even in the simplest matters, by the ordinary methods. And from the extreme reluctance of parents to make this acknowledgment (even to themselves) with regard to their own offspring, may be imagined the slow progress towards this conclusion. It is natural for the human heart to hope for something better, even under the greatest affliction, and the natural affection subsisting in parents for their children, tends to encourage these illusions, even in cases of the most apparent fatuity. Not unfrequently, too, medical advisers also encourage these delusions by careless opinions that certain children may "outgrow" their mental weakness. Meanwhile the child is constantly deteriorating, and it rarely ever happens that it arrives at this Institution until its friends and relatives have completely given it up as incapable of any improvement whatever. From these suggestions you may not only perceive the starting-point at which we begin with our pupils, but may also be enabled to appreciate the increased difficulties under which we labor in being called upon thus late to develop the naturally dim and dormant spark of intelligence which previous neglect or maltreatment has almost utterly extinguished.

Until the erection of our new buildings, we have still to lament the want of facilities for the proper classification of our pupils. Our condition in this respect is very serious indeed, and we feel it still more severely as our pupils progress. It is manifestly improper to associate those who are improving satisfactorily with pupils recently admitted. They must necessarily deteriorate more or less. Children admitted vary in age as well as capacity, and it is a defect of no slight importance in our organization, that requires the child of six or seven years to be exposed to the influences of those recently admitted who may be fourteen or fifteen. I say nothing here of the extraordinary difficulty of keeping the sexes properly separated, but merely refer to the whole subject generally, in order that no time may be lost in completing the new edifice.

It is greatly to be regretted that we have had no means for instructing our pupils in some employment by which they could maintain themselves, either wholly or in part, after leaving the Institution. This should be the main object sought in the training of this class—the utmost amount of practical education. Your attention was directed to the ripe condition of a number of our pupils for the reception of this training in our last report. It is earnestly hoped that another year will find us provided in this respect. Every available means at command, however, has been resorted to for the useful employment and instruction of our pupils. The same amount of land has been effectively cultivated by our male pupils, as heretofore, affording an abundant supply and variety of vegetables during summer and winter, thus not only contributing to their health and mental improvement by a varied and productive industry, but also adding their quota to their own support by diminishing the expenditures of the Institution. The female pupils continue the performance of appropriate domestic duties.

The Institution is to be congratulated upon the very favorable location of the site for its new buildings. Combining, as it does, in itself greater practical advantages than any offered for your consideration, it presents at the same time the most beautiful landscape scene in the vicinity of the city, while its natural graces are still more enlivened by a pleasant view of the town not far distant. All of this is attained without sacrificing the retirement and freedom so essential to such an Institution, and secures to its inmates not only the most perfect immunity during their hours of recreation, but also removes them beyond the probability of interruption. The conformation of the ground also insures exercise and recreation in the open air, in weather that confines our pupils to the house as we are now situated. The amount of land promises permanent employment for a large number of our pupils, and economy in the administration of the Institution; the character of the soil, with the high state of cultivation under which we will bring it with our many little hands, justifies the hope that it will furnish supplies that would otherwise be purchased. The beneficial effect of such labor upon our pupils has been referred to in former reports, and you have observed its good results here, even with our limited means. It is unnecessary, therefore, to reiterate those statements, as theory has become practice, and the results have been witnessed by you. We promise ourselves much greater rewards for our labors in this direction when we avail ourselves of your excellent selection of the ground for our future efforts; because many difficulties and drawbacks to our success will then have disappeared. The effect upon the health of the inmates of the Institution by the addition of so valuable an auxiliary as favorable and spacious grounds, will be readily perceived. In short, every advantage, sanitary as well as economical, will be greatly augmented, and it is earnestly hoped, therefore, that the Institution may soon enjoy them.

The proximity of the State stone quarry secures the stone necessary for the building at a cost much below the ordinary rates. It is also found that brick can be made upon the premises at a saving of quite 100 per cent., while the cost of labor in erecting the building will be no more than in the city. Water also, in abundance, is found upon the place, there being several living springs near the spot selected for the building; and the testimony of those who have lived in the vicinity, as well as the evidence of other competent judges, places its healthfulness beyond question.

So desirable a location having thus been procured for the future site of the Institution, a most important question next arises as to the plan and capacity of the buildings to be erected thereon. In considering this matter it will be of the utmost service to bear in mind the objects to which the institution will be devoted, and the extent of the wants to be supplied. It will be admitted on all hands that in establishing a permanent institution of this character, it should be laid upon a foundation, as far as possible, commensurate with the requirements of the class it is intended to benefit. It would manifestly be of poor economy in the State to begin with a building so small that it could accommodate but a small percentage of those applying for admission, and at the same time could not afterwards be enlarged to meet the growing demands upon it, except at a cost equal to the original expenditure, and perhaps even then only at an entire sacrifice of strength, order and beauty in architecture.

The chief matter to be taken into the account, therefore, in connection with the question of the capacity of the building to be erected, is the number of imbecile children in Ohio. From investigation upon this point, believed to be thorough and reliable, it appears that the proportion of feeble-minded children in this State, who are incapable of instruction by the ordinary methods, is at least 1 to every 820 inhabitants. With the population of 1860 this would give about 2,853 imbecile children, of whom at least one-fifth might be educated in an institution of this kind up to various degrees of intelligence and productive industry. This summary calculation would suggest institution buildings capable of accommodating five or six hundred pupils. I am aware, however, that it would, on several grounds, be regarded as unreasonable to ask the Legislature to provide, at present, for buildings of this capacity, and therefore shall not recommend the same; but content myself with hoping that they will at least contemplate this as an ultimate point to be reached in their bounty to this class hereafter, when the efforts made in their behalf will be better understood and appreciated by the public. An institution which will accommodate from 250 to 300 pupils, however, is at this time imperatively demanded if we would answer even a fair proportion of the many urgent appeals which come up to us from all quarters of the State for aid. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the buildings to be erected on our new site will be at least of this capacity, and on a plan too which will admit of future additions if necessary.

The cost of an institution of the capacity indicated would, perhaps, be in the aggregate $150,000. The amount required from each dollar's worth of property would be about one-seventh of a mill, or fifteen cents from each one thousand dollars. Who would deny their mite? No one will complain! Moreover a greater sum is annually levied for the support of but a portion of this class in idleness and degradation in the county poor houses, than is required for the erection of this building. The infirmaries will then be relieved of those of proper age, and the supply diverted from them hereafter. Upon this point, bearing as it does upon the economical aspects of the case, I beg leave to cite a paragraph from a former report:

We find that in ten counties of the average size in the State, there are supported in their infirmaries 157 idiots. The question need not be asked, what effort has been or is being made for their improvement? Their condition and habits of life are familiar to all. Let the expense to these counties, per capita, be estimated at the moderate sum of $100 per year, or fifteen thousand seven hundred dollars for the whole number. We will not go back to estimate the amount already spent for the support of these persons; nor is it necessary to estimate the number outside, who are none the less a load to community because they are not the inmates of the infirmaries; neither is it necessary to speak of the certain increase from causes that will be referred to presently. We will simply anticipate the experience for ten years of these counties in the care of this number of paupers. At the end of this term they will have expended, in the support of these persons alone, one hundred and fifty-seven thousand dollars. This is not the end of it; they must continue the expenditure with the necessary increase. On the other hand, let us suppose that the material which must keep this number up is diverted from the infirmaries to places provided with facilities for their improvement; at the expiration of this time, if they have but one-fifth less the original number who are able to obtain their own living, the expenditure must be diminished in a corresponding degree, or three thousand one hundred and forty dollars per annum. The number estimated is small, and if there is error, it is upon that side ; saying nothing of those who have been returned to their families so improved in habits and mind as to prevent the necessity of appealing to the authorities for their custody and support ; nor of those whose peculiarities and deficiencies render them the prey to their own passions, and the instruments of crime, thereby causing the necessity for society to assume their custody in some other way.

But there are other considerations which also enforce both the justice and economy of providing liberally for this class. Notwithstanding the extremely depressed intellectual condition of these children, they are as much entitled to instruction at the bounty of the State as their brighter and more fortunate fellows ; and the obligation of the Legislature to provide for the same cannot be evaded by the mere suggestion that they are incapable of being taught by the ordinary methods. The answer is, that this fact only entitles them so much the more to our care and solicitude. If ordinary means will not do, extraordinary means must be adopted. In enjoining the education of all the youth of our State by a system of common schools, the Constitution makes no distinction or exception. It does not attempt to prescribe the limits to which the system shall be carried, nor to describe any particular class or classes, coming up to certain fixed mental standards, upon whom its benefits shall be operative. On the contrary, it has placed every child in the State—stolid or astute, imbecile or quick-witted—upon the same common level, so far as its right to the bounty of an education is concerned. Thus while the right of all, irrespective of capacity is established and conceded, the principle regulating gradations, according to different powers, is yet fully recognized. Hence the Legislature, in carrying out the constitutional injunction, has provided for schools from the capacity of an infant, up to that of an adult. The mental status of the idiot, however, having always been regarded as exceptional to the natural condition, has been omitted from these general provisions, because of the almost universally prevalent opinion that it was incapable of any improvement. Consequently, until the inauguration of this school, as one of the State benevolent institutions, no attempt was ever made (in Ohio) for their education. In view of the great number of these children scattered among us, however, and the fact that this Institution is the only school in the State adapted to their wants and capacities, the question very pertinently arises whether we have not thus a double claim upon the liberality of the Legislature, both as a public charity, which it is bound to foster, and as a part of the educational system of the State, which it is equally its duty to encourage. Allusion has already been made to the fact that the Constitution contemplates the education of all the children of the State without exception. And the experience of this Institution has demonstrated that this class is capable of receiving and retaining instruction—not, it is true, in the ordinary methods, nor to the same degrees, as other children, but still capable. Upon the existence of this capacity, therefore, the duty to instruct, as well as the right to be instructed, attaches, unless some exception can be shown which absolves of the duty on the one hand, or destroys the right on the other. Surely it will not be contended that their unparalleled misfortune constitute them such an exception. On the contrary, these would seem all the more strongly to appeal to our sympathy and favor, and quicken our efforts for the development of their dwarfed and stunted humanity. Their deficiencies do not deprive them of the right to have their wants and capacities consulted like other human beings. Hence a school of this kind for their training, in addition to its broad and sure foundation as one of the benevolent institutions of the State, is as much embraced in spirit, at least, in the great common school system of our Constitution, as the primary or high school. It is true there is apparently a wide difference between them, and the manner of sustaining and administering them must always necessarily be different; but it is a difference in methods and degrees only, and not in general objects nor purposes. Each being adapted to a separate capacity, and answering specific wants, in the one instance the labor is more promising and more fruitful, but no more worthy in the eyes of our Great Master; for the immortal soul of the poor imbecile, although "some strange mysterious film hangs between it and the light," is still as precious to Him as that of the most brilliant intellect, whose effulgence has never been dimmed even by a shadow. And then we have the scriptural injunction, "So laboring ye ought to support the weak." We are also enjoined to be without partiality or hypocrisy in our benevolence, and as the condition of this class is the result of the same causes that produce insanity, deafness and blindness, they cannot justly be denied the same care.

If the truth of these observations be acknowledged, the conclusion then is inevitable, that no class of unfortunates have as immediately pressing and urgent claims upon the fostering care and liberality of the Legislature as the poor fatuous children among us, whether they be regarded simply as individuals, entitled, like others, to their proper share of the taxes levied for common school purposes, or in the other more especially benevolent, and more correctly accepted view of persons whose peculiar misfortunes require peculiar provisions. At the same time it will also appear that no class have hitherto been more neglected, simply because of the very depth of their misery, and the apparent impossibility of its alleviation. If we look at it in the first view, we shall find that were their proportion of the school fund to be computed according to their numbers, from year to year, since we have had a common school system, the aggregate would amount to a sum more than trebly sufficient to erect and organize this Institution on a creditable basis. Or if we view it in the second light, and compute the sums retained by the State in consequence of its neglect to provide for this class simultaneously with its provisions for other classes, the same result will appear. It is apparent, therefore, that a large balance is still due from the State to this unfortunate class on the score of past neglect alone; and if the friends of this Institution should be deemed over-zealous in urging these considerations upon the Legislature at this time, a good reason for presenting the subject thus is found in their anxiety to see full justice done at last to those in their charge, and to use every effort in the beginning—now that the State is about to erect a permanent Institution—to have it amply capacious for the good work it ought to accomplish.

It is proper that we should bear our testimony, in this connection, to the warm appreciation and liberal feelings which the public have exhibited toward our efforts for the training of these children. In the great throng of those who have favored us with their visits, since the establishment of this Institution, we have never heard aught but expressions of gratification and pride at their being able to contribute their quota to the alleviation of the suffering of their less fortunate fellow beings, be their share what it might. All seemed to realize—what, indeed, experience proves—that no condition in life is free from afflictions that require the special aid of an Institution to relieve. The causes which will place the mind beyond ordinary means of development are very common, and no family can boast of entire exemption from their operation. Any deviation from a normal condition, having as a result the complete depression of any particular organ, or the obscurement of any sense, always impairs the healthful operation of all the rest of the faculties, and thereby reacting upon itself aggravates the original evil. The operations of nature, in selecting particular organs or senses for the fullest punishment of a violation of her laws, though imperfectly understood, as yet, are fixed and certain, harmonizing with her first great principles of order as uniformly as cause and effect. The very condition which may in the minds of many secure them from such variations, namely, a highly cultivated and active mind, may become the cause of the evil in their children, from the operation of that singular law of transmission which atrophies in the offspring the faculties which were especially active in the parents. Instances illustrative of this are too numerous to doubt. Temporary influence upon parents can also be traced in children; while, if they escape these subtle taints, intensified by the transfer, they have still to encounter the danger of arrest of development during childhood, which can be as completely accomplished at this period as before birth. We will learn, from observations like these, to apply natural laws to ourselves, and to recognize the fact that they are inflexible, and, therefore, inviolable. If important facts, shedding light upon the origin of this evil, are gathered here, and the same disseminated, the people may be induced, to some extent, to avoid the causes. Thus, the benefits resulting from this Institution, will not be confined to those within its walls, and enjoying its immediate bounty, but humanity elsewhere will be saved many seams and scars. Much information of this kind has already been obtained; but, hereafter, with the Institution permanently established, we can hope for greater and more regular facilities in the pursuit of the study, as well as the accumulation of more important evidence, from the field of observation becoming more extended. Richer results also promise themselves in the training of this class. As we progress, new and improved methods continue to suggest themselves.

In the permanent establishment of this Institution, Ohio has completed the circle of her public charities,* and stands prominent among the States for benevolence and care to the unfortunate. This may be regarded as a fair test of civilization, and the fullest confidence is therefore felt that the refined and liberal spirit which prompted the beginning, will urge the completion of this Institution in such manner as will accomplish the benevolent purposes contemplated at the outset. If the new building should be of the capacity I have suggested, it will accommodate the majority of those capable of improvement in our State. A great public want will be supplied, and much good accomplished. A plain style of building, and the plan of avoiding all display in the same, will commend itself. The principle of securing a building that will answer the purpose for which it is intended, capable of accommodating the largest number of pupils, at the smallest expenditure of money, considering permanency, comfort and convenience, should be kept steadily in view.

It is earnestly hoped that we will be able to occupy at least a portion of the new edifice by the beginning of our next school year, admitting a larger number of pupils than are now accommodated to the benefits there provided.

* To Ohio, through one of her citizens, belongs the credit of first directing public attention to the elevation of this class. At a meeting of Medical Superintendents of American Institutions for the Insane, held in Philadelphia, in 1844, Dr. WILLIAM M. AWL, of Columbus, brought the matter before that body, and a Committee was raised to consider the subject, from whom an able report emanated. Institutions were soon established in several of the States. It is a rare privilege, which that gentleman enjoys, in contemplating the growth and advance of the Benevolent Institutions of our State, from the fact of the warm personal interest, and earnest and untiring efforts which he has always displayed in their behalf. An able and very suggestive letter from him, in regard to this Institution, and the education of feeble-minded children generally, will be found in the report of the Select Committee, on Senate Bill No. 80, submitted at the session of 1864. The experience gathered in the twenty years from the time he first called the attention of the public to its duty to this neglected class, at once vindicates the wisdom, and rewards the goodness of heart which prompted him to offer a plea for those who could not plead for themselves. In the evening of a long and useful life, devoted to one of the most noble tasks of the physician—the ministering to those with minds diseased, and the elevation and improvement of the other unfortunate classes in our State—his recompense will be the approving words of Him who first restored the intellect dethroned, made the blind to see and the deaf to hear—“Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me!”

A rigid economy has been practiced, during the past year, in all departments. As you are aware, the prices of all supplies, necessary for the use of the Institution, have advanced quite one hundred per cent. since the last estimates were submitted; nevertheless, an earnest desire not to permit our expenditures to exceed our income, has enabled us to forego many things which would have been considered absolutely necessary in a more favorable state of our country.

I respectfully suggest that the appropriation for wages be increased, as it is utterly impossible to retain efficient assistants upon the wages now paid. The advance in provisions, etc., will also suggest the necessity of increased appropriations for those items.

A summary of Receipts and Disbursements is herewith submitted; a detailed statement, also, being appended.

This Institution was established in the year 1857, by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, and located near the city of Columbus.

Its object is, to furnish special means of improvement to that portion of our youth who are so deficient in mind, or have such marked peculiarities and eccentricities of intellect, as to deprive them of the benefits of other educational institutions and ordinary methods of instruction.

The education proposed will include not only the simple elements of instruction taught in common schools where that is practicable, but will embrace a course of training in the more practical matters of every-day life, the cultivation of habits of cleanliness, propriety, self-management, self-reliance, and the development and enlargement of a capacity for useful occupation. As promotive of these objects, pupils will receive such physical education, and such medical, moral and hygienic treatment, as their peculiar and varied conditions demand.

Idiocy and mental imbecility depend upon some abnormal or imperfectly developed condition of the physical system—a condition which the nervous organization is especially defective—preventing the harmonious and natural development of the mental and moral powers.

Idiots and imbeciles are feeble in body as well as mind. They are wanting in muscular and nervous power, the gait and voluntary movements are generally awkward and slow, and the special senses undeveloped or inactive. Physical training, and physical development will, therefore, be essential to permanent mental improvement, and hence the importance of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises in treatment. The reciprocal influence of the body over the mind, and the mind over the body, must be carefully studied and applied. The dormant energies of the body must be aroused to action by every possible means. The wayward muscles are to be taught to move in obedience to the dim spark of will that may exist, which will must be strengthened and developed. The very feeble power of attention must be cultivated and increased by the most attractive means. The affections must be nursed—the special senses trained and educated—vicious habits are to be corrected, and the idea of obedience and moral obligation must be planted and nourished.

Some feeble-minded youth give evidence of slight chronic irritation of the brain, obscure delusions, and other marks of partial insanity, or mental derangement, rather than of idiocy. Such cases cannot be properly treated by the family physician at home, and should, therefore, be removed to some institution where they can receive that treatment and training best adapted to their restoration.

Some who are merely backward, and remain undeveloped from being misunderstood, neglected, or abused, can, by special means, be brought out and reclaimed. Others can be arrested on their downward course, and made orderly, obedient, affectionate, docile and industrious; and nearly all can be materially improved in their general condition and habits. But, in order to secure the realization of these blessings to this afflicted class, they must have that special care, treatment, and instruction which cannot be obtained in the family at home, or in private medical practice, or by any of the ordinary methods of instruction, but only in some well directed institution, arranged, furnished, and organized for the accomplishment of these special objects.

Where there is partial insanity, or marks of existing nervous irritation, or other disease, medical and other appropriate treatment will be applied. Each individual case will be a study, and must be treated as its peculiarities demand.

ADMISSION OF PUPILS, ETC.

Children between the ages of six and fifteen, who are idiotic, or so peculiar or deficient in intellect as to be incapable of being educated at any ordinary school, may be admitted by the Superintendent with the advice and counsel of the Executive Committee. Applications in behalf of others shall be referred to the action of the Board of Trustees.

The parents, or next friends of those in whose behalf applications are made for admission as pupils, are expected to make answers in writing to such questions as the Superintendent may prescribe.

Commodious buildings, in a healthy and accessible location, and a special system of instruction, training and management, render this Institution a desirable residence for all children deficient in mind, or with marked eccentricities and peculiarities of intellect.

The law provides that parents, guardians, &c., "shall, if of sufficient ability, engage to pay such reasonable sum for the education and support of pupils, and furnish them with such proper clothing, while in this Institution, as shall be stipulated by the Superintendent; and they shall, in all cases, be bound to receive them back, when required, free of expense to the Institution."

"As provided by law, 'the ~~directors~~ of county and city infirmaries, or the township trustees in any county where there is no county infirmary, may remove to said asylum any idiotic and imbecile youth who may be properly admitted therein; and, in such cases, said directors or township trustees shall support said youth, at said asylum, from any funds under their control applicable to the support of such infirmaries or township poor.'

"The State beneficiaries will be selected in equal numbers, as far as may be, from each judicial district: Provided, that no youth shall be admitted as a State beneficiary as aforesaid, unless the probate judge, of the county where said youth shall reside, shall certify that he or she is in indigent circumstances, and has resided in the State at least one year previous to such application."

All pupils will be expected to come provided with a supply of neat and substantial clothing, adequate for the first six months. A bond will be required, in all cases, to insure the clothing and removal of the pupil, when required by the Superintendent, free of expense to the Institution.

There will be a vacation during the month of August, unless otherwise directed by the Board, at which period all pupils must be removed by the parents or guardians, unless otherwise directed by the Superintendent.

The law provides that "it shall be the duty of the Trustees of this Asylum to receive propositions for donations of land or money for the benefit of said Institution."

Applications for the admission of pupils, and all other general correspondence, should be directed to "Superintendent of State Asylum for Idiots," Columbus, Ohio.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1864.

The war for the restoration of the integrity of the Union still continues. The incredulity of the nations of the Old World, so freely expressed in regard to our ability to prosecute the contest, has been changed to unfeigned astonishment at the successive displays of our military power and resources. While grappling with this gigantic foe, and pouring out blood and treasure so freely, our population has not been materially depleted, while our finances were never in better condition. The natural increase of population has almost closed the breach made among our people by the ravages of war, while the wealth of the country has steadily appreciated. Especially is this true of the State of Ohio. Through all the vicissitudes of the service, in victory or defeat, our State has fully identified herself with the great cause of the country; never hesitating, never complaining, but always ready, with men and money, when required to furnish them.

While this is true, and the repudiation by her of the pernicious theory of State Sovereignty has been complete and overwhelming, she is to be pardoned for indulging in some show of pride for the part her sons have borne and are bearing in the stirring scenes of this great struggle. Throughout the year past the State of Ohio has fully maintained her high reputation for unhesitating support of the legitimate government, and unswerving faith in the final triumph of our arms. She has promptly furnished every thing the government required of her for the vigorous prosecution of the war. All her quotas have been filled, and more than filled. The several drafts have been peaceably and promptly enforced. Her veterans have re-enlisted in larger numbers than those from any other State. She has sent her sanitary agents to the hospital and the field, for the relief of the sick and wounded, and sent with them munificent supplies of the comforts, and even the luxuries of home. These agents were sent to the field when the first battles of the early spring gave evidence that a vigorous campaign was opened, and they still follow our armies, and hover about the hospitals, like ministering angels, comforting the sick and wounded, and soothing the last pangs of the dying.

Ohio soldiers are closely identified with every movement of the war. GRANT, and SHERMAN, and SHERIDAN, a brilliant trio of Ohio's sons, at the heads of our different armies, are pushing their conquests to the very inner temples of treason, and their gigantic blows are making the foul edifice rock to its foundation stone. Ohio regiments are in every army in the field, and their bearing, in fight or march, has ever been gallant and creditable.

THIS OFFICE AND ITS CONDITION.

The unprecedented activity of the military operations of the past year by our armies in the field, has imposed many burdens on this department, and compelled the arranging of a more perfect system in the transaction of the manifold duties. The various drafts of the year—the re-enlistment of veterans—the management of the innumerable details of recruiting—the organization of new regiments, and of the National Guards for the “one hundred days”—the organization and conduct of the Bureau of Military Statistics—all these, and various other matters, combined to render the past a busy year in the office. Notwithstanding all this, however, the business seems to have been conducted satisfactorily, and with as much promptitude as the nature of the case would allow. To the clerks in the office great credit is due, for their industry and efficiency in the discharge of their duties, and I think the large number of citizens who have visited the office on business, will bear witness that they have been at all times gentlemanly and accommodating. Without exception, they have my warmest thanks for their cheerful assistance.

The legislature, at its last session, was liberal in the matter of appropriation for clerk hire, having appropriated $13,500, of which there remains (Nov. 15th) an unexpended balance of $6,156 14. It is not at all probable that any thing will occur in the ensuing year that will require any increase in the number of clerks in the office, and an appropriation of $6,000, in addition to what is now on hand, will be sufficient to pay clerk hire in the office during the year, unless the legislature should see proper to authorize an increase in salaries of clerks, which I most earnestly recommend. I believe nothing else is needed by way of appropriation for carrying on the business of the office.

The records of the department are all completed, so far as it is possible to do so, and the general business of the office has been, and is now, kept up as regularly and promptly as its nature will admit of.

PROMOTIONS AND APPOINTMENTS.

The delicate and responsible duty of filling vacancies in established regiments, and making appointments in new ones, devolved upon the present Adjutant-General since the first of February last. About the same time "General Order No. 5" was promulgated, ordering that all promotions in established regiments should be made according to seniority, excepting for intemperance or other disability (see appendix). Promotions have been made strictly in accordance with that order, and in every case where the claim of seniority has been overruled, satisfactory reasons therefor will be found on file among the papers of the office.

This rule of promotions has been generally sustained by our officers in the field, but in a few regiments it has been assailed with a bitterness on the part of regimental commanders which could only be accounted for on the supposition that their entire influence grew out of the fact that formerly their recommendation was omnipotent to secure a promotion. This taken away, they were without any moral power to command.

It is not enough for a colonel to stop the promotion of a soldier who has served as 1st sergeant for two or three years, by simply saying that he does not want him promoted. If he is not fit for a lieutenancy, he is not fit for a 1st sergeant, and should be reduced at once. If regimental commanders would strive earnestly to bring none but the best men into the line of promotion, the most marked difference would soon be manifest in the spirit and efficiency of their regiments. No man should be appointed sergeant who was not able to pass a rigid examination touching his proficiency in the manual of arms, and the school of the soldier and the company, as well as the necessary knowledge of company accounts and records. He should also be of tried courage and energy. If this were done in all cases, there would be less complaint of incompetent officers.

Many applications have been made for the appointment of outside parties and civilians to vacancies in old regiments, that they might be assigned to some staff duty detached from the regiment. All these applications have been refused, and no person not a member of the regiment has been appointed to a vacancy therein. It is not necessary to assign any reason for this course of action, as it is too palpable to need explanation.

In making appointments of officers to the new regiments organized during the year, great care has been taken. An indispensable qualification to appointment was at least two years' active service in the field. Almost all the appointees, however, had served three years and upwards. The efficiency and high state of discipline these regiments have already attained, is a sufficient endorsement of the policy under which their field officers were selected. Attention is invited to the rosters of these regiments, in another part of this report, where a statement of the former services of the field officers will be found. In making these appointments, I have been governed solely by considerations of military fitness for the position, as shown by actual and active service.

Three and a half years of war has proven an excellent educator of soldiers, and from that school alone our supply has been drawn. The career of these regiments in the field hereafter must vindicate the policy governing their appointment, and to it I point with the utmost confidence in the result.

The great distance at which the majority of our regiments are stationed, has produced much delay in filling vacancies and forwarding commissions, and the activity of the summer campaign has rendered it impossible for regimental commanders to notify us promptly of casualties among their officers. This has, of course, been disadvantageous to the officers entitled to the appointments, inasmuch as their muster was delayed until the receipt of their commissions.

THE MILITIA LAW.

The experience of the past year has fully tested the law passed at the last session of the Legislature, to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio, and has clearly demonstrated its efficiency over any other system heretofore adopted in this State. The law is as simple as possible in its provisions, easily understood, and the duties of officers thereunder clearly defined. The workings of the system have fully justified the expectations of the military committees of the two houses, who brought to the consideration of the subject a full appreciation of the great necessity of fostering and rendering efficient our militia forces, together with an extensive military experience in the field, and a thorough knowledge of the workings of former systems.

The original draft of the present law was made by Hon Len A. Harris, Mayor of Cincinnati, and Colonel of the 7th regiment of National Guards, after a long consultation with the Legislative committees and military men from various parts of the State. After a careful and exhaustive examination and discussion of its various provisions, and such changes as the committees deemed proper, it was presented to the Legislature, where it received a most thorough and critical examination. It finally passed in as perfect a shape as could be expected of so lengthy a bill, and it was left for the actual working of the system to prove its merits or demerits, and develop objections to it.

The experience of a year of unprecedented activity in military affairs in Ohio, has fully sustained the hopes of the friends of the law, and I have to suggest but few changes.

It is provided that persons who file the certificate of a "reputable" physician as to their physical disqualification to perform the duties of a soldier, shall be exempted from the payment of the four dollars commutation. This provision, I am satisfied, has been grossly abused in some counties, where physicians have been found willing to furnish the required affidavit for a paltry consideration; of course, less in amount than the four dollars required to be paid by the law. The term "reputable" should scarcely be applied to a man who would thus prostitute his professional services, and render himself liable to a prosecution for perjury; but the understanding of the term is relative, depending altogether on the standard of professional repute in the opinion of the Auditor of the county, who is the sole judge in the matter. This section seems to be well guarded, yet in the face of a criminal prosecution these abuses have been committed. It is not the intention to suggest any remedy, but merely to point out what has been found to be a defect in the law, leaving the Legislature to make such amendments as they may deem necessary, to guard against a recurrence of these frauds in the future.

The National Guard, as at present organized, is not equally divided among the several counties, as an examination of the regimental returns in this report will show. Take for illustration the counties of Ashtabula and Seneca, about equal in population. The latter has a full regiment of National Guards, fully equipped, thoroughly organized and efficient, while the former has not a single member of Guard. The commutation in Ashtabula county, is $9,819.78, and in Seneca county it is $5,464.55. To pay all the demands on the military fund in the latter county will require about $6,000, while the entire amount of the Ashtabula fund lies idle in the Treasury. In the event of any hostile demonstration from the north, on our lake border, Seneca county would be called upon to send her regiment into Ashtabula county to defend that part of the State. Why, then, should not the latter county be required to pay a portion of the expenses of the militia from the former? In no other way can Ashtabula county furnish any military assistance to the State, at the present time, or make up for her shortcoming in that respect for the past year.

To remedy this disproportion of military burden, it is respectfully suggested that all of the military fund of the counties, excepting so much as is required for the legal demands upon it, which can always be accurately estimated, be transferred to the State Treasury, for the purpose of paying the deficit in counties having more than their proportion of organized militia. This fund can be drawn from the State Treasury, on the certificate of the company and regimental commanders, indorsed by the Auditor, that the military fund of the county was exhausted, these certificates to be approved by the Governor or Adjutant-General.

In this connection attention is invited to the condition of the military fund on the 1st of November, 1864, and the estimated demand upon it, as exhibited in the tabular statement in this report, by which an idea can be gained of the sufficiency of the commutation fund to meet all demands upon it, and furnish a liberal and adequate support to the National Guard. It must be remembered, however, that the general encampments for the year were not held, on account of the Guard having been in active service for one hundred days. This relieved the military fund of what would otherwise have been a very heavy draft upon it.

Under the law of 1863, the military fund was merely nominal, being entirely inadequate to the demands upon it, and affording but little assistance to the organized militia. It was not even enough in some counties to pay the claims for the subsistence of troops at the encampments in 1863. In all cases where the non-payment of this last-named class of liabilities has been brought to my notice, payment has been ordered from the fund accruing this year. These claims were a lien on the military fund of the counties, without any specification as to the time the fund should have accrued, and the services having been rendered in good faith, and according to the terms of the contracts, it was a simple act of justice to procure their payment; and it was done out of the first collections of this year. The same remarks will apply to the payment of the $200 company fund due for 1863, all of which has been, or will be, ordered paid out of the fund accruing this year.

The members of the National Guard have been rendering a large amount of valuable services to the State for nearly two years—uniforming themselves, paying all the expenses of their armories, lights, fuel, &c.—meeting regularly for drill, and preparing themselves in all the duties of the soldier, without any remuneration whatever, and for the greater portion of that time without any prospect of remuneration. Shortly after the passage of the present law, I became satisfied that if it was fairly tested, and the collection of the commutation fee enforced with reasonable diligence, the fund accruing from it would not only meet all demands for the current year, but would also very nearly liquidate all claims that had accrued in 1863, and I have so assured many officers of the Guard throughout the State. To entirely liquidate these last-named claims will require a consolidation of the surplus military fund, and a transfer of the same to the State Treasury, as heretofore suggested.

The prompt payment of the moneys to which these companies are legally entitled, will certainly prove a great encouragement to them to persevere in the work they have so successfully prosecuted heretofore, and which has reflected such honor on the State during the past summer.

After paying the balances due to the companies of National Guards, a large fund will still remain on hand, in the aggregate unappropriated. To give permanency to the Guard, and to render it more substantial and independent, it is suggested that the surplus military fund be appropriated towards the building of armories in the several counties, for the use and occupancy of the Guard. This, besides giving the organization the proper encouragement, will furnish a safe place for the storage of arms, and a suitable place for meetings for business and other purposes. This matter is deemed of sufficient importance to engage the attention of the Legislature at an early day.

It may seem to the Legislature that owing to the large amount of the military fund of this year which has been appropriated to the payment of liabilities that accrued during the year 1863, some reduction may be made of the commutation fee. In this connection attention is directed to the fact that no encampments were held during the year, which relieved the military fund of a very heavy draft. The law of last session provides that camps of instruction may be held, to continue not more than six days. There are about forty thousand members of the National Guard organized in the State. Estimating the cost of the ration at thirty cents, and the expense of subsistence alone at these camps will amount to $72,000. Add to this for transportation, say one dollar for each member, $40,000, and we have an outlay of $112,000, all of which should be paid out of the military fund. In addition to this, will be the expense of ammunition for target practice, the purchase of the necessary camp and garrison equipage, which will swell the expense to at least $200,000. From this exhibit of the cost of this single item, it will be seen that any reduction of the commutation fee will reduce the aggregate military fund below the amount required to furnish adequate support to the Guard.

I have not mentioned the expenses for Courts Martial, Courts of Inquiry, regimental books, and the various incidental expenses of the service, which, however, are included for the most part in the two hundred dollar "company fund."

The necessity for some definite provision in the law as to the fees of County Treasurers for their services will be appreciated when it is stated that in a large number of the counties of the State the commutation fee is considered a fine, and the per centage for the collection of fines has been allowed for the collection of the military fund. County Treasurers are allowed for collecting and paying out moneys from other sources than taxes on duplicate, as follows:

1st. On tavern, show, or other licenses, fines, penalties and forfeitures, incurred for the violation of a criminal or penal statute, not exceeding in the aggregate one thousand dollars, ten per centum, and on the excess over one thousand dollars, five per centum.

2d. On money otherwise collected, not exceeding ten thousand dollars, one per centum, and on the excess, one-half of one per centum; provided that the aggregate allowances under these two heads shall not exceed one-tenth of his compensation for collections on duplicates.

The classing of the militia commutation fee under the head of fines is certainly an unlooked for and unwarrantable construction of the law, but the fact that it has been so construed, very generally, prompts the suggestion that an amendment be made to the law, defining the nature of this fee, and prescribing the per centage for collecting the same.

A fine is a sum of money paid by way of penalty for an offense. It is a pecuniary punishment; a payment prescribed by statute for the several violations of law. The militia law provides that, "all persons who are subject to military duty, and who are not now members of some volunteer organization, shall either become members of some volunteer organization, or shall pay into the county treasury, annually, the sum of four dollars." There is no penalty in this for any offense; no pecuniary punishment; no payment exacted for violation of law. The Constitution of the State requires every white, male citizen, resident of the State, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, to perform military duty in such manner as may be prescribed by law. The militia law evidently considers the payment of the commutation a quasi performance of military duty, inasmuch as the fund so raised is appropriated to the support of the militia organization.

In no sense, therefore, can this commutation fee be considered in the light of a fine, and some steps should be taken to require the payment back into the treasury by County Treasurers of the excess of charges they have made for this class of services.

It is no excuse for a County Auditor to say that the allowance for Treasurer's fees was made by the County Commissioners. They have no power to make such an order, unsupported, as it is, by any color of authority, and it will not be a sufficient defense for a Treasurer on suit to recover the surplus fees retained, nor for a County Auditor in a suit for injury resulting from his drawing for such surplus.

In this view of the above subject, I am fully sustained by Col. Godman, Auditor of State.

It was my impression at the time of the passage of the militia law, that a provision had been incorporated into it in the last stage of the bill, exempting members of the National Guard from the annual two days labor on the highway. No such provision, however, was published in the official publication of the law. On consultation with several members of each branch of the Legislature, I am satisfied that such a provision was adopted, but by a blunder or oversight of the enrolling clerk, it was omitted. This omission has created much complaint, especially as the impression seems to have prevailed, very generally, that the law, as passed, did exempt members of the Guard from road labor.

The attention of the Legislature is invited to the subject, with the hope that at the coming session steps may be taken to supply this omission.

The annual allowance of five dollars to each member of the Guard for uniform is entirely inadequate for the purchase of uniforms, and it is suggested that the allowance be increased to ten dollars.

Immediately after the passage of the Militia Law, it was deemed important to adopt every means to render the volunteer organizations as efficient as possible, with a view to being prepared for a repetition of the "Morgan raid" of the preceding summer. To effect this, I issued the following circular to our Military Committees:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJT. GEN.'S OFFICE, Columbus, April 11th 1864.

To Military Committees:

Under the law of March 31st, 1864, organizing the "National Guard," applications are being received from different portions of the State for authority to organize companies. These applications will, in all cases, be referred to the Military Committee of the county in which the new company is proposed to be organized. For this reason, I desire to call your attention to the organization of new companies, and to offer some suggestions which should be considered before the applications are granted.

There is no reason to fear that we shall not have a sufficient number of men willing to do duty in the "National Guard," let the danger of being called into active service be never so imminent. The only danger is that we shall have too many, and their very numbers will impair their efficiency. Far better a thoroughly organized and drilled force of thirty thousand, easily handled and prompt to assemble at the tap of the drum, than a scattering, undisciplined, immobile crowd of an hundred thousand, whose inefficiency and general worthlessness would bring the militia system into disrepute. In these days we want men who will work, and who are in the National Guard in earnest, anxious to excel in all soldiery qualifications, and whose gallantry will prove a safeguard against invasion; not men whose disregard of all discipline and subordination only invite an attack.

In all our counties, there are more or less discharged officers and soldiers, who have been wounded, and are now recovered. These men know what war means, and will not hesitate when the time comes for action. Their neighbors know the history of their honorable scars, and have full faith in their gallantry. Let these men be selected to organize, drill, and lead our National Guard to the field.

In many counties the patriotism of our citizens overshadows their prudence, and they rush enthusiastically into the National Guard, without reflecting that there are other duties that should not be neglected. Heretofore, belonging to a militia company meant the signing of a roll, and the peaceful meeting of the company or battalion to practice the manual of arms, the school of the company, &c.; but it may go farther than this before another summer is past. It may involve the suspension of business, leaving home, days and nights in the tented field, the tiresome march, the bivouac, and the battle field. These things must be met fairly and seriously. The National Guard must be no fanciful, holiday display for carpet-knights—no revival of the "corn-stalk" musters of times "lang syne," but work, hard work, where bullets may be shot, and blood may be shed.

Another consideration of no little moment, is the financial view of the subject. Every volunteer company of infantry or cavalry that shall conform to the provisions of the law, will be entitled to $200 annually, and every section (two guns) of artillery, to $100 annually, for rent of armories and other incidental expenses. To afford proper encouragement to companies, this fund should be promptly paid. But, if too many companies are organized, the "military fund" arising from fines and commutation, will be insufficient to meet the demands on it. This has been a source of great complaint heretofore, and the insufficiency of the fund has wrought injustice to officers who have become responsible for the incidental expenses of their companies.

Advise the commandants of companies in your counties to prune out all men who are unfit for the active duty of the field, and then use your utmost endeavors to fill the ranks with able-bodied, earnest, patriotic men. Encourage, in every manner you can, a full attendance of members at the stated meetings for drill, and impress upon them the importance of the business in which they are engaged. In short, use your whole influence to make the present organizations efficient and prompt, before you advise the raising of new ones.

Your earnest attention is respectfully called to this matter, and your valuable services to the State in other directions, is a sufficient guaranty that it will not be neglected.

I am, gentlemen,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

B. R. COWEN,

Adjt. General, Ohio.

The call to the field following this order very closely, it was not acted upon, as the rigid examination to which the members were subjected supplied the place of the plan I had suggested.

RE-ENLISTMENT OF VETERANS.

General Orders No. 191 and 305, series of 1863, from the War Department, provided for the re-enlistment of soldiers then in service, having less than one year to serve; such re-enlisted men to be known as "Veteran Volunteers." General Order 191 was dated June 25th, 1863, and General Order 305 was dated Sept. 11th, 1863; but little was done towards re-enlisting until December of that year, when re-enlistments began to be made very generally throughout the regiments then in service, whose length of service rendered them eligible to re-enlist.

The offer of large bounties and a furlough of thirty days, may have facilitated these enlistments; but the stern determination on the part of the brave men who had been for more than two years battling for the cause of their country, not to lay down their arms until the enemy was subjugated, was the greatest incentive to re-enlist. They had undertaken the task of conquering the rebellion, and were unwilling to lay down their arms while an armed enemy was in their front. Large bounties are no compensation for the untold hardships, privations and dangers of a soldier's life, and no considerations of personal aggrandizement could have induced the noble sacrifices they have made; nothing but the highest feeling of patriotism could have sustained them.

While the non-veterans of our three years regiments have done their whole duty to their country, and retire from the service with the imperishable laurels of true and faithful soldiers, the veterans are entitled to a larger measure of praise for having done more than they were expected to do, and having manifested, in so practical a manner, their unwavering confidence in the final success of the Federal arms. All honor and praise, then, to this noble band that is standing in the front as a cordon of triple steel, and closing steadily around the gigantic enemy of the nation's life. More than twenty thousand of the soldiers of the State of Ohio re-enlisted as veterans, and are to-day fighting the battles of the Republic, or sleep in honored graves on the bloody fields where they fell. During the late summer campaign the veterans have been conspicuous for their distinguished bravery, and the mortality in their ranks has therefore been unusually large.

The following table shows the number of soldiers in each regiment and independent company that have re-enlisted as veterans.

The 23d Regiment, Col. R. B. Hayes commanding, was the first regiment in which re-enlistments began to be made, commencing as early as October, 1863. This regiment reorganized as a veteran regiment at Staunton, Va., June 11th, 1864, while on the famous "Hunter raid."

The 39th Regiment, Col. E. F. Noyes commanding, has the honor of furnishing a larger number of veterans than any other regiment in the service from this State, as the table will show:

RELICS AND TROPHIES.

Many valuable and interesting additions have been made to this department during the past year, in the battle-scarred colors of our veteran regiments, deposited there by the brave men who had borne them, and followed them through the fury of the battle-storm, during the period of their first enlistment. These relics, tattered as they are, and intrinsically worthless, possess a sacred value in the eyes of the soldier and the patriot, second only to the National honor itself. Every man whose flashing eye has followed that standard through the perilous fight, and who has rallied round it when threatened, demands that it still be honored. The friends of the soldiers who fought and died beneath it, demand that it have a fitting receptacle for its display and preservation. The present apartment set apart for this purpose is entirely inadequate, and numerous flags deposited here are stored away where they cannot be seen, although thousands of visitors inquire for them, taking a melancholy pleasure in gazing on the flag beneath which a father, a husband, a son, or a brother poured out his life for his country; they, too, demand that a better depository be provided for these sacred relics.

An excellent place for these articles can be prepared at a very trifling expense in the rotunda of the State House, by setting glass frames in the niches. This will afford ample room for their display, in the most convenient and public place in the State House, where the public can visit them at all times, and may be made a highly ornamental feature of the building.

This matter is respectfully urged, as one of very general interest to our people, and it is hoped that the Legislature may be induced to take early action on it.

No appropriation will be needed for this purpose beyond the mere cost of the glass frame work. The arrangement of the relics in suitable form, after the frames are completed, will cost the State nothing.

OHIO'S DEAD.

The thinned ranks of our veteran regiments painfully remind us of the cause of their reduced numbers. Three years ago, in martial pride and pomp, they went forth to vindicate an insulted flag, to punish a traitorous enemy, and to heal a broken Union. With full ranks and buoyant with high hopes, they stepped briskly to the "music of the Union" as they marched down these streets, with faces set towards the enemies of the Republic. For three long and weary years how prayerfully and tearfully have they been followed and watched by the friends at home! For three long years—through sunshine and storm—through victory and defeat—through every vicissitude of the service, from the first Bull Run, with its pall of gloom, down over numberless bloody fields of the war to the battle of Cedar Creek, and the last fierce fight before Richmond, Ohio soldiers have fought bravely, and died nobly. From Antietam and Gettysburg in the North, to Olustee and Matagorda in the far South—from Roanoke Island and Fort McAllister on the Atlantic, to Pea Ridge and the battle-fields of the far West, wherever the rebel flag was flaunted, there have Ohio soldiers been found to confront it with their stout hearts and strong arms. On every battle-field—on the soil of every rebellious State, and "in the dark, unfathomed caves of ocean," the sons of Ohio "sleep for the flag" they have died to sustain. Their deeds deserve some substantial monument to commemorate them—some fitting memorial at the seat of government of the State they have so highly honored, to tell to future generations the story of their heroism and their sacrifice; to inspire our children with a spirit to emulate the exalted patriotism of the men who saved their nation, and prompt our law-makers to a more unselfish discharge of duty, and imbue them with a deeper love of country, and a higher appreciation of the precious boon which the blood of these brave men has perpetuated.

Our State owes this to herself; she owes it to her brave sons who have honored her in their deeds of heroic daring and suffering. Monarchs from time immemorial have taxed their subjects to erect huge piles to their own honor and glory, and the old world is dotted over with lofty monuments in honor of deeds of tyranny and conquest by kings and princes whose names are forgotten among men; but no braver deeds were ever wrought—no nobler blood was ever shed in holier cause, and no heroes ever deserved a monument as do these sons of Ohio, who have died that our institutions and our country might live.

It is to be hoped that the present Legislature may consider this question with the care that its importance demands.

THE "ONE HUNDRED DAYS" MEN.

One of the brightest pages in Ohio's history will be that on which is inscribed the story of her National Guard, and its magnificent rally on the 2d day of May, at the call of the Governor of the State.

General Grant, then just called to be commander-in-chief of all our armies, was rallying his hosts for the summer campaign. It was of vital importance that every veteran soldier should be in the field. Tens of thousands of brave men, scarred veterans, were engaged in guarding lines of communication, and manning garrisons and fortifications. It was all-important that these men should be relieved, but where to get troops to substitute for them was the dilemma. Time was of the utmost importance. It was then late in the second spring month, and the weather was becoming every day more favorable for active operations in the field, but to render our success certain, and to make the campaign short, sharp and decisive, we must be largely reinforced.

At this crisis in the military situation, the patriotic Governors of the Western States (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin) offered to the President the services of 85,000 militia, for the period of one hundred days.

The following telegram was received, in the evening of April 23d, which was the first notice of the call that reached this office :

(By Telegraph.)

WASHINGTON, April 23d, 1864.

B. R. Cowen, Adjt.-General :

Thirty thousand (30,000) volunteer militia are called from Ohio, the larger portion to service out of the State. Troops to be mustered into service of United States for one hundred (100) days, unless sooner discharged; to be mustered in by regiments, of not less than the minimum strength, and organized according to laws of War Department.

They will be clothed, armed, equipped, transported, and paid by the Government, and to serve on fortifications, or wherever services may be required. Not over five thousand (5,000) to be detailed for home service; no bounty to be paid, or credit on any draft. The draft to go on in deficient localities, but if any officer or soldier in the special service is drafted, he will be credited for the service rendered. Time is of the utmost importance. It is thought here, that if substitutes are allowed, the list of exemptions may be largely reduced; say, confining it to telegraph operators, railroad engineers, officers and foremen in shops, and mechanics actually employed on Government or State work for military service. This is left to your discretion. Set the machinery at work immediately. Please acknowledge receipt by telegraph.

(Signed) JOHN BROUGH.

At a subsequent day the following was received, and gives more in detail the plan of the call :

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON CITY, April 21st, 1864.

To the President of the United States :

I. The Governors of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin offer to the President infantry troops for the approaching campaign, as follows :

Ohio	30,000
Indiana	20,000
Illinois	20,000
Iowa	10,000
Wisconsin	5,000

II. The term of service to be one hundred days, reckoning from the date of muster into the service of the United States, unless sooner discharged.

III. The troops to be mustered into the service of the United States by regiments; when the regiments are filled up, according to regulations, to the minimum strength—the regiments to be organized according to the regulations of the War Department; the whole number to be furnished within twenty days from date of notice of the acceptance of this proposition.

IV. The troops to be clothed, armed, equipped, subsisted, transported, and paid as other United States infantry volunteers, and to serve in fortifications, or wherever their services may be required, within or without their respective States.

V. No bounty to be paid the troops, nor the service charged or credited on any draft.

VI. The draft for three years' service to go on in any State or district where the quota is not filled up; but if any officer or soldier in this special service should be drafted, he shall be credited for the service rendered.

JOHN BROUGH, Gov. of Ohio.

O. P. MORTON, Gov. Ind.

RICH'D YATES, Gov. of Ills.

W. M. STONE, Gov. Iowa.

The foregoing proposition of the Governors is accepted, and the Secretary of War is directed to carry it into execution.

A. LINCOLN.

April 23, 1864.

The 24th coming on Sunday, no steps could be taken towards giving publicity to the call, but on Monday the following General Orders were issued, and appeared in the papers of that day throughout the State :

GENERAL HEAD QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 25th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 11.

I. When the National Guard shall be called into active service, all Telegraph Operators, Railroad Engineers, officers, foremen and mechanics, actually employed on Government or State work for military uses, and all Steamboat Engineers and licensed Pilots, will be exempt from duty therein, and will not be allowed to join any Company of the National Guard in active service.

II. When any Regiment, Battalion or Independent Company of the National Guard is called into active service, every member thereof must report himself promptly at the stated rendezvous, or be deemed and treated as a deserter; provided that any private or non-commissioned officer may be exempt from duty under a pending call on furnishing an acceptable substitute, at the rendezvous at the time specified in the call. Such substitute shall only serve for the term of active service then pending. This shall not be construed into releasing any substitute from the payment of his commutation fee, as provided in section 4 of the "act to organize and discipline the Militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864; nor shall it be so construed as to release the member furnishing the substitute from duty with the company after the expiration of the term of service then pending.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General, Ohio.

GENERAL HEAD QUARTERS STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus April 25th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 12.

The regiments, battalions and independent companies of infantry of the National Guard of Ohio are hereby called into active service for the term of one hundred days, unless sooner discharged. They will be clothed, armed, equipped, transported and paid by the United States Government.

These organizations will rendezvous at the most eligible places in their respective counties (the place to be fixed by the commanding officer, and to be on a line of railroad if practicable,) on Monday, May 2d, 1864, and report by telegraph at 4 o'clock P. M. of the same day, the number present for duty.

The alacrity with which all calls for the military forces of the State have been heretofore met, furnishes the surest guaranty that the National Guard will be prompt to assemble at the appointed time. Our armies in the field are marshaling for a decisive blow, and the citizen soldiery will share the glory of the crowning victories of the campaign, by relieving our veteran regiments from post and garrison duty to allow them to engage in the more arduous labors of the field.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General, Ohio.

During the week intervening between the issuing of the call and the time fixed for the rendezvous, the pressure on this office for special exemptions, discharges, &c., was tremendous. Protests without number were made against the call, and threats of danger to the interests of the State, financial and political. So great was this pressure, that it seemed that the call would not be generally responded to.

No exemptions were made except as provided in General Order No. 11, and all applications for discharge were referred to the regimental commanders, and, unless approved by them, were disregarded. This course was absolutely necessary, not only on account of the utter impossibility of giving sufficient attention to the cases, but that the regimental commanders might be apprised of all such applications, and have an opportunity of filing any statement in opposition to the claims set up for discharge and exemption. Cases of individual hardship may have resulted from this plan, but if so, they have not been brought to my attention; while, on the contrary, the duty thus assigned to regimental commanders was not abused to the injury of the service, so far as I have been able to ascertain. On the whole, the delicate and responsible duty of investigating the claims for discharge was performed by regimental officers with rare good judgment, and conscientiously.

Fully impressed with the propriety of allowing the State credit against the draft then pending for the service of the National Guard, on the 24th of April, I telegraphed His Excellency the Governor, then in Washington, as follows:

COLUMBUS, April 24th, 1864.

To Governor Brough, Washington, D. C.:

We should certainly have credit against the draft for any militia in U. S. service. For thirty thousand three months men we ought to have credit for twenty five hundred three years men.

B. R. COWEN, Adj. General.

To which the following reply was made:

WASHINGTON, April 25, 1864.

B. R. Cowen, Adjutant General:

I have pressed the matter of credit as earnestly as possible, but have been compelled to abandon it, reasons are too strong against it.

(Signed)

JNO. BROUGH.

An effort was made by the Governor, on his return, to have the members of the National Guard exempt from the operation of the draft; with what success the following correspondence will show:

COLUMBUS, OHIO, May 4th, 1864.

E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, Washington City:

The National Guard of Ohio have fully responded to my call. They do not want to be credited on the quota, and they want the draft to go forward, but they ask to be exempt from it, that the draft may fall upon the stay-at-home men. That is, if the name of a man is drawn who belongs to the National Guard, it be laid aside the same as an enlisted volunteer, and another name be drawn. For many reasons, I recommend this, if it can properly be done. It will increase rather than decrease our military strength, and somewhat equalize the burthens of service.

Our Guard is composed exclusively of Union men.

JOHN BROUGH.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, May 4th, 1864.

E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

Your dispatch received. I will crowd the force by all practicable means. Carefully consider, and grant, if possible, my request to exempt the National Guard from the present draft, making it fall on the "shirks." There is great future value in this movement.

JOHN BROUGH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4th, 1864.

His Excellency John Brough, Governor of Ohio :

After much consideration of your suggestion in regard to the draft, it seems to me impossible for the Department to conform to your wishes, for the following, among other reasons ;

1st. Any change in the terms agreed upon between the Governors and the President in one instance, would form certain occasion for an infinite number of changes that would be applied for by others, and would lead either to great discontent at their being refused, or to serious injury to the service by adopting them.

2d. The terms of the arrangement were called for by the committee on Finance, and formed the basis of their recommendations for the appropriation. In their view, and in the view of Gen. Grant, it was deemed an indispensable condition that the special volunteers should in no wise interfere with the operation of the law for drafting. A change now made in the particular you mention, would be charged immediately as a breach of faith on the part of the Executive with Congress, and might lead to very serious complications.

E. M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

GENERAL HEAD QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, O., May 5th, 1864.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.:

My request was to exempt members of the National Guard actually in service from operations of the present draft to fill Ohio's quota on the last call, but not to extend to any draft on any future call. No other State tendering militia can object to this, as their quotas are all full ; neither does it break any faith with Congress, as it does not change the position of the State as to filling her quota by draft. I propose that the draft shall go on, and the quota filled thereby, but simply to limit its operations to men who have not enlisted or responded to the call for the National Guard. Thus I put you thirty thousand National Guards into the hundred days' service, and by draft fill my quota of ninety-two hundred from other citizens of the State. I do not reduce you a man in the service, but add to it in the number of men who may be drafted from the Guard. I do not ask any credit for the Guard on quotas, nor any exemption for it on future calls, if any are made. Is not this reasonable and just? I know it will be acceptable to our people.

JOHN BROUGH.

Pending the call in July, the following communication on this subject was forwarded :

July 5th, 1864.

Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War :

SIR : I respectfully urge that in the pending call for additional men, the principles be established :

1st. That at the expiration of the notice of fifty days, any balance of the quota of any State that may be deficient, shall be drafted from the population of the State that may not be, at the time, in the service of the United States.

2d. That this be construed to embrace the one hundred days' men of the several States furnishing them, and that if any such men be drafted, the name of such man be set aside, and another name be drawn to fill the place.

3d. That this rule be observed only while the hundred day men are in service, and for fifty days thereafter; and after the expiration of such time, this class of men to become liable to other and future calls, as other citizens of the State.

4th. I submit to you the expediency of providing that if hundred days' men shall volunteer under the first call, they be allowed to join such regiments as they may elect, and be credited with such time as they may have served under the hundred day call, not exceeding fifty days.

I do not press this point beyond your own convictions as to its policy and propriety.

The three first propositions, however, I do urge, as a matter of justice to the men who have so promptly come forward in the hundred day service, and as a fair and equitable distribution of the burthens of the war among those who have heretofore avoided them. I do not see any legal difficulty in exempting from the first call and draft men who are actually in service at the time, however proximate their term of service, especially if they become liable to a future call after that service has expired.

The principle seems to me just and equitable, and I urge its adoption.

Very respectfully,

(Signed)

JOHN BROUGH.

At a subsequent day the Guard was exempted from the operations of the draft, on the decision of Mr. Whiting, Solicitor of the War Department, under the enrollment law, which provides that all persons actually in the military or naval service of the United States at the time they may be drafted, are exempt from the draft.

No credit, however, was ever given the State for the services of the Guard.

That there existed a pressing necessity for forwarding these troops with the utmost possible dispatch, is fully evidenced by the following telegrams :

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5th, 1864.

GOV. BROUGH :

Sigel's advance has exposed the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and a guerilla force of about a hundred have seriously injured the shops and several engines at Piedmont. Mr. Garrett says that a regiment of your men will, if promptly forwarded, prevent any further injury.

(Signed)

EDWIN. M. STANTON,

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5th, 1864.

GOV. BROUGH: If you have any regiments organized, please forward them immediately to Wheeling and Cumberland. The rebels, in small squads, are already on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and unless driven off may do considerable damage. Sigel has moved his force down the Valley, and is too far off to do any good.

(Signed)

EDWIN M. STANTON.
Secretary of War.

Immediately on receipt of the last dispatch, two regiments (the 133d, Col. Innis, of Franklin county, and the 134th, Col. Armstrong, of Champaign county) were sent forward.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 13th, 1864.

GOV. BROUGH: Official dispatches have been received from the Army of the Potomac. A general attack was made by General Grant at four and a half (4½) o'clock A. M. yesterday, followed by the most brilliant results. At eight o'clock Hancock had taken four thousand (4,000) prisoners, including Maj.-Gen. Edward Johnson and several Brigadiers, and between thirty (30) and forty (40) cannon. Now is the time to put in your men.

(Signed)

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

At the date of the above dispatch seven regiments had left Camp Denison, eight had left Camp Chase, and five had left other points in the State for the field.

The 2d day of May came round, and proved one of the most disagreeable days of the season. A cold rain prevailed generally throughout the State, which it was feared would operate greatly against a general response to the call. Doubts were expressed freely and openly that the call for the Guard was a failure, and would operate against procuring volunteers for the one hundred days, in case the Guard refused to respond. But in the face of every discouraging circumstance—the busy season of the year among our agricultural population, the unfavorable weather, the pending draft and the knowledge that the Guard was not exempt from its operations, the encouragement given by disloyal citizens to members of the Guard to disobey the Governor's order, and the general lack of interest in, and in many cases the positive discouragement to, the enterprise on the part of a few of our prominent Union men—I felt no apprehension but that the call would be responded to, at least to the number of men needed. I had enjoyed but a limited opportunity of becoming acquainted with the officers of the organization; but from all with whom I became acquainted, I had every reason to expect the hearty response that was made.

The Guard was composed of the most substantial men of the State, men of the highest social positions in society, men of wealth and influence, whose whole history from the commencement of the war had been filled with sacrifices and generous deeds, to further the interests of the Government in the suppression of the rebellion. It was ungenerous to look for any failure from such men.

Only the cowards and the shirks had sought to have the call overruled. No earnest and truly patriotic man thought for a moment of trying to evade the plain duty he owed the State and Nation in the important crisis, but on the instant the call was received, instead of casting about for some technicality through which he might escape, placed his house in order, shouldered his musket, and set his face towards the enemies of his country.

Four o'clock P. M. of the 2d day of May was the hour fixed for regimental commandants to report by telegraph the number of men assembled for duty at the first rendezvous. Reports were sent with unexpected promptness, and at 7½ o'clock of the same evening, thirty-eight thousand men were reported at camp, and clamorous to be sent forward.

Farmers, just in the midst of the hurry of their spring work, left their plows standing idle in the furrow—the merchant, the mechanic, and the professional man, left each his store, his workshop, and his office, with that unquestioning promptness for which the patriotic people of Ohio have been so distinguished during the entire progress of the war, seeing only their country's imminent need, and the recognition by the Government authorities that their services would prove invaluable for her relief. No consideration of how much they would lose by going, or how much they could make by staying at home was allowed to weigh with them for a moment; they only saw an imperiled country, and felt their own ability to contribute to her salvation. At seven o'clock P. M., I telegraphed the Secretary of War, "More than thirty thousand National Guards are now in camp and ready for muster."

Then came the exhausting labor of consolidation, organization, muster and equipment. By enlistments into the general military service for the six months preceding the call for the Guard, their ranks had been much depleted, so that no single regiment reported a full minimum organization. No time could be allowed to recruit, or many of them might have retained their full regimental organization. To present the Government with minimum regiments, it therefore became necessary to consolidate battalions and regiments, and in many cases to relieve officers whose commands were thus broken up and transferred. This, of course, produced more or less dissatisfaction, but all, recognizing the imperative necessity for such a policy, most cheerfully acquiesced in the arrangement; and officers, thus relieved, in many cases, promptly doffed the "shoulder-straps," and stepping into the ranks, were mustered into service as privates.

The War Department, not anticipating so prompt a response, had not supplied a sufficient corps of mustering officers, but Colonel Potter, then chief mustering officer of the State, with the few officers then under his command, rendered most prompt and efficient service towards mustering in troops as fast as they were reported to him. In a very few days, however, a sufficient number of mustering officers were sent to Col. Potter's assistance, to enable him to discharge his duties as rapidly as necessary; and the mustering was done in the most satisfactory manner.

The next difficulty which arose was the delay in making the consolidations, on account of the desire of the officer charged with the details of consolidation to conciliate the feelings of officers whose positions were necessarily affected by the consolidation. To obviate this it was concluded to ask assistance from army officers of experience, who had promptly offered their services to aid in preparing the Guard for the field. Accordingly I wrote to Maj.-Gen. A. McD. McCook, U. S. Vols., then on leave of absence at his residence in Dayton, as follows :

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, May 10, 1864.

General A. McD. McCook, Camp Dennison, Ohio :

GENERAL—I am instructed by the Governor, in compliance with your generous offer, to request your services in the work of consolidating battalions and regiments of National Guards, now in and hereafter to arrive at Camp Dennison.

Our regiments come to camp with less than minimum companies, and with less than ten companies. As the government will only accept regiments of ten companies, of eighty-three (83) men each, it of course becomes necessary to consolidate. The plan we have heretofore adopted is to break up the smallest companies and transfer them to the others, disposing of the surplus officers equitably; those who can not be accommodated to be sent home. In the organization of the field and staff, the position should be assigned to the officers in commission in the original organizations, according to the number of men furnished. It is impossible to go into the minor details, nor is it necessary, as your own large experience will guide you much better than any thing I can say.

In a word, General, we wish the arrangement effected as nearly on military principles as possible, and we wish it effected with the utmost despatch. The Department is thundering at us for these troops, and trifling personal matters are interfering with organization, which must not be allowed.

I write in great haste, but will try and write additional information to-night. Please find Major George W. Wallace, U. S. A., who is now in Camp D., inspecting the organizations. He will furnish you much valuable information.

Your duties in the above behalf will not of course interfere with a call to the field.

I am, General, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

To Colonel W. P. Richardson, 25th Ohio Volunteers, commanding Camp Chase, the following letter was sent :

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, May 8, 1864.

Col. Wm. P. Richardson, 25th Ohio Vols., commanding Camp Chase :

COLONEL—I am directed by his Excellency, the Governor of Ohio, to request your assistance in the work of consolidating the regiments and battalions of National Guards into full minimum regiments of ten companies, of eighty-three men each. The regiments hereafter to arrive at your camp will be ordered to report to you on their arrival for consolidation.

Many of these organizations will be found to have more than ten companies, when brought together, but few of the companies will have the minimum number. To remedy this, companies will have to be consolidated. The plan we have heretofore adopted is to divide the smallest companies among the other companies, and thus bring all to the proper strength; the officers of the companies so divided to be sent home, or, where it is possible, retained in the consolidated organization.

The work of consolidation is necessarily unpleasant, as it must throw out many deserving and patriotic officers, but thus far no serious complaint has arisen; and I trust the pressing emergency of the times, and the great necessity for getting these troops into the field at the earliest moment possible, will reconcile all officers to submit patiently to what may seem unfair treatment.

The arrangement for field officers, you will make according to your own judgment of the needs of the service, and the feelings and rights of the field officers of the organizations consolidated, giving, as far as practicable, the officers according to the strength of the original organization.

The request to assume duties so arduous and unpleasant, in addition to your many other duties, is made with much hesitancy, but on account of your generous offer to aid us in any way you could in getting our Guards into the field. If you find your time will not admit of assuming these duties, I trust you will inform me, without hesitation, as I am very loth to so burden you.

A schedule of consolidations to be made, is sent herewith.

I am, Colonel, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

Colonel Aquila Wiley, 41st Ohio Volunteers, commanding Camp Cleveland, was requested to aid in the work of organizing the regiments in camp at Cleveland.

How well these gentlemen performed the duty assigned them, is fully shown by the great rapidity with which the Guard was sent forward, as well as by the following reports :

HEAD-QUARTERS U. S. FORCES.

Columbus, O., May 15, 1864.

B. R. Cowen, Adjutant-General of Ohio :

GENERAL—I have the honor to report that the duty of organizing into minimum regiments, and preparing for the field the several regiments, battalions, and detachments of the National Guard reported at this post, assumed by me at your request, in your communication of the 8th instant, has been discharged, having completed the last organization this morning.

The following is a list of the regiments organized at this post :

131st.....	Colonel John G. Lowe.
132d	“ Joel Haines.
133d	“ Innis.
134th	“ Jas. B. Armstrong.
135th	“ Andrew Legg.
136th	“ W. S. Irwin.
142d	“ W. C. Cooper.
143d	“ Vodrey.
144th	“ S. H. Hunt.
145th	“ H. C. Ashwell.
151st.....	“ J. M. C. Marble.
157th	“ Geo. W. McCook.
161st.....	“ O. P. Taylor.
162d	“ E. Ball.
163d	“ Hiram Miller.

The 162d, Col. Ball's regiment, is incomplete, having as yet but nine companies. Much credit is due to Captains Kerr, Burr, and Harrington, for their efficient management of the Quartermaster and Commissary departments, by which the speedy organization and equipment of these regiments was very much facilitated. I also feel bound to mention the valuable service rendered by Lieutenant Pierce, of the V. R. C., who acted under my appointment as quartermaster and commissary for the unorganized regiments.

Hoping this duty has been discharged to your satisfaction, and that I have in some degree aided my country by assuming it,

I am, General, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

W. P. RICHARDSON,

Col. 25th Ohio Vol. Inf., commanding Post.

CAMP DENNISON, OHIO,

B. R. Cowen, Adjutant-General of Ohio, Columbus :

GENERAL—The 147th regiment is full save (15) fifteen men. The 168th lacks thirty men, and the 156th is full, and all ready to move to-morrow.

The 147th and 168th will be full to-morrow. There yet remains here the 10th Regiment N. G., a German organization, which I would recommend to send home, unless you have four German companies to consolidate into it.

The disaffected company from Clark county will be disposed of to-morrow. If there are no more troops to come here, my duties have come to a close. I have had no trouble with the regiments and battalions from the country.

During my first twenty-four hours here, I sent off seven regiments, and the 138th was forwarded as soon as possible.

What shall be done with the 10th Regiment?

Markers's, Rosson's, and Garris's regiments are good ones. Captain Van Doehn says that four companies are amply sufficient for all duties here, and as these regiments are from the southern part of the State, for better discipline, I recommend them sent further away from home.

If the Governor wishes me to go to any other part of the State, to assist in organization, I would be happy to go. I am willing to go anywhere where I can be of service to my country or State.

Please telegraph me the Governor's wishes.

I am, General, respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

A. McD. McCOOK,

Major-General Volunteers.

To which the following replies were sent:

GENERAL HEAD QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, May 17th, 1864.

Maj. Gen. A. McD. McCook, Camp Dennison, Ohio:

GENERAL,—Your report of operations at Camp Dennison was received to-day, and shows that the labors you so generously offered to perform are brought to a close.

I am therefore directed by his Excellency the Governor to thank you for the valuable assistance you have rendered the State in the organization, equipment and forwarding of so many regiments of National Guards. Ohio has made for herself a name brighter than that of any other State in the Union, by her noble response to the call for "one hundred day men," and now in the fourth year of this terrible war, in the brief space of two weeks, sends to the field forty regiments fully equipped, and composed of the very creme de la creme of our people.

To you, General, is the State largely indebted for this brilliant success, in promptly sending forward our reinforcements.

Return then to your home with the thanks of the State, and the proud satisfaction of having contributed so much towards so glorious a consummation.

I have the honor to remain,

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General, Ohio.

GENERAL HEAD QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
 ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
 COLUMBUS, May 17th, 1864.

Col. W. P. Richardson, 25th Ohio Vols., Commanding Camp Chase:

COLONEL,—Your report of operations at Camp Chase, and the organizations completed by you, was received two days since; but the necessary business of the office has prevented my replying until now.

I am directed by his Excellency, the Governor, to return you his warmest thanks for the very valuable assistance you have rendered the State in organizing and forwarding our National Guard, and to the Nation in expediting the addition of such liberal reinforcements.

The State of Ohio, in the fourth year of the war, in the brief space of two weeks, has organized, equipped and sent forward forty regiments. What State can show a brighter page? And to you, Colonel, is the State largely indebted for the promptness with which these organizations have been sent forward.

Say, also, to the officer under your command (Lieut. Pierce), that the Governor appreciates the great value of his services, and acknowledges his obligation to him. The universal testimony of the officers of the National Guard who were in your camp, is that they received every attention from you, and the officers under you, that circumstances would allow, and they go to the field encouraged by your generous treatment.

I am, Colonel,

Very respectfully, your ob't servant,

B. R. COWEN,
 Adjutant General, Ohio.

On the 10th of May it became evident that we would have some five or six regiments more than our quota of thirty thousand, and none of them were willing to be sent home. Gov. Brough telegraphed the Secretary of War the dilemma he was in by reason of the surplus, and received the following reply:

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12th, 1864.

Governor Brough:

I will accept all the troops you can raise. The other States will be deficient and behind time. We want every man now. The reported news from the army this evening is highly gratifying, but we have nothing official. Let us have all your regiments within the next week; they may decide the war.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
 Secretary of War.

By the 16th all the regiments were ready to be forwarded.

The first regiment sent left its camp of organization on the 5th of May, the last one was ready to leave on the 16th. Between the 5th and the 16th, inclusive, forty-one minimum regiments, and one battalion of seven companies—in all, 35,982 men—were consolidated, organized, mustered, clothed, armed, equipped, and turned over to the United States military authorities for transportation and assignment.

To the U. S. officers on duty in this city, too much credit cannot be given for their promptness and energy in their different departments. The duty of hastening the organization, muster and transportation was most admirably discharged by Capt. CARROLL H. POTTER, A. A. G. on the Staff of Maj. Gen. Heintzelman. He was most untiring in his efforts, laboring night and day, almost without cessation. The mustering department, under command of Col. J. H. POTTER, 12th N. H. Vols., was kept fully up to the requirements of the emergency. Capt. T. C. BRADFORD, of the U. S. Ordnance Corps, was prompt to furnish arms and equipments, so that but little delay resulted from need of these articles. The Quartermaster and Commissary Department, the former under Capt. BURR and KERR, and the latter under Capt. HARRINGTON, anticipated our every need; and on the first announcement of the call, came forward and only wanted to know what would be necessary to render the troops comfortable, to furnish them. All quartermaster and commissary supplies were ready in advance of our being ready to receive them. To all these officers the largest measure of praise is due. They fully appreciated the importance of promptly preparing the Guard for the field, and lent their every energy to the task.

Lt. Col. J. T. Mercer, then my corresponding clerk, and now Asst. Adj't General, rendered most valuable service in the pressing emergency, both in the office, and at the different camps of rendezvous in the State, where he was sent at different times, to hasten the organization and forwarding of the regiments. The various duties assigned him were performed with a fidelity and promptness that marked him as a most thoroughly competent public servant.

The proposition relative to the station of these regiments contemplated the keeping of eight regiments on duty in the State, at the different camps, guarding prisoners of war, and performing the usual police and patrol duty. But so far from regiments desiring this kind of duty, it was impossible to find a single regiment willing to remain in the State, and it was only by peremptory orders they were kept in State camps. The comparatively safe and easy duty of guarding rebel prisoners at Camp Chase and Johnson's Island was too inactive to suit them, and having buckled on their armor they were clamorous for more active duty at the "front."

A Washington letter of May 30th stated: "From Parkersburg and Benwood to the Relay House, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is now guarded by Ohio one hundred days men; they man the forts at Baltimore, and fill the fortifications about Washington." He might also have added, at the same date, they swell the ranks of Grant's victorious hosts, thundering at the fortifications around Richmond, for at that time the 132d Regiment, Col. Joel Haines, of Logan county, had volunteered to go to the front, and was even then with Gen. Grant and his glorious heroes in front of the confederate capital, where it was soon afterwards joined by several other regiments.

The service the Guard was called on to perform was much more difficult than was anticipated, but they discharged every duty required of them promptly and cheerfully. The greater part of the regiments were "under fire" during their short term, and acquitted themselves nobly. Steps have been taken to secure a history of their operations, which it is hoped the Legislature will order published.

The President has acknowledged the value of the services of the Guard, in the following fitting terms:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON CITY,
September 10, 1864.

The term of one hundred days, for which the National Guard of Ohio volunteered having expired, the President directs an official acknowledgment of their patriotism and valuable service during the recent campaign. The term of service of their enlistment was short, but distinguished by memorable events in the Valley of the Shenandoah, on the Peninsula, in the operations of the James River, around Petersburg and Richmond, in the battle of Monocacy, in the entrenchments of Washington, and in other important service. The National Guard of Ohio performed with alacrity the duty of patriotic volunteers, for which they are entitled, and are hereby tendered, through the Governor of their State, the National thanks.

The Secretary of War is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the Governor of Ohio, and to cause a certificate of their honorable service to be delivered to the officers and soldiers of the Ohio National Guard, who recently served in the military force of the United States as volunteers for one hundred days.

[Signed]

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The only instance of an absolute refusal by any company of the Guard to enter the U. S. service for the hundred days, was that of Co. B, Capt. Wendell Mischler, 40th Battalion, from Brown county. The following special order will show what measures were taken in the case:

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 314. }
GENERAL HEAD QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, May 26th, 1864.

Company "B," Capt. Wendell Mischler, 40th Battalion, National Guard, is hereby dishonorably dismissed from the service of the State of Ohio, with forfeiture of all pay and allowances, for having refused to come to the relief of the Government, under the recent call of the President for one hundred days troops.

The National Guard of Ohio, by its promptness in responding to said call, has won an immortality of honor, and justice to it demands that all recusants should be promptly punished, and the Guard relieved from the odium of so disgraceful a course of action.

To the honor of the Guard, it is announced that the above company was the only one among the forty-two regiments sent to the field, that lacked faith in the honor of their State and adopted country, and refused to fly to the relief when the fate of the country was trembling in the balance.

They can return to their homes and say to their friends and neighbors, that they have regarded their country and its safety as secondary to their own personal ease and security; and that in the hour of most imminent peril to that Government which had received and protected them when aliens, they basely betrayed their trust, and refused to follow their gallant comrades to the field of honor and of danger.

No member of said company will be allowed to enlist in any other company of the National Guard, under any circumstances whatever, as men who wish to be "soldiers in peace and citizens in war," will not be allowed to disgrace the Guard, or peril the State and Nation by their presence and example.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

OTHER SERVICE PERFORMED BY THE NATIONAL GUARD.

During the year there have been purchased four six-gun batteries of Light Artillery, with all the equipments necessary for the working of the same. A sufficient number of horses were also purchased for two of these batteries, for the purpose of drilling the artillery organizations of the Guard. The 14th Independent Battery, of Hamilton county, Capt. A. Paulsen commanding, was ordered to Camp Dennison for sixty days, which time was spent in practising the artillery drill. At the expiration of the sixty days this battery was relieved by the 1st Ind. Battery, of Washington county, 1st Lieut. A. Tupper Nye commanding, the 5th Ind. Battery, of Meigs county, 1st Lieut. John Schreiner commanding, and the 7th Ind. Battery, of Athens county, 1st Lieut. A. K. Blackstone commanding. These organizations being only sections, were consolidated, for the time of the call, and placed under command of the senior officer, 1st Lieut. A. Tupper Nye, of the 1st Ind. Battery.

The 8th Ind. Battery, of Cuyahoga county, was called into camp at Cleveland for the period of sixty days, for the purpose of drilling. Before the expiration of that time, anticipated trouble at Johnson's Island induced the Secretary of War to ask that the battery be forwarded to the latter place, which was done, and it was placed under control of the U. S. authorities, and by them subsisted and clothed. At the expiration of the sixty days the organization was paid by the U. S. Government, and promptly relieved by the 2d Ind. Battery, Lieut. Sam'l M. Espy, of Brown county, the 10th Ind. Battery, of Jackson county, 1st Lieut. Jas. Tripp commanding, and the 11th Ind. Battery, of Adams county, Lieut. James Bradford commanding. These organizations being sections, were temporarily consolidated into one battery, and placed under command of 1st Lieut. Sam'l M. Espy, of the 2d Ind. Battery. They will be subsisted, clothed, and paid by the U. S. authorities.

A portion of the 162d Regt. of National Guards was on duty at Tod Barracks in this city during its hundred days service, and when it was mustered out, Col. GREENE, commandant of the draft rendezvous, requested the services of one company of the National Guard for duty at that post. During the month of August a company of the 2d Ind. Battalion of Cavalry, N. G., from Highland county, Capt. Waddle commanding, had been called out for sixty days, to guard the State arsenal in this city. This company was ordered to report to Major JOHN W. SKILES, 88th Ohio Regt., commanding Tod Barracks, for duty at that post, where they served out their sixty days in a manner highly satisfactory, eliciting the warmest commendation of Major Skiles, for their efficiency and soldierly bearing. At the expiration of their time they were paid by the U. S. Government, and relieved by another company from the same battalion, under command of Capt. Amen. This last-named company is still (Nov. 15th) on duty at Tod Barracks.

It will be seen by the foregoing statement of the actual service performed by the National Guard during the year, that they have enjoyed unusual opportunities of perfecting themselves in all the duties of the soldier. I am glad to be able to report that all these opportunities have been improved, and that the Guard is now in a very satisfactory state of discipline, and can be relied upon for service at a moment's notice. But little apprehension is felt of any danger from insurrection or invasion, while the Guard maintains its present esprit du corps; as a reliable army of forty thousand men, ready to rally at the call of the Commander-in-chief, will do much towards intimidating any attempted violation of law and order in the State. Our enemies realize the power of this organized army, and, while affecting to revile, entertain for it a most wholesome respect.

"ORDER OF AMERICAN KNIGHTS."

One of the most noticeable features of the rebellion during the year, in Ohio, and which necessarily engaged a large share of the attention of this department, was the existence throughout the State of a 'ormidable secret organization, known as "The Order of American Knights," but rejoicing in numerous other equally euphonious titles. The origin of this society is directly traceable to the rebellion, of which it has been at all times an auxiliary. Early in the year the Governor organized a system of espionage upon certain suspicious movements of well known rebel sympathizers in the State. Through the instrumentality of detectives, and other means not necessary to enumerate, the entire workings of the order, their objects, principles and strength were ascertained. By comparing the information thus obtained with what had been learned of the order by the military authorities in Missouri, Indiana, and other Western States, it was clearly demonstrated that there existed in the State of Ohio a secret, treasonable organization, numbering from 80,000 to 110,000 members, bound together by oaths, which they professed to hold paramount to their allegiance to their State and country. This organization was to a considerable extent armed, drilled, and supplied with ammunition. It had a quasi military organization, and a system of signals by which large numbers might be called together at the very shortest notice. The written principles of the order recognize and defend the institution of slavery, and its twin abomination, the right of secession. These doctrines were sugar-coated by fallacious arguments and nicely-rounded periods, to tickle the ears of the groundlings, and entice the unsuspecting neophyte to advance to the higher degrees, where all disguise was thrown aside, and the knife was whetted and the gun shotted, to take the life of any man who dared stand up for the cause of the country.

The purposes and operations of the order were fully known early in the summer, and ample steps were taken to meet any overt act of violence with such a power as would crush it out at once and forever. The programme of the uprising last contemplated, embraced the destruction of the railroads and telegraph lines, and the sudden movement of a force to this city; the seizure of the State and U. S. arsenals here; the release of the rebel prisoners at Camp Chase, who were to be armed by the arms captured here. The column, thus re-enforced, was to co-operate with John Morgan, or some other rebel commander, who was expected to demonstrate at some point on the border, more probably in Kentucky. The time fixed for the commencement of this grand movement was the 16th day of August last. This date was learned from several sources, and from Lodges in different parts of this and other States. It was also known to the rebel prisoners at Camp Chase, and of course they were on the qui vive for their expected deliverance.

The real causes of the failure of this movement are known to be the increased vigilance of our military authorities in strengthening the prison and arsenal guards, in arresting the leading conspirators in the several States, and the seizure of large quantities of arms known to belong to the organization.

It is impossible, in the small space allotted to this report, to give a history of this formidable organization sufficiently in detail. Many doubts have been expressed as to the actual existence in our very midst of so atrocious an organization; yet the proof of its existence is so indubitable, that the society and its object is now matter of history, and will form one of the blackest chapters in the story of this great struggle. The statements set forth above are as well substantiated and as much entitled to belief as any other portion of this report.

Various other measures were to be carried out to further the cause of the rebellion, and minister to the devilish malice of these conspirators. For instance, the military and civil officers of the Department and State were to be captured or assassinated, the private property of influential and prominent Unionists was to be destroyed or stolen, and all soldiers or detectives were to be murdered, wherever found unarmed, or not in sufficient numbers to defend themselves. In short, every means which the chief conspirators could devise whereby the rebellion might be strengthened, or the cause of the Union injured, was to be made use of in the course of their operations.

All that I have enumerated, and much more, was communicated before any arrests had been made, and before the country was aware of the terrible volcano over which they were slumbering. The same revelations that were published in Indiana and Missouri in August last, could have been made of the order in Ohio.

At a subsequent day, numerous arrests were made of the leading members of the order, and their examination has corroborated every item of evidence that had been collected before, and a number of other details have been learned, more horrible, if possible, than anything before known. The confessions of Hunt, Dunn and Smith, of Missouri, and Bingham of Indiana, and the voluminous testimony in the trial of Dodd, all go to prove, beyond the shadow of a doubt, the existence and nefarious designs of the order.

The legitimate effect of a successful issue of the designs of this order, would have been to transfer the war, with all its horrible consequences, to our own State; the breaking up of our form of government, and the rearing upon its ruins a colony of that slave oligarchy, which is the dream of the rebels in arms. Our peaceful villages would have become smoking ruins, and our happy firesides a desolation. All this a timely vigilance has avoided; and the exposure of this band of secret plotters of treason has been a heavy blow to the rebellion.

A minute history of the organization of the "Order of American Knights," as it existed in Ohio during the past year, together with a complete exposure of its officers and leading members, their designs and principles, should be published at an early day, as one of the most remarkable phases in the history of the war.

REGIMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS THAT HAVE BEEN MUSTERED OUT.

In many of our regiments the number of re-enlistments and recruits was not sufficient to preserve the regimental organization complete, and some of them have ceased to exist as regiments, while others are reduced to battalions. The organizations thus obliterated, or reduced, comprise some of our most gallant regiments, and it is a source of regret that they could not be preserved to the service. The love of a soldier for the regiment to which he has been attached, is a something as tender and sacred as the love of a mother for her offspring, and they fight for it, and in it, as they will do in no other place. Regimental, division and corps badges are prized by the soldier above all other relics; and he gazes on the tattered colors of his regiment with a feeling akin to veneration.

These regiments, although disbanded, still live in the history of the nation, and in the grateful hearts of a loyal people. Their dead are slumbering beneath the sods of many battle fields, while the survivors have returned to the peaceful avocations of life, happy in the consciousness of having done their duty. All honor to these returning braves!

The following list comprises all the changes in regimental organizations, of which any report has been received at this office:

THE MILITIA ENROLLMENT.

It will be observed by the following table that the militia enrollment has decreased since 1863 to the amount of 64,438 men. A considerable decrease was to be looked for, from the fact that so large a number of our arms-bearing population have enlisted during the year in the military and naval service of the United States. Another reason for decrease, is the fact that an unusual number claimed exemption under the various provisions of the militia law, thereby avoiding the payment of the commutation fee.

No doubt exists in my mind but that the enrollment by assessors, as provided by law, was loosely taken, and that a large number of our citizens escaped enrollment. The law seems to need an amendment, allowing names of persons, known to be omitted from the lists, to be added thereto by the County Auditor, on proper information. The law at present provides for the striking off of names improperly enrolled, but is silent as to adding names of persons who have been omitted.

We have no means of proving absolutely that the enrollment is defective to any very large amount, and can only form an approximate estimate of what the true enrollment should be, by comparing it with the vote of the State at different periods, and with the Federal enrollment. Assuming that the Federal enrollment is correct, and we lose the commutation of forty thousand persons, or one hundred and sixty thousand dollars.

Again, by the Federal census of 1860, there were in the State of Ohio 442,380 white males between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years. The aggregate vote in Ohio for President of the United States in 1860 was 442,441, or only sixty-one more than the enrolled militia; that is, the voters in the State over the age of forty-five years, exceeded the males between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years by sixty-one.

The home vote of the State for 1864, on President, was 470,713. Of course the draft on our population for the army, has been almost entirely from the population between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years; therefore, the proportion between the aggregate number of voters and the aggregate enrolled militia, as it existed in 1860, will not be preserved. It cannot be, however, that so great a discrepancy can exist, as the figures of the present year indicate. Against a difference in 1860 of only sixty-one, we have in 1864 the aggregate home vote of the State in excess of the State militia enrollment 189,523, and in excess of the Federal enrollment 149,682. These figures will indicate the reasons for suspicion that the enrollment is too small, and furnish the strongest argument for the adoption of some plan to secure a more correct enrollment.

Table showing the State Enrollment of Militia in the years 1863 and 1864, with the Increase and Decrease; also the Federal Enrollment by Counties.

ROSTERS OF NEW ORGANIZATIONS.

The following rosters are those of all new companies or regiments, organized and sent to the field during the year, and raised under authority of the War Department.

Under date of February 4th, 1864, authority was given to raise thirty new companies of Infantry, for three years. Under this authority there were raised fifteen companies, of which nine were placed in the 60th, a new regiment; two in the 54th; one in the 25th; one in the 73d, and two in the 108th Regiment. The rosters of these companies follow.

Under the call of the President of July 18th, 1864, for 500,000 men, authority was given to raise twenty new regiments. But eleven were organized under this call, the rosters of which are given in the following tables.

APPENDIX.

DECISIONS UNDER AND CONSTRUCTIONS OF THE MILITIA LAW.

Section four provides that "all persons who are subject to military duty under the provisions of this act, and who are not now members of some volunteer organization, shall either become members of some volunteer organization, or shall pay into the county treasury, annually, the sum of four dollars." The term members, in the above clause, has been construed to embrace all commissioned officers of the Guard. Many county auditors have held that officers of the Guard were not exempt from the payment of the commutation fee.

Section six exempts from enrollment all persons who are exempt by the laws of the United States. Under this clause, persons who have furnished substitutes in the U. S. service, either before or after draft, in accordance with United States laws have been exempted during the time for which they have been exempted by reason of having furnished such substitute.

The procurement of a substitute for U. S. service has also been held as a sufficient reason on which to base an application for discharge from the National Guard.

The fifth clause of the same section requires all persons who are physically disqualified, to file with the county auditor, on or before the 15th day of August, a proper certificate of such disability, when he may be exempted. The law provides no other time for filing such certificate, and in effect prohibits any exemption for physical disability unless such certificate shall be filed within the time specified. It has therefore been necessary to rule that no exemption for physical disability can be made, unless the certificate shall have been filed on or before the 15th day of August.

Section seven has been construed by many county officers as allowing to treasurers for collecting the commutation fee, the per centage allowed for the collection of fines, &c. This subject has been treated at some length in the foregoing report. It is only necessary to say here that county treasurers should only be allowed on all moneys collected by them (includ- ing the military commutation fee) excepting on tavern, show, or other licenses, fines, penalties and forfeitures, not exceeding ten thousand dollars, one per centum, and on the excess, one-half of one per centum.

Section eight prescribes the manner of paying out the military fund. The law (section 46) seems to contemplate the payment of the company fund on the certificate of the company commander, approved by the officer commanding the regiment or battalion. To secure the return here of a correct annual report of companies of the Guard, under instructions from this office, it has been the custom to pay out this fund only on the approval of the Adjutant-General.

Section sixty-four allows to each member of the Guard, who shall have uniformed himself, the sum of five dollars annually. This has been construed, as in the decision under section four, to include all commissioned officers of the Guard.

EXEMPTIONS UNDER THE MILITIA LAW.

To answer the innumerable letters relative to the liability of our citizens under the militia law to perform military duty, the following circular was prepared, and will furnish all the necessary information as to exemptions under said law :

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
· ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, June 15th, 1864.

The following information is published for the benefit of all persons concerned :

The "act to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864, provides for an enrollment of all white male citizens residents of this State being eighteen years of age, and under the age of forty-five years, in the militia, and that they shall perform military duty in accordance with the laws of the State and the United States.

Certain persons are exempted from enrollment in the militia, as follows :

1st. All persons in the army or navy, or volunteer forces of the United States.

2d. Persons who have been or hereafter may be honorably discharged from the army or navy of the United States, in consequence of the performance of military duty for one year.

3d. Commissioned officers serving under this act, who shall have served as such in the militia of this State for the space of five years ; but no officer shall be so exempt, unless by his resignation after such term of service duly accepted, or in some other lawful manner he shall have been honorably discharged.

4th. Every non-commissioned officer, musician and private of every uniformed company raised, or hereafter to be raised, since May 1st, 1863, uniformed according to the provisions of any law of this State, and who shall have performed services in such company or troop for the space of five years from the time of his enrollment therein, shall be exempt from military duty, except in cases of war, insurrection or invasion.

5th. Every person physically disabled may be exempted from military duty, if he files with the county auditor, on or before August 15th, of every year, a statement of a reputable physician or surgeon, certifying that such person is unfit for military duty by reason of such physical disability or bodily infirmity, which shall be described in such statement. This statement must be verified by the affidavit of said physician or surgeon. If any person shall knowingly or wilfully make a false affidavit in this matter, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

In examinations under this class of exemptions, touching a person's physical ability to perform military duty, the same rigid examination as is required under U. S. Army Regulations for soldiers in the general service, must not be made. The question of physical disability comprehends only the ability of the person to perform the ordinary military duty required under the State laws.

This clause must not be so construed as to allow county auditors, on the affidavit of a physician, to exempt from military duty, any member of the National Guard. All such exemptions are null and void, and will not protect the person claiming exemption under them from prosecution for refusal to obey the orders of his commanding officer.

7th. All persons absolutely exempted from enrollment in the militia by the laws of the United States.

This class of exemptions has given rise to a number of inquiries as to what persons are exempt under the laws of the United States. All exemptions from military duty under the laws of the United States prior to March 3d, 1863, were set aside, and the act of Congress known as the "Conscription Law," passed March 3d, 1863, provided for a different class of exemptions. Under the provisions of the amended "Conscription Law," still further changes were made in the classes exempt from military duty. Section ten of the act of Congress, passed February 24, 1864, being the act amendatory of the "Conscription Law," provides:

"That the following persons be, and they are hereby exempted from enrollment and draft under the provisions of this act, and of the act to which this is an amendment, to wit: Such as are rejected as physically or mentally unfit for service, all persons actually in the military or naval service of the United States at the time of the draft, and all persons who have served in the military or naval service two years during the present war and been honorably discharged therefrom; and no persons but such as are herein exempted, shall be exempt."

A person who has been drafted, and has been released on payment of three hundred dollars commutation, is not thereby exempt from the operation of any further draft, and will not, therefore, be exempted from enrollment and the payment of commutation under the law of the State. A person, however, who has been drafted, and has been released by reason of having furnished a substitute, provided said substitute is not subject to draft, is exempt during the period for which said substitute is not liable to draft, but not exceeding the time for which such substitute has been accepted. Such person will, therefore, be exempt from enrollment, and the payment of commutation under the laws of the State during the period for which he is exempt from military duty under the laws of the United States; provided the substitute so furnished shall not be liable to perform military duty under the laws of the State.

No provision is made for the correction of the enrollment by county auditors, by adding to it the names of such persons as may have arrived at the age of eighteen years subsequent to the annual enrollment by the assessors. This can only be done at the annual enrollment next succeeding, and in the manner prescribed by law.

Persons exempted under the provisions of the laws of the State, or of the United States, who shall voluntarily enrol themselves in any company of National Guards, will be considered as waiving their right to exemption under those laws, and can only be released from military duty therein by the Governor of the State.

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General, Ohio.

MILITARY COMMITTEES FOR 1864.

The military committees of the several counties in the State have been untiring in their efforts during the year to promote the interests of the service. Their duties have been onerous, and were performed without remuneration, and their disinterested patriotism deserves some public recognition. A list of their names, by counties, is here published for the information of the people of the State :

GENERAL HEAD-QUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, Jan. 11, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 1.

General Orders No. 15 of the series of 1863, from this office, having become obsolete by new instructions by the Adjutant General, is hereby revoked.

By order,

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
COLUMBUS, Jan. 11, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 2.

The following-named officers are announced as constituting the staff of the Commander-in-Chief, and they will be obeyed and respected accordingly :

BRIG.-GEN. BENJ. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General, and Inspector-General.

BRIG.-GEN. MERRILL BARLOW,
Quarter-master-General, and Commissary-General.

COLONEL ROBERT N. BARR,
Surgeon-General.

COLONEL HUDSON B. STEVENS,
Aide-de-Camp, Judge Advocate-General, and Engineer-in-Chief.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL ROBERT HUME,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

JOHN BROUGH,
Governor.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, Jan. 19, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 3.

Gustave C. E. Weber, M.D., of Cleveland, Ohio, John A. Murphy, M.D., of Cincinnati, and John W. Russell, M.D., of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, are hereby appointed as members of the State Board of Medical Examiners, under section 57 of the act "to organize the militia of Ohio," passed April 14th, 1863.

Said Board of Examiners will meet in this city on Tuesday, March 15th, 1864, at 10 o'clock A. M., to make the necessary examinations of applicants for appointment to the position of Surgeon and Assistant Surgeon in Ohio regiments now in the United States service, and reassemble from time to time, as the public service may require.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, Feb. 4, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 4.

In the case of veteran regiments, quartered temporarily in "Tod Barracks," in this city, the following order will govern :

At least one commissioned officer from each company must be detailed to remain in the quarters during the occupancy of the barracks by said regiment, to preserve order and enforce discipline.

Major John W. Skiles is charged with the enforcement of this order.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, Feb. 6th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 5.

Hereafter, all vacancies in established regiments, battalions, or independent companies will be filled by promotion according to seniority in the regiment, battalion or independent company, except in cases of intemperance.

Existing orders from the War Department afford the necessary facilities for ridding the service of incompetent or inefficient officers, by ordering them before an Examining Board, which will relieve the Governor from the disagreeable necessity of deciding the merits of an officer on the mere opinion of the Regimental or other commander.

Section 10 of an act of Congress, approved July 22d, 1861. (Gen. Orders No. 49, series of 1861,) provides as follows :

"That the General commanding a separate Department or detached Army, is hereby authorized to appoint a military board or commission of not less than three nor more than five officers, whose duty it shall be to examine the capacity, qualifications, propriety of conduct and efficiency of any commissioned officer of volunteers within his department or army, who may be reported to the board or commission, and upon such report, if adverse to such officer, and if approved by the President of the United States, the commission of such officer shall be vacated ; Provided, always, that no officer shall be eligible to sit on such board or commission, whose rank or promotion would in any way be effected by its proceedings, and two members, at least, if practicable, shall be of equal rank of the officer being examined."

No officer shall be deprived of his right to promotion on the mere expression of his commanding officer, that he is not competent to discharge the duties of the position to which his seniority entitles him.

In the case of promotions of sergeants the same rule will govern, and for this reason, commanding officers of regiments and other organizations will give careful attention to the appointment of non-commissioned officers, that none but competent, proper and efficient men shall be brought into the line of promotion.

Officers who seek to be detailed on duty which detaches them from their commands, will be considered out of the line of promotion during their continuance on such detached service. Notice of such detail must be furnished this Department, and also notice of the time they are returned to their commands.

Commanding officers must promptly deliver all commissions to the parties for whom they are intended.

By order :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, Feb. 19th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 6.

For the purpose of preserving in this Department an accurate and complete record of all Ohio troops, in the United States service, the commanding officer of each regiment, battalion or independent company will cause to be returned to this office, on the 1st of March, 1864, or as soon thereafter as circumstances will permit :

I. A complete Muster Roll of their command, showing the names of all the men who have been connected with the command since its original organization, when, where and by whom enlisted and mustered into the service, together with a list of casualties, showing deaths, discharges, (give date and cause of each death and discharge,) desertions, promotions, captures by the enemy, transfers and dismissals, with dates of each, and to what organization transferred. Also, a record of events which may be necessary or useful for future reference at this Department, or for present information, embracing actions in which the command, or any portion of it, has been engaged, scouts, marches, changes of station, and everything of interest relating to the discipline, efficiency or service of the command, with dates, places, distances marched, &c., &c

II. On the first day of each succeeding month, a report of the strength of the command, giving number of men for duty, and aggregate number present and absent on the day preceding the date of the report. The monthly report will also embrace a roster of sergeants, giving date of enlistment and date of appointment ; names of all recruits joined, together with a list of casualties which have occurred since the date of last report. The casualties will embrace all occurrences called for in Par. I. of this order. Also, the record of events (as in Par. I.), which have occurred since last report.

III. Names of sergeants and commissioned officers absent from their commands, cause of absence, date of commencement of absence, and date of return to duty. If officers are absent from their commands on detached service, the report will show whether or not such absence is at their own request.

In making the above reports, it is important that the station of the command at the date of the report be distinctly shown.

The ordinary "Muster Roll" will serve for the report to be rendered on the 1st of March, using the column of "Remarks" for casualties, &c., and for the succeeding monthly reports suitable blanks will be furnished from this Department.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
COLUMBUS, March 16th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 7.

So much of General Orders No. 6, series of 1863, from this office, as fixes the organization of a company of infantry, is hereby rescinded, and the scale of organization will be as follows, for a COMPANY OF INFANTRY:

1 Captain; 1 First Lieutenant; 1 Second Lieutenant; 1 First Sergeant;
4 Sergeants; 8 Corporals; 2 Musicians; 1 Wagoner.

And not less than forty-one (41), nor more than eighty-two (82) privates.
(Minimum 60—Maximum 101.)

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERALS' OFFICE,
Columbus, March 24, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 8.

I. Par. I. of Gen. Orders No. 30, of 1863, from this Department, is hereby rescinded.

II. Companies of Volunteer Militia, duly organized, enrolled and uniformed, under the act of April 14, 1863, and whose requisitions shall have been approved, will be supplied by the Quartermaster-General with rifles or muskets, and the necessary accoutrements.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adj.-Gen of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, March 29, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 9.

General Orders No. 23, series 1863, from this office, is hereby revoked.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adj.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 6th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 10.

By authority of an act of the General Assembly, the "Enrolled Militia" of Ohio, as an organization, is abolished, and the officers thereof will be considered as mustered out of service, from the date of the passage of said act (March 31st, 1864).

The Volunteer Militia, as organized under the act of April 14th, 1863, will be continued in service, and will be known hereafter as the "National Guard." Commissioned officers of the Volunteer Militia will be continued in commission as officers of the National Guard.

The numerical designation of regiments and battalions will be retained.

Commandants of companies will assemble their commands at their usual places, for company muster, at 10 o'clock A. M., on the 25th inst, for inspection and review; and immediately thereafter will transmit to this Department, through the proper channel, a report showing the condition of their commands; the strength; number present at muster; number and character of arms and equipments on hand; and number of members that have entered the United States service under the last three calls of the President of the United States. They will also take immediate steps to recruit their commands to the legal standard.

This order must be promptly obeyed.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adj.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 25th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 11.

I. When the National Guard shall be called into active service, all telegraphic operators, railroad engineers, officers, foremen and mechanics actually employed on Government or State work for military uses, and all steamboat engineers and licensed pilots, will be exempt from duty therein, and will not be allowed to join any company of the National Guard in active service.

II. When any regiment, battallion, or independent company of the National Guard is called into active service, every member thereof must report himself promptly at the stated rendezvous, or be deemed and treated as a deserter; provided that any private or non-commissioned officer may be exempt from duty under a pending call on furnishing an acceptable substitute, at the rendezvous at the time specified in the call. Such substitute shall only serve for the term of active service then pending. This shall not be construed into releasing any substitute from the payment of his commutation fee, as provided in section 4 of the "act to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864; nor shall it be so construed as to release the member, furnishing the substitute, from duty with the company after the expiration of the term of service then pending.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adj.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 25th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 12.

The regiments, battalions and independent companies of infantry of the National Guard of Ohio, are hereby called into active service for the term of one hundred days, unless sooner discharged. They will be clothed, armed, equipped, transported and paid by the United States Government.

These organizations will rendezvous at the most eligible places in their respective counties (the place to be fixed by the commanding officer, and to be on a line of railroad, if practicable), on Monday, May 2d, 1864, and report by telegraph at 4 o'clock P. M. of the same day, the number present for duty.

The alacrity with which all calls for the military forces of the State have been heretofore met, furnishes the surest guaranty that the National Guard will be prompt to assemble at the appointed time. Our armies in the field are marshaling for a decisive blow, and the citizen soldiery will share the glory of the crowning victories of the campaign, by relieving our veteran regiments from post and garrison duty, to allow them to engage in the more arduous labors of the field.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 25, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 13.

John W. Russell, M.D., of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Gustav C. E. Weber, M.D., of Cleveland, Ohio, and John A. Murphy, M.D., of Cincinnati, Ohio, are hereby appointed as members of the State Board of Medical Examiners, under section 84 of the "act to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864. Said Board of Examiners will meet in this city, on Tuesday, May 3d, 1864, at 10 o'clock A. M., to make the necessary examinations of applicants for appointment to the position of surgeons and assistant-surgeons in Ohio regiments now in or about to enter the United States service, and reassemble from time to time, as the public service may require.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 25th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 14.

Section 17 of the "act to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864, provides that the commanding officers of regiments of the National Guard shall appoint surgeons and surgeons' mates for their respective regiments. Section 82 of the above-named act, provides that "no person shall receive the appointment of surgeon or assistant surgeon unless he shall have been examined and recommended" by the Board of Medical Examiners.

It is therefore ordered, that all persons who are appointed by the commandants of regiments, to the position of surgeon or assistant surgeon, shall, before being commissioned, be examined and recommended by the State Board of Medical Examiners.

Said Board will meet for the examination of applicants, in this city, on Tuesday, May 3d, 1864.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, April 25th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 15.

When regiments, battalions or companies of the National Guard assemble at the stated rendezvous, under General Orders No. 12, current series, from this office, the commanding officers thereof are authorized to subsist and lodge the members of their commands, during their stay at said rendezvous, at an expense of not exceeding forty (40) cents per day, each.

Claims for subsistence under this order, duly authenticated, and in proper form, will be promptly paid on presentation at the office of the Quartermaster General of Ohio.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, June 1st, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 16.

The following telegram from the Secretary of War is published for the information of the National Guard of Ohio, now in the service of the United States :

WAR DEPARTMENT, Washington, D. C., May 26th, 1864.

To His Excellency Governor Brough :

This morning's report of the Adjutant General shows, that since the date of the proposition made by you and other Governors of Western States to the President, thirty-eight (38) regiments of infantry troops, numbering over thirty-two thousand (32,000), have been called out, armed, equipped and sent from the State of Ohio, to the respective posts designated by this Department, and this while the draft is going on for three years' men, and all the veteran troops in the field re-enlisted.

This prompt and energetic action of yourself, your staff and the loyal people of the State, exhibits an unmatched effort of devoted patriotism and stern determination to spare no sacrifice to maintain the National Government and overthrow the rebellion.

You will please accept for yourself, and the patriotic people of Ohio the thanks of the President and of this Department.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

Since the above was received, four more regiments have been organized, armed, equipped and mustered into the service of the United States; making in all forty-two regiments, with an aggregate strength of thirty-five thousand nine hundred and seventy-five (35,975) men.

This order will be read to each regiment of the National Guard, that they may know that their noble response to the call of their Commander-in-Chief, is duly appreciated by the highest Military authority of the Government.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, May 2d, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 17.

On account of the pressing emergency at present existing, for the prompt and speedy arming of the National Guard, the Quartermaster General is hereby authorized to issue arms to regiments, battalions and companies of the Guard, and the receipt of the commandant of the regiment, battalion or company, shall be considered a good and sufficient voucher.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, July 11th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 18.

The act of the General Assembly of Ohio, entitled "An act to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864, provides that all white male citizens of Ohio, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five years, shall be enrolled and perform military duty in some volunteer organization, or pay into the treasury of the county annually, the sum of four dollars as a commutation for military service. Members of companies of the National Guard will be exempt from the payment of commutation on satisfactory evidence furnished the Auditor of the county in which they are subject to enrollment, that they are members of said company.

With a view to furnishing County Auditors with the names of members of the National Guard, each company commander will, on or before the 15th day of August, make out and forward to the Auditor of the county in which his company was organized, a certified copy of the roll of his company, showing thereon the names of the persons exempt from the payment of commutation money.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, July 14, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 19.

I. The commanding officer of each company of the National Guard that responded to the call of the Governor, and assembled on the 2nd day of May for the purpose of entering the U. S. service for one hundred days, will immediately prepare and forward to this department, duplicate copies of muster and pay rolls, setting forth the following facts:

1st. Names and description of every member of the company that reported at the stated rendezvous, May 2d, 1864, or at any subsequent day. The day on which the soldier reported at the rendezvous will be entered in the columns "joined for service and enrolled."

2d. The date of muster into the U. S. service. If any soldier was rejected for physical disability or other cause, discharged or refused to report, the fact must be set forth in the column of "Remarks." If any commissioned officers were thrown out by consolidation in re-organization, their names must appear on the rolls as above indicated, and the date of their being relieved by consolidation, will appear under the column of "Remarks." Where regiments, companies, or individual members of the National Guard were furloughed for any portion of the time embraced in the roll, the fact must be stated in the column of "Remarks."

II. In addition to the usual certificate on the muster roll, the commandant of each company will be required to append the following: And that the officers and soldiers whose names are borne on this roll have not received pay for any portion of time between the date of their reporting at the first rendezvous, and the date of muster into the U. S. service. The certificate for signature of "Inspector and Mustering Officer" must be signed by the commanding officer of the regiment.

III. The word company in the foregoing paragraphs will be construed to mean companies of National Guards as at present organized, but the rolls must contain the names of all officers and soldiers rejected, discharged, deserted, or thrown out by consolidation, that would have been members of the company but for such rejection, discharge, &c.

It is desired to procure the name and a certificate of the service of every member of the National Guard responding to the Governor's call, whether mustered into U. S. service or not, as upon this roll payment will be made by the State for the time previous to muster, and for which no payment can now be made by the U. S.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S Office,
Columbus, July 19, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 20.

In accordance with General Orders No. 227, War Department, dated Adjutant-General's Office, Washington, D. C., July 9, 1864, relative to recruiting in rebel States for loyal States, and the appointment of Recruiting Agents, the following is published for the information of all concerned:

One Recruiting Agent will be appointed by the Governor for each Congressional District in Ohio, on the recommendation of parties therein. Said Agents will be subject to the rules and articles of War, and will be held personally responsible for their official acts, and may be arrested and held for trial by the commanding officer of the army for any frauds on the Government or on recruits, or for violating any of the instructions issued to govern this recruitment, or for any offence against military law. Agents will be held responsible for the acts of all persons who act under their authority or direction.

Sub-districts desirous of procuring recruits under this system will make immediate application to their district recruiting agent, furnishing him with a statement of the number of recruits they wish to have placed to their credit, and the amount of local bounty to be paid each recruit.

The money for the payment of the local bounty must be deposited with the agent, before he will be authorized to make any credit of recruits.

The compensation of Recruiting Agents will not exceed six dollars per day for the time actually employed, to be paid by the different sub-districts for which he procures recruits, pro rata, according to the number of recruits furnished.

Recruiting Agents will transmit to the State Recruiting Agent, weekly, a report of their operations, giving the number and names of recruits enlisted and mustered, and sub-district to which they are to be assigned, and the amount of bounty paid each. Blank receipt rolls will be furnished from this office.

The representatives of sub-districts, availing themselves of this arrangement for raising their quota of recruits, may require satisfactory security from the Agent, before depositing any money with him for local bounty. This is to be entirely at the pleasure of the sub-district Committee, as it is to be distinctly understood, that the State cannot be held responsible for the malfeasance of said Agents.

In assigning recruits to sub-districts, the Agent is directed to assign them pro rata to all the localities that may have applied for such credits. As soon as a detachment of recruits shall have been mustered into the United States service, the Agent will pay them the amount of bounty agreed to be paid, for which he will take their receipt on receipt rolls, in duplicate, to be furnished him for that purpose. One copy of the receipt roll will be forwarded to the State Agent to be forwarded to this office. The signature of the recruit must in all cases be witnessed by a responsible person, a commissioned officer of an Ohio Regiment when practicable.

Persons who wish to avail themselves of the services of recruiting agents for the procurement of substitutes before the draft, can do so on furnishing the agent for the district in which they are enrolled, with the means of transportation to said district, where the substitute will be mustered into service by the Provost Marshal of said district, who will issue the proper substitution papers. Recruiting Agents for one enrollment district will not be allowed to assign recruits to any sub-district beyond the bounds of their own district, nor will any such assignment be recognized.

In addition to the above Recruiting Agents there will be appointed one State Agent, to be stationed at Nashville, Tenn., who shall have the control and direction of all Recruiting Agents for this State, and shall exercise a general supervision over their proceedings and official conduct.

The State Agent will promptly report to this office any neglect of duty or any frauds upon the Government or recruits on the part of any Recruiting Agent. The State Agent will transmit to this office a weekly report of the business of recruiting, by agents under his direction, inclosing one copy of all receipt rolls received by him. He will report any suggestions for the benefit of this system of recruiting, and will also be required to certify to the correctness of the receipt rolls before forwarding them to this office.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, July 20, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 21.

By virtue of authority from Brigadier-General J. B. Fry, Provost Marshal General of the army, it is hereby announced that a regiment of representative recruits will be raised in Ohio, under the rules and regulations following:

District provost marshals have been instructed to furnish all facilities in their power to enlist and muster promptly, all acceptable representative recruits presented, and will forward them at once to Camp Chase, where an officer will be in readiness to receive them, and when sufficient numbers are received, organize them into companies.

To guard against the prejudicial intervention of recruit brokers, arrangements are completed in this department to take charge of the payments of the local bounty, where parties may desire it, and pay the same out to the recruit in person, without any discount or deduction whatever. The unwarranted interference of recruit brokers in the matter of local bounties, is proving prejudicial to the business of recruiting, and so far as possible, it shall be stopped. All honest and patriotic citizens are requested to assist in preventing these frauds upon recruits.

Persons unfit for military duty, and not liable to draft from age or other cause, who desire to be represented in the service, can procure a representative recruit under the above arrangement, by depositing in the State treasury the amount of money they desire to pay as a local bounty, which shall be paid out to the recruit in person, on his being properly mustered into the service.

Where an individual can procure his own representative recruit, and pay him the bounty without the intervention of bounty brokers, it will, of course, obviate the necessity of making a deposit in the State treasury.

District provost marshals will doubtless take charge of and disburse the bounties, on application of parties interested.

Competent and experienced officers, of well known efficiency and military experience, will be appointed in the regiment, and none others need apply.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, July 22, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 22.

By virtue of authority from the War Department, it is hereby announced that twenty new regiments of infantry will be raised in this State, for the term of one, two, or three years, as the recruits may elect. Recruits in these organizations will be entitled to the bounties provided by the late act of Congress; that is, for one year $100, for two years $200, and for three years $300, payable in three equal installments, the first installment payable on the day of muster.

21.—EX. DOC.—PART II.

One regiment will be assigned to each Congressional District, to be raised among the counties composing the district, in proportion to the population of each county.

One Second Lieutenant for each company will be appointed at the commencement of the organization, and will be immediately mustered into the United States service. On completion of companies, the additional officers will be commissioned and mustered.

These regiments must be complete before the 5th of September, and mustered into the United States service, in order that they may be credited on the quota of the State under the call of July 18th. Incomplete companies on the 5th of September will be consolidated with other detachments, and the officers recruiting them will be assigned to such command in the consolidated organization, as the number of men recruited by them will entitle them to.

Military committees of counties will please recommend recruiting officers immediately, and have them report here in person to receive their commissions and instructions and be mustered into service. It is suggested that selections for these positions be made, as far as practicable, from the officers and soldiers who have served faithfully in the field, and been honorably discharged.

The field officers will, in all cases, be selected from veteran officers of known skill and experience in the field, and who shall prove active in recruiting these regiments.

Inasmuch as the time for organizing is short, it is important that local committees and individuals take immediate action in the matter, and organize in the various sub-districts to encourage this recruitment.

An opening is here offered for the gallant soldier who has been educated on the battle field, during a three year's term of active service, to apply his dearly bought knowledge, and obtain recognition of his former services.

It requires but a vigorous, united effort on the part of our people to fill these regiments, thus securing exemption from draft, and prompt reinforcement of our armies in the field,

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, July 26, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 23.

Members of the National Guard who furnish substitutes for three years in the United States service, and are thereby exempt from draft under the laws of the United States, will be exempt from service in the National Guard when the same shall be called into the U. S. service.

Nothing in this order shall be construed into exempting any citizen of Ohio from military service when called upon to suppress insurrection, or to repel or prevent an actual or threatened invasion.

By order of the Governor :

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
 ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, Aug. 11, 1864.

By order of the Governor.

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
 ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, August 30, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 25.

In computing time for which officers of Ohio National Guard should be paid, prior to muster into U. S. service, and who have been furloughed for any portion of said time upon orders from these headquarters, the Quartermaster-General will allow pay and allowances for all the time said officers were actually on duty.

Their own affidavits will suffice to substantiate payment.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
 ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, September 2, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 26.

Under the call of the Governor of Ohio for the assembling of the National Guards on the 2d day of May, 1864, many officers met with their commands, but were thrown out by the subsequent consolidation of companies, and did not accompany their commands to the field.

Under the provisions of the militia law of the State, all members of the National Guard are entitled to the pay of their rank when on active duty by command of the Governor.

All officers, therefore, who were thrown out of their commands, or reduced from their former grades by consolidation of their commands, are entitled to pay for the time they were actually on duty under the call of April 24th, 1864.

Brigadier-General Merrill Barlow, Quartermaster-General of Ohio, is charged with the payment of all claims presented under this order, and to him all applications for payment will be made.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
 ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, September 6, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 27.

Sidney D. Maxwell, of Montgomery county, is hereby appointed Aide-de-Camp on the Staff of the Governor of Ohio, with the rank of Colonel, to date from September 9th, 1864, and he will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
 ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, September 8, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 28.

In organizing the regiments of National Guards, preparatory to muster into the United States service for the term of one hundred days, special orders were given for the consolidation of regiments and battalions, that the Guard might be mustered into the service with a minimum regimental organization.

The necessity for this consolidation existing no longer, the special orders of consolidation are hereby rescinded, and all regiments, battalions, and companies of the National Guard will return to their former organization as it existed prior to consolidation.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, September 17, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 29.

The following Executive Order, acknowledging the valuable services of the Ohio National Guards during their recent period of active service, is published for the information of all members of the Guard to whom reference is made therein. Their gallantry in the field is only equaled by their promptitude in answering every call of their country; and our State feels secure from invasion or insurrection while so gallant and patriotic a corps de reserve stands ready to punish alike the enemy in front or rear.

Executive Order returning Thanks to the Ohio Volunteers for One Hundred Days.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
Washington City, September 10.

The term of one hundred days, for which the National Guard of Ohio volunteered having expired, the President directs an official acknowledgment of their patriotism and valuable service during the recent campaign. The term of service of their enlistment was short, but distinguished by memorable events in the Valley of the Shenandoah, on the Peninsula, in the operations of the James River, around Petersburg and Richmond, in the battle of Monocacy, in the entrenchments of Washington, and in other important service. The National Guard of Ohio performed with alacrity the duty of patriotic Volunteers, for which they are entitled, and are hereby tendered, through the Governor of their State, the national thanks.

The Secretary of War is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the Governor of Ohio, and to cause a certificate of their honorable service to be delivered to the officers and soldiers of the Ohio National Guard, who recently served in the military force of the United States as volunteers for one hundred days.

[Signed]

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adj.-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, September 19, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 30.

Under the provisions of the militia law of Ohio, any person liable to perform military duty neglecting or refusing to march as ordered by the proper commanding officer, shall be deemed and treated as a deserter. The trial and punishment of all persons charged with any infraction of military discipline, will be conducted in all respects according to the rules and articles of war governing the army of the United States.

For the purpose of obtaining an authentic report of those members of the National Guard who refused to respond to General Orders No. 12, current series, the commanding officer of each regiment, battalion or independent company will forward to this office, on or before the first day of November, 1864, a list of the members of his command who refused or neglected to report themselves at the stated rendezvous on the 2d day of May, 1864, or reported and afterwards deserted therefrom.

Immediate steps will be taken, after the reception of these reports, to try by court-martial and punish all persons who may be found guilty of neglect or refusal to respond to the call of their proper commanding officers.

The proper details for courts-martial for the trial of all offenders will be made as soon as practicable after the receipt of the report of delinquents.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjt-Gen. of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, September 19, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 31.

For the purpose of obtaining a complete and authentic history of the National Guard during their "hundred days" in the service of the United States, with a view to the future publication of the same, it is ordered—

That each commandant of a regiment of National Guards causes to be forwarded to this Department, as soon as practicable, the muster-out roll of each company in his regiment, and also the muster-out roll of the Field and Staff. Said rolls will be copied with the least possible delay, and returned.

Each commandant will also forward a detailed history of the operations of his command during the hundred days' service, giving a history of the movements, stations, battles, skirmishes, distances marched, and any other matters of interest or importance, to complete the history of their services.

Casualties will be shown by the muster-out rolls, so that it will be unnecessary for the history to embrace any detailed statement of this nature.

The history should embrace copies of any General or Special Orders wherein the services of the Guard is named, and also copies of any reports of operations of the Guard, while in the field.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, Sept. 19th, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 32.

I.—Section 38 of an act of the General Assembly of Ohio, entitled "an act to organize and discipline the militia of Ohio," passed March 31st, 1864, provides "that every commandant of every volunteer company, battery, squadron, regiment and battalion, shall make a return of all commissioned and non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates under his command, and all camp and garrison equipage, public arms and accoutrements, and other ordnance stores belonging thereto, through the respective regimental commanders, on or before the first day of November in every year, and such return shall be preserved by the Adjutant-General, in a book of records in his office."

Blanks for the Annual Report will be sent from this office to every officer required by law to render a report, and the return must be promptly made on or before the first of November next.

The company fund provided to be paid in section 46, of the above mentioned act, will not be paid to any company until the annual report of the company shall have been received at this office.

The attention of all commanding officers of the National Guard is especially directed to the importance of a prompt compliance with the requirements of this order, that the records of this Department may be completed at as early a day as possible, and that the company fund may be promptly drawn.

II.—Under the authority vested in the Governor by Sec. 41, of the above named act, such companies of the National Guards as were mustered into the United States service under General Orders No. 12, current series, from this office, and the companies since called into camp for purposes of instruction, or for guard duty, are hereby exempt from the annual inspection, and the four drills or parades, provided for in Sections 40 and 41 of said act.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, Sept. 24, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 33.

A national salute of thirty-five guns will be fired in the Capitol Square, this evening, at 7 o'clock, in honor of the continued victories of our armies in the Valley of the Shenandoah.

Brigadier-General Merrill Barlow, Quartermaster-General of Ohio, is charged with the execution of this order.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant General of Ohio.

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, October 19th, 1864.

Sentence.—Thereupon the court, being cleared for deliberation, after full consideration, the court do sentence said Taggart to pay a fine of thirty (30) dollars, and costs of prosecution, two (2) dollars.

44. J. F. Sterner, Co. H. Pleaded "Not Guilty."

Finding.—Of the Specification, "Not Guilty." Of the Charge, "Not Guilty."

45. Henry Welsh, Co. C. Pleaded "Guilty."

Sentence.—The court being cleared for deliberation, upon consideration of the case, the court do sentence said Henry Welsh to pay a fine of ten (10) dollars, and costs of prosecution, two (2) dollars.

II. The proceedings and findings of the court in the case of James Saul, Co. E, 49th Regiment Ohio National Guard, are disapproved, inasmuch as the sentence pronounced in said case is against "Eli Shuman," instead of said "James Saul."

The remainder of the proceedings and findings of the court, in the foregoing cases, are approved.

John C. Lee, Colonel commanding 49th Regiment Ohio National Guard, is charged with the execution of the sentences pronounced in said approved cases.

CALL FOR TEN NEW REGIMENTS.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 36.

By virtue of authority from the War Department of this date, it is hereby announced that ten new regiments of Infantry will be organized in this State for the term of one, two, or three years, as the recruit may elect. The recruitment, organization and muster of these regiments will be in conformity with existing regulations, and the recruit will be entitled to the bounties now provided by law.

The bounty provided by law is as follows:

For recruits, including representative recruits (white or colored), for one year.....	$100
For recruits, including representative recruits (white or colored), for two years.....	200
For recruits, including representative recruits (white or colored), for three years.....	300

The first installments of bounty will be paid by the mustering and disbursing officers when the recruit is mustered in, as follows:

To a recruit who enlists in the army for one year.....	$33 33
To a recruit who enlists in the army for two years.....	66 66
To a recruit who enlists in the army for three years.....	100 00

Recruits for these regiments will be mustered by mustering officers and Provost Marshals, as provided for the mustering of recruits for old regiments.

The regiment or independent organization must be designated on the muster-rolls, the four copies of which are disposed of as usual; but the recruits will be organized into companies by the commanding officer of the general rendezvous at which the regiment may be assembled. As soon as organized into companies, the commanding officer of the general rendezvous will make out muster-rolls by companies, the field and staff on a separate roll, of the whole regiment, which will be signed and certified by him, showing that all the men have been duly mustered in and are organized as required by orders and regulations, and giving the amount of bounty, advance pay, etc., each man has received. These rolls will be made in quadruplicate, and disposed of as provided for muster-in rolls. These rolls of the regiment will contain the names of all men recruited, died, discharged, etc., so as to be a complete and full record of the regiment. They will be evidence of muster-in and proper organization.

Advance bounty will be paid by United States mustering officers, when companies are completed and their rolls prepared so that payment can be entered on them.

Company officers will not be mustered in until their companies are organized, and the field and staff not until the regiment is organized. The muster-in of each man will be from the date of enlistment, and he will be discharged at the expiration of the period for which he is mustered in.

One second Lieutenant for each company will be appointed at the commencement of the organization, and will be immediately mustered into the United States service. On completion of the company, the additional officers will be commissioned and mustered. These regiments must be completed before the 7th day of February, 1865, in order that they may be credited on the pending call.

Military committees of counties will please recommend recruiting officers immediately, and have them report here in person to receive their commissions and instructions and be mustered into service. It is suggested that selections for these positions be made, as far as practicable, from the officers and soldiers who have served faithfully in the field, and been honorably discharged.

The field officers will, in all cases, be selected from veteran officers of known skill and experience in the field, and who shall prove active in recruiting these regiments. No one need apply for appointment to a field office who has not had at least two years' active service in the field during the present war.

The time for recruiting these regiments is short, and it is therefore necessary that immediate action be taken by local committees and others to organize in the various sub-districts, to encourage and stimulate recruiting.

All recruits under this order will rendezvous at Camp Chase, near this city, where the new regiments will be organized and equipped.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL OF OHIO,

FOR THE YEAR 1864.

MADE TO THE

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF OHIO,

22.—Ex. Doc.—PART II.

REPORT OF THE QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL.

QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, O., Nov. 15, 1864.

To His Excellency JOHN BROUGH, Governor of Ohio:

I have the honor herewith to submit the annual report of the transactions of this department for the year ending Nov. 15, 1864.

The business of this office may be appropriately classed as follows, viz:

Ordinance, Transportation, and Ordinance Cash Account and Sanitary Department, the operations of which I submit in the order named.

ORDNANCE.

In addition to the amount of ordnance and ordnance stores on hand Nov. 15, 1863, as appears by the report of that date, there have been received from the United States, to apply upon the quota of arms due, and to become due the State of Ohio, under the act of April 23, 1808, the articles enumerated in Abstract A; and have been purchased, the articles enumerated in Abstract B.

The artillery was manufactured by Mr. Miles Greenwood of Cincinnati, and Messrs. Younglove, DeWitt & Co. of Cleveland; the former manufacturing the guns, and the latter the carriages, caissons, forges and battery wagons, and furnishing equipments complete. The harness was made by Messrs. Moores & Co. of Cincinnati. It is proper to state here that each of these parties, in the execution of their respective contracts with the State, not only exhibited a commendable public spirit in their readiness to serve the State in a time of supposed public danger, to the neglect or interruption of their regular business, but furnished the State four six gun batteries complete, which in point of workmanship and material, are in the opinion of experienced artillery officers, who have examined them, equal if not superior to any now in the service. The horses were purchased in open market under the supervision of a careful and experienced judge of horses.

The accoutrements mentioned in Abstract B were necessary to complete the equipments of the guns owned by the State, and to put them in a condition to issue to the National Guard. They were purchased of Messrs. Schuyler, Hartley & Graham of New York, they being the lowest bidders among several parties bidding for the contract.

On the 2d of May, acting under your Excellency's instructions, I proceeded to take up from such organizations of the National Guard, as were to leave the State for service, the arms and accoutrements in their hands and received from them the stores mentioned in Abstract C, from which it appears that 13,315 arms, and substantially their corresponding accoutrements were taken up. The commanding officer of each company respectively named, is credited on the books of this office, with the number of arms and accoutrements by him turned over, and his bonds to the State to that extent cancelled.

The labor attending this duty, under the circumstances connected with its performance, was somewhat difficult, and seemed almost impossible to accomplish. Some of the men who reported at the places of rendezvous took their arms with them, not knowing whether they were to be armed by the United States, while others left their arms at home. Many companies reporting for duty were not complete, and the men reporting took only a corresponding number of arms with them, while the balance of arms in the hands of the entire company, and with which the captain is charged, were left at home. These facts taken in connection with the number of camps of rendezvous, and the necessity for prompt action, will show the difficulty and uncertainty of gathering in all the arms then outstanding.

But by the employment of all the aid at my command the work was accomplished in a manner exceeding my expectations, and as the table shows to a degree of success almost complete. This, in a great measure, was owing to the high sense of obligation entertained by the National Guard to safely keep, and scrupulously account for, all public property in their hands; and affords a sure index of, and gratifying commentary upon the integrity and patriotism of the men composing the Guard. A small number of arms left at home by companies, were permitted to remain in the local arsenals, upon the assurance received by me from military committees that they would be safe and properly cared for during the absence of the men.

The arms thus received, were during the absence of the National Guard, nearly all overhauled and put in complete order for reissue. Many of them, owing to injuries received in transportation, and other causes, required much labor in their repair, while all needed more or less renovation; but each musket taken up, and every article of accoutrements received, were so far as time permitted thoroughly examined and repaired, and put in perfect order, and were in all respects as efficient as when new.

ISSUE OF ARMS.

Prior to May 2d arms and military stores had been regularly issued to the National Guard under General Orders No. 10, May 4th, 1863, and in all cases upon requisitions made by the commandants of companies, approved by your Excellency, and upon bonds executed by company com-mandants, with sureties, the sufficiency of which was certified to by the Judge of Probate of the county in which each company was respectively located. The issues under this order were regular, and up to the day mentioned, numbered 14,873 muskets and accoutrements complete.

On the 2d day of May I received the following order:

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS, STATE OF OHIO,
ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, May 2, 1864.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 17.

On account of the pressing emergency at present existing, for the prompt and speedy arming of the National Guard, the Quartermaster General is hereby authorized to issue arms to regiments, battalions and companies of the Guard, and the receipt of the commandant of the regiment, battalion or company shall be considered a good and sufficient voucher.

By order of the Governor:

B. R. COWEN,
Adjutant-General of Ohio.

Acting under this order, I issued arms to such unarmed regiments of the National Guard as were expected to remain for service in the State, during the term of one hundred days for which they were called into service; while the balance of the State troops, comprising the greater part of the National Guard, were for this service armed by the United States.

Upon the expiration of this term of service, the State arms then outstanding were taken up and thoroughly repaired, so far as time and the appropriation permitted.

Although the same pressing emergency existing at the date of General Orders No. 17 did not exist upon the return of the one hundred days' men, yet an emergency equally urgent, if not more critical, demanded the speedy arming of these returning minute men. Subsequent developments have shown that evil disposed men in our State had combined in large numbers to embarrass the Government by civil commotion.

Acting under your Excellency's verbal commands, and construing this order as continuing authority, I spared no efforts to place in the hands of the returning National Guards arms and accoutrements complete; and nearly all of the organizations, before they left their muster-out camps for home, were re-armed, and carried with them the only effectual arguments for rebels or their cowardly sympathizers.

Such organizations as were not armed at camp were supplied as speedily as the means of transportation permitted; and in all these issues I merely required the receipts of the commanding officers. The result of this speedy mode of issuing arms, in disregard of the usual rule for disbursing the military stores of the State, as provided in General Orders No. 10, demonstrated the expediency and wisdom of the course adopted; for it is not saying too much to assert that the peace and good order of the State then secured, and now existing, were in no small degree attributed to the fact that the National Guard had returned with arms in their hands and ammunition in their cartridge-boxes, with which they were ready, and, if necessary, anxious, to shoot down the miscreants who, taking advantage of their absence from home, had plotted schemes for the destruction of their domestic quiet, and the overthrow of law and order in the State. And I trust that I may be permitted to congratulate your Excellency that the means adopted by you to ferret out the plans of these men, and the prompt measures taken to foil them in their infamous purposes, resulted so successfully, not only in securing immunity to these men from the just consequences which would have certainly followed any demonstration on their part to carry into effect their wicked purposes, (for which defeat of their plans they should, above all things, be grateful), but saved and secured to our State the inestimable blessings of peace and good order, for which she stands pre-eminent among the States.

In more recent issues of arms I have required the company commandants to make regular requisitions for them, and to enter into the customary bonds for their safe keeping, in accordance with the terms of General Orders No. 10. This I have done, for the reasons that the necessity for a speedy issue of more arms had passed, and the State should have the additional security which the bond affords for the safety and proper care of the arms issued. Being thus convinced of the importance of such obligations in protecting the property of the State, I am now procuring from the organizations which were armed under General Orders No. 17 bonds in place of the receipts heretofore given by the officers in command.

Abstract D gives a complete list of the arms and other property issued to the National Guard during the year under General Orders No. 10; and Abstract E the arms and other property issued under General Orders No. 17; from which it will appear that 23,656 arms and accoutrements complete have been issued during the year. Abstract F gives the amount of ordnance stores sold during the year, and to whom sold. Abstract G shows the amount of ordnance stores lost and expended in the service during the year. These stores are duly accounted for by the officers in command.

A reference to the report of the Superintendent of the Arsenal, hereto attached, and marked Abstract H, will show in detail the amount of labor performed at the Armory connected with the Arsenal.

Abstract I shows the amount of ordnance, ordnance stores, and other property belonging to the State, on hand at the close of the year.

There are now on hand 4,656 muskets, which, for want of repair, are not in condition for issue; but can, by comparatively small expense, be made serviceable. At the commencement of the year an appropriation was obtained for the repair of arms, the amount of which was based upon the amount then supposed to be necessary to put in repair all the unserviceable arms then on hand, and not anticipating the extra labor in renovating the arms turned over by the National Guard.

By reason of this extra work, the appropriation has become exhausted, leaving these arms still unrepaired. I deem it expedient that a sum sufficient to place them in a condition for issue be appropriated by the Legislature at its approaching session; otherwise this number of arms will be so much useless property in the hands of the State, and for the further reason that the arms are needed for immediate issue to the National Guard.

• IMPROVEMENTS AT ARSENAL.

In March I advertised for proposals for completing the Arsenal wall, and awarded the contract to Mr. E. Hall, of Columbus, he being the lowest bidder therefor. The contract was performed by him in a satisfactory manner, and the Arsenal is now surrounded by a very substantial and permanent wall.

The contract for the erection of artillery sheds at the Arsenal was awarded to Messrs. Dunn & Stacey, of Cincinnati, they being the lowest bidders for the job. The work has been much delayed, owing to the inability of the contractors to procure the corrugated iron for the roof; but the work is now in progress, and will soon be completed, and will then be of great service in the protection of the artillery and other property belonging to the State.

When the estimate was submitted upon which the appropriation for this purpose was made, it was designed to erect two sheds; but, owing to the unforeseen and extravagant advance in the price of iron, I was able, from the appropriation at my disposal, to erect only one shed. This shed, however, in my opinion, is ample for all the immediate wants of the State.

Expenditures for excavating, grading, sewerage, etc., have also been made from the general appropriation for the improvement of Arsenal grounds, the amount of which will appear in the financial part of this report. I propose to complete the improvement of the Arsenal grounds, by hanging suitable iron gates, when the Arsenal and its surroundings will form a substantial and convenient repository for the State arms, and be creditable to the State.

I would respectfully call the attention of your Excellency to the fact that the State Arsenal has been used and occupied by the United States conjointly with the State for the storage of United States property for the past three years, and would suggest the query, whether, in an equitable adjustment of mutual liabilities between the State and General Government, a reasonable allowance should not be made to the State for such use of its property?

For the safe keeping of the military stores belonging to the State in the hands of the National Guards some general and efficient plan should be provided for by the Legislature. In most localities where military organizations exist no arsenals are provided for the keeping of arms; and the men are either obliged to rent some temporary place wherein to store their arms, or each man must carry his gun home. In the former case the building is generally insecure, and in all respects an unsuitable place in which to keep such property; while the latter course is objectionable on account of the risk of injuries to the arms and loss of the different articles which make up the soldier's accoutrements, and for the further reason that the men are exposed to the temptation of using their arms and other property in their hands for purposes other than those for which they are intended. It would seem that for public property so intrinsically valuable, and procured at such heavy expense, suitable and proper means should be adopted for its preservation. The value of ordnance property now owned by the State may be safely stated in round numbers at $400,000.

The history of the State, in years past, in this particular, affords an argument unanswerable in favor of the importance and necessity of some plan whereby the arms of the State shall be preserved. Of the quite large amount of arms and equipments which have been turned over to the State by the United States, from year to year, prior to 1861, to apply on its quota of arms due, and to become due, under the act of 1808, nearly all have become lost and destroyed, or rendered entirely unserviceable from neglect. This was an utter and needless loss to the State.

Another argument in favor of providing suitable means for the protection of State arms consists in the fact that such provision would greatly stimulate a healthy military spirit among the men, by the inculcation of the idea that the State, in providing for a general system of military organization, means to make it earnest and efficient in all its parts. Another reason is found in the disinclination manifested by company commandants to become responsible for the property which is issued to them. They claim, and with some reason, that they should not be held responsible for this property unless means for its safe custody are placed at their disposal.

Unless something is done by the State in this behalf, it is to be feared that the officers will decline to be responsible for the arms which they received, or, entering into formal obligations, will endeavor to shield themselves from liability by claiming that they made use of all means for the care of the property with which the State provided them.

For the present, and for how long in the future it is impossible to anticipate, the military organization of the State is, and is to continue, of importance to the people second to no other interest; and it behooves the State not only to make it efficient, but by a judicious expenditure of money, to make it economical.

I am not prepared to submit any definite plan by which the object named can be secured, but some plan should be adopted whereby, in com-venient localities, arsenals shall be built, wherein the arms and other military stores belonging to the State can be safely kept.

I would respectfully call the attention of your Excellency to the repeated requests made by the Cavalry organizations in the State to be armed and equipped. These organizations were formed with the assurance, from the State authorities in power at the time of their formation, that they should be provided by the State with suitable equipments; and they have kept up their organizations with the hope that they may yet be armed and equipped.

The State has no Cavalry arms or equipments. It is no more than just to the men composing this arm of the forces of the State, that the subject of arming them be disposed of by the Legislature, by making an appropriation for the purchase of Cavalry equipments, or, by refusing to do so, relieve the men from the suspense under which they now rest. I submit an estimate of the probable cost of one set of equipments, viz.:

1 Set Horse equipments, complete	$35 00
1 Carbine	35 00
1 Sabre, with belt and plate	7 50
1 Carbine sling and cartridge-box	4 50

Total cost per set $82 00

I am unable to give an opinion as to the number of companies it may be expedient to arm and equip.

TRANSPORTATION.

The business of this department shows an increase upon that of the previous year, owing no doubt to the fact that the advantages of the system have become more generally known to those entitled to its benefits, and to increased facilities afforded in procuring them.

The sale of State transportation has been confined strictly to enlisted men in going to their homes, and upon their return to the army, discharged soldiers, and to the friends of soldiers in the army, who visit them to minister to their wants. I am not aware of a single instance wherein any person has obtained this reduced transportation who was not, by the arrangement existing between the State and the different Railroad Companies, entitled to it. The benefit of this system to Ohio soldiers is important and valuable; not only in the amount of money saved to them, but in the conviction that their State kindly cares for them, and in this particular, as in all other respects, exercises a vigilant supervision over the interests and welfare of her representatives in the army of the Union. To all the railroads in the State, and to many prominent lines out of the State, are due the gratitude of the men who receive the benefits of this reduced rate of transportation, and the recognition by the State of the good faith in which these corporations have performed their obligations, voluntarily entered into by them with the State. It is hoped that the system, with its many advantages, will continue so long as the state of things which called it into operation shall exist. All of the local State agents are kept constantly supplied with tickets; and Ohio men who are entitled to it, are promptly furnished with this transportation.

I have required from the several agents weekly reports of their sales, and corresponding remittances of money received by them. All soldiers discharged by reason of expiration of term of service, are required to pay Government rates for transportation furnished them, which they are enabled to do, as they receive an allowance therefor on their discharge.

Abstract AA, exhibits the amount of transportation sold in this office, and by the several State agents, from the 11th day of January to the close of the fiscal year, and the amounts received from different sources for transportation previously sold; showing an aggregate of cash received for transportation amounting to $78,067.01—all of which, except $3,000 in U. S. one-year certificates, not yet due, has, as will appear by the same table, been regularly certified into the State Treasury to the credit of the transportation fund.

DISBURSEMENTS FOR TRANSPORTATION AND OTHER PURPOSES.

By reference to Abstract BB, it will appear that the sum of $65,213.42 has been paid to the different railroad companies on account of regular State transportation furnished by them, leaving a balance to the credit of the transportation account at this date of $28,086.51.

This exhibit also gives the amount which has already been paid on account of transportation of National Guard, for their subsistence prior to their muster into the service of the United States, and the sum—up to this date—paid the commissioned officers of the National Guard, for the time intervening between the day they reported for duty and the date of their muster into the service of the United States.

This duty of paying the officers of the National Guard for the time specified, was devolved upon the State by reason of a construction given by U. S. Paymasters to the order received by them, to pay the National Guard for their one hundred days' service; they holding that, under such order, they were not authorized to pay the officers for the time previous to their muster into the U. S. service; while, under the same order, they did pay the non-commissioned officers and privates for the whole time, from date of call to date of muster out, including commutation of transportation to their homes.

The amounts yet remaining unpaid to the officers of the National Guard, and for the subsistence and transportation of the troops, it is now impossible for me to state with accuracy, for the reason that the accounts have not yet been presented for payment; but from the best information at my command, I think that $50,000 will cover the amount now outstanding on these accounts. This estimate does not include payments yet to be made the Batteries of the National Guard that have been on duty at Camp Denison, which will amount to about $10,000.

The same table exhibits the amounts of different appropriations which have been used in the transactions of this office, the amounts drawn from each, and the balance still remaining in the Treasury to the credit of each appropriation. This table shows that the sum of $424,853.96, has been drawn from the Treasury upon vouchers passing through this office. The same table, under its appropriate head, exhibits the sums drawn from the Contingent Fund, and the purposes to which they were applied.

ORDNANCE CASH ACCOUNT.

Abstract CC, shows the amount of cash received for ordnance stores sold; also cash refunded the State, and the disposition made of the sums received. The same table gives a recapitulation of the whole amounts of cash received by me from all sources, and corresponding credits by payments into the State Treasury.

Abstract DD, shows the amounts drawn from the U. S., and the objects for which the several sums were drawn. These amounts still remain unsettled.

Abstract EE, shows the amount and cost of all ordnance and ordnance property purchased by the State during the year; showing, in the recapitulation appended to the table, a total of $151,312.15 expended.

Abstract FF, exhibits the quantity of ammunition turned over to the State by the United States, to apply on its quota of arms, &c., under the law of 1808, with its value in money; for which amount the State is charged, to apply on such quota.

Abstract GG, contains the accounts unpaid on file in this office, with the appropriations from which they are payable. There yet remains unpaid, on accounts already on file in this office, the sum of $9,419.90, due the several railroad companies named for transportation of militia, in their general muster of 1863. The appropriation for the payment of these claims is nearly exhausted; and to cancel these claims, and provide for claims of this class yet possibly outstanding, I would respectfully recommend an appropriation of $10,000.

Abstract HH, furnishes a statement of amounts due the State, as appears by the books of this office.

The indebtedness of J. H. Dickerson and E. F. Abbott, Assistant Quartermasters-General in 1861, should be placed in process of adjustment. I understand that each party claims that no liability exists from him to the State; but that the money with which they respectively stand charged upon the books of this office, is money which they received in the transaction of their official duties, which they claim to apply upon their official salary, the amount of which salary being the only subject-matter of dispute between them and the State. They claim that they were entitled to pay according to their official rank; while the claim on the part of the State has been, that each should settle for the money intrusted to him by the State, and pay over the balance in his hands and make his claim for services through the regular and proper channel for such accounts.

If their pay according to rank is allowed, their claim upon the State would cancel the sums with which each is charged. The matter, in my opinion, should be referred to the law officer of the State Government for his action.

The claim against the Muskingum county Agricultural Society, is for lumber sold to it by the State in 1862. The claim is in process of adjustment, and will, I think, soon be paid. The claims against the States of Wisconsin, Missouri and New York, are for transportation furnished their soldiers prior to June, 1862. I have made efforts to collect the several amounts, but as yet without success.

Abstract II, furnishes a consolidated statement of all disbursements made through this office during the year.

SANITARY DEPARTMENT.

No inconsiderable portion of the labor of this office has been devoted to the collection and forwarding sanitary supplies to our soldiers in hospitals, and elsewhere in want, and no one duty has been more cheerefully performed.

Very many of the Aid Societies in the State have been liberal in their contributions for this object, and have earnestly co-operated in the plan devised by your Excellency, to provide for the care and comfort of Ohio men, in contributions made by citizens of Ohio.

Constant communication has been kept up with each of the Ohio Military State Agencies, to ascertain the wants of our soldiers at their several stations, and within their care and supervision, and information has been daily received from them concerning the same; and it has been my pleasure, so far as the contributions placed at my disposal by the Aid Societies of the State permitted, to supply every want; and failing in these, I have, through the sums which your Excellency has directed me to expend for this purpose, been successful in keeping our Agents quite constantly and fully supplied with such articles of delicacies, clothing and other comforts, for distribution among the men placed under their care, as were for the most part needed to meet the demands upon them. Occasionally the vicissitudes of war have suddenly placed within the special care of an Agent a large number of men whose demands upon him for aid would exceed the supplies he had on hand ; but the more immediate wants of our soldiers would in such cases be relieved by them from the contingent fund, with which the Agents have been constantly supplied by your Excellency, and this office immediately notified by the Agent that supplies were needed ; and in all cases I have been able, from the daily receipts of sanitary stores, to send such articles as have been necessary to meet the demand. Again, in anticipation of extraordinary demands for stores at any point, I have been able, from these contributions, to provide for emergencies, by the accumulation of stores at such points. In all cases I have freely, and without reserve, made known to the Societies who have been regular contributors to the soldiers through the State sanitary organization, the wants of our men, and in all cases have they responded promptly and nobly.

In many instances their contributions have been made direct to the Military Agents. This has been done at my suggestion, when occasions have arisen demanding immediate relief, and thereby the time expended in sending the articles to this point, and then transshipping here, has been saved. Of these contributions, large in number and quantity, and of great value not only in money, but of incalculable value to the suffering soldiers, I have no record in my office. The Agents have been instructed in all such cases, to keep a record of all contributions received by them direct from the donors, and to promptly acknowledge the same.

A large amount of valuable property has been received from Soldiers' Aid Societies, numbering nearly one hundred ; all of which have been regular in their consignments, and ever ready to respond to urgent calls upon them for aid.

The details of the transactions in this department and the amount of property contributed, with the names of the organizations and individuals contributing, are made the subject of a separate communication to your Excellency.

It is worthy of mention that some of the railroad companies in the States have transported sanitary stores free from charge, while others have done so at reduced rates. The different express companies have exhibited a commendable spirit in their willingness to facilitate the forwarding of supplies, and in most cases at rates below their ordinary charges.

From the success that has attended the efforts already made to secure the comfort and provide for the wants of Ohio soldiers, by the proper collection, and direct distribution of the contributions of the people of the State, it is manifest to any one at all conversant with the plan, that in no way can these objects be more surely and satisfactorily accomplished than by the one now in successful operation. I am not aware of a single instance wherein any contributions have failed to reach the soldiers ; and the uniform testimony of the Agents employed in their distribution, and heartly expressions of gratitude given by the recipients of these bounties, fully confirm my conviction, that no better use can be made of the contributions hereafter made by the citizens of the State, than to place them at the disposal of your Excellency.

Although it has not been so successful as desirable in commanding the co-operation of all the Aid Societies in the State, yet the vast amount of good accomplished by this comparatively small amount of contributions, demonstrates not only the practicability of the system, but its utility and wisdom. There are many reasons in its favor, among which these may be stated: The people of Ohio are bound by the most sacred obligations to provide for the comfort of her soldiers, and to relieve their wants. Although they are engaged in fighting the battles of our common country, yet they are still citizens of Ohio; here are their homes, their families, and friends, and they naturally turn to them for support in their trials and dangers, and have a right to demand their aid in their sufferings and sorrows. The Ohio boy, as he leaves his native or adopted State to take his place in the ranks of the grand Union army, has a right to rely upon the protecting care of Ohio citizens, as the child, in leaving his father's roof to buffet the ordeal of life, has a right, when adversity overtakes him, to call upon his parent for aid. "If we provide not for our own, and specially for them of our own house, we have denied the faith, and are worse than infidels."

Again, the great benefit conferred upon the soldier in a distant hospital by the simple fact that he is the object of love and care of friends at home, affords a potent reason in favor of the system now in operation. None but such as have witnessed the effect produced upon the worn, sick and wounded man, away from home and its hallowed endearments, by the visit of an Ohio agent who goes direct from the soldier's home to sympathize with him in his sufferings and minister to his wants, can appreciate the great advantages and blessings of this direct communication between them. It imparts new life and renewed hope, and rallies as if by magic the languishing energies of the suffering man, and he springs again into new life, stimulated by the inspiring memories of home and home friends. The effect is wonderful, and I have no doubt that by these kindly ministrations hundreds of lives have been saved to their country and the dear ones at home.

Again, the advantages of this system in point of economy are worthy of consideration. By it the entire contributions of our people, whether in money or property, are saved to the soldiers. There are no expenses attending the distribution of the articles, by which the fund is reduced, no salaried agents or employees, who must receive their support from the donations of the people; but the entire sum of the contributions is devoted to those for whom they are intended by the contributors.

These are among the considerations which commend the system now in operation to the favorable consideration and earnest support of the people of Ohio. By it the wants of our soldiers have been substantially, and, if cordially and fully adopted, can be entirely provided for.

And let it not be said that, by this special care of our own men, the neglect of soldiers of other States is inculcated, or such an idea tolerated for a moment. The needy soldier, whose wants are unprovided for by his own State, is never neglected by our agents, but is as much the object of care and alleviation as are our own men. But it is the duty of agents to see to it, that Ohio men are cared for, and that the wants of no soldier go unsupplied.

I submit reports of some of the State Agents, from which much of the operations in this particular as well as in regard to their general duties may be seen ; and I must be permitted to express the hope, that measures will be immediately adopted by our people, to make the State Sanitary organization more general and efficient in its operations, by the organization of societies whose chief object shall be to provide for every Ohio soldier ; and by thus using the munificent donations of a generous people, not only make ample provision for this paramount duty, but enable the State authorities to do their full share in the more general duty of ministering to the wants of others.

The zealous and generous action which has thus far honored our patriotic women, by whose devotion and consecration to this purpose so much has been done, will, by the use of this channel of appropriation and distribution of their contributions in the future, not only secure the complete and constant care of our own men, but enable us to join hands with other States in a general effort to secure the comfort of every Union soldier.

I cannot forbear to recognize the efficiency of the State Agents in their constant and unremitting labors for the welfare of our men, and their zealous co-operation with me in all efforts to alleviate the sufferings of our soldiers, and minister to their necessities. In this, as well as in all matters pertaining to their office, they have fully performed their several duties.

I have thus, in a comprehensive form, furnished your Excellency with the transactions of this office since I assumed the discharge of its duties, and, whatever of credit attaches to their performance, in a great measure, is due to the ability, fidelity and industry of the men at the head of the various departments of business which have devolved upon me, whose hours of daily labor have only ended with the discharge of each day's duties.

With sincere thanks to your Excellency for the uniform kindness and forbearance with which I have been favored, and for the ever-ready counsel which I have freely sought and received at your hands, I submit my report.

Very respectfully,

MERRILL BARLOW,
Quartermaster-General of Ohio.

ABSTRACT "H."

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF ARSENAL.

OHIO STATE ARSENAL, Nov. 15, 1864.

Brig. Gen. Merrill Barlow, Quartermaster-General of Ohio:

SIR,—In obedience to orders, I herewith hand you a statement, in detail, of the number and kind of arms repaired, cleaned, and fitted for service in this department, together with parts repaired and supplied, from Nov. 15th, 1863, to Nov. 15th, 1864.

The mechanical department of the Armory is in good working condition, and the skill there employed is of the highest order, so that any part wanted, can be supplied at the shortest notice.

There have been six hundred and twenty-seven (627) guns made serviceable during the past year, from those reported as irreparable, Nov. 15, 1863. These arms required a great amount of labor to fit them for service; nevertheless, they are cheap arms, having been turned over to the State, by the United States, free from cost.

The arms remaining on hand for cleaning and repairs, are quite rusty, being those turned over to you by the National Guard, at the time of their being called into the United States service for one hundred days.

The arms repaired and cleaned have been securely packed in cases of twenty each. The large amount of lumber used was necessary for making arm-chests, as the arms received at the different camps in the State were in bulk, and without boxes; and as it is impossible to keep arms in good condition unless packed, this expenditure is deemed judicious.

The following arms have been well cleaned and oiled, and securely packed since Nov. 15, 1863:

U. S. rifle muskets, model '42, calibre .69	1,581
“ smooth-bore muskets, model '42, calibre .69	800

TRUSTEE'S REPORT.

To His Excellency John Brough, Governor of Ohio:

The Trustees of the Central Ohio Lunatic Asylum herewith present their Twenty-sixth Annual Report of this Institution, being the ninth under the present administration.

The health of the household has been unusually good, there having been a less number of deaths than for any one year for the past twenty.

For the details of the working of the Institution, and the results, in restoration of health and intellect of some, the improved condition of others, and the large and constant ministration of comfort to all, and the judicious and economical management of the finances, we refer to the full, clear and satisfactory Report of the Superintendent and Steward, herewith transmitted.

In addition to the usual tabulation of statistics for the year, there will be foucd a summary for the twenty-six years, constituting the complete history of the Institution. This grand total represents a summing of blessings that numbers may not compute. Of the four thousand three hundred received during that period, about two thousand three hundred have been recovered from their woful malady and restored to their places in the family and society; many more have been greatly improved, and others kindly cared for until released from the thraldom of earthly woe. May not a State register these among her noblest works? Will not their softer light and gentler glow mingle in beauty with the bright colors of her victories emblazoned upon so many well fought battle-fields?

The products of the farm and garden amount to about $4,500, at current prices. One of these products—Sorghum—might be largely increased if the quantity of our land would admit of its culture. It is respectfully suggested that a lot of ground containing about eleven acres, within a short distance of the asylum, belonging to the State, be devoted to the purposes of this Institution, under the direction of our Steward. The amount of labor that could be performed by patients, not only compatible with, but largely conducive to their improvement and recovery, would be sufficient to cultivate this land profitably.

The repairs and improvements of the past year, planned and completed, are quite extensive, and were urgently needed. But a portion of these remain unfinished, on account of withdrawal of resources that had heretofore been allowed to the Institution, and no compensation being made for this diminution in our means by an increase of appropriations from the treasury. These incidental means we had for years been accustomed to use and account for as all other appropriations, in accordance with a precedent, so far sanctioned by the Legislature, as a refusal to change the order could authenticate it. The other State asylums have been the recipients of like favors, and for the five years preceding the present, the Blind and Deaf and Dumb have each received larger amounts than this—the Blind nearly double. During the early part of the present year the prospective amount from these sources was increased from means of industry and economy within ourselves. Authorized by a precedent unquestioned for years, we applied it to the urgent and palpable wants of the Institution. The result in that portion of the building where the repairs were completed need only be compared with the condition of the west wing, in all its stories, where the work was arrested for the want of these accustomed means, to satisfy the candid of the propriety and necessity of our course. The east wing, rapidly decaying and yielding in its flooring, plastering, water-closets and plumbing, is now in a state of good repair. The west wing might have been put in as good condition without any additional draft on the Treasury, but is to-day in a state almost untenable.

We have directed an estimate to be made of the amount required to so repair this part of the house, that we shall not be compelled to vacate it, upon any sudden failure of its water-closets and heating arrangements. With some material on hand for the floors, and some lead for the plumbing, about $2,500 would meet this urgent want. We recommend an early special appropriation for this purpose.

We ask a special attention of the Legislature to the remarks of the Superintendent on the subject of Finances. The curtailment of our means for the year, the great reduction of supplies usually on hand at this time, the large number of wants unsupplied, and repairs unfinished, the increased prices of all articles needed in the Institution, demand a prompt, candid and liberal attention to this subject.

The estimates for the year 1865, as presented by the Superintendent, will, we believe, fall short of the wants of the Asylum. Our reasons for this opinion are, that until lately we have not paid full "war prices" but for a few articles, and only for the past six months. But the husbanded stores that prevented this are now exhausted, the highest prices are now demanded, many deferred wants are pressing, and nothing but the direct appropriation from the Treasury can meet the want. Only about one-fourth more is asked for the current expenses, while one-half more will not more than meet the advance in all prices. We leave it to the wisdom of the Legislature, whether the improvements in the rear of the central building shall be completed. Their completion will increase the capacity of the Asylum about one-fifth, and remedy some defects in the construction of the house.

The question of increase of salaries grows out of the peculiarities of the times. The general subject will no doubt be presented. Our failure to secure the services of a second Assistant Physician, the increase of wages which we are compelled to allow to some of our more skilled employees, impress us with the necessity if not the justice of this measure.

In our last report we asked the attention of the Legislature to the increasing wants of the incurable insane. We repeat, that the humane policy of the State is incomplete without some provision for meeting this growing demand. It already embarrasses the prompt care of the curable, and will still more interfere. We would again respectfully urge the appointment of a competent commission to collect facts for their future use, upon which to base intelligent action.

The Board bear cheerful and grateful testimony to the energy and faithfulness with which the Superintendent and all the officers have discharged their duty to the State in their several relations to this Institution. The cordial and efficient coöperation of all the attendants and employees has contributed largely to the benign results, for which they deserve well of the State.

At the annual meeting of our Board the President presented the letter of resignation of Dr. Hills as Superintendent, and of Mrs. Hills as Matron, to take effect on the 8th of November. The inducements presented were such as to warrant the change. The Trustees of the new Institution for West Virginia, just about to open their Asylum, offered these flattering inducements. Their gain will be our loss. We feel that we can say with truth, Dr. Hills has done the State good service. For more than eight years he has labored zealously, perseveringly, and most successfully and acceptably for the success of the Institution in all its high and noble objects. The results that attest this faithfulness are seen in the numerous improvements that mark the house, the grounds, the conservatory, the library, the means of amusement and occupation for patients, the extensive and complete renewal and greater perfection in all the machinery for heating the building, and carrying on all the various departments of labor, each bearing its appropriate share, to the great end of bringing order and quiet out of the mental chaos around him. In all these labors and trials Mrs. Hills bore an active, sustaining, coöperating part.

The Board make this just mention of faithful services, and tender to them their high appreciation of their value, with a sincere wish that even fuller success may attend them in the new field to which they have gone.

At the same meeting the Board appointed Dr. Wm. H. Morrell, at present First Assistant Physician, Superintendent pro tem., and Dr. W L. Peck, of Circleville, as Superintendent, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Dr. R. Hills, to enter upon duty on the 1st of January, 1865, when he shall have made a visit to some of the leading Lunatic Asylums of the country. Our knowledge of Dr. Peck, and the testimonials to his professional standing, high moral character and business capacity, warrant us in the assurance that he will faithfully discharge the important duties of the office to which he has been appointed.

Respectfully submitted,

S. M. SMITH, President,

OF THE TABLES.

The preceding tables contain many matters of much interest, as giving the results of twenty-six years' experience. Those results must gratify the humanitarian and the true statesman. The tables need no special comment, as they tell their own story, and we pass to the consideration of other matters.

HEALTH OF THE ASYLUM.

This has been remarkably good during the year, no epidemic prevailing, and the number of deaths less than in any other of the last twenty years. In only four of the other years have they been less, since the Asylum was opened.

INDUSTRIAL OPERATIONS.

The usual industrial labors have been pursued with, at least, ordinary diligence and success. The productions of the garden and farm have exceeded all expectation, and in many instances exceeded our wants, or capability of consumption. We present the usual table of products, with their market value, though many are not named that have added to our enjoyment :

PRODUCTS OF FARM AND GARDEN.

Pork, 5,259 lbs., at $6.50 per hundred	$341 83
Hay, 8 tons, at $20 per ton	160 00
Potatoes, 1,811 bushels, at $1.00 per bushel	1,818 00

Strawberries, 8 bushels, at $5.00 per bushel	40 00
Currants, 52 " at 2.00 "	104 00
Gooseberries, 15 " at 2.00 "	30 00
Lettuce, radishes, squashes, celery, asparagus, pie-plant, hops, sage, artichokes, etc., all that was desired	100 00
Sorghum syrup, 120 gallons, at $1.00	120 00
Currant wine, 40 " at 3.00	120 00

Large stores have been put up of pickles of all kinds, including 45 barrels of cucumbers, varieties of catchup, jellies, jams, etc.; also fresh tomatoes, in sealed cans, 195 gallons; currants (green), 90 gallons; currants (ripe), 35 gallons; gooseberries, 41 gallons; grapes (some green and some ripe), 49 gallons; also other fruits and vegetables for more than a year's supply.

The raising of the sorghum and making syrup was an experiment, and the result justifies the conclusion that a mill and evaporator should be owned by the institution, and that the entire amount of syrup needed for the year can be produced. The syrup has been purchased and largely used in the asylum during the last two or three years, and the patients have acquired a taste for it, by which they prefer it to the Southern cane syrups.

Should more territory be needed for this purpose, I would suggest, for temporary use, obtaining the privilege of occupying a piece of ground belonging to the State, consisting of several acres, about a half mile east of the asylum grounds. But for permanent occupancy and use, the State should purchase, so soon as practicable, the lot of about fifteen acres, lying upon the east of the asylum grounds, adjoining them, and extending to the street next east of it. There are very many important reasons why this lot of land should be secured by the State, independent of more ground being needed for cultivation. If not soon purchased, it will be occupied as city lots, with the rear of the lots, their out-buildings, and other annoying appurtenances, in our close proximity.

SUPPLIES TO THE ARMY.

From our abundance, considerable quantities have been sent to the army, sometimes directly and sometimes through the Sanitary and Christian Commissions and Ladies' Aid Societies. For the same destination, surplus supplies are stored away, to be sent when emergent calls are made; among which are at least half of over forty barrels of splendid cucumber pickles on hand this day.

OF REPAIRS, ETC.

Except in the early part of the fiscal year very little has been done in making repairs. The cause is very distinctly set forth in the next section, and a subsequent one under the head of "Our Finances." About all that could be done was to repair and adjust two of the boilers, and place in position, with its several attachments, a new steam-pump, put a soft-water tank in the tower, and readjust the water heaters. These, with a few others of minor importance, were all that could be done with the means afforded us.

OUR IMPROVEMENTS OF LAST YEAR.

The improvements and repairs in progress at the period of the last report, were carried to the extent of the resources at command, and were very important and necessary. They were so extensive as to call forth a resolution of inquiry as to the source supplying the means, and the authority for their expenditure. A prompt and explicit answer was rendered, but was not given the publicity that the implied nature of the inquiry seemed to demand.

From the origin of the institution to the present day, certain sums of money were derived from other sources than the Treasury of State, or by taxation. These sums have usually been small, and been applied to the purposes of the institution without especial reference to legislative enactments. In the last few years these sums, thus derived, have increased in most of the benevolent institutions of the State; and some three years since, an effort was made in the Legislature to require them to be paid into the State Treasury, and to be drawn and used only under appropriations of the Legislature. This was, however, rejected, and the only inference that could be drawn therefrom, was, that no objection existed to the prevailing practice. The Legislature of last winter seemed to believe that this action was an innovation of ours; but the error of this opinion will be seen at once by the following extracts from the report of the Comptroller of the Treasury for 1863. The following paragraphs will be found on page sixth, as repeated from his report of 1862:

"The principal resource of the benevolent institutions is, as is well known, the public treasury. There is, however, in some instances, no inconsiderable amount derived from other sources.

"But whether a large or small sum is so received annually—since the law fully contemplates a showing of the entire public revenue and disbursements—the propriety of the payment of it into the Treasury, subject to draft by authority, and upon proper vouchers, is a question entitled to some consideration."

And then on page 41 will be found the following Statement showing the amount of money derived by the various Benevolent Institutions from other sources than appropriations by the Legislature.

	5,238 12	4,351 86	3,985 47	4,898 99	9,402 70	27,877 14

That this practice was no innovation of ours, is here clearly shown.

The amount thus obtained from other sources than the pockets of our own people, for the fiscal year 1863 being about $3,000, and in the early part of the year 1864 a still larger sum, earned and mostly collected, enabled us to make the repairs and improvements that were most vital to the institution. Some were completed, and others got well under way, and candid inspection will prove their importance and the necessity of the early completion of those unfinished. The condition of the floors, plastering, but more especially the plumbing on the west side, is disgraceful. Had not the policy been changed, and our outside resources been taken from us by the Legislature, we should have put the west wing, by this date, into as complete repair as the east wing had been, without a dollar therefor being taken from the treasury. It must now be done at considerable cost, and done speedily, or the whole wing will be untenable.

The finishing of the central improvement in such manner as to secure the construction of a new central staircase, and abandonment of the old and dangerous one, is imperative.

The heating apparatus has been got into tolerably fair condition, that is, at its heart, or the localities for generating steam. The arrangements for distribution through the building are very defective and cannot be right until there is a thorough overhauling of them, and a complete system of forced ventilation adopted in connection. We have said so much, however, on this subject, and so often, during the last nine years, that it is needless to say more now.

OUR WEST VIRGINIA PATIENTS.

An enactment of the Legislature of the 23d of March last required all moneys derived from pay patients to be paid into the Treasury of the State to the credit of the General revenue. This, of course, cut off the means of their support, and made the institution practically a source of revenue to the State. This compelled us to make other arrangements for them, and not wishing to send them home, and thereby interrupt the feeling of comity which led to their being first received, negotiations were opened which ended in their transfer, on the 20th of June, to Longview Asylum, where the moneys received for their keeping would not be diverted.

EFFECT OF THE REBELLION ON INSANITY.

Has insanity been increased by our civil wars and commotions? Common expectation would prompt an affirmative answer. But I must concur with those superintendents whose remarks I have seen on this subject in saying it has not. I have prepared the following table of admissions from forty-two of the eighty-eight counties of the State of Ohio for the past seven years, three and a half being before the war, and three and a half since—the point of time dividing the period being May 1, 1861.

Table of admissions in the last seven years, three and a half being before the war and the remainder since.

	Males.	Females.	Average.
The decrease of percentage.....	18.89	18.06	18.31

These figures very clearly indicate the facts in the case. It might be thought that the number would be less from a portion of the male population having entered the army. But all who become insane in the army are returned to their homes, and are then sent to the asylums. But if there were less of male population, the female portion is not reduced, and yet there is scarcely a shade of difference in the reduction of the number of admissions in the two sexes. The cases of insanity occurring have not been kept out of the asylums more than usual, in this State; but on the contrary, if any difference, they have been more promptly brought than heretofore, the asylums being free and with open doors, while in many instances there is less ability to take care of the cases at home. Popular opinion upon the causes of insanity would decide that there should be an increase of insanity, especially with females, from the anxieties and cares incident to separation from companions, husbands, sons, brothers, lovers, &c., and the grief and increased responsibilities from so many of these props and dear ones never returning to their homes. The truth is, these popular opinions upon the subject of insanity and its causes are errors. They are the inferences taken from isolated cases, and not from the mass, of whom little is known. It is more frequently from lack of mental activity, resulting from limited education, narrow and contrated views of the world, with few themes of thought, and inability, from want of cultivation, to grasp the entire scope of any particular subject, that insanity ensues. Exercise and use of the faculties of the mind are just as necessary for its healthy tone and proper balance, as exercise and use of the muscular system for a healthy condition of the body. The condition of the country has aroused into energetic action the mental faculties of all our people. There is more thought, more reflection, more study, more practical information acquired, more knowledge of geography, of the workings of State and National Government, and, of course, of military organizations. The knowledge obtained is also more universally applied. There is more active energy in the various industrial departments. Those at home of the male population may be said to perform double duty, doing the tasks of those in the field as well as their own. The activity of the female population, in both the mental and physical departments is especially increased. Nearly all are engaged in doing something to increase the comforts, or supply the necessities, of the dear ones whose lives are periled for them. Many have entered new departments of industry, to supply the places of males, and very many others are compelled to take the places of husbands, or brothers, in maintaining their families, providing for their wants, and not only labor more, but attend to such unaccustomed matters as those of finance, keeping books and accounts, buying, selling, receipting, &c. This diversity of employment, and more constant exercise, give greater vigor and tone to the mind, and enable it better to bear the shocks of grief, and the wear and tear of anxious cares and responsibilities. The great law of mental and corporeal health is ACTION. energetic and diversified employment of mind and of body. Hence, strange as it may sound, this war, by its various compulsions, is incidentally reducing insanity in the land, imparting wide-spread practical information, and giving to our younger population increased mental tone and vigor, that may tell even upon future generations. Yet if it be God's will, let it be soon ended.

OF THE CHRONIC INSANE.

I feel it to be my duty again to call attention to the proper care of the chronic insane. As last year's report was not printed and placed in the hands of the members of the Legislature until the very day of adjournment its suggestions could, of course receive no consideration. I fear that a mere reference to it now would avail little, and hence the propriety of being more full at this time, referring to that nevertheless.

The investigations of another year fully sustain the statements in last report of the numbers of the chronic insane in the State, and the inadequate provision made for their proper treatment and keeping. There are certainly not less than one thousand in the State that should be provided for, in addition to those in the asylums.

The project of a Farm Home or "Hamlet Home for the Chronic Insane," presented in the last report, is again urged upon the proper authorities as the most suitable provision for this class. The following is an abstract of what is there proposed :

1st. Procuring a farm with 500 acres, near a railroad, with good building stone, water and fuel.

2d. The erection of two buildings, one for each sex, for, perhaps, one hundred each, and admitting these two hundred promptly.

3d. Adding annually other buildings, and promptly receiving the patients until the maximum number was provided for. These buildings to be clustered in village style, each with its yard and other surroundings.

4th. The first attention should be given to the health, comfort and happiness of these patients, and the next to developing their industrial powers and capabilities, with the combined object of health, happiness and self-support.

5th. The establishment to be officered with a Board of Trustees, Superintendent, Assistants, Steward and Matron, as the asylums are.

6th. When this institution has grown to the extent that prudence or experience dictates, another of like character to be started elsewhere.

7th. The designation to be "Farm Home for the Insane," or, in view of the village style of building suggested, "Hamlet Home for the Chronic Insane."

I have been confirmed in my opinion of the feasibility and propriety of the above project, not only by farther reflection, but by consultation with those who have much to do with the insane, as physicians, probate judges, infirmary directors, etc., who, so far as consulted, have been uniformly in its favor.

In the American Journal of the Medical Sciences, for October, 1864, in a review of our last report, written by Dr. Pliny Earle, I am happy to find the following remarks. First, after detailing some of the existing laws of our State, and their excellent results, he says: "It is very clear that, in the present condition of things, when, perhaps, no State has hospital accommodations for one half the insane within its jurisdiction, the Ohio system effects the greatest amount of good, both pecuniary and humanitarian. We have hoped, in years past, that the benevolent enterprise of erecting hospitals would be pursued with an ever increasing zeal, until every person, with disordered mental powers, would be able to find a place in an institution especially prepared for the benefit of those who are so afflicted. But the great national convulsion which begun in 1861, has, for the present, destroyed that hope. Under these circumstances we freely acknowledge that the Ohio system appears to us to be the best which has hitherto been devised in America."

Then, after giving a synopsis of my proposed plan for care of the chronic insane, he says: "We have always opposed asylums for the incurable insane, believing the plan now pursued by our hospitals, generally, as far the best. But as such hospitals for all the insane are now apparently out of the question, we should rejoice to see the plan of Dr. Hills put upon trial."

Though the national convulsion may have crushed the writer's hope of largely multiplied asylums, yet I apprehend that it has added but little to the certainty of their inadequacy previously existing; as investigation will show that the disparity between the number of the insane and the asylum capacity had been constantly increasing.

The feasibility of making such an institution nearly self-supporting, I do not hesitate to affirm. There is a very general misunderstanding as to the common condition of the incurable or chronic insane. The ordinary opinion is that the violent, boisterous and more unmanageable are the incurables, and that the quiet and orderly ones are the curables. Whereas the facts, as a rule, are the very opposite. It depends, of course, much upon the character of the insanity; but, ordinarily, if there be violent, boisterous and troublesome conduct, it is in the early stage of the case, and if incurability follows, the patient drops into quiet dementia, or, as popularly understood, idiocy. I venture to assert that in all institutions for the insane, the workers will be found to be mostly from the incurable class, and the smallest proportion from the curable. When trained to any duty the incurable is very steady and persistent in it, while the curable works but for a comparative short period, during convalescence, and being often unwilling to work for any but himself. Such, at least, is the result of our observation in this institution. Among the males, one patient, some fifteen years insane, has for several winters wheeled nearly all the coal consumed, about 35,000 bushels per annum. One has for many years aided in the wash-room, wheeling out and hanging upon the lines nearly all the clothing, unaided, and when dry returning them to the house, and sending them, by dumb-waiter, to the ironing room. One, some twenty years insane, has bound all the shoes and slippers manufactured in the shoe shop, for the past eight years, being a fast workman, and not satisfied unless at work. Two or three, from ten to fifteen years insane, are regular workers about the barn, feeding stock, teaming, etc. And thus it is all around, with female as well as male patients, and I doubt not it is about so with other institutions. The greatest amount of work, however, among the males, is in the gardening and agricultural departments. Hence the propriety of a wide field for operation in this direction. Such a community could raise all vegetables needed for consumption, with a large surplus for the market, and with stock of all kinds, cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, etc., could be furnished with meat, butter, milk and cheese; grain could be raised for bread as well as for stock; flax and hemp for cloth and ropes; wool for flannel and blankets; all of which might be manufactured. Many of the lighter trades and manufactures could be carried on, as making of brooms and baskets, boots and shoes, clothing, tin-ware and furniture, such as bedsteads, tables, stands, bureaus, chairs, etc.

Fruits and flowers could be cultivated, and surplus sold; also seeds of all kinds, medicinal herbs, and, indeed, there is no end to the simple and easy channels in which their industrial habits may not be led by proper, systematic effort, with suitable encouragements, simple rewards, etc.

That which has been done elsewhere, can certainly be done in America. In an asylum, visited in the Duchy of Nassau, on the Rhine, in 1862, quite a number of females were found spinning flax on old fashioned little wheels, while others were weaving, and several hundred yards of the best of linen were on the grass, being bleached. All the table, bed and body linen used in the institution, was thus manufactured by the patients, mostly incurable, and, probably, a large surplus for sale.

In an asylum at York, in England, the male patients—incurable again, mostly—manufactured not only all the clothing and boots and shoes of the institution, but by contract supplied the pauper inmates of the poor-houses of the county. They had just completed some improvements at the period of my visit, costing over five thousand dollars, with the profits solely of some of these contracts during the preceding year. But the most perfect example of an institution truly self-supporting is one in France, a private one, having over one thousand patients, near the village of Clermont, in the Department of Oise, and about fifty miles north of the city of Paris. The best account published of this institution may be found in the 18th and 21st numbers, vol. V. of the American Medical Times, contained in a letter from Prof. Chas. A. Lee, who visited that institution in 1862.

Although the State is provided with four well-appointed asylums for near 1,000 patients, yet, while there are from 1,000 to 1,500 more found in the county infirmaries and jails of the State, some in chains, others in cells, in straw and filth, in dirt and with vermin, half fed and half clothed; not all of them, it is true, but vastly too many, I cannot resist dwelling thus long upon this subject and appealing to the human sympathies of our law-givers in their behalf. Should Ohio step forward and provide for the chronic insane in the manner suggested, or in any other manner to attain the same great end, she will achieve a greater glory than for any humanitarian policy ever heretofore adopted. In thus appealing, I only give expression, as it were, to more than a thousand voices that come up from the wretched abodes of as many human beings, who are, like ourselves, except in their misfortunes, helpless and powerless to aid themselves.

If it be thought that I am traveling out of the record in dwelling on this subject, I can only say, God help the man who confines his feelings, his thoughts and his efforts to the narrow boundaries of his immediate surroundings.

THE CONVICT INSANE.

It may not be out of place to mention in this report that the convict insane of this State have finally been properly provided for by the construction of an asylum, or infirmary, for that class within the inclosing walls of the Penitentiary. In my opinion, where there is abundant room, as in this instance, and at the same time opportunity, as exists here, to obtain professional counsel of those connected with the specialty, this is the best arrangement that can be made for this class. A former statute of Ohio, whether obsolete now I know not, provided for professional attendance upon this class by the Superintendent of this institution, as often as might be needed, in conjunction with the physician to the Penitentiary. Should this law be now obsolete, it ought to be revised, for this class, no less than others similarly afflicted, should have the benefit, when practicable, of professional counsel experienced in the specialty.

OF OUR FINANCES.

I am happy to report that notwithstanding the unfavorable circumstances in which we have been placed during the past year by the withdrawal of a portion of our resources, and by the constant increase in cost of all articles of consumption, as food, fuel and wearing apparel, we have maintained our usual numbers, (having had, indeed, an average daily number of ten more than during the previous year,) have made certain repairs that were absolutely necessary, and to-day very nearly "make both ends meet," leaving unpaid only a portion of the employees for the last month, and a few other small bills. At the same time I may add, with some degree of pride, that we have contributed also something to the Treasury of State, to the credit of the general revenue, to aid in bearing the other heavy burthens of State expenditure.

This success has resulted from a variety of causes, some of which it may be proper to mention. In the first place, by the most rigid economy in every department of expenditure, deferring the purchase of any supply in quantity beyond the necessities of the fiscal year, thus foregoing the laying in of supplies that prudence often dictates, for periods in advance; the vacation of one of the halls for several months, and crowding the patients into the remaining halls, reducing, of course, the number of attendants; and doing so still farther by having but one attendant in halls where there should be two; reducing the number of employees, generally, to the lowest possible minimum; dismissing the druggist and visitors' attendant; the foreman in the shoe shop, and one of the outdoor hands; deferring the demands of employees for increase of wages to correspond with advance in prices, and increase of wages elsewhere; reduction of the dietary arrangements by withholding, to some extent, the tea, coffee and sugars throughout the household; withdrawing, for a period, butter from all the tables at noon; reducing, to some extent, the consumption of meats, confining the food, in a greater degree, to the vegetables of our own production; almost entirely withholding cheese, etc., etc. A very considerable reduction of expenditure has also been made by calling more frequently than usual upon the friends of patients to supply them with clothing.

The economy, falsely so called, in the dietary department, was extended to the officers' table, as well as those of the patients and employees. The results upon the patients in their convalescence and recovery, may be read, I fear, in the tabular statements at the beginning of this report, where the number of recoveries will be found to be only ninety-three. In no other of the past eight years has there been less than one hundred recoveries. All Superintendents concur in the statement that the insane need the most generous diet that can be procured, as a general rule, having, of course, its exceptions. It may be proper to add, that having now passed the period of restriction, the dietary arrangements, dictated by judgment and duty, rather than by dollars and cents, will be resumed.

The following is a statement of the receipts and disbursements for the fiscal year 1864, the details of which will be found in the Steward's report:

RESOURCES OF THE PAST YEAR.

Balance on hand, Nov. 1, 1863	$425 01
Appropriations of Legislature.....	46,000 00
From U. S. Government, for keeping insane rebels.	1,105 25
From U. S. Government, for keeping insane soldiers.	347 25
From West Virginia, for keeping their insane from Nov. 1, 1863, to March 23, 1864.....	1,482 64
From soldiers' hospitals, for washing	612 00
From the Steward's usual sales.....	403 22
Total of resources	$50,375 37

EXPENSES OF THE FISCAL YEAR.

Expended by the Steward.....	$50,375 37
Indebtedness, mostly to employees	733 76
	$51,109 13
Due to the State from U. S. Government for keeping insane soldiers.....	$350 00
Paid into the Treasury of State received from pay patients since March 23, 1864.....	846 83
	$1,196 83

It will be seen that although there is a nominal indebtedness of $733 76, yet the dues to the Asylum and the amount earned by it and paid into the State State Treasury, balance the account and would leave a surplus of $463 07. It is respectfully submitted, whether this sum paid into the Treasury, having been earned by the Institution, ought not to be promptly re-appropriated to meet this deficiency.

ESTIMATES FOR FISCAL YEAR 1865.

It is utterly impossible to maintain the Institution with anything like former sums of money and keep the same number of patients; and as all resources, otherwise than from appropriations made from the Treasury, are now cut off by the act of last March, increased appropriations will be needed imperatively.

The lowest estimate that can be made is :

For general current expenses and repairs.....	$60,000
For officers' salaries (if not increased).....	2,800
For Chaplain.....	200
For finishing up repairs and improvements.....	10,000

The latter item is essential to put the house in a safe, comfortable, and finished condition, and when done it will comfortably accommodate three hundred patients.

OF SALARIES.

The salaries of the principal officers are shamefully low. As I am just retiring from my position, and therefore personally disinterested, I throw off all reserve and speak plainly my honest sentiments. Some twenty years ago, the salary of Superintendent was $1,500. Retrenchment reduced it first to $1,200, and then to $1,000, and there it stands at present, though an effort was made in the Legislature, at the time of the last reduction, to make it $800! It is needless to speak of the qualifications and acquirements that this meagre sum is expected to command. Almost any stripling of a youth can step into a mercantile or other business establishment and command a greater sum.

The Assistant Physicians have been retrenched from the low salary of $600 to $500, with no distinction between senior and junior. The junior position has been vacant for many months, and rejected by several to whom the place has been offered, because the inducements were insufficient.

The Steward has also had his salary retrenched from $600 to $500. This officer has the disbursement of all the monies of the Institution, some $40,000 to $60,000 per annum, and makes all the purchases and bargains. It is well that he is thoroughly honest, considering that he is in a position to make or lose for the State thousands of dollars annually, and receiving but $500 per annum, a sum now commanded by the commonest hod-carrier.

The Matron's salary of $300 has, by some special interposition, never been molested, though the effort was not wanting.

It is needless to discuss the propriety of increasing these salaries. In the first place, I would urge that the power of fixing the salaries be given to the Board of Trustees, whose intimate knowledge of the duties required, and qualifications of incumbents, makes them the proper judges of what the salaries should be. If this be not given, the Legislature should give the Superintendent $2,000, the Senior Assistant Physician $800, the Junior $600, the Steward $800, and the Matron $400. The Chaplain should also be paid $400, the aggregate being $5,000, just the sum paid the Superintendent alone in California, his being in gold.

OF THE CHAPLAIN.

The absurdity of calling any one in an Institution "Moral Instructor," is too obvious to those who know his true relations to the Institution to need comment. He should by all means be termed the Chaplain, and should, besides his Sabbath duty, be required to perform a daily duty, and be adequately paid therefor. The sum above suggested would be very moderate.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

To the editors and publishers of newspapers and periodicals we must give our annual thanks for their highly esteemed favors. To the officers of the State Agricultural Fair, to several concert companies, proprietors of numerous panoramas, the Bohemian Glass-Blowers, the genial Captain Williams, the old whaler, are we especially indebted.

To the several employees of the Institution, through whose agency the details of our operations are accomplished, are our acknowledgments due for general faithfulness in the performance of duties often times severe and disagreeable.

Our beloved Chaplain, Rev. D. A. Randall, has been ever faithful in a post that he has now acceptably filled for about twelve years. His excellent report accompanies my own.

The Assistant Physician, Dr. Morrell, deserves especial mention and commendation for most faithful and satisfactory performance of duties that have been greater than they should have been at all periods of the past year, and for the last few months especially burthensome.

Of the Steward, Mr. C. A. Barker, it is needless to speak to you or those who know him as well. Suffice it to say that he is always on duty, faithfully, perseveringly, honestly, and conscientiously endeavoring to secure the greatest economy and prudence in the management of our finances. In these respects the State has no officer in any position more successful.

As the Matron is my wife, it becomes me only to say that, in taking her from the Institution, a vacancy will be felt, the extent of which may be expressed by others.

OUR RESIGNATION.

Having been called to another field of duty, though in the same speciality, under circumstances that make me feel that it is my duty as well as pleasure to accept it, and of which your Board has had due notice, I am now, in closing this report, performing my last official duty to this Institution. Our ties and attachments here are not thus sundered without a severe mental struggle, and in the full conviction that these ties and attachments to patients, to employees, to associate officers, and to the several members of your Board, are sincerely mutual, I can only say, in the language of many a recovered patient on leaving its portals, "God bless the Old Asylum!"

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT

To the Superintendent of the Central Ohio Lunatic Asylum :

Having been permitted by the kind providence of God to perform, during another year, the duties of Moral Instructor in the Institution under your care, I improve the opportunity now afforded, to present a brief annual report of this department of labor.

The usual religious services have been regularly conducted during the year. These consist of preaching in the chapel on Sunday afternoon, evening prayers in the chapel on Tuesday and Friday evenings of each week, attendance on funerals, and such visits among the patients in the wards as circumstances may demand.

The beneficial effects of these services no one doubts who has had even limited opportunities of observation, while the quiet that usually characterizes our chapel exercises, and the interest manifested in them by the patients, are often a source of surprise to spectators. The opportunities of benefitting patients by the more immediate spiritual duties of the clergyman, to be sure, are limited, and yet there are cases occasionally occurring in which great good may be accomplished.

Among convalescent patients are often those whose derangement has been the result of moral obliquity, and as reason resumes her throne, the warnings and admonitions of a faithful Christian instructor may often be of great service; while with many others, in the brief lucid intervals they may enjoy, or during the period of their convalescence, tempted to yield to despondency and discouragement, they may be directed to the great fountain of consolation and hope, and thus encouraged and strengthened, their recovery may be materially aided.

Again, when the poor victim of an incurable malady sinks down to the silent chambers of death, how often in the hour of dissolution the spirit triumphs over the dissolving clay, and reason, ere all is cold and still, resumes her throne. Where is the one who, had he a parent, a child, a brother or a sister, or even a common friend, far from home and kindred, thus sinking down to death, would not wish some kind and suitable attendant nigh, ready to improve any favorable moment to confirm a wavering faith, strengthen a glimmering hope, point to a better world, or catch the last parting words, and bear to bereaved ones the last dying message? In such a place, and at such an hour, the Christian minister may find occasion for the higher duties of his calling. Whatever may be the unhappy consequences of religious fanaticism, it cannot be denied that true religion is a great controller of the life and regulator of the mind.

I am aware that to many the employment of a moral instructor for the insane appears like a useless waste of time and means. They look upon such an office as a mere sinecure, absorbing the money of the State, and rendering no equivalent. But of this, I repeat what I have before said, that no one influenced by religious principles, or actuated by Christian sympathy, or acquainted with the mechanism of man's moral nature, can come in contact with this most deeply afflicted portion of community, can move among them and become acquainted with the workings of their minds—their hopes and fears, joys and sorrows—and not discover that there are often causes operating to produce these sad results; that there are remedial agencies often needed for their removal; no mere physician's skill touches; no mere physical appliances can ever reach.

Man has a moral as well as a physical and intellectual nature. Deeply seated in his constitution, implanted by the hand of his Creator, interwoven in his intellectual organization, are those moral elements that form one of his distinguishing characteristics: that ally him to high and holy intelligences. Insanity so far from eradicating this moral sense, often only perverts it, or arouses it to intense and fearful activity, producing acute or distorted views of moral obligations and moral relations. For this reason, in treating the insane, the physician as often finds it necessary to apply the moral as the physical remedy. Thus in every well-regulated institution of this kind, the judicious use of appropriate moral remedies have been more and more called into requisition, as the nature of insanity, and the means of restoration have been better understood.

The public interment of the dead, with appropriate religious exercises, which was commenced several years ago, still continues, and yet we have been called to attend but two or three of these funerals during the year. The reason is not that the aggregate of deaths differs materially from former years, but in the fact that fewer interments have taken place in the asylum cemetery. Several reasons may be assigned for this: The first is found in the fact that as other institutions have been established in other parts of the State, the territory from which this institution is supplied has been greatly diminished, and deceased patients being nearer their homes and friends, could the more readily be removed for interment. This removal of deceased patients has also been greatly facilitated by the construction of railroads and telegraphs, opening quick communication, a ready and easy access to friends and relatives. To this also may be added another, viz.: the efforts that have been made to make the institution as much as possible a refuge for those whose derangement has been of recent occurrence. This brings most cases of mortality among those who are more recently from their homes, and their friends have consequently felt a greater anxiety to have their remains repose among them. To all this may still be added your own kind and persevering efforts to notify the friends of deceased patients, and affording such friends all facilities in your power to remove the dead to their homes.

The melodeon furnished us some years since, has continued to add greatly to the interest of our chapel exercises. For the music that has so much cheered and soothed our patients, I may again express our obligation to Mrs. Ely, whose services in this department have been truly valuable. And in alluding to this, allow me to express the gratification I have felt at the uniform kindness by which I have ever been received by all in the institution, and my deep regret that these pleasant interviews, so far as the superintendent and his family are concerned, are about to cease. The pleasant social and religious privileges we have for more than eight years enjoyed together, will continue to awaken happy remembrances while memory continues her office. To yourself, Mrs. Hills, and Mr. Ely, I feel that all in the institution owe a deep debt of gratitude, for the kind, faithful, and efficient manner in which your numerous and complicated duties have ever been discharged; and our regrets at parting are only diminished by the thought that a sister institution will enjoy the cheerful presence, and kind and constant attentions that have been so faithfully bestowed on this.

That a kind Providence may continue to smile on this institution, upon the one to which you go, and upon yourself and family, will be the constant prayer of myself and all the numerous household you leave behind you.

To His Excellency John Brough, Governor of the State of Ohio :

As required by law, the Trustees of the Institution for the education of the Deaf and Dumb respectfully present this their annual report.

During the year now closed, those who have managed its immediate affairs have given good evidence of their ability and fidelity in discharging the varied and onerous duties which have devolved upon them.

The general deportment and marked improvement of the pupils is evidence of the parental care, efficient discipline, and moral and religious influences of their teachers: thus securing, as a reward for the beneficence of the State, not perfect amelioration of the condition of that unfortunate class, but such a degree as to render them comparatively happy in themselves and useful in society.

The Trustees take pleasure in saying, that among the subordinates in the Institution, the utmost unanimity and efficiency of effort has marked the discharge of their several duties.

The one hundred and fifty pupils now in attendance constitute a greater number than can be well accommodated in the present building. This fact, in connection with that of the dilapidated condition of the main edifice, and the additional and more potent one, that there is a large number of this unfortunate class of youth in the State who are not and cannot now be provided for, induced the Legislature, at its last session, to institute measures for securing all requisite accommodations, by authorizing the commencement of the erection of a new building for that purpose: thus giving additional evidence of the enlightened and liberal policy, and benevolent disposition of both legislators and the great body of the people of this commonwealth. The corner-stone of this new structure was laid with appropriate ceremonies on the 31st of October, and when completed, in accordance with the plans submitted by the architect, it will stand a lasting monument of the kind care of the people for the unfortunate, and of wisdom in the dispensing of public charity. The lamentable truth, that at this moment there are, probably, twelve hundred and fifty deaf mutes in this State, seems to be more generally understood and appreciated. One-half of these are probably under twelve or over twenty years of age, and therefore not within the prescribed educational limits. If we deduct twenty per cent. from the whole number, comprising those who have been educated, or who for various reasons are incompetent to receive instruction, we shall still have at least three hundred and fifty who are proper subjects for the Institution, and are or ought to be within its walls; therefore the Trustees felicitate the people of the State that accommodations for them are now in course of construction, and we trust that a work so opportunely and nobly begun will be vigorously prosecuted to early completion.

The people of Ohio may and ought to feel a just pride in the high moral and religious character of the teachers and many of the pupils of this Institution. This element in all its past history, even from the first dawning of its existence under the late Rev. Dr. Hoge, to the present moment, has, in the judgment of the Trustees, been the basis upon which its past and present distinguished usefulness has depended, and upon which, under God, it must continue to depend for increased usefulness.

The extent to which pupils have been able to acquire mechanical knowledge has been limited to the simple branch of shoe-making, in which such proficiency has been made as to warrant the introduction of other branches as soon as suitable accommodations can be furnished for that purpose. By this means they can, before leaving the fostering care of the State, secure both an education and a means of sustenance. Then, with minds enlightened and habits of industry formed, they can enter upon the stern realities of life, prepared for usefulness to themselves and to the community.

The Trustees respectfully repeat the suggestions contained in their last annual report, relative to salaries.

By reference to sums paid for like services in New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Washington and Indiana, it will be found that the average salary paid in ordinary times to Superintendents is $2,000, and the maximum to teachers $1,520 per annum, while by the law of this State, the amount in both cases is fixed at $1,000. That this discrepancy has deprived this Institution of valuable services, is evidenced by the fact that all kindred Asylums, with one exception in the west, and that one in the east, have been furnished with Superintendents from here. While we regret the cause of this, the people of Ohio may congratulate themselves upon the fact that their own cherished Institution has furnished and sent forth, broadcast, such able and accomplished teachers.

In addition to the above, it is hardly necessary that the Trustees should urge another, and, at this time, equitable and just reason, patent to all, for an increase of salaries, consisting in the largely increased cost of sustenance to every class of persons employed in the Institution. Therefore, to meet the foregoing, and the increased cost of all articles of consumption, and of whatever enters into the wants of the Institution, it is manifestly proper that the Trustees should ask for the following appropriations, viz:

For salaries.....	$11,000
Less appropriation 1st quarter	2,000
		$9,000
For general expenses	18,000
Less appropriation 1st quarter.....	3,000
		15,000
		$24,000

The following changes of teachers have occurred during the year: George W. Chase left the Institution, and C. S. Zorbaugh has been appointed in his place; Edward C. Stone resigned, and F. A. Rising fills the vacancy. With the present force of teachers and attendants, the Trustees feel sanguine of entire success during their continuance at the Institution. A cursory glance at the history of this Institution, from its early day of "small things" to its present commanding position among those of our country, and at the history of the development of our noble State in all that appertains to its true greatness—the rapid strides of its agricultural, mineral, manufacturing and commercial development, and consequent increase of wealth; the moral and religious influences exerted through the instrumentalities of its common schools, academies, colleges, seminaries, and the pulpit; the work of genuine public benevolence in securing ample provisions for the unfortunate—the Lunatic, the Blind and the Dumb, furnishing ample and sure reward to moral worth and honest industry, irrespective of blood or lineage—cannot fail to fill the mind of every true patriot and philanthropist with gratitude to the Giver of all good, for the inestimable blessings which, as citizens—American citizens—the people of this State are permitted to enjoy; and it is not the least cause of gratitude that God, in His good providence, has disposed the hearts of this people to so freely bestow of their well earned substance, so timely and efficiently, for such just, noble and worthy purposes; and who that is honest with himself, and true to the noblest instincts of our nature, and can appreciate the true interests of his country, but would give the weight of his influence, in whatever measure or capacity, to the continuance of a work so opportunely begun, until every child of misfortune within our borders shall secure the end sought to be accomplished by the benefactions of the State.

The accompanying reports of the Superintendent, Physician and Steward, exhibit in detail the several matters in charge of each.

Respectfully submitted,

On behalf of the Board,

KENT JARVIS.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Board of Trustees :

GENTLEMEN : Another year of labor in behalf of the Institution under your care having closed, it becomes my duty to inform you of such facts as have affected its interests, or are connected with its continued usefulness. In some respects the record of this period does not differ materially from that of many years which have preceded it. But even ordinary prosperity becomes special when contrasted with the condition of similar Institutions in some portions of our country, whose efficiency has been completely arrested by the political conflicts around them. Quiet progress has characterized our work, and the thirty-eighth year of the history of the Institution closes with increased evidence of the Divine favor resting upon it, and of its being a blessing indeed to those for whom it has been established.

The number of pupils has been limited for many years to one hundred and fifty, and it is only as vacancies occur that new ones can be received. As reported last year, the number of applications is greatly in excess of the vacancies. The new class for September, 1865, is nearly full : and most of the applicants after this date must wait until a year from that time before they can commence their education. The general rule for receiving is the order of application. As an exception, however, it seems just to give a preference to those who by delay will have passed beyond the educational bounds prescribed by law. The number under instruction during the year ending October 31st, is one hundred and eighty-nine. Of these, one hundred and twelve are males, and seventy-seven females. The corresponding number of vacancies and admissions has been thirty-nine.

The general health of our large family has been good, the cases of serious illness having been very few. The only fatal one has been that of Bailey Guard, a member of the first class, who, near the close of his sixth term, went to his home in Hamilton county in an enfeebled state, and died in a few days—the first of three in a worthy and deeply afflicted family.

In the domestic department no changes have occurred in the corps of officers. I would bear cheerful testimony to their efficiency and co-operation. In the various departments of such an Institution as this, there are anxieties and labors unseen by the public, that are, none the less, indispensable elements of whatsoever success is secured.

Two changes have occurred in the department of instruction. Mr. Geo. W. Chase, a former pupil and a teacher for seven years, has left, and Mr. C. S. Zorbaugh supplies his place. Mr. Franklin A. Rising, a recent graduate of Williams College, Massachusetts, fills the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Edward C. Stone, who, after teaching here two years with great acceptance, is performing corresponding labor in the American Asylum at Hartford. Thus have we been called again to sacrifice, for the good of others, the results of experience here acquired. I am compelled to express to you the fear that other sacrifices, occasioning more serious detriment to our work, will follow, unless necessary measures be taken to prevent.

The peculiarity of the labor in schools of this character, the methods of instruction, so different from those in ordinary teaching, and the difficulties to be overcome, cannot, from the very nature of the case, be appreciated without thorough examination, such as none give for the sake of information or the gratifying of curiosity. Years of patient acquisition and experience in giving instruction are essential conditions of success; and only as these fundamental conditions have been met, is a teacher advanced to a higher position in the school. Every speaking gentleman who has received an appointment for many years, has been of liberal education, a graduate of some one of the first colleges in the country, prepared to assume the highest duties known to our common school system, but not prepared for the unique process of instruction here. By faithful devotion to it, such have become well qualified to meet the demands incident to their position. But no sooner has their peculiar fitness been developed, than it has been discovered by other States for whom this has been a normal school for twenty years. The law has been, preparation and service here; experience and service elsewhere. Eight of the States of the Union, containing four-elevenths of the Institutions of the country, have been established or partly maintained by drafts on this one. Another call is now made, and should it be accepted—which depends in a great degree on what inducements are offered to prevent it—this Asylum will have lost, within sixteen months, an aggregate of thirty-one years of training within its walls.

It should be distinctly understood that when a vacancy occurs in the corps of speaking teachers, the only way in which it can be filled is by training a new man. Experienced instructors cannot be obtained. While we would rejoice in the good accomplished by labor performed elsewhere, of which we should have the advantage, it is easy to see that we are exposed to a most serious danger. After nearly two score years of planning and maturing; after making liberal provision in every other direction, it is certainly a great misfortune that the end sought should, in a great measure, be defeated by our failure to retain the very agents we had trained to secure the grand result.

It was mentioned in the last report that the trade of shoe-making had been recently introduced. Labor in this department has been continued during the year by the boys of the two highest classes; and the fact has been illustrated that such employment is not at all inconsistent with intellectual progress, while it is a most important preparation for self-support. The introduction of other trades, and the employment of all the pupils, is an end most desirable; and the Institution will not have attained the full measure of its usefulness until that period arrives.

Our proximity to Western Pennsylvania and Virginia has induced applications from those sections. Some of them have been pressing, and it has seemed almost inconsistent with the professed benevolent character of our Asylum to reject them; especially those coming from a region where calamities, from which we have been free, have added disappointment to misfortune by closing the only local door of hope to its deaf mutes; but to receive them would be inconsistent with that charity which begins at home: and so long as children of our own State are necessarily excluded, it will doubtless be recognized as just to limit our field to the boundaries of our commonwealth.

It is gratifying to discover the increasing interest of the citizens of the State in the work here accomplished. It is one of the advantages of the present location, that it renders it feasible for so many to gratify a commendable curiosity, or to form intelligent judgment of what can be accomplished for deaf mutes, by personal inspection. Five thousand visits have been made within the year, and the conviction is continually deepened that there is no burden—if indeed it can be justly so called—borne more cheerfully by the people of the State than that of its benevolent enterprises.

The record of this one would be incomplete without special mention of what has been received at the hands of the present Legislature. The friendly visits made by a large portion of its members, their manifest appreciation of the work, their thorough examination into the necessities of the Institution, and their corresponding action, have given a promise of usefulness never before attainable. At their bidding, an exhibition of the methods and results of instruction was held in the Representatives' Hall on the evening of the tenth of January.

The present members of the school, the equal number who are of proper age but excluded from it, those who soon will be old enough to enter, and the friends of these, in common with every one who rejoices in increased facilities for improvement and happiness, have occasion for special gratitude, because of the passage of a bill, by the House on the first, and by the Senate on the eighteenth of March, for the erection of a new building for the deaf and dumb. It was, after careful examination and recommendation by the Finance and Benevolent Committees of both branches, that the measure proposed was found necessary and practicable. So fully did their conclusion meet the approval of the entire body, that the bill passed without a single negative vote. It is worthy of inquiry whether, in the history of our State legislation, so important and noble a step was ever taken with equal unanimity. We cannot doubt that the people of the commonwealth cheerfully endorse an undertaking so just and benevolent.

The bill provides for a brick building, "to be of plain and substantial construction, having special reference to adaptation and proper economy for the convenient and suitable accommodation of three hundred and fifty pupils and necessary officers and servants." This act also empowers the Governor to carry out its provisions.

With the advice of the Committees on Benevolent Institutions, the Governor adopted a ground plan by J. M. Blackburn, Esq., who was appointed to execute it. The ground was broken on the 30th of June (1864), in the rear of the present building. Excavation and laying of foundation have been continued until the present date.

On the thirty-first of October the corner stone was laid, in the presence of the school and a large number of citizens, by Lieutenant-Governor Chas. Anderson. The exercises were of a deeply interesting character. Part of them were held on the grounds in the afternoon, and the remainder in the city in the evening. The following is the order of the former :

1. Introductory address by J. H. Coulter, M.D., President of the Board of Trustees.
2. Prayer by Rev. E. D. Morris, D.D.
3. Reading of list of articles in the box to be deposited in the stone.
4. Depositing of the box, laying of the stone, and address by Gov. Anderson.
5. Address to the pupils in the sign language by Mr. G. L. Weed, Jr., Superintendent of the Institution.
6. Prayer in the sign language by M. G. Raffington, a deaf mute teacher.
7. Benediction.

The evening exercises were held in the Second Presbyterian Church, where a large and select audience occupied the floor, and the deaf mutes the side galleries, while the pupils of the Blind Asylum filled the choir, adding much to the interest of the occasion by the use of those musical talents which their companions in affliction cannot possess. Kent Jarvis, Esq., a Trustee of the Institution, presided. Interesting letters were read from Bishop G. T. Bedell, A. F. Perry, Esq., and Hon. Bellamy Storer, who had been invited to take part in the exercises. Hon. Chauncey N. Olds sketched, in an impressive manner, historic incidents connected with the beginning and growth of the Institution, illustrating what a work it has accomplished, not only for our own State but for the entire western valley. The address of Gov. Anderson, which followed, exhibited the power and benevolence of our commonwealth—the latter active and growing, while the former is exerted to a degree unknown before.

Thus has been laid a foundation for new hopes, increased labors, and grander results. Every argument by which the necessity for the new enterprise was enforced a year ago, is augmented, and will continue to increase until the original necessities and multiplied new ones are met. We have entered on a new era in the history of this Asylum. It will brighten as the building commenced hastens to its completion. We hail with gratitude the dawn of a day when every child of silence in Ohio will be welcomed within its walls; and, tarrying for a season, return to that society from which it was once excluded, to share its responsibilities, labors and rewards. A work with such a consummation is worthy of our highest ambition; in it we may well rejoice. With encouragements such as these, conscious of the responsibilities involved, grateful for the aid furnished by the State, and for the sympathy, co-operation, and fostering care of the Board of Trustees, and looking heavenward for guidance, the officers of the Institution commence, with new zeal, the duties of another year.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE L. WEED, JR.,

Superintendent.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

To the Board of Trustees:

GENTLEMEN:—I am happy to report a year of great freedom from grave disease in this Institution. One pupil, Bailey Guard, from Hamilton county, was attacked with a mild form of fever in May, and continuing too unwell to resume his studies, at the earnest desire of his parents he went home on the 2d of June, and, as we learned, seemed but slightly indisposed for some days after, but then suddenly grew worse, and on the 14th of that month died.

In the spring a very general prevalence of roseola, a mild cutaneous disease, with an ephemeral fever, invaded the house, but ran a brief course, and then disappeared, leaving no serious consequences. An equally mild form of varicella (chicken-pox) has just completed its course.

All the appliances that maintain good health, such as cleanliness, good food, regular habits, and a fair proportion of exercise in the open air, are secured by the faithful care of the resident officers.

Respectfully submitted,

S. M. SMITH, Physician.

TERMS OF ADMISSION.

1. No charge is made for pupils from this State, except for clothing and traveling expenses.

2. Applicants must be between the ages of twelve and twenty years, free from immoralities of conduct, and from contagious and offensive diseases.

3. Application for admission should be made to George L. Weed, jr., Columbus, Superintendent of the Institution.

4. The session commences on the second Wednesday of September, and closes on the third Wednesday of June. The proper time for admission is at the commencement of the session, and no pupils will be received at any other time, except in extraordinary cases.

5. The regular course of instruction occupies five years, and it is expected that all who enter the Institution will remain for this period, unless providentially prevented. In cases where good proficiency is made, two additional years of instruction are offered. No pupil can be removed from the Institution, during the progress of a session, without the permission of the Superintendent and Board of Trustees.

6. Parents and guardians will be duly notified of the day on which the school closes, that they may make arrangements for conveying their children home. Except in cases of sickness, pupils cannot be permitted to leave before the specified time. The frequency with which arrangements are made for pupils to leave a few days before the close of the school, renders it necessary, to prevent disappointment, to direct special attention to this rule.

7. Parents and guardians are required to provide their children with sufficient and suitable clothing while they remain at the Institution. Every article should be marked with the full name of its owner. A sum of money, not less than five dollars, should be deposited with the Steward for incidental expenses.

8. Pupils are expected to spend the vacation at home, or with their friends. This arrangement is as desirable for the health of the pupils, which will be promoted by a change of air and exercise, as for the convenience of the Institution.

In the case of each pupil who enters the Institution, it is desirable to obtain a written statement embracing the following particulars :

1. The name of the pupil in full.

2. The year, month, and day of his birth.

3. The cause of deafness ; if not born deaf, at what age and from what cause did he become so ?

4. Is the deafness total or partial ? If the latter, what is the degree of hearing ? Is it of any practical benefit to him in his intercourse with others ?

5. The natural capacity ; is it bright and active, or dull, stupid, or idiotic ?

6. Has the child had the smallpox, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, hoop-cough ? Has he been vaccinated ?

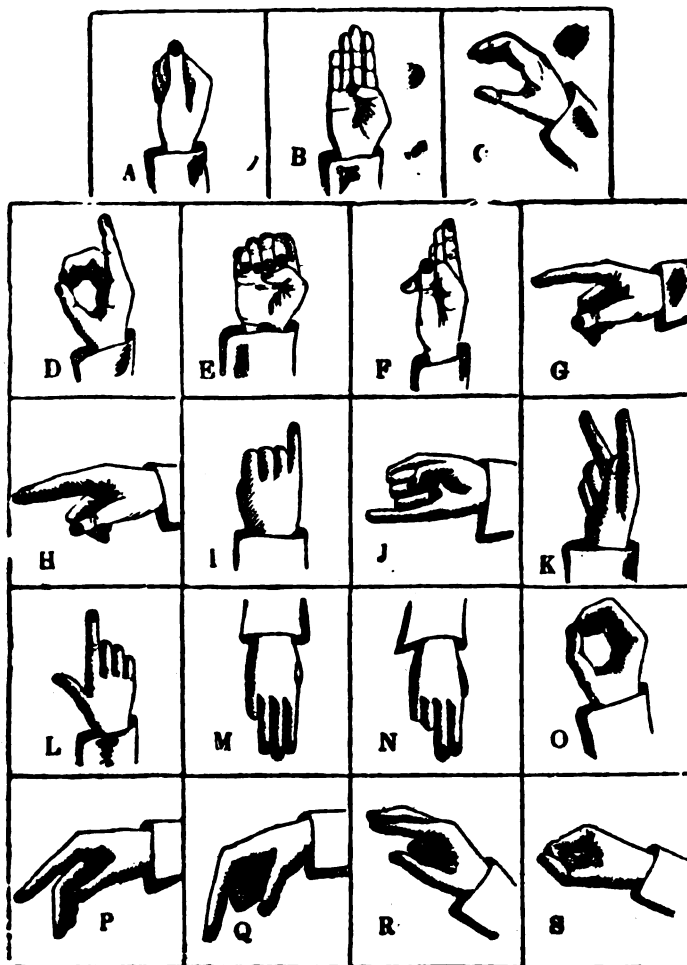

7. Were the parents related before marriage ? If so, in what manner ?

8. Are there any persons in the family connection entirely or partially deaf ? If so, at what age and from what cause did they become so ?

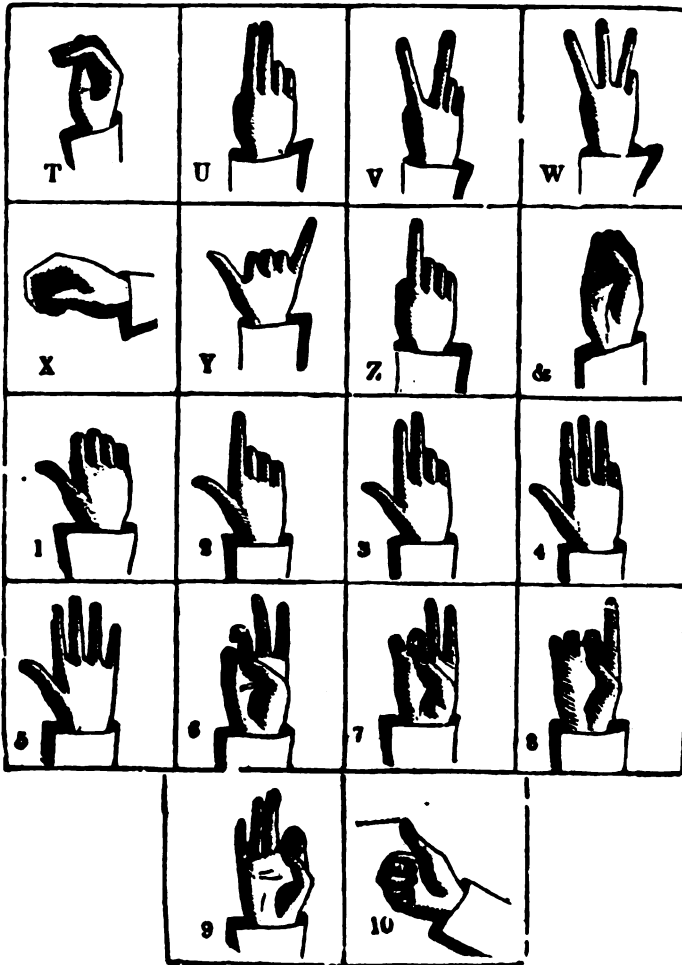

9. The names, residence, and post-office address of the parents.

10. The number and names of the children.

MANUAL ALPHABET FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB.

REPORT
ARCHITECT AND SUPERINTENDENT
OF THE
NEW DEAF AND DUMB ASYLUM.

On the 24th day of March, 1864, Joseph M. Blackburn, Architect, of Cleveland, Ohio, was duly appointed and commissioned by the Hon. John Brough, Governor of the State of Ohio, to be Architect and Superintendent of the new Deaf and Dumb Asylum; to be appointed for one year or longer, at the discretion of the Governor.

On the 26th day of May, the architect was requested by the Governor to attend a meeting of the Committee and Trustees on Benevolent Institutions, when the plans were examined and approved, and orders given by the Governor for all the necessary arrangements and contracts to be made for building the basement.

DESCRIPTION OF THE NEW BUILDING.

The building, as will be seen by reference to the plans, is designed in the "Franco-Italian" style of architecture, which is now generally adopted in the United States and Europe, in cases where the structure is on a scale so extensive as to require the diversifying effects of center and wing buildings flanked by campaniles or towers, which, in the present instance, are of the form and appearances peculiar to the Italian order, and surmounted by steep roofs and dormer windows of the French style.

The general arrangement of the design of the exterior will present, it is believed, an imposing and picturesque effect; while the greatest care and forethought have been exercised with the internal plan, to render the building perfectly adapted to the purposes for which it is intended.

The exterior walls of the basement, together with stoops, &c., are to be of limestone, and above the basement, the walls will be erected with red bricks, with stone trimmings. The cupola over the center of the main building, and lighting the corridors, halls and stairs, will be of wood, and, together with all other woodwork and ironwork exposed to view on the exterior, will be painted and sanded in imitation of the stonework of the building.

The main portions of the building are designed to be three stories and attic above the basement, being about 67 feet from the ground to ridge of roofs. The four towers, at the extreme corners of main building, will be, at their highest point, 90 feet above the ground, and the two center towers 100 feet extreme height. The altitude of the most elevated point on cupola, from the ground level, will be about 134 feet.

The main building extends 270 feet in length, east and west, and is 65 feet in depth. These dimensions include the towers, which project from the general face of the building—the two center towers 10 feet, and the four corner towers 6 feet. A space of 20 feet intervenes between the rear of main building, and the two wings which extend each beyond the main building 62 feet; thus making the front of the entire length of the edifice, east and west, 400 feet.

The plan provides for subsequent erection, should the growth of the Institution require it, of two additional wings, of the same dimensions with, and 30 feet to the rear of, those already described. These wings will be appropriated to the use and convenience of the pupils; the westerly wings being intended for the females, and the easterly wings will be for the males. The basement will be used as play-rooms, the first stories as sitting-rooms, and the second and third stories as dormitories. The dimensions of these wings are 40 by 110 feet, inside measurement.

The main building is divided, longitudinally, in the centers, by a corridor 10 feet in width, on either side of which, in the first story are doors to apartments for the use of officers and teachers of the Asylum, and for invalids. The second and third stories are designed more particularly for the accommodation of the sick, and for sleeping apartments for teachers and others. Two other corridors, also 10 feet wide, running north and south from the main building, and connecting it with the wings and other rear buildings, have each, on the one side, windows facing on open courts, and on the opposite side, doors to commodious apartments for bathing and similar purposes. All the baths, basins, and other arrangements requiring water, will be supplied therewith by pipes from water-tanks located in the upper part of the main building, and which will be supplied by the engine. The entire Institution will be heated by steam in the most modern and approved manner.

The first, second and third stories will have egress to open verandas occupying the space between the two central towers on the front, and extending, in width, nearly the entire projection of these towers, beyond the wall of main building. These verandas will be inclosed by iron railing, and supported by cast-iron columns of the Corinthian order.

The dining-room, 40 by 90 feet, extends to the rear from the center of main building, and on either side are windows opening on spacious open courts, each 50 by 82 feet in area. The rear windows of dining-room overlook an open court, 41 by 47 feet. The kitchen, with the culinary departments, are in the basement, under the dining-room.

The chapel of the Institution will be located immediately over the dining-room, and will be lighted from the roof by skylights, dormers and lantern lights.

The school building, 150 feet to the rear of the main building, will extend 114 feet east and west, by 53 feet in depth; and being connected with the other departments, heretofore described, by means of corridors, forms the most northerly portion of the Asylum proper, which from the front line of main building to the rear line of school building, extends north and south 265 feet. The school building contains, on each floor, above the basement, nine school-rooms, averaging 20 feet square—four on the south side and five on the north side of a hall 8 feet in width, extending the entire length of the building.

About 30 feet to the rear of the school buildings, and communicating therewith by an underground passage, is located the building containing the steam-engine for working the ventilating, washing, and other apparatus connected with the Institution.

With this building are also apartments for laborers employed on the grounds and elsewhere on the premises.

The many and various deficiencies which have long existed in the present Asylum, have been carefully anticipated and provided against in the intended new building, and the comfort and convenience of those for whom it is intended have been studiously considered.

Notwithstanding the large extent of ground to be covered by the edifice, an uninterrupted indoor communication is maintained between the several departments of the building, thus affording free access to all parts of the Institution, while the necessity of passing through the open air is effectually precluded.

ADVERTISEMENTS FOR CONTRACTS.

On the 8th of June the following advertisement appeared in "The Ohio Statesman," "The Ohio Daily State Journal," "The Cleveland Herald," and "The Cleveland Leader," viz.:

"Proposals for Excavations and Furnishing Materials for building the Basement of the New Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Columbus, Ohio.

"Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Superintendent of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Columbus, Ohio, until 12 o'clock M. of Tuesday, June 21st, 1864, for about nine thousand cubic yards, more or less, of excavations. Said excavations will not average more than four feet deep. All earth taken out by said excavators shall be left on the ground, and shall be graded round the building, as directed by the Superintendent.

"Also proposals for furnishing and delivering, on said lot of asylum building, about two thousand three hundred (2,300) perch, more or less, best quality of building stone, for said basement; also, at the same time and place, proposals will be received for quarrying the stone and delivering the same on the grounds, from the State quarries, free of charge for the stone. The stone to be taken out of the State quarry, under the directions of the State Superintendent of Public Buildings; all stone to be measured when laid on the walls.

"Also proposals will be received, at the same time and place, for furnishing and delivering, on said asylum lot, wherever directed, 1,300,000 well-made hard-burned bricks, more or less, kiln count.

"The contractor for the excavations will be required to commence said work within six days from the time of the acceptance of his proposal. The delivery of stone must begin within ten days from the signing of the contract, and all of the same must be delivered on or before the first day of September, 1864.

"The delivery of the bricks shall begin on or before the 15th day of July, 1864, or sooner, if required. And all the bricks shall be delivered on the grounds on or before the first day of November, 1864, unless otherwise directed by the Superintendent of said building.

"The Superintendent reserves the right to reject any or all bids considered incompatible with the interests of the State.

"Each bid must be accompanied by a bond in the sum of twenty-five per cent. of the amount involved, conditioned that the party making the proposal or bid will accept the contract, if the same be awarded to said party, and for the faithful performance of the contract on their part.

"Plans and specifications can be seen at the Superintendent's office, on the grounds, on the 14th, 15th and 16th inst.; and all other information required, will be given by the Architect, at the same time and place.

"J. M. BLACKBURN, Arch. and Supt., Cleveland."

In accordance with the above advertisement, the following bids were received and opened on the 21st of June, viz:

Excavations.

1. Michael H. Burke	at 33½	cents per cubic yard.
2. Peter Murphy	at 38	" " "
3. John Mard	at 43	" " "
4. J. Walsh	at 47	" " "
5. James McGuire	at 47	" " "
6. M. O'Connor	at 49	" " "

David & J. C. Auld	$2 50	$4 40	$7 00	$5 87

Out of the above proposals or bids, those of Michael H. Burke were accepted for excavations, and David & J. C. Auld for furnishing stone and brick, and contracts were drawn up and entered into with those parties for their respective portions of work.

On the 22d of June, copies of the following advertisement were inserted in the before-named papers, as follows:

"SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at the office of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Columbus, Ohio, and also at the office of the Architect, 36 Oregon Street, in the city of Cleveland, Ohio, until noon of the fourth day of July, 1864, for furnishing all the lime and sand, and for the labor required for the stone and brickwork necessary for the completion of the basement of the New Deaf and Dumb Asylum, in the city of Columbus, Ohio. The State will furnish all the stone brick and water lime to the contractor on the grounds. The bids to be by the perch for the stonework, and by the thousand for brickwork, measured in the walls.

"Also, proposals will be received for furnishing the materials and making about 198 box window-frames, and the outside door frames for said basement, and delivering the same on the Asylum lot.

"Each bid must be accompanied by a bond in the sum of twenty-five per cent. of the amount involved, conditioned that the party making the proposal or bid will accept the contract, if the same is awarded to said party, for the faithful performance of the contract on their part.

"Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the Superintendent, on said Asylum grounds, in the city of Columbus, and also at the office of the Architect, in Cleveland.

"The bids will be opened at said office in Columbus, on the 6th day of July, 1864. The Superintendent reserves the right to reject any or all the bids considered incompatible with the interests of the State.

"J. M. BLACKBURN,
Architect and Superintendent."

COMMENCEMENT OF WORK.

The contracts having been thus arranged, the work was commenced, and the first sod was cut on the 30th of June, 1864, by Mr. G. L. Weed, Jr.

The first foundation-stone was laid on the 9th day of August, 1864, and the corner-stone was laid on the 31st day of October, by Lieut.-Governor Charles Anderson, with appropriate ceremony.

The measurements of the excavations were agreed to be made fortnightly, and payments of eighty per cent. made on those estimates. The perch stone, labor and mortar in brickwork, and perch stone also cut, and any other stonework, was agreed to be measured monthly, and payments of eighty per cent. made on the monthly estimates. The brickwork to be paid for when delivered on the grounds as called for, less twenty per cent. The window and door frames to be paid for when delivered, less twenty per cent. The other minor contracts to be paid for in full when completed, and the balance of twenty-per cent. to be paid when the respective contracts are completed, and accepted by the Superintendent.

The following is a Summary of cash paid and due to this date.

SURGEON GENERAL'S REPORT.

SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Columbus, Nov. 15, 1864.

To his Excellency, John Brough, Governor of Ohio :

SIR:—I have the honor to herewith transmit a brief summary of the most important subjects connected with the Medical Department of the State, for the year just closed, under the following heads :

1. Examinations of Medical Officers.
2. Appointments of Medical Officers.
3. Resignations and Deaths.
4. Names and rank of Medical Officers in service previous to the time covered by this Report.
5. Promotions.
6. National Guard.
7. Miscellaneous.

I entered upon the duties of this department on the 13th day of January, 1864. My first aim was to ascertain the wants of the service pertaining to the Medical Department, and, so far as practicable, have them at once supplied. To fill up vacancies in regiments, occasioned by the unavoidable casualties of war, a Medical Examining Board was constituted and at once convened for the examination of applicants.

The exigencies of the service required so many medical officers that the meetings of this Board have been several times repeated during the year. At their different sessions, applicants to the number of 287 have presented themselves for examination. One hundred and seventeen of them were successful, all of whom have been commissioned and sent to the field. In addition to this drain upon the medical profession of the State, occurring, as it has, each year during the continuance of this war, this department has furnished 95 Acting Assistant Surgeons for hospital and field service, through Dr. Chas. S. Tripler, Surgeon U. S. A. and Medical Director of the Northern Department, on Gen. Joseph Hooker's staff.

The State Board of Medical Examiners consist of the following named gentlemen: President, John W. Russell, M.D. of Mount Vernon; Secre-retary, Gustav C. E. Weber, M.D. of Cleveland; and John A. Murphy, M.D. of Cincinnati. It is proper to remark that these gentlemen discharged their delicate and responsible duties with the most conscientious fidelity, and have recommended only those for appointment of whose qualifications, both morally and professionally, they felt fully satisfied. I might remark, in passing, that, during the absence of Prof. Weber in Europe, and the illness of Dr. John A. Murphy, Drs. S. M. Smith and Starling Loving were temporarily appointed on the Board, and were kind enough to serve during the interregnum.

A long period of personal service in the field, demonstrated clearly to me that the good of the service, and justice to Assistant Surgeons who had served acceptably one, two and three years, required that all vacancies occurring in old regiments of the rank of Major-Surgeon should be filled from among this class of officers, and, so far as practicable, their promotion be governed by seniority of rank. The same practice was adopted with regard to the new regiments lately sent to the field, and, as a general thing, rigidly adhered to. In the adoption of this course, I have been most fully endorsed by the entire army, from general officers to privates in the ranks, as numerous letters on file in this office will show.

The army, in the early history of this rebellion, grew so rapidly into tremendous proportions—unprecedented in modern times—that it imposed upon the National Medical Department responsibilities and labors which it had not the organization and capacity to supply. To meet these great wants, the States promptly proffered their co-operation. The records of Ohio, during these earlier years of the war, bear ample testimony to the generous part she took in that work. The volunteer services of medical men, and others, as nurses, together with contributions by the State, and by citizens, were of incalculable value. Much is still being done in the same way, but the appointment of State Agents in the different States and cities, and the operations of the Christian and Sanitary Commissions has so systematized means of relief to the soldiers in the field, that it has rendered almost unnecessary the personal service heretofore so liberally extended. The vastly more liberal organization of the National Medical Staff; the largely increased and better arranged hospital facilities, and the increased number of medical officers allowed by law to regimental organizations, has tended greatly to diminish the necessity of volunteer medical and surgical aid. Soldiers, disabled for field duty, but well trained to the business of hospital attendants, have, to a large extent, supplied the places of citizen and volunteer nurses. These men, though brave, and oftentimes uncouth in appearance, are yet as kind and tender as women to their sick and wounded comrades, and know exactly a soldiers' wants.

Notwithstanding the increased strength of the Medical Staff, the enlarged hospital facilities, and the improved general health of the army during the past year, (and no great armies in the history of the world have been so signally exempt from malignant epidemics as has ours,) yet, because of the severity of the campaigns, the number of wounded and those who have fallen sick on the march, and in the bivouac, have been greater than could be promptly and efficiently cared for, without largely increased medical and surgical aid. This additional help has been constantly and promptly provided, but mainly in a different manner from the volunteer system heretofore pursued, and which, in its time, worked well.

As the seat of war has been farther and farther removed from our homes and borders, necessarily increasing the dangers of travel on the navigable rivers and railways leading thereto, so much precious time must necessarily be consumed, and so much expense incurred, and frequently the almost impossibility of transporting civil surgeons to the point where their services would be most available; and, most of all, because of their inexperience in just the kind of duties required, the treatment of gunshot wounds and diseases peculiar to camps and armies, that it became evident that some other and better plan should be adopted. I therefore, shortly after entering upon the duties of this office, made arrangements with the United States' medical authorities for giving them a constant supply of additional medical and surgical aid, in the form of contract, or Acting Assistant Surgeons, U. S. A. It was arranged with the Medical Director in charge of this and other departments that, on requisition being made on my department for contract Surgeons, they should be at once furnished, compensation and transportation being provided by the Federal Government. This class of officers are required to produce evidence of having graduated at some regular medical school; evidence of moral character and standing, and to test their professional skill by examination before a Board in the same manner as candidates for appointment as Assistant Surgeons in our own Ohio regiments. After contract, they are required to observe all the regulations, the same as the regularly commissioned officer, and are clothed with proper authority to enforce good order and discipline in their commands. In this manner I have been enabled, so far, to supply a constant, sufficient and efficient medical corps for the daily increasing wants of at least the western and southwestern wings of our vast army. Up to this date there have been furnished from this office one hundred and twenty-three of this class of medical aid, the majority of whom are still in the service, although their first contracts did not cover over three months' time.

I am happy to state that among the medical staff of Ohio there have been, during the year, but three dishonorable discharges from the service, two of whom, on proper hearing, have been re-instated, and that from all the armies and fields of service there have come up to this department the highest praise and encomiums of Ohio Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons. That they fully merit this distinction is evidenced by the highly responsible positions Ohio medical men occupy in the different departments of the army.

During the Morgan raid in our State, in the summer of 1863, your predecessor, Gov. David Tod, by a proclamation, called out a large militia force to assist in capturing the intruders or repelling them from our borders. Medical officers, Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons, were appointed for this force, as provided for by the then existing militia law. These officers purchased the necessary medical supplies on the faith of the State, from dealers in drugs and medicines doing business at points nearest to the camps that were held in different parts of the State. No appropriation having as yet been made by the Legislature for the payment of the salaries of these officers, or for the bills thus necessarily made in the purchase of material with which to succor the sick, I respectfully beg leave to call the attention of the Legislature, through your Excellency, to the necessity of making an appropriation sufficient to liquidate this just indebtedness. The bills and vouchers are on file in this Department, amounting in all to about two thousand dollars. The medical officers appointed to these militia regiments were faithful in the discharge of their duties, and the purchases of medical supplies were made at reasonable and just prices.

Examinations of medical officers who present themselves as candidates for appointment to the medical staffs of Ohio regiments in the field, are required by law to be strictly made by the State Board of Medical Examiners appointed by the Governor for that purpose. The present Board, whose names I have mentioned above, are gentlemen of acknowledged ability and high professional standing. I have before alluded to their faithful discharge of duty, and the high standard of qualification adopted in the beginning of the war has not been lowered by the present Board. The creation of this Board by legislative enactment was an act of wisdom, and has resulted in great good to the service, aside from the selection of men fitted for the positions of Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons in the army. It has inspired a spirit of activity, study, and emulation in the profession throughout the entire State.

There have been three regular meetings of the Board during the year, to examine applicants for the old and new regiments, and also one for the National Guard, to which I will hereafter refer. The first session was held at the Starling Medical College, in Columbus, on the 15th day of March last, at which thirty-three applicants were successful, and were recommended by the Board for appointment to the position of Assistant Surgeons in the army. The second meeting was held at the Ohio White Sulphur Springs, when seven gentlemen passed a successful examination, and were duly recommended as Assistant Surgeons. The third session was held in the State House on the 26th day of September, at which thirty-six gentlemen received recommendations. In addition to these regular sessions, thirty-six candidates have been successfully examined during the year by different members of the Board, at their places of residence, as the exigencies of the service demanded.

By reference to tabular statement marked A, it will be seen that one hundred and thirty appointments have been made during the year. The number of appointments, it will be seen, is greater than the number passed by the Board. This is accounted for by the fact that many of those who had previously resigned on account of impaired health have, on their recovery, returned to the good work of ministering to the medical wants of the soldier in the field. These appointments are distributed through almost the entire list of regiments on our State roll. The necessity for so large a number is accounted for by the number of new organizations, transfers to Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons of Volunteers, resignations and deaths.

The number of promotions have been sixty-nine. For names of officers and regiments in which promotions have been made, see table marked E. By reference to table marked B, it will be seen that there have been forty-four resignations. Table C shows the number of officers mustered out by term of service. Table D shows the number of regiments and men mustered out of the National Guard at the expiration of their term of service. This table will be valuable as a reference hereafter.

A very large majority of those resigning were compelled to do so by reason of failing health, in many instances never to be regained; and in some instances, soon after retiring from the service, death has overtaken them, and sealed their unselfish patriotism. The number of dismissals for incompetent and unfaithful discharge of duty has been gratifyingly few.

The number of deaths occurring in the service during the year (as see table marked F) have been fifteen—seven Surgeons and eight Assistant Surgeons. One of the Major Surgeons died on the battle-field, slain by the deadly missile of the enemy while in the discharge of his duty, on one of those fields in the Shenandoah Valley made sacred and glorious by the brave Sheridan and the equally brave officers and men under him. The others fell at their posts; remaining there until stricken down by disease, they yielded up life in the field of their labors. None of these martyrs to science and their country were permitted to see their homes or loved ones. Some of them were young men, full of cherished hopes, and in whom were centered large expectations of long and useful lives—others were full of years and honors. Let a grateful people forever cherish their memories, and let their medical brethren of Ohio erect in her capitol a tablet in their honor, that shall endure so long as the Government itself, in whose service they gave all their cherished hopes, their labors, and their lives. This record, however, presents but a portion of those who have thus sacrificed their lives for their country. Many of those who have resigned because of failing health, after a few weeks or months of suffering, have passed away forever from earth. Others, still, hailing from Ohio, but belonging to that branch of service known as Surgeons of Volunteers, have died during the year. Their names also should, in justice, be added, as a part of the great sacrifice laid by our State upon the costly altar of our common country.

THE NATIONAL GUARD.

The organization of the arms-bearing portion of the population of the State, under the recent new military law, and known by the honored title of National Guard, has created in our State a reserve corps of from forty to fifty thousand men, and has thrown new and novel duties upon this office. The organization of the different regiments and battalions had not been effected when, by your proclamation of May, this reserve corps was called by the great emergencies of the hour to share the labors, dangers and honors of the tented-field for the space of one hundred days. Not a single medical officer had been commissioned. My books were empty of passed Assistant Surgeons. There was not, nor is there yet, a State Medical Purveyor or purveying establishment, both of which are indispensably necessary to perfect the medical department of the State military forces, and should be provided for by law.

Section 17 of the act to organize the militia of Ohio, provides that Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons shall be appointed by the commanding officers of regiments, &c., and section 84 of the same law provides that the Governor shall appoint a Medical Board, and that no person shall be appointed Surgeon or Assistant Surgeon unless he shall have been examined and recommended by said Board. Here is at least a seeming conflict of terms in the law that gave me some embarrassment. On consultation with the Adjutant-General, I immediately issued a circular to the commanding officers of regiments and battalions to make their appointments in the way of nominations, and to cite them to appear before the Board for examination on the 3d day of May, which was summoned to convene at that time in the capital for this special purpose. I also issued an appeal to the medical profession of the State to attend in large numbers, and thus put themselves in the way of accepting these positions of honor and trust. A few of the commanding officers only made appointments; the majority neglected to do it, or notifying this Department that they felt a delicacy, from want of knowledge of the required qualifications to be desired in medical officers, and requesting me to select their medical staff for them. This Department is in possession of all the data required to enable it to select good and faithful medical men for the service, and all appointments for that branch should emanate from it.

At the above named meeting of the Board there were examined seventy-seven gentlemen, sixty-nine of whom were successful, and received appointments in the National Guard. This number not being sufficient for the regiments organized, the deficiency was made good by private examinations, and by drawing from our files the names of those who had seen service, and were recruiting their health at home. On being notified, these gentlemen patriotically consented to re-enter the service for the term of one hundred days. The Major Surgeons were all selected from veterans who had seen one, two and three years' service, and who were fully versed in the requirements of field service. The thanks of the State and of the country are due to these gentlemen for their self-sacrificing patriotism.

I was thus enabled to provide each of the commands with a Surgeon, and most of them with two Assistants. Forty-two regiments were organized, and in two weeks' time from the day specified in the call for them to report in camp, they were all supplied with medical officers, who, during this short space of time, had arranged their domestic affairs, presented themselves before the Board for examination, passed in a highly creditable manner, were commissioned, and reported to their respective commanding officers for duty.

I had, in the meantime, made application to the Secretary of War to have these regiments supplied with all necessary medical and hospital stores for the one hundred days, which was promptly granted, and orders issued accordingly to the Medical Purveyors to have the supplies ready, and to fill the requisitions promptly when made. All of which was attended to with promptness and dispatch by these gentlemen. I am much indebted to Surgeon Charles S. Tripler, of the regular army, Medical Director of the Northern Department, for his kindness in furnishing many necessary forms for requisitions, and affording me all the assistance in his power to perfect and facilitate all the required operations.

REPORTS.

I had blank forms prepared for making monthly and quarterly reports of casualties to this Department. A supply of these was handed to each Surgeon of the National Guard. By most of them the reports were promptly made, enabling the Department to be constantly posted as to the sanitary condition of the different regiments, as also their wants and necessities. I had hoped to receive a final consolidated report from each regiment, to enable me to give a correct and full history of all the casualties of the combined Guard, during their whole term of service, but these have not as yet all come to hand, so that it is impossible for me to give the complete tabular statement of casualties I had desired and expected. It is proper to remark, however, that those regiments stationed on and in the vicinity of James River, near Richmond, suffered much sickness, consisting principally of diarrhoea and typho-malarial fever, which, I am pained to add, proved fatal in numerous instances, several of the regiments losing from twenty-five to forty men each. In other regiments of the Guard, stationed in less malarious districts, the sickness was much less, and the mortality very light. Excepting those killed in battle, the mortality was perhaps not greater than among a corresponding population at home, in civil life. In fact, the mortality was so small as to be the cause of congratulation and wonder; and especially so when we consider that, as a rule, in an army of volunteers, selected with little care as to soundness of body and physical fitness for field service, that within the first six months from one-half to two-thirds of the whole number pass through the hospitals.

At the time the National Guard was ordered home and relieved from duty, many members of the different regiments stationed on the James River were left sick in hospitals, and unable to return with their more fortunate comrades. Their commanding officers had not the means of transportation suitable for sick men. To leave them there, in overcrowded hospitals, at the most unhealthy season of the year, and in the most unhealthy climate on this continent, was to leave them to an uncertain fate—nay, to an almost certain fate, that of death. Every sense of duty and humanity, therefore, prompted me to have these men removed to better and more healthy locations as speedily as possible. To effect this desirable object, I dispatched the Surgeon-General of the army, stating that there were several hundred of the Ohio National Guard whose time had expired, or was about to expire, sick in hospitals at Fortress Monroe and other points in that vicinity, and requested him to have commodious hospital steamers sent down and have them promptly brought up to Washington, New York and Philadelphia hospitals, where their chances for recovery would be more certain and speedy, and from whence they could be discharged as speedily as their recovery would permit. To this request the Surgeon-General at once acceded, and promptly acted accordingly. By this measure I have no doubt much suffering was spared to these brave men, as also much painful anxiety to their friends at home, and that many valuable lives was thereby saved.

For the number of the National Guard mustered into the U. S. service, see table D, and for the number mustered out, so far as reported, see tabular statement marked E. For this last mentioned statement I am indebted to Capt. J. A. Grover, the efficient A. A. G. and Superintendent of the recruiting service at this point.

Before closing this part of my report, I desire, through your Excellency, to call the special attention of the Legislature to section six of the militia law, which treats of exemptions from military duty by reason of physical disability. Clause fifth of said section provides as follows: "Every person physically disabled may be exempted from military duty if he files with the County Auditor, on or before August 15th of every year, a statement of a reputable physician or surgeon, certifying that such person is unfit for military duty by reason of such physical disability or bodily infirmity, which shall be described in said statement. This statement should be verified by the affidavit of said physician or surgeon. If any person shall knowingly or wilfully make a false affidavit in this matter, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury."

I would respectfully suggest that this clause be so modified as to provide for the appointment of a medical officer in each county of the State, to hold his office for the same period as other State officers, and appointed in the same manner as other military medical officers; and whose duty it shall be to examine persons held under the law for military duty, claiming exemptions for physical disability: and that such physician shall be the only person qualified to give certificates of exemption—these certificates to be filed, as now, with the County Auditor. They should be explicit as to the nature of the disability, and governed by the rules exempting from military duty in the U. S. army. I would also respectfully suggest that the law be so amended as to require the several County Auditors to forward copies of all such exemptions to this Department by a certain date of each year. The examining physician to be paid a certain sum for each party examined, such compensation to come from the party claiming exemption. This fee should not be so large as to be oppressive to the poor—not less than $1 nor more than $3.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In the beginning of this war, or, at least, for the first two years, it was the policy of the State authorities, on the eve, or just after a great battle, to dispatch to the field a corps of surgeons and nurses for the humane purpose of succoring her wounded and dying soldiers. Much and valuable aid was thus rendered to the soldier, as well as to the Medical Staff, who, at that day, were few in number and sorely taxed with labor in caring for their then large regiments. Hospital boats, too, were dispatched by the navigable water-courses, where it was possible to reach the vicinity of the field, and thousands of Ohio soldiers were brought home, to be cared for by their friends and relatives. Many thousands of dollars were thus disbursed in this humane and patriotic way. I am proud to say that I was frequently honored by your predecessor, Hon. David Tod, with the superintendence of the medical departments of these boats, and can bear personal witness of the vast and incalculable good they were the means of effecting. The increased facilities of the General Government in its medical and transportation departments, and the large addition to the medical staff, has rendered unnecessary for the past year the continuance of State munificence in the way of surgeons, nurses, or hospital boats. For that reason, therefore, such expeditions have been almost wholly discontinued by the State authorities.

There has been but one expedition of the kind projected by this department during the past year. Just after one of General Sherman's first battles, during his onward march to Atlanta, a party was dispatched en route to Nashville and Chattanooga, for the purpose of attending to the wants of Ohio soldiers who had been wounded, or were worn out by the excessive fatigues of the campaign. This party consisted of six surgeons and as many nurses, which, by your orders, I placed under the superintendence of my assistant, Capt. W. R. Looker, who had for his aids Rev. Mr. Morris, of this city, and J. H. Klippart, Esq., of the Agricultural Bureau. On arriving at Louisville, Ky., however, and on consultation with your State Agent at that point, Capt. Vesalius Horr, it was decided that—the General Government and the different benevolent Commissions having effected every thing in the way of succor to the soldiers that was necessary or possible—the services of the party were not needed at the front, and they accordingly returned to Columbus; not, however, without leaving funds in the hands of the State Agent for the purpose of relieving any possible want that might arise, on the arrival of wounded and sick Ohio soldiers at Nashville or Louisville. Since that time no other emergency has arisen for expeditions of this nature.

In speaking of former visits to the battle-fields, I cannot abstain from mentioning the many official courtesies received from the Surgeon-General of the army, the Secretary of War, his Assistants, and others connected with the army. In my official intercourse, also, during the time I have had the honor to preside over this department, the most pleasant courtesies and assistance have been accorded by the above-named officers. To the Assistant Surgeon-General, Col. R. C. Wood, headquarters at Louisville, Ky., and to the Medical Director of the Northern Department, Surgeon Charles S. Tripler, U. S. Army, and his assistant, Surgeon David Stanton, I am indebted for assistance and gentlemanly courtesies.

The room appropriated for this office is poorly ventilated and lighted, and entirely too small and inadequately furnished with the necessary cases and shelving for filing and preserving the books, papers and data pertaining to the department. I therefore beg leave to call the attention of the Legislature to the fact, and respectfully ask that a more commodious and better furnished apartment be allotted.

Hitherto no appropriation has been made by law for defraying the necessary expenses of the department, except the salary of the Surgeon-General, which is much too small, in comparison with the duties of the office, and entirely inadequate to the support of a family at the present prices of every thing connected with the wants and necessities of life. I most respectfully, therefore, ask for an increase of salary. In other States, where such offices exist, and in the Federal Government, the Surgeon-General has the same rank and emoluments as the heads of the Adjutant-General and Quartermaster's Bureaus. I also ask that appropriation be made by law for all the expenses of the office, viz.: the salary of the Surgeon-General, for clerical force, stationery, postal and telegraphic expenses, janitor, &c. Specifications will be made to the Chairman of the Committee on Finance at the proper time.

The duties of the head of this department, though never specified by law or General Order, are very general in their character, and have, by the long continuance of the war and the organization of the State military forces, become of very considerable magnitude. Beside the keeping on hand a constant supply of medical men to fill up the constantly occurring vacancies of regiments in the field and the National Guard, and the necessary correspondence with Medical Directors of Departments, Divisions, Surgeons and Assistant Surgeons of regiments, there is a large correspondence with the friends of the soldiers, especially of those sick or wounded and in hospitals. Large numbers of letters are daily received, making inquiry for sons in the army, soliciting furloughs, transfers, and almost every thing pertaining to their wants. There are also constant streams of disabled soldiers visiting the office for information in regard to the steps to be taken to procure pensions, discharges, extensions of furloughs, &c. All this requires much time and patience, but I have never suffered a letter to go unanswered over night, or turned away a soldier or his friend without giving the required aid or information. In addition to these duties, all certificates of disability, for the discharge of those belonging to the organized militia, are or should be referred to this department, for examination and approval, before a final discharge is granted by the Adjutant-General.

In all the duties of the office I have been greatly aided by Capt. W. R. Looker, my assistant, whose promptness, fidelity, and perfect familiarity with the Army Regulations, General Orders, and by his long connection with the office, has rendered his services invaluable both to me and to the State. It affords me pleasure to make this public acknowledgment of the services of a long and well-tried officer.

Governor Tod, with the magnanimity which characterized all his official acts, and with a view to the welfare of the soldier, appointed during his administration Prof. J. H. Salisbury to visit the camps and hospitals of the Western armies, to investigate the prevailing army diseases and epidemics, and their causes. Dr. Salisbury prosecuted his researches with great energy and perseverance, oftentimes under very great difficulties and at considerable personal sacrifice. He met with highly satisfactory results—results which, if published, would not only benefit and interest every medical man, but the public at large. A few extracts from his uncompleted manuscripts were inserted in last year's report of my distinguished predecessor, Samuel M. Smith, M.D., with the recommendation that the whole of Dr. Salisbury's paper be published by the State. This has not been done; and because of the great merit of the paper and its practical utility, especially to Army Surgeons, and those contemplating an entrance into the service, I herewith submit a part of it, with the recommendation that it be appended to my Report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Very respectfully,

Your ob't serv't,

R. N. BARR,

Surgeon-General of Ohio.

Chronic Diarrhœa and its Complications; or the diseases arising, in the army, from a too exclusive use of Amylaceous Food; with interesting matter relating to the Diet and Treatment of these Abnormal Conditions; and a new Army Ration proposed, with which this large Class of Diseases may be avoided. By J. H. SALISBURY, M.D., Professor of Histology, Physiology and Pathology, in Charity Hospital, Medical College, Cleveland, Ohio.

The diseases arising in the soldier, from too exclusively feeding upon any one kind of food, are far more numerous than has been previously supposed. It has long been known that the too exclusive use of salt meats tend to produce scorbutic states. More recently it has been determined that fresh meats also, under similar circumstances, produce like conditions. These conditions are best counteracted by the free use of vegetable food, and the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron. It becomes my duty now to add to this list of scorbutic excitants, vegetable food, and especially that of an amylaceous and leguminose character. These are eminently scorbutic excitants. The diseased conditions produced, however, by them, are of a peculiar type, differing in many particulars from those produced by animal food.

When the scorbutic taint is caused by the too exclusive use of amylaceous and leguminose products, these conditions—instead of being best treated by the free use of vegetables, and the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron—require, with the latter, albuminous animal food; as these conditions have been excited by the absence of this kind of aliment.

The abnormal states produced by a too exclusive amylaceous diet, differ from those produced by one that is too exclusively animal. They present themselves, first, in a deranged condition of the alimentary canal and nervous system, with a remarkable tendency to fibrinous depositions in the heart and lungs (Thrombosis and Embolia); while the scorbutic taint from meat, shows itself usually first in the skin and mouth, the blood being thin, and there being little or no tendency to fibrinous depositions. Both often result in pains and aches in the extremities and back, simulating those of chronic muscular rheumatism.

The great class of diseases that are so peculiar to the army, and that are so obstinate when subjected to the treatment used in what appears to be analogous conditions in private practice, really belong to abnormal states excited by insufficient or imperfect alimentation and fermentative conditions and to a peculiar scorbutic taint, developed by the too exclusive use of an amylaceous diet. In this group of army diseases, may be placed chronic diarrhœa; paralytic conditions; fibrinous depositions in the heart (Thrombosis); the clogging up of the pulmonary vessels with fibrinous clots (Embolia); the tendency to tuberculosis; loss of voice; the so called muscular rheumatism, and the majority of the diseases of the eye and ear. Exclude these frequent and obstinate complaints from the army, and nearly all the diseases are removed that now play so important a part in decimating our forces and filling up our hospitals. If these diseases arise from the too exclusive use of any one kind of food—which we shall in the following pages plainly demonstrate—they are pre-eminently preventable; and hereafter, their existence in the army will be evidence—if the proper food be provided, as here suggested—that the medical or military authorities have been neglectful of their duties.

The food of the soldier, above all things, should be of such a character as to not develop in him disease. This should be of the first consideration. In the second place, it should contain those nutrient products which will support the wear and tear of his tissues in the fatigues of the march, and enable him most fully to accomplish the labor expected of him.

Governments have, until recently, been slow to recognize the important necessity of paying the greatest possible attention to the alimentation of their armies. The result has been a fearful mortality from scorbutic diseases. The war between the Allies and Russia has done more perhaps in attracting public attention to this matter, than any event in modern times. The disease and suffering in the allied armies from defective alimentation and scorbutic invasion, during the first winter and spring of the campaign, were frightful.

More attention has been paid to the feeding of our armies than has ever been done in any other country. The ration has been not only larger, but contains a better proportion of the various kinds of food for healthy alimentation. The result has favorably exhibited itself in the superior health of our soldiers above those of other modern armies. Our soldiers are better clothed and fed than those of any foreign country. Still there is large room for improving the condition of our men in the field; by supplying them with a proper admixture of food so light and portable that they can at all times have it, and which will prevent the long list of peculiar diseases previously mentioned, arising out of a too exclusive use in campaigns of an amylaceous diet.

The investigations connected with the cause, treatment and prevention of chronic diarrhœa; paralysis; the deposition of mosses and ropes of fibrin in the heart (Thrombosis); the lodgment of fibrinous clots (Embolia) in the pulmonary vessels; the disposition to tuberculosis; and what simulates muscular rheumatism; the loss of voice; and diseases of the eye and ear, have been pursued with unremitting zeal. This inquiry has been attended with great labor. The detailed microscopic examination of the fecal matters and excretions of several hundred cases of chronic diarrhœa, in the hospitals of all parts of the country, has been a work so disagreeable and laborious, that no inducement, save the importance of the subject, could have persuaded me to have pursued it so thoroughly. The results arrived at are highly interesting in throwing valuable light upon the cause, treatment and prevention of this dreaded and obstinate disease; and in pointing out the great importance of changing the present army ration during active campaigns.

Chronic diarrhœa appears to be, in almost every region, a certain accompaniment of armies. The extent to which it prevails in any given instance appears to be somewhat in proportion to the malarial condition of the district, the reason of which will more fully appear further on. In our armies it has done more to weaken and decimate them than all other diseases. It is the disease, both on account of its prevalence and its lingering character, that so fills up our hospitals.

In the English Medical and Surgical History of the Crimean War, it is stated that: "Diseases of the bowels, the constant scourge of armies, affected the English troops to an alarming extent in the Crimean war. For one-third of the 18 months embraced, they presented a more fatal aspect than had ever before been recorded." Dr. Macleod, in referring to this subject, says: "The food provided for the army during the first winter and spring was defective both in quality and quantity. This arose partly from unavoidable circumstances, and partly from inexperience in the officers to whose care was intrusted the supply of the army. Salt meat and biscuit constituted the bulk of the distribution; while rice, coffee and sugar were occasionally but sparingly added."

During the Mexican war our soldiers suffered much from chronic diarrhœa. Of those who returned a large number never fully recovered, and many eventually died, emaciated and worn out. In our own army, during the present war, chronic diarrhœa, with its complications, has been the disease which has done more to weaken our forces than all others combined. It is painful, exhausting and protracted, and makes up not only a large proportion of the sick list, but is frequently fatal. It may terminate fatally or favorably in a few days or weeks; but generally runs on for months or even years, in which latter case the system becomes so affected with intercurrent organic disease, that there is seldom hopes of any thing but a sooner or later fatal termination, either from the primary disease itself or from some of its complications.

The large majority of the cases of this disease in our army have occurred either during or immediately following campaigns. It occurred largely during and after the Peninsular campaign; during and following the crossing of the Rappahannock by Hooker; during and subsequent to the retreat of Pope; on and after the march through Maryland to Antietam; and during and subsequent to the rapid march to, and battle of Gettysburg. In the west it has been also the prevailing disease, and occurred largely at the march on Nashville; at Pittsburgh Landing and Corinth; at the campaign at the rear of Vicksburg; at Port Hudson; at Murfreesboro and Stone River; and at Chattanooga and Chickamauga. In fact, wherever there has been a campaign of any duration, when the men have been thrown upon army biscuit, as an almost exclusive and constant food—if even but for a few days—chronic diarrhœa, with its singular complications, has largely appeared.

The Peninsular Campaign, under McClellan, and the march to the rear of Vicksburg, under Grant, have been two of the most fatiguing and lengthy campaigns of the war, during which the soldiers largely subsisted upon a dry, farinaceous diet. These campaigns have afforded more obstinate and fatal cases of this disease, than any half dozen of the others. Melancholy records of them still linger in the hospitals of all parts of the country. The Peninsular Campaign was more fruitful in cases of what appeared to be muscular rheumatism, of paralysis, loss of voice, fibrinous depositions in heart and lungs and diseases of the eye and ear, than any other. No campaign has turned out more obstinate and fatal forms of the diseases arising from a too exclusive use of amylaceous food, than this.

The derangements of the system, arising from the too exclusive use of amylaceous food—and, especially, the hard army bread or biscuit—are various and peculiar, and throw interesting and valuable light upon many diseased conditions. They open up a wide field for careful research, and point us to simple preventable excitants as the true causes of some of the gravest abnormal conditions. That amylaceous aliments, when too excessively used, should excite paralytic states and tendencies, is most highly interesting. That this same kind of food should have a tendency to excite in the system a saccharine and fermentative state, and should produce a disposition to fibrinous depositions in heart and lungs, (thrombosis and embolia), and a susceptibility to diseases of the eye and ear, is also most highly important and suggestive. It reminds us that, perhaps, to the food we eat, we may look for a great share of the "ills that flesh is heir to." These abnormal conditions become simple systemic expressions, that warn us of transgressions in dietetic laws.

Scarcely any thing has been done, except by way of accident, in tracing nicely the peculiar effects and influences upon the system, of living exclusively, for a length of time, upon individual kinds of food. Here is a field, at the very threshold of our existence, so simple in itself that it has been entirely passed over by the investigator, who is busying himself in exploring, in the obscure mazes beyond, for those very causes of disease which he is daily taking into his system in the food he eats for nourishing and invigorating his body.

In feeding either exclusively or too largely upon army biscuit for any length of time, diarrhoeic conditions, paralytic tendencies, a disposition to fibrous depositions in the heart and lungs, pains in the extremities and back, and derangements of the ear and eye, may all be present, or only a portion of them.* In a majority of cases the most of them are present to a greater or less extent. These derangements will all be treated of under the head of chronic diarrhoea. Although in many instances the diarrhoeic symptoms and derangements of the eye and ear are entirely absent, while the other intercurrent abnormal states are strongly marked.

These are, one and all, but symptomatic expressions of a peculiar diseased condition of the organism produced by one kind of imperfect or defective alimentation, and are to be cured by first removing the cause, and not until then will the appropriate dietetic and remedial agents address themselves kindly to the repairing of the various organic lesions, and to invigorating the enfeebled and enervated physical and mental powers.

SYMPTOMS.

In feeding exclusively or too largely upon "army biscuit," for any considerable length of time, diarrhoeic conditions, paralytic tendencies, with sometimes loss of voice, a disposition to fibrinous depositions in the heart and pulmonary vessels, (thrombosis and embolia,) pains and aches simulating muscular rheumatism, and derangement of the eye and ear, may all be present, or only a portion of them. In a majority of cases the most of them are present. These abnormal conditions, all arising from one and the same cause, will all be treated of under the head of Chronic Diarrhoea.

Chronic Diarrhoea.—This disease, with the other intercurrent abnormal states, that arise from the too exclusive use of a dry amylaceous diet, may be conveniently divided into three stages: the Incubative, the Acute, and the Chronic.

Incubative Stage.—The diarrhoea is preceded in all cases, that are uncomplicated,† by a constipated condition of the bowels. This is, however, generally overlooked by the patient, from the fact that frequently the diarrhoea comes on gradually; first having only one profuse passage in the twenty-four hours, and this taking place in the latter part of the night. The appetite being good, and there being no pain, save immediately preceding the passage, this condition is allowed to run on uncared for, frequently for some time, till the passages have increased to from four to ten per day, mostly during the night. The patient now applies for treatment, and almost invariably reports to the Surgeon that his diarrhœa has been preceded by looseness. The incubative stage of the disease has made no impression upon him, and he only remembers that his bowels have been loose for some time. If, however, his case be carefully traced back, a preliminary constipated period, often of several weeks' standing, will be found to have existed. During this period of constipation the patient has had from one to four scant, difficult, and either hard or plastic passages per week. During the evening and night he has been troubled with the development of gases in his stomach and bowels, often distending them so as to excite pain through from one side to the other, accompanied by eructations and passages of wind.* This development of gases in the alimentary canal, goes on increasing during the incubative stage, till the diarrhœa sets in. During this constipated period there is also a paralytic tendency. This shows itself first in the large intestines, in a want of normal sensibility and peristaltic action; and then in the lower extremities, which exhibit prickling sensations, and are liable to "get asleep," as the patients describe it. There is a mixed up numb feeling in the head, with frequently a confused condition, ringing in the ears at night, and muscœe volitantes. The bronchial and pulmonary membranes become more or less irritated, frequently attended with a feeling of constriction about the chest, with a cough during the night and toward morning, and, after getting up, with the expectoration, often, of thick, cream-colored, sweetish mucus. The tongue is generally unusually clean and watery, with a red border and a red streak down the center, which central streak sometimes feels sore. There is often slight palpitation of the heart, with a tendency to fibrinous depositions in its cavities and in the pulmonary vessels. The voice becomes often hoarse, with a peculiar stiff, constricted feeling in the pharyngeal and laryngeal region. There is a lassitude about the muscles, which is rather dispelled, than otherwise, by exercise. Appetite good.

* There is strong probability that the condition of the system which tends to the development of Erysipelas and Hospital Gangrene, may have a similar origin.

† The complicated varieties are such as are directly excited into activity by the enervating effects of other diseases, as dysentery, intermittant, bilious remittant and typhoid fevers, etc.

With many the symptoms of this incubative stage are not very strongly marked, especially when the soldiers are actively engaged. After a short time, in such cases, it frequently passes away, the alimentary canal adapting itself to the dry, amylaceous food, so that digestion goes on normally, and the passages become quite natural in consistence, color and frequency. When this period is once passed, the tendency to have the diarrhœa from living upon starchy food, is much lessened, and the patients are now disposed to become more plethoric than usual. They feel, however, less tonic of the system, and readily tire, and frequently are troubled with palpitations and short and hurried breathing, after any severe fatigue. If, however, the system becomes debilitated, through any cause, such as from typhoid, intermittant or bilious remittant fever, etc., there is a marked tendency to diarrhœic conditions, which, if not early subdued, become chronic and more difficult to control.

Quite frequently, cases are met with of remarkably strong and healthy digestive organs, where the paralytic tendencies of the incubative stage continue, without exciting diarrhœa. In such cases, there is a strong disposition to fibrinous depositions in the heart (thrombosis); and to the lodgment of fibrinous clots (embolia) in the pulmonary vessels, producing congestions and "smothering" sensations. There is also a tendency to tuberculosis, and diseases of the eye and ear, with partial paralysis of the larynx, with pains and aches in the extremities and back, simulating muscular rheumatism. Such men are soon disabled and become permanent inmates of hospitals; and not many months elapse before the abnormal states advance so far that the diseased conditions become obstinate and often incurable. Frequently this class of patients become so paralysed that they are unable to help themselves. In others, symptoms present themselves resembling somewhat those of muscular rheumatism, without the swelling and redness, but which are really scorbutic in character, and like those previously mentioned, originate from the want of a proper admixture of the necessary ingredients for healthy alimentation.

Acute Stage.—The incubative stage is followed by a looseness of the bowels, or diarrhoea more or less marked, with the development largely of gaseous products in the stomach and intestines, particularly during the evening and night. The first diarrhoeic stools generally come on towards morning. There is usually, at first, but a single passage daily, and this occurs in the latter part of the night or early in the morning. With it is passed much wind. Before the passage and immediately after there is a heat and throbbing in the lower portion of the large intestines. The evacuation is followed by a general feeling of relief, and usually there is no uneasiness about the bowels during the subsequent day. Nothing abnormal is felt till the following evening, when the stomach and intestines become again distended with flatus which appears in active motion. This continues through the night, or until the profuse evacuation, which is generally more watery than that of the first night, and is accompanied and followed by the same train of symptoms. This state of things may continue, slightly increasing, for from two to ten days, according to the food, exercise and condition of the system. Finally the bloating during the night, and the passages following and accompanying the same, become so frequent and disturb the rest of the patient so much, that he applies for medical treatment.

During the acute stage, there is a highly fermentative tendency in the alimentary canal during the evening and night, accompanied by more or less pain. The passages during this stage frequently suddenly increase from one or two daily, to twenty and more, the patient in a few hours becoming reduced so low that he is unable to get up alone; and the large intestines and sphincter become so paralyzed that the feces are passed involuntarily in bed.

The paralytic tendency, and the ringing in ears, and the pulmonary and bronchial symptoms, are more marked than in the incubative stage. The heart becomes irritable, and is thrown into violent palpitations often by excitement. The tongue becomes red, swollen, smooth, or loose and watery; the voice is often husky, and sometimes reduced to a whisper; and rheumatic pains, or what simulates them, occur in the extremities and back, and the urine becomes scanty, and often loaded with oxalates of lime. During this stage—which lasts for several days, the time varying according to the diet, exercise and condition of the patient—the disease readily yields, usually, to a simple cathartic dose of Rochelle salts, followed by the vegetable acid salts of potassa soda and iron in dilute solutions, and an albuminous animal diet. If, however, neglected, or attempts are made to suppress it with opium and astringents, and light farinaceous diet, the abnormal alimentary conditions invariably become worse, and the diarrhoea reappears with aggravated symptoms, and soon becomes chronic. There is more or less congestion of the whole alimentary canal, and especially of the stomach and large intestines, which are frequently more or less inflamed. This condition yields more readily to the remedial and dietetic means above referred to than to the ordinary remedial measures resorted to for subduing the usual inflammatory conditions. The discharges are thin and foamy—like yeast—a single passage frequently nearly filling a large chamber, very much to the surprise of both patient and attendants. In color they are either clayey, brownish, pinkish of normal, and contain more or less mucus and gelatinous (colloid) matter the latter being in little jelly-like lumps disseminated through the fecal matters. In later stages blood is frequently present. Fragments of undigested food and crystals of the triple phosphates and of oxalate of lime are scattered abundantly through the stools. Fragments of intestinal epithelium, and casts of the glandules of Lieberkuhn and often the follicles of Peyer are found in the discharges.

Chronic Stage.—During the chronic stage, the stools range from three to twenty and sometimes more per day. They occur more frequently during the night and morning than during the balance of the day, and are preceded and accompanied by the development and eructation and passage of much flatus.* The intestinal gases appear to be constantly in motion, indicating active fermentation. During the day the passages are less frequent, and there is less flatus and intestinal uneasiness. The appetite is generally good and sometimes unusually so, there being no difficulty in retaining food on the stomach. The passages are usually of a pale, ash color, thin and watery, or gelatinous and slimy, in which are disseminated in greater or less abundance—according to the severity of the case—lumps of jelly-like gelatinous (colloid) matter, frequently streaked with blood, and sometimes masses of cream-colored pus.

In other cases they are, especially in the advanced stages, various shades of green and brown, from gelatinous colloid matter and altered blood. The pus in the feces is distinguished from the colloid matter and mucus by its cream color and its readily mixing with water. The mucus and colloid matter are more glazy—like the white of an egg—and do not mix with water. The colloid matter has a yellowish and sometimes greenish tinge, and occurs in lumps and ropes, disseminated through the fecal matter, by which it is readily distinguished from the mucus, which covers the outside of the feces with a slimy layer, when they have sufficient consistence, and when not it is so mixed with the fecal matter as scarcely to be distinguished, save by the ropiness or slimy character of the passages. During this stage there is more or less uneasiness, pain and swelling in the epigastrium, and a constant tenderness, especially during nights, along the track of the colon and rectum; and in severe cases there is often complete paralysis of large intestines and sphincter, so that the feces are passed involuntarily in bed. Frequently, in such cases, the passages are composed almost entirely of gelatinous matter, which is sometimes of a dark dirty green color by reflected light, and greenish yellow by transmitted light. This matter is frequently taken for bilious secretions. Under the microscope, it is found to be composed of what appears to be algeoid cells and filaments, in little gelatinous masses. The appetite is variable, though generally remarkably good, considering the gravity of the lesions. During this stage there is a paralytic tendency showing itself, more or less, in the lower bowels and inferior extremities. The legs are very apt to prickle and "get asleep," as the patients describe it. There is also more or less bronchial and pulmonary irritation, with night and morning cough, expectoration of a sweetish cream colored mucus, and often a constricted feeling in one or both lungs, with a marked tendency to the clogging up of the pulmonary vessels with embolia, and to tubercular depositions. The disposition to functional and organic disease of the heart is increased in this stage; the symptoms of which is frequently strongly marked. Ringing in the ears is frequent at night, and there is also an amaurotic tendency, with ulcerations of the cornea, especially in advanced stages of the disease. There is considerable thirst, a watery state of the mouth and fauces, tongue generally unusually clean, and often red and watery, and sometimes bloody; urine small, and sometimes loaded with lithates; a dry, harsh, bran-like, scaly skin; a sense of uneasiness; dull pain and heat about the lower bowels; pain and tenderness in the epigastrium; and more or less pain and weakness in the lower extremities and back; frequent chilliness, intermitted occasionally by flashes of heat; a general sense of weariness and indisposition to either bodily or mental exertion; and if the disease is not checked a daily increasing emaciation. Dyspeptic symptoms show themselves, especially during the evening and night, such as acidity of stomach, sour eructations, distension of stomach and intestines with flatus, which is in constant motion, oppression or weight in the epigastrium, burning sensations about the pericordia, etc., with palpitation of the heart. The appetite, however, is seldom impaired to the extent that the lesions would seem to indicate; but, on the contrary, is often increased. As the disease progresses, and the passages increase in frequency, there is often an increased craving for food and drinks, with greater dryness of skin, mouth and fauces, and a sensation of sinking, tenderness and weakness about the stomach. The food, notwithstanding the amount consumed, produces no increase of flesh; on the contrary, a steadily increasing emaciation is almost always noticed, with increasing enervation of body and mind. The general temperature of the body is somewhat lowered, either phosphuric or oxaluric symptoms set in, and the patient becomes peevish, fretful, complaining and hypochondriacal, magnifying his pains and sensations. The memory becomes impaired, and the sick man more or less childish. There is a disagreeable exhalation from the surface of the body and from the pulmonary membranes. The feces have a peculiar offensive fermentative odor, and the urine is small and is generally loaded with lithates and oxalates. The tongue is usually clean and watery, with red edges and centre, and is sometimes bloody; and there is a peculiar disposition to an irritable condition of the pulmonary membranes, with tickling sensations, and night and morning cough and expectoration of thick, sweetish yellow mucus, some oppression at times in breathing, and frequently a peculiar constricting sensation in the pharynx in going through with the act of swallowing. Where there is a predisposition to phthisis, the disease is very apt to be rapidly developed. The gums sometimes assume a reddish, spongy appearance, and readily bleed; and the breath is very offensive. Palpitation of the heart becomes a frequent and troublesome symptom. There is often irritation, to a greater or less extent, in the bladder and urethra, with icteroid tendencies. In this stage of the complaint there is a remarkable tendency to tubercular development in the lungs, with the usual attendant symptoms. The patient sinks rapidly, the emaciation and debility become extreme, and sometimes what appears to be a peculiar diphtheretic exudation, but which is really yeast plants developing in the glycogenic mucous secretions,* shows itself creeping up in the pharynx and fauces, and finally dips down into the larynx, and the patient soon expires, exhausted, apparently, from the want of nourishment, which, although taken freely, is not appropriated, it passing in the feces mostly undigested.

* Frequently the intestines are so thoroughly paralyzed that the patients are unable to pass the flatus, it remaining, distending the abdomen to a most uncomfortable extent.

In the alimentary canal of all soldiers in active service there seems to be excited a peculiar fermentative tendency and scorbutic condition. This condition renders them very susceptible to attacks of chronic diarrhœa, whenever their symptoms are enervated by other diseases, such as dysentery, intermittent, bilious remittent or typhoid fever, over-fatigue, or other causes that enfeeble the system and impair digestion. This is the reason why chronic diarrhœa so often follows and accompanies these diseases. In such cases it appears merely as a complication of other pathological conditions, which modify its incubative and acute stages, so that the preceding remarks, relating to the history and progress of the several stages of uncomplicated chronic diarrhœa are not strictly applicable to this class of cases. The conditions, however, in the chronic stage of both are alike, and require the same management, diet and treatment.

There appears to be in armies a peculiar condition of the alimentary canal, even in well soldiers, (as is evidenced by post mortems of those that are shot dead in battle,) predisposing them to attacks of chronic diarrhœa, upon exposure to any cause that enervates the system and impairs digestion. This condition is a chronic one that gives no particular pain or inconvenience to the soldier, unless excited into activity by enfeebling influences, such as attacks of fever, dysentery, over-fatigue, insufficient and improper food, or other debilitating causes. This chronic condition is the same in nature as that of chronic diarrhœa, it only being less in degree, and arises from the same cause.

There is in this disease a remarkable tendency to the formation of fibrinous deposits in the heart and pulmonary vessels, and to tubercular depositions in the lungs. Usually the system has not long been under the influence of the disease before there are indications that these abnormal formations have already begun. In later stages night sweats set in and frequently become very enervating and unpleasant symptoms. The skin becomes dry and scaly, the urine scanty, the abdomen sunken, pulse from 90 to 140 per minute, voice husky and hollow, and sometimes reduced to a whisper, the cornea occasionally ulcerates, and not unfrequently, in severe cases, fatal congestion of the lungs or brain set in, and prove fatal in a few hours. Sometimes obstinate renal congestions occur, accompanied by suppression of urine, and consequent uremic poisoning, which prove fatal.

* There appears to be excited in the system a highly saccharine condition, the secretions all passing readily into fermentative states developing yeast plants.

† See Medical and Surgical Reports of Crimean War, where post mortems of well soldiers shot dead in battle are described.

‡ One reason why intestinal lesions pass unnoticed by the apparently well soldier is owing to the paralytic condition of the intestinal walls, caused by a too exclusive use of amylaceous food.

MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION OF FECES.

The microscopic examinations of the fecal matters of well-marked cases of Chronic Diarrhœa, were commenced in the hospitals at Washington. The patients had contracted the disease during the Peninsula campaign. These cases were numerous, well-marked, and obstinate, and many terminated fatally.

The examinations were extended to the hospitals of Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio, and finally to those of Philadelphia. The feces of several hundred well-marked cases, during this extended and most disagreeable labor, were subjected to a careful microscopic examination, and the results recorded, and drawings made of the abnormal bodies found. These detailed examinations of individual cases are herewith submitted, so far as necessary to give a clear idea of the character of the labor, the varied forms of the disease, the pathological states excited, &c., &c.

I will here merely state, that wherever a campaign of any extent, requiring rapid movement, has occurred, the men have been thrown mostly upon a diet of hard biscuit and coffee. This diet invariably has tended to produce constipation, flatulence, and fermentative changes in the retained alimentary materials, and these have been followed sooner or later by the abnormal conditions previously described under the heads of the Incubative, Acute, and Chronic stages of chronic diarrhœa. The microscopic examinations have thrown much light upon the cause of many diseased conditions, and indicated the means of preventing and curing them, and suggested the experiments which will be found further on, connected with the production of chronic diarrhœa and its intercurrent abnormal states, by the use of army biscuit as a diet.

In the fecal matters of all the well-marked cases, I found a peculiar, very large thick-walled cell-body, developing by segmentation sometimes, and by actual growth from smaller cells in others, and which, in its active stage of development, was filled with highly refractive large cell nuclei, which at maturity escaped and were developed frequently into filaments, along which were scattered remnants of the cells.* These filaments had much the appearance of some confervoid growths; and the large cases, the sporangia, in which the cells forming the filaments were developed. This growth usually occurred in the fecal matters, in little gelatinous, ropy, translucent masses, often of a greenish or yellowish tinge. These jelly masses, on exposure to sunlight, have a tendency to become green. Occasionally a case is met with where the entire discharge is this ropy or lumpy, translucent, jelly-like matter; and in such cases it is usually of a dirty dark green color by reflected light, and a dirty greenish yellow, in thin layers, by transmitted light. These discharges often deceive the physician into the opinion that he has succeeded in promoting hepatic secretion, which he frequently construes favorably, when in fact his patient is really worse—this matter being almost entirely made up of the peculiar cells and filaments here referred to.

CASE I.—History.—Wm. Rose, private, Tod Scouts; German; age about 28. Was attacked with dysentery, which was followed by chronic diarrhœa, the second week in August. Was previously strong and robust. Saw him September 29th; patient reduced to a mere skeleton; appetite very good, but eating does not seem to satisfy him; has a pale, anxious look, eyes sunken, skin dry, scaly, and clinging to bones; stools frequent, small, ropy, gelatinous, and of a dirty green color; urine small, dark colored, oxaluric, and loaded with lithates; so weak that he cannot raise himself up in bed. The parotid gland on the right side is swollen, hard and red, and there is considerable ptyalism. The patient is weak, hypochondriacal, and is not expected to live a week longer. He has had no mercurial preparations for the last ten days. For the last three days he has been taking small doses of turpentine, during which time the parotid gland has been swelling.

* The drawings of the bodies found in the feces, I regret, I am unable to give in this paper. It has been impossible to get the engraving properly done.

Dr. C. D. Palmer, Acting Asst. Surg. V., has charge of this case.

Microscopic Examination.—The fecal matters were carefully examined under the microscope. The dirty dark green gelatinous discharge was made up of large, highly transparent, thick-walled cell-cases, some of which were empty, and others filled with large, highly refractive, thin-walled cells, containing in some instances what appeared to be minute, oblong, spheroid bodies. These large cases were imbedded mostly in the gelatinous matter, and were surrounded by gelatiniform filaments, along which were remnants of cells internally. Torrula cells occurred in multitudes in this matter, and also the spores of another fungus of an entirely different character, and which appeared to be those of a species of pennicillium. These were rapidly vegetating, the filaments already being (when magnified 300 diameters) from $\frac{1}{4}$ an inch to 3 inches in length. This latter plant is usually found in abundance in all those cases where the stools are green and gelatinous.

This patient died October 10th, eleven days after the examination of the feces. Before death his breathing became hurried and labored, and he expectorated considerable mucus mixed with pus.

Post-mortem, four hours after death, by Dr. C. D. Palmer, Acting Asst. Surg. V., who has kindly furnished me with the following:

“No adipose in any part of the body. Omentum entirely free from fat, highly congested, and dark in color.

Stomach, not examined.

Small Intestines, congested in streaks and patches; otherwise quite normal.

Large Intestines, were thickened throughout their entire length. The villi and follicles were enlarged, and elevated above the surface of the mucous membrane, forming little vascular fungoid masses, from one to three lines in diameter, larger above and constricted below. These were more numerous in the rectum and descending colon, than towards the coecal valve. In several places these fungoid elevations were breaking down and ulcerating. The spaces between the enlarged follicles and villi, were of a red beef color.

Lungs.—The lower and posterior part of right lung was hepatized and in an incipient stage of suppuration; the adjoining lung around this was in a state of red hepatization; and the left lung was also in the same state. Sero-purulent fluid to the amount of 4 or 5 ounces in the pleural cavity of the right side, and 3 or 4 ounces in that of the left.

Liver, normal.

Spleen, somewhat enlarged and softened.”

CASE II.—History.—George Simpson, sergeant, Co. I, 83d O. V. I. This patient has been sick with chronic diarrhœa for nearly a year. Has been gradually sinking; is confined mostly to his bed. He is much emaciated; pale, eyes sunken, and is very desponding. Occasionally for a week he will appear to be recovering, and his stools more natural. These periods appear to be remissions in the disease. It returns always in a few days, reducing the patient again, so that he has to take his bed.

Saw him September 30. His stools were moderately thin, of a pale ash color, through which were scattered small gelatinous masses of a pale greenish tinge. Has only about one passage of urine in 24 hours. Urine high colored, and deposits on standing large quantities of lithates.

Microscopic Examinations.—The fecal matter was filled with what appeared to be disintegrating epithelium. The large cell-cases, mentioned in Case I., were abundant in the greenish gelatinous masses. There was also a multitude of forrula cells, but none of the vegetating spores found in the preceding case.

CASE III.—J. B. Loomis, private, Co. A, 8th Mich. V. I.

History.—Found the patient desponding; eyes sunken, skin dry, body considerably emaciated; confined to bed, having several rather copious passages daily, which were very thin and watery, and in which fragments of comminuted undigested food settled. The following history and treatment of the case has been kindly furnished me by the attending physician, C. T. Simpson, Surg. U. S. V.:

“Admitted into West End U. S. A. Hospital, Aug. 12, 1863. He says that he has been sick and in hospital six and a half months with chronic diarrhoea. Previous to enlistment he had been an invalid for five years, having had dyspepsia during that time. He entered service as a musician, and had only performed such service. On admission, the patient was quite weak and debilitated; tongue almost clean, pulse feeble, skin jaundiced; had no appetite; very little diarrhoea at present. To have beef tea and brandy toddy.

Aug. 16.—Condition about the same as on admission, except not quite so weak.

R—Ext. cinchonæ comp., ʒi.

Ammonium muriat., ʒi.

Aquæ distil., ʒiii.

M. S. ʒss. three times daily.

Beef essence, beefsteak, &c.

Aug. 18.—Patient not doing so well. Stools more frequent, and of a yellowish green color. Says he cannot take the mixture. Stop it, and give R—Quinine sulph., ʒi.

Acid sulph., aromat., ʒss.

Morph. sulph., gr. ii.

Aquæ menth. bisst., ʒiv.

M. S. ʒii. every 4th hour.

Aug. 19.—Some improvement. Continue treatment. Give also milk punch, beef essence, beefsteaks, &c.

Aug. 28.—Up to date he seems to have been improving, but to-day does not appear so well; is still quite pale and feeble. Continue treatment.

Sept. 1.—Stop the mixture, and give as follows:

R—Ferri sulph., gr. x.

Quinine sulph., gr. x.

Pulv. opii, gr. v.

Make into x pills, and give 1 three times daily.

Sept. 3.—Getting stronger, but still has some diarrhoea. Continue treatment. Beefsteaks and eggs.

Sept. 15.—Patient seems much better; is able to go about the house. Stools less frequent, yet some days will have from five to seven stools, and perhaps the next day will have but one or two. To continue treatment and diet.

Sept. 22.—Patient does not appear so well to-day, but is not confined to bed.

R—Ol. amygdal. dulcis, 3ii.

Pulv. acacæ, 3ii.

Morph. sulph., gr. iss.

Aquæ menth. pip., 3iv.

M. S. Desert spoonful three times daily.

Sept. 27.—Up to date, has improved but little if any.

R—Pulv. opii., grs. v.

Hydrag. bi-chlor., gr. ½.

Cretæ prepar., 3 i.

M. and triturate well, and divide into 10 parts.

S. One every 4 hours. Special diet.

Oct. 8.—Stop all medicines, and apply freely over epigastrium, tinc. iodine. Special diet; beef essence in small quantities.

Oct. 12.—At present taking no medicines. Has from five to seven stools daily.

Oct. 13.—Has had but three stools in the last twenty-four hours. Condition better.

The main features in this case have been the almost total want of effect of any and all the medicinal agents employed. At times he will be well enough to go about the house, and again, without any apparent cause, the diarrhœa will be so troublesome and debilitating, that he will be confined to his bed for several days. He is also quite hypochondrical. At present under no medical treatment, and with a promise of discharge he is convalescing; but in my opinion will never sufficiently recover to be of any service to the government.

Respectfully submitted,

C. T. SIMPSON, S. U. S. V."

The fecal matters are tolerably copious and watery—in which settles comminuted, undigested food. The watery portion has the color of turbid coffee. No more offensive than natural. On shaking, the liquid portion becomes frothy like a solution of soap.

Microscopic Examination.—Mingled or disseminated through the liquid and solid portions, are numerous flocs of gelatinous matter about the size of peas. These are made up of large cell cases and filaments. Held in and adhering to the gelatinous masses are numerous large globules of fatty matter. The cell cases frequently occur in large masses—attached to each other as if they had multiplied by successive segmentation. The large thin-walled and highly refractive cells in these cases (thin cell walls resemble somewhat the walls of fat cells), are colored a light greenish-yellow by transmitted light. In masses by reflected light, they are, however, more of a green. Some of them contain small oblong, spore-like looking cells, which are in some instances plainly exhibited and are beginning to develop.

In the fecal matter of this case, was found a few greenish confervoid filaments and palmelloid cells. These may have come from the water drank, as they were not usually found in the other cases examined. Torula cells were very abundant, indicating a highly fermentative condition of the alimentary contents.

CASE IV.—History.—F. Grimm, private, Co. A, 54th O. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa in the early part of July last—nearly five months since—at Murfreesboro, Tenn. Had been living principally on the dry army biscuit, for some time previous. Attack preceded by constipation; attended with bloating of bowels at night. The diarrhœa commenced by one profuse passage per day, which gradually grew worse. Passages always more numerous, and bowels more bloated during the night than day. Has had from the first, ringing in the ears, a mixed up or confused feeling in the head, and prickling numb sensations in the legs.

The patient has been gradually failing from the time of his attack to the time of his examination, Oct. 27th. Remedial agents have thus far appeared to produce no beneficial results. He is much emaciated, weak, confined to bed, hypochondriacal, sallow, bloodless, eyes sunken, skin dry and scaly, and occasionally he suffers considerable pain in the stomach, bowels and chest. His stools range from five to ten per day, and are thin and watery, tolerably abundant, and of a pale ash color. They are so thin, that the comminuted, undigested food settles in them. The following description and treatment of the case has been kindly furnished by Dr. White, Surgeon in charge of West End Hospital, Cincinnati, where the patient has been since August last :

"Admitted Aug. 14, 1863. Patient has had diarrhœa for more than a month previous to admission into this hospital. At times it would be checked for a few days; but would again come on after exposure to the weather, or imprudence in diet. No account of treatment previous to admission. Since admission has been under the following treatment :

Aug. 22.— \mathcal{R} —Acid nitric dil., 3 i.
Aqua camphor, 3 viii.
Tinct. opii, gtt. xl.

M. S. 3 ii. every four hours.

Aug. 26.—Discontinued the above prescription, and gave as follows :

\mathcal{R} —Quinine sulph., gr. xii.
Pulv. ipecac., gr. vi.
Pulv. opii., gr. vi.

M. Make pills, xii.

S. One every three hours.

Diet: milk, tapioca, chicken broth, &c. Continued this treatment till Aug. 30. No particular change in condition of patient. Aug. 30, discontinued above prescription, and gave instead an emulsion of sweet almonds. Diet, beef-tea, eggs, whisky toddy.

Sept. 14.—Gave \mathcal{R} —Cupri. sulph., gr. iii.
Pulv. opii., gr. iii.

M. Make pills, xii.

S. One 1½ hours after each operation.

Did not improve on treatment. Used instead, compound capsicum pills.

Sept. 20th.—Patient about the same; operations numbered from five to seven in 24 hours; generally thin and watery.

Sept. 24.— \mathcal{R} —Bismuth sub. nit., 3 i.
Pulv. camphor, gr. xii.
 \mathcal{P} Pulv. opii., gr. vi.

M. Divide into parts, vi. S. One every three hours.

Oct. 13.—Resumed use of bismuth powders. Patient feels a little better. Diet continued.

\mathcal{R} —Ferri citrate, 3 i.
Vini albi, 3 iv.

M. S. Tablespoonful three times a day.

Oct. 22.—Passages continue about the same; generally thin. Occasionally his passages have some consistence. To-day discontinued all treatment. Applied turpentine stupes on abdomen. Diet, poached eggs for breakfast; tapioca, or farina soup, milk, &c., for other meals.

Oct. 23.—Suffered a good deal of pain last night.

R—Ol. teribinth, 3 i.

Syrnp simp., 3 i.

Aqua, 3 i.

M. S. A teaspoonful three times a day.

R—Pulv. opii., gr. xv.

Make pills, xv. S. One every two hours.

Oct. 25. Continued turpentine. Increased opium to gr. iss. every two hours. Patient is weaker than he was two weeks ago. Appetite not so good. Strength failing."

I have introduced the foregoing detailed progress and treatment of the two cases at West End Hospital, as samples of the usual mode of treating the disease—the surgeon feeling his way along from day to day—and to show the either little, uncertain, unsatisfactory, or no response obtained from the remedies used.

Microscopic Examination.—The fecal matter is filled with small jelly masses, which contain an abundance of the large faintly greenish-yellow cell cases; some empty and some filled with cells.

Torrula cells are numerous; also the spherical spores of a species of penicillium. Peculiar polyhedral cells, which are highly refractive, occur in masses, each cell of which contains a crystal of sugar, which is an oblique prism.

CASE V.—History.—Isaac M. Priest, corporal, Co. H, 19th O. V. I. This patient came from Chattanooga, arriving at Washington Park Hospital, Cincinnati, Oct. 24, 1863. Was first taken with chronic diarrhœa, according to his own statement, in June last, at Murfreesboro. The chronic diarrhœa was preceded by constipation and flatulence, which lasted several weeks. Was living principally on army biscuit and coffee at the time. The constipation was followed by a diarrhœa, which gradually increased in severity. The passages came on mostly during the night and morning. They were preceded and accompanied by the development, eructation and passage of wind.

In the month of July typhoid fever set in; recovered from this about the 20th of August: the chronic diarrhœa, however, still continued. The patient is now (Oct. 25) emaciated, weak, and confined entirely to bed; cannot raise himself up alone; feces pass involuntarily in bed; no control over sphincters; paralyzed. Passages thin, rather watery and small. Food passes mostly undigested. The stools contain a large amount of fatty matter, in large globules, from which acicular crystals of stearine radiate, giving them the appearance of ciliated animalcular bodies. Patient looks pale, bloodless, yellow and haggard. Eyes sunken and skin dry and feverish. Hypochondrial and has no hopes of recovery. Urine scanty and filled with lithates and oxalates. Is very low; will not survive long.

This is a well marked case of chronic diarrhœa, resembling all of those cases which accompany or follow typhoid fever.

Microscopic Examination.—The fecal matters are filled with flocs and masses of pale, greenish, gelatinous (colloid) matter, like jelly. These contained in abundance the large cell cases and filaments before described. Torrula cells existed in large numbers. There were also many confervoid filaments, and the peculiar, highly refractive polyhedral cells, each containing a crystal of sugar. Casts of the tubular glands of the colon and rectum were abundant. They resembled small masses of honey-comb.

There were also various sized spherical bodies, some very large and others smaller, which had the appearance of being ciliated animalcular organisms, and which supposed at first they were; but which were soon found to be oil globules, from which radiated in every direction acicular crystals of stearine. These crystals bore a marked resemblance to ciliae. Similar masses and globules of fatty matter, minus the ciliated, radiating needles, are abundant in the fecal discharges of nearly all cases of genuine chronic diarrhœa. Smaller globules of this character are particularly abundant.

October 29.—At 7 A. M., this patient died. Before death, there was an exudation—or what was taken for one—lining the pharynx and fauces, and dipping down into the larynx. The microscope demonstrated this apparent exudation to be merely a layer of torrula cells developing with great rapidity and in incalculable numbers in the saccharine mucus secretions. They were found to have gradually crept off the œsophagus from the stomach, into the fauces, where they dipped down into the larynx. This is of frequent occurrence in the last stages of the disease, and is a sure sign of approaching death.

Post-mortem.—Oct. 30, 10 A. M.—27 hours after death. Weather cold, and body well preserved. On laying open the larynx and trachea, found the mucus membrane of the larynx, and that of about half an inch of the upper portion of the trachea, covered in patches with what appeared to be exudation, about one line in thickness. This was loose and readily detached from the mucus surface. A portion was removed for microscopic examination. At 11 A. M., one hour after its removal, examined it with the microscope. Found it composed of a mass of torrula cells, held together by the vegetating spores and mycelium of another species of fungus, which resembled a pennicellium. The exudation was rich in sugar and acid, and was really a vegetation exciting fermentative changes in glycogenic and saccharine secretions.*

Liver.—The liver was slightly more yellow than normal; otherwise apparently healthy.

Spleen.—The spleen was somewhat enlarged, and filled with red fluid blood, and softened.

Stomach.—The stomach was enlarged, walls thickened, and empty with the exception of a thin layer of greasy pultaceous matter, closely adherent to its internal surface. On removing this, the follicles and villi were found enlarged, and elevated above the surface about half a line, presenting the appearance of little fungoid excrescences from one to two lines in diameter, and spreading above and constricted below. These were easily torn off, leaving ragged edged depressions, resembling the bed of ulcers. The portion of the stomach not occupied by these was of a red beef color.

Small Intestines.—The small intestines were distended with wind, and coated inside with a thin adherent layer of dirty yellow pultaceous matter, that had a highly offensive and fermentative odor. This was filled with torrula cells, actively developing, and multitudes of the vegetating spores of a species of pennicellium. On removing this layer, the intestinal coat was found in a tolerably healthy condition, save in small streaks and patches, which had a beef red color. Walls not thickened.

Large Intestines.—These were coated inside with a thin layer of ad-

*This exudation in the fauces is frequently noticed in the late stages of chronic diarrhœa, and is strongly indicative of the presence of a highly glycogenic or saccharine and fermentative condition of the system, and especially of the epithelium of the alimentary and pulmonary membranes.

herent yellow pultaceous matter, slimy and gelatinous, and filled with torrela cells and the spores, developing filaments of the same species of pennicellium found developing in the small intestines, stomach and fauces. This matter had a very offensive, fermentative odor, and was filled with minute bubbles of air. On removing this, the whole length of the large intestines, up to the coecal valve and about one inch above it, was found very much thickened, and the internal membrane completely studded with ragged patches, or fungoid elevations, from one to two lines in diameter, and elevated above the surface from one-fourth to one-half a line. The patches were wider above and constricted below, and consisted of the enlarged follicles and villi, and infiltrated connective tissue. On tearing these off, a ragged edged red depression, like that of an ulcer, presented itself under each; sometimes several were connected. The portion of the surface not occupied with these was of a beef red color.

Mesenteric Glands.—The mesenteric glands of the small intestines appeared somewhat enlarged, but were otherwise normal. The mesenteric glands of the large intestines were highly congested and very much enlarged and red.

Omentum.—The omentum was perfectly free from fat, and highly congested.

The lungs and heart were not examined.

In the little masses of gelatinous (colloid) matters in the intestines, were the numerous large cell-cases—both filled and empty—that occurred so abundantly in the previous cases, and which are uniformly present in this disease.

These cells and the gelatinous masses are not unlike the gelatinous matters and so-called cells that occur sometimes in the urinary organs, in certain chronic forms of pyelitis, cystitis, &c., where the bladder and kidneys are involved, and the mucus membrane of the former becomes studded with fungoid elevations like those in the large intestines of chronic diarrhoea. This matter also resembles closely the so-called gelatinous (colloid) matter that is developed in the thyroid gland, in the disease known as goitre, or bronchocele.

In the discharges of chronic diarrhoea, these colloid cells occur in great numbers, and often many connected together. They appear to develop or multiply not unlike low algaoid forms. The fact that they tend to turn green under the influence of sunlight, is further evidence in this direction.

CASE VI.—History.—John Rattepat, private, 99th O. V. I., German. He states that he has been sick one year and three months with chronic diarrhoea. Was attacked near Nashville. Came to Washington Park Hospital, Cincinnati, October 9, 1863. He is pale, weak, and very much emaciated. Skin dry and hugs the bones. He is hypochondriacal—nothing going well with him; is very feeble. Passages small, and ranging from one to six per day. The little hard masses that lie in his rectum, when he has but one passage per day, are covered with slime, and free from the gelatinous lumps peculiar to the fecal matter when his bowels move several times daily. Urine loaded with oxalate of lime crystals.

Microscopic Examination.—When his stools are frequent and thin, they are filled with the large (colloid) cell cases, and filaments developed from them. Stools pale ash color, and contain considerable undigested food. Urine small, and loaded with lithates and oxalate of lime. Is troubled with much flatulency at night. Feces filled with torrela cells. They also contain many confervoid filaments. Has had a cough nights most of time since the attack, with a constricted feeling in chest, and palpitation of heart. Legs often get numb and asleep. Ears ring at night, and head feels mixed up and numb frequently.

CASE VII.—History and Treatment—Emanuel Wolf, private Company D, Pennsylvania Artillery, was first attacked with chronic diarrhea below Vicksburg, at Millikin's Bend, in May, 1863; diarrhea preceded by costiveness of some days standing. Before it commenced, remembers to have been troubled with wind in bowels. The passages gradually increased in number daily till the disease reduced him very low. Remained below till recently. Came North and entered Seminary Hospital, Covington, Ky., Oct. 9, 1863. Was lying in camp, hardly able to drag himself about till he came to Covington. He has been troubled much with flatulence, especially evenings and nights. Legs are apt to "get asleep;" has night and morning coughs, with some expectoration of sweetish mucous, and palpitation of heart. Saw him on Oct. 29th; appeared to be slowly improving since he came into Seminary Hospital. He is attended by Acting Assistant Surgeon J. T. Wise, who has, as a daily medicine, given him the following:

R.—Misturæ cretæ, ℥iii.

Tinc. catechu, ℥iss.

Tinc. opii, ℥ss.

M. S. A teaspoonful every four hours.

When the liver is not sufficiently active, he has given in addition—

R.—Mass. Hydrarg., gr. ix.

Pulv. opii, gr. vi.

Tannin, gr. xii.

M. Make pills vi. S. one every six hours.

Diet—Milk and bread for breakfast, and rich chicken soup for dinner.

Under this treatment the patient has been gradually gaining. His passages are, however, still thin (Oct. 29th), and full of peculiar cells (colloid), and he is still weak, though slowly improving.

Microscopic Examination.—Stools of a pale ash color, and filled with little masses of jelly-like substance (colloid), which contain an abundance of large cell cases and filaments, mentioned in the previous cases. So thin are the stools, that the particles of undigested food settle to the bottom of the vessel. Torrula cells are numerous. There are many confervoid filaments, and highly refractive polyhedral cells in masses, each of which contains a crystal of sugar. Masses of the casts of the tubular glands of the large intestines are abundant in feces. They resemble in shape the honey-comb.

There is a highly fermentative condition in the alimentary canal, generating large quantities of gaseous products during the evening and night, and producing frequent passages. Yeast (torrula) cells are developed in multitudes. The food taken through the day commences to ferment actively by evening, and continues to do so till all is evacuated. This fermentative process distends the bowels, and acts as an irritant and cathartic.

CASE VIII.—History—Thomas Franklin, Company I, 65th Ind. Infantry, was attacked in April, 1863, in the vicinity of Murfreesboro', with chronic diarrhea. Has been laboring under the disease from that time to the present. He entered Seminary Hospital October 10, 1863; was much emaciated and weak. Dr. Wise attended to this patient, and followed the same treatment as in the previous case. Has been gradually improving. Is able now to walk outside, and is gaining in flesh. His stools are, however, still frequent, thin, and of a pale ash color, the comminuted food passing partially undigested.

Microscopic Examination.—Examined feces Oct. 29th. They were thin, watery and pale, and contained numerous masses and ropes of gelatinous (colloid) matter, of a greenish-yellow color. In these were numerous (colloid) cells, confervoid filaments, and a multitude of torrula cells, the latter indicating active alimentary fermentation, and explaining the origin of the flatul, which nightly distends the stomach and bowels.

CASE IX.—History and Treatment—J. P. Titcomb. Company A, 11th N. H. Vol. Infantry entered Main street Hospital, Covington, July 7th, 1863, where he now is. Has had chronic diarrhea fourteen months. His stools average about four per day at present, and are beginning to have a little consistence. They are still, however, of an ash color, and somewhat ropy. Fragments of food pass undigested. The history of the attack and the progress of the disease is very much like the cases described.

The treatment followed in this case was kindly furnished by the surgeon in charge, Dr. Speer:

"When admitted into Main street Hospital, July 7th, 1863, he commenced taking the following:

R.—Aquæ camphor, ℥iv.

Acid sulph., dil., ℥ii.

Tinc. opii, ℥i.

M. S. Tablespoonfull every three hours.

This was continued for three weeks, and then he commenced taking—three times a day, which has been continued up to the present time, Nov. 2. Has been slowly improving. For the last three months he has been able to go about. Has now, on an average four stools a day."

Microscopic Examination.—Examined feces Nov. 2. The masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter are abundant in the stools. They are filled with the large colloid cells and filaments; also a multitude of torrula cells, and many confervoid filaments. Numerous masses resembling honey-comb, and consisting of casts of the tubular glandules of the large intestines, were scattered through the feces.

CASE X.—History and Treatment—Wm. M. Courser, Company D, 11th N. H. Vol. Infantry, entered Main Street Hospital, Aug. 23, 1863. Attacked with chronic diarrhea the 1st of June last. Feces thin, pale ash color, and rather plastic and ropy. Considerable comminuted food passes undigested. The early history of the case is similar to the preceding one.

The following treatment, furnished by the surgeon in charge, Dr. Speer, has been closely followed since the patient entered Main Street Hospital:

"R.—Ferri per. sulph., ℥i.

Piperine, gr. 10.

Pulv. opii, gr. x.

M. Make pills x. S. One every three hours.

This prescription was used up to Oct. 1st. Since then he has been taking the following:

R.—Argent. Nit. gr. iii.

Ext. nux vom., gr. xxii.

Ext. hyos., gr. xii.

M. Pills No. xii. S. One morning and night.

He is improving under this treatment."

Microscopic Examination.—Feces examined Nov. 2. Pale ash color, quite thin, and filled with the peculiar masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, in which were large colloid cells and filaments, and multitudes of torrula cells. There were also present many confervoid filaments.

DENNISON U. S. A. GENERAL HOSPITAL.

After completing the examinations and experiments in the hospitals of Washington, Tennessee, and Kentucky, I repaired to Dennison U. S. A. General Hospital. Here through the kindness of Dr. King, Medical Director of the Department of the Ohio, and Dr. Carpenter, Medical Director of the District of Ohio, and Dr. Cloak, surgeon in charge of Dennison Hospital, I had every facility extended to me at this point, for carrying on microscopic researches connected with the cause, &c., of the disease. They also, with their characteristic kindness and zeal for the advancement of medical knowledge, placed at my disposal a ward, into which the marked cases of the disease were placed for the special treatment and diet indicated by the previous microscopic examinations, observations, and experiments.

I passed through the wards of the hospital as rapidly as possible, examining, microscopically, the stools of those who had labored long under the disease, and from them selected twenty of the most aggravated cases, which had resisted the ordinary treatment, and on Nov. 17 transferred them to ward 30, which had been previously vacated and cleaned for the purpose.

Here they were put on an albuminous diet, and remedial agents, as indicated farther on, under the head of Treatment and Diet. Act. Assist. Surgeon C. D. Palmer, very kindly took charge of this ward, and entered with interest and zeal upon the work of following out the new plan of diet and treatment. To him am I indebted for faithfully carrying out the plan of treatment. His report will appear farther on.

As patients daily came into the hospital from Nashville and other points below, the number of chronic diarrhœa patients were increased till all the beds (40) were full.

The following are brief histories of the cases with microscopic examinations of the stools, etc:

CASE XI.—History.—Andrew Van Buren, Co. I, 90th O. V. I., attacked with chronic diarrhœa, followed by intermittant fever, at Murfreesboro, about the middle of May, 1863. He was at first constipated for several weeks, during which time he was living largely on army biscuit. Before the diarrhœa commenced, he remembers that he was disturbed nights with a rumbling of wind in his bowels. This was followed by looseness, which gradually increased from one profuse passage per day to twenty or more. Has been troubled much with the development of gases in stomach and intestines during nights. Has now three and four passages per day. Had twenty passages per day up to about three weeks ago. Stools now begin to look quite healthy; saw masses of whitish pus streaked with blood, adhering to the feces. There is considerable ulceration in the rectum.

Microscopic Examination.—The feces contain, besides pus, numerous gelatinous (colloid) masses filled with colloid cells and filaments. The torrula cells were present, but only in moderate quantity. Fermentation at present not active; the principal trouble being ulceration of the rectum, and symptoms of tuberculosis. He has been taking for a few weeks back the following:

R—Nit. acid dil. gtt. 16.

Aqua camph. 3i.

Syrup morph. 3i.

M. S. Tablespoonful every two or three hours.

CASE XII.—History.—James Maxwell, Co. K, 2d O. V. I. Attacked March 15, 1863, with bilious remittant fever, at Murfresboro. Soon after diarrhœa set in, preceding which was constipation. The number of stools increased gradually, from day to day, till he had about twenty in twenty-four hours. Has now, on an average, about five stools daily. They are thin and of a pale ash color, and tinged with blood. Some ulceration of colon in this case. Has but little wind developed in bowels at present.

Microscopic Examination.—Mixed through the stools were numerous little masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, containing colloid cells. There were also torrula cells in moderate numbers and many confervoid filaments. Patient pale, weak and anæmic, eyes sunken. Many pus cells in feces. Able to sit up most of time. Appetite good. In this case, the Surgeon states that he has been able to produce no improvement for some time.

CASE XIII.—History.—Theodore W. Fisher, 1st Sergt. Co. H, 36th Mass. V. I. Was attacked with chronic diarrhœa back of Vicksburg, in July last. This was soon followed by an attack of bilious remittant fever. Soon after diarrhœa commenced, had from ten to fifteen passages daily. Has now about five. Is in very good flesh, but is pale and weak. Is troubled with legs getting asleep, and a thick, mixed-up numb feeling in head. Has heavy throbbing pains in lower intestines. Urine small, and loaded with lithates and oxalates. Has constant pain in back. Is hypochondriacal and languid. Surgeon in charge of this case says he is unable to do the patient any good.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces soft and ropy and quite normal in color. Contain numerous small jelly or gelatinous (colloid) masses filled with colloid cells. Flatulence slight and torrula cells but few. Formerly he bloated much at night, but this has now pretty much ceased. This patient is rather laboring under the sequelæ of chronic diarrhœa than under the disease itself.

CASE XIV.—History.—Joshua Wiseman, Co. D, 97th O. V. I. Has had chronic diarrhœa over one year. Now improving. Has, on an average, about four passages daily. Feces begin to assume a normal consistence and color. But little flatulence and abdominal pain. Stools contain still small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, filled with colloid cells and filaments. There are a few confervoid filaments and torrula cells. The irritation about chest and the paralytic symptoms have mostly disappeared.

CASE XV.—History.—James Lyon, private Co. E, 45th O. V. I. Age 45. Has had chronic diarrhœa over one year. Alimentary canal in a bad condition, yet is able to walk about. Feces rather dark, and mixed with gelatinous matter and blood; thin, watery and offensive. Bowels and stomach distended much with wind, during the evening and night. Has sour eructations and passes much wind with feces. Stools mostly during night, and range from five to eight daily. Extremities get asleep and feel numb. Head feels numb and mixed up; ringing in ears at night, and a blur before the eyes; with frequent flashes of light. Naturally a strong, robust man. Has some oppression about the chest, with night and morning cough, which is at times dry and often loose. Some palpitation of heart, and pain and uneasiness in epigastrium. Has constantly a dull pain through the abdomen, with a "numb feeling." In colon and rectum has heat and throbbing, with dull pain. Eyes sunken and dark underneath; appetite good, but feels constantly oppressed.

Microscopic Examination.—Stools thin and dark, with gelatinous (colloid) matter mixed all through them, rendering them ropy. They contain multitudes of torrula cells, and a species of saracina (wool-sack plant). The cells are smaller and more highly pearly than in the ventriculi, and occur either single, in twos or in fours. Seldom more than two and never more than four together. Increase by segmentation. The fecal matter contains multitudes of colloid cells and filaments. They also contain large masses or rather layers of highly refractive polyhedral cells, each one of which contains a crystal (Hexagonal or four-sided prism or an octohedron). These are very abundant. They are seen in all stages of formation. Equally abundant are the highly refractive honey comb casts of the tubular glandules of the large intestines. These are arranged with great regularity in a single layer, like the cells of honey-comb, are highly refractive and have an internal cavity, containing minute pearly granules or cells. The peculiar cells, each one of which contains a crystal of sugar, appear to all be derived from the cells in the colloid cases.

Peculiar confervoid filaments are also present.

This is a very interesting and well marked case of chronic diarrhœa of long standing.

CASE XVI.—History.—B. Myers, Co. C., 57th O. V. I., aged 21. Was taken with chronic diarrhœa in May, 1863, seven months ago. Diarrhœa preceded by constipation, accompanied by flatulence during night. After the diarrhœa commenced, it gradually increased from one passage a day up to twelve and fifteen. These were mostly during the night, and were preceded and accompanied by the generation and passage of much wind. Passages reduced now to from four to eight per day, thin, pale and tolerably large. Bowels and stomach distended with flatus during evening and night, accompanied by sour eructations. Great tenderness and dull pain in epigastrium. Has a prickling feeling in legs, which are apt to "get asleep." Eye sight impaired, ears ring at night, head numb and "mixed up." Passed some blood, from bladder, about two weeks since. Urine small, and loaded with lithates and oxalates.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces quite normal in color, but thin. Contain many forrula cells and little masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, like jelly. These are filled with colloid cells and filaments. A few confervoid filaments are present.

CASE XVII.—History.—Daniel W. Howe, Co. K, 9th N. H. I. Attacked in June last with chronic diarrhœa. Has been laid up in hospital with it to present time. Has now from five to six passages daily. Soreness and pain in epigastrium and lower bowels. Troubled much with flatus at night. He is gradually improving in strength and flesh, at present. Countenance florid, and eyes bright.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces contain a few small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter. A multitude of torrula cells and confervoid filaments are present. Highly fermentative condition in alimentary canal.

CASE XVIII.—History.—John Craig, Co. C., 54th O. V. I., private. Has had chronic diarrhœa, since March last—eight months. Has now from seven to eight passages daily. Attacked near Vicksburg, after living almost exclusively, for some time, on army biscuit. At first his bowels were constipated and flatulent. Has now a severe pain below the umbilicus, with tenderness and some pain and tenderness in epigastrium. Pain in bladder, testicles and kidneys. Urine small, and deposits, on standing, a large quantity of lithates and oxalates. Considerable wind generated in stomach and bowels at night, with sour eructations. Soreness along the œsophagus after eating. Legs prickle and frequently "get asleep." Head feels numb and "mixed up." Ears ring at night. Some cough during evening, night and morning, with frequently a constricted feeling in chest, and palpitation of heart.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin but quite natural in color. Contain a multitude of torrula cells, and a few confervoid filaments. No gelatinous (colloid) masses can be detected with the unaided eye; the microscope reveals, however, a few colloid cells.

CASE XIX.—History.—Geo. H. Osborne, Co. E, 2d U. S. Artillery. Was attacked with chronic diarrhoea in August last, at Vicksburg. It was preceded a few days by an attack of bilious remittant fever. Still under the influence of both diseases. There is much oppression about the chest. Breathing short. Walks stooped over, and is very hypochondriacal. Thinks he will never recover till he returns home. Very weak, pale and anemic. Scarcely able to walk the length of the ward. Has considerable appetite, but has to control it. But little paralytic tendency; no flatulence.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces quite natural in color, and of moderate consistence. Contain but few jelly masses, and but few colloid cells. There are a few confervoid filaments, and cells resembling torrula cells, but much larger, and which increase by segmentation.

The principal difficulty with this patient now seems to be in his lungs and heart. His stomach is, however, irritable, and frequently ejects its contents. He is pale, feeble and considerably emaciated.

CASE XX.—History.—Andrew Holeman, Co. G, 29th O. V. I. Was attacked on the 16th of August last, at Kelley's Ford, with chronic diarrhoea. Was living on hard crackers and side pork at the time. Remembers that his bowels were constipated previous to the attack of diarrhoea. Passages at first but once a day, and profuse, generally occurring from three to five o'clock in the morning. They were preceded by the generation of gases in the stomach and bowels, with rumbling, eructations and passages of wind. Has now from five to six passages per day; much bloated with wind at night. Passages mostly during the latter part of the night and early in the morning. Is now slowly improving; in tolerable flesh, but is weak. Muscles soft. Stools natural in color, but rather thin, and have the peculiar odor of chronic diarrhoea passages.

Microscopic Examination.—Stools moderately filled with torrula cells, and contain a few of the little jelly-like masses of colloid matter, filled with colloid cells. Confervoid filaments are abundant. This patient appears to be doing very well, and is in a fair way to recover.

CASE XXI.—History.—Gayton W. Fuller, Private Co. B, 11th N. H. I. Attacked about the middle of June last, with chronic diarrhoea, at Vicksburg. Was living on army biscuit at the time, with salt pork and fresh beef. Food mostly army biscuit. Does not remember whether his bowels were constipated previous to the diarrhoea. Passages now three per day, of a dark brown color, with a dirty, black-greenish shade, and contain small masses of greenish, gelatinous, (colloid,) ropy matter.

Microscopic Examination.—Torrula cells occur only in moderate quantity, which accounts for the little flatulence lately. There are many of the little jelly (colloid) masses, which contain many colloid cells. This patient appears to be slowly improving in health and strength.

CASE XXII.—History.—Edward Obernouf, private Co. D, 61st O. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhoea in August last, at Callet's Station. Was living mainly on army biscuit, with a little beef at the time. Frequently lived for days upon army crackers. Has been troubled greatly with flatulence during evenings and nights, which generally continued till the food eaten the previous day was pretty thoroughly evacuated. This patient has now from six to eight passages per day. Troubled much with the development of intestinal gases, with sour eructations during evening and night. Tender over stomach, transverse and descending colon. Pale, weak and emaciated. Legs prickle and are apt to "get asleep." Head feels mixed up and numb. Some night and morning cough and palpitation of heart. Ears ring at night. Patient able to walk about the ward.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin, and of a light yellowish, ash color, filled with gelatinous (colloid) masses, about the size of a pea. These contain numerous colloid cells. Torrula cells very abundant. There are also many confervoid filaments. The large cells, resembling overgrown torrula cells, are occasionally met with.

CASE XXIII.—History.—Henry Reese, private Co. D, 4th O. V. I. Has had chronic diarrhœa for sixteen months. Has had a constant pain in the stomach. Is now getting quite fleshy, and has a fresh countenance, but is much bloated, and has constant pain in stomach, and sour eructations, evenings and nights especially. Has palpitation of heart, and some oppression about chest, with night and morning cough. Feces quite dark and thin. They contain some slimy and gelatinous (colloid) matter.

Microscopic Examination.—The gelatinous (colloid) masses contain numerous colloid cells and filaments. Torrula cells are numerous and confervoid filaments are frequently met with.

CASE XXIV.—History.—Joseph Cox, private Co. C, 36th O. V. I. Attacked the 10th of last June, at Murfreesboro, with chronic diarrhœa. Was in hospital at Nashville till the 8th of September, when he was transferred to Camp Dennison hospital. Passages were at first thin and watery, and at length became gelatinous and ropy. Diarrhœa, preceded by constipation. Has been troubled, especially evenings and nights, with much bloating, and eructations and passages of wind. His stomach and bowels are now constantly distended, but are more so during night than day. Has from four to five passages per day. These are mostly during the latter part of night and early in the morning. Stools filled with little masses and ropes of gelatinous matter. Body bloated and of a rosy red color, having the appearance of being a hard drinker. Considerable soft adipose. Muscles soft and flabby. Eyes dark underneath, and conjunctiva red. Since coming to Camp Dennison he has been under the charge of Acting Assistant Surgeon Palmer, who has given him the following:

R—Liq. Potass. Arsenitis, ʒi.

Syrup Morph., ʒii.

M. S., one dram 3 times a day.

This prescription was taken for 4 weeks. It was then suspended, and the following R given:

R—Aqua Camphor, ʒii.

Syrup Morph., ʒii.

Acid, Nit. dil., gtt. xxxii.

M. S., ʒi every 3 hours.

This was given for three weeks, and then the first prescription again resumed. Under this treatment the patient has been slowly improving.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces are gelatinous and of a greenish yellow cast. This gelatinous (colloid) matter is filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells occur in multitudes. Confervoid filaments are numerous. The masses of highly refractive polyhedral cells, each containing a crystal of sugar, were frequently met with. Casts of the tubular glands of the large intestines were abundant.

CASE XXV.—History.—Wm. Young, private Co. 46, 1st Battalion, Invalid Corps. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa in February, 1863, at Murfreesboro, Tenn. Passed blood and slime for the first two weeks; it starting off with dysenteric symptoms; and finally passed into chronic diarrhœa. Had at first from 7 to 10 passages per day. Had considerable pain before and after stools. After the dysenteric symptoms subsided, there was considerable bloating of the stomach and bowels, especially evenings and nights, with eructations and passages of wind. Has had from the first pain in the small of the back and down the legs; also coughs nights, with eructations and passages of wind, and with expectoration of a thick sweetish mucus; pain in region of heart and epigastrium; constricted feeling in chest, especially mornings. Trip-hammer beating of heart, indicating fibrinous depositions. A paralytic tendency has manifested itself in a numb, mixed-up feeling in the head, ringing in the ears, prickling sensations in extremities, legs apt to "get asleep," etc.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces filled with torrula cells. The gelatinous (colloid) masses are abundant, and filled with colloid cells. Casts also of the tubular glandules of the large intestines occur frequently in honey-comb masses.

CASE XXVI.—History.—Joseph Bumham, Co. B, 6th O. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa, on the Potomac, July, 1862. Has had the disease from that time to the present. Passages have ranged much of the time from 10 to 30 per day. He is now much better. Stools average about 5 daily. Considerable flatulence, especially at night. Passages mostly during the latter part of night and early in the morning. The patient is now slowly improving, and is able to move about outside and exercise in the open air.

Microscopic Examination.—This is an interesting case, both on account of its long standing and the peculiar condition of the alimentary canal. It resembles closely Case XV in many respects. The stools contain large quantities of gelatinous (colloid) matter, in which are numerous bodies, which I have called colloid cells. Torrula cells are abundant. Confervoid filaments are frequently met with.

CASE XXVII.—History.—David R. P. Little, private Co. F, 4th O. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa in front of Richmond, in July, 1862. Passages from 4 to 12 per day. Has been troubled much with flatulence, especially evenings and nights. In June, 1863, began to swell in the region of the stomach. The swelling has now extended over the whole abdomen. It still troubled much with flatus during the evening and night, with sour eructations and passages of wind, which appears to operate upon the bowels as an irritant and cathartic. Considerable oppression about the chest, breathing short, with cough nights and on rising in the morning, expectorating a thick, sweetish mucus. Palpitation of heart, with trip-hammer pulsation, indicating thrombosis. Paralytic tendencies are manifested, in prickling, numb sensations in extremities, a mixed-up, numb, confused feeling in the head, with ringing in ears at night. Feces thin and of a dark color.

Remembers to have been constipated previous to the diarrhœa. Was living principally upon army biscuit at the time, not having facilities for cooking, on account of being in almost constant motion.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces soft and dark colored, coloring matter—colloid—(jelly) communicating to them a dirty, greenish dark color and a ropy character. The jelly, or gelatinous matter, is filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells are abundant. Confervoid filaments are frequently met with.

CASE XXVIII.—History.—Samuel H. Baker, private Co. F, 96th O. V. I.

Attacked with chronic diarrhœa on Yazoo River December 27th, 1862. Previous to attack had been for some time on the March, and had to subsist frequently entirely upon army biscuit, not being able to carry cooking utensils. This diet always at first produced constipation. Was constipated previous to diarrhœa, during which remembers to have been troubled much with flatulence at night. This was succeeded by a single profuse passage daily, which occurred towards morning, and was preceded and accompanied by much wind. Stools increased until he had as many as twenty per day. From time of attack to present—Nov. 16—has been constantly under the influence of disease. Recently has been slowly improving. Has now on an average about six passages daily. Very flatulent. Bowels constantly distended, with pain across umbilical region. Worse nights than days. Pains and numb and prickling sensations in legs. Legs frequently "get asleep." Head feels numb and "mixed up." Ears ring at night. Sees frequently flashes of light. Paralytic tendency in lower bowels and sphincter. Difficulty often to retain feces. Constricted sensation in chest, with frequently somewhat labored breathing, or breathing that does not seem to satisfy. Night and morning cough, with expectoration of thick, cream-colored, sweetish mucus. Palpitation of heart, with trip-hammer pulsation, indicating thrombosis, or fibrinous depositions within its cavities.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin, and contain numerous small masses and ropes of gelatinous (colloid) matter of a yellowish green color, which gives them the appearance of containing bile. Torrula cells occur in multitudes. There are also many confervoid filaments.

CASE XXIX. History.—Ebenezer Thayre, Private, Co. I, Conn. V. I. Has had diarrhœa for over one year. Was first attacked at Annapolis, Md. At first had but one profuse passage daily, this occurring in latter part of night, and preceded with great distention of stomach and bowels, with wind. Gradually increased from day to day till he had from 8 to 10 passages daily. Has considerable cough and expectoration, especially at night, with painful bloating with wind. From this attack he so far recovered as to return to duty. Was attacked with Typhoid fever at Snyder's Bluff, Miss., August 5, 1863, which aggravated the diarrhœa; and since which it has been very bad. With it, has had also intermittent fever, which he has not got rid of entirely. Is pale, anæmic and weak, but still able to walk about. Stools pale ash color, and from 6 to 10 per day. Has prickling and numb sensations in extremities, a mixed up numb feeling in head, and some uneasiness about the heart. Has some night and morning cough with expectoration of sweetish mucus. This patient had a very fine constitution.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin, pale ash color, and filled with globules of fat, covered with a crust, from which radiates in all directions, acicular crystals, resembling ciliæ. These bodies resemble animalculæ forms. I have found them in the feces of all cases of chronic diarrhœa which have been preceded or accompanied by typhoid fever. The sarcina ventriculi occur in vast multitudes, in wool-sack masses. Torrula cells are abundant. Scattered through the stools are numerous masses of light-colored gelatinous (colloid) matter, in which are numerous colloid cells. The urine is scanty and loaded with lithic acid and oxalate of lime.

CASE XXX. History.—Wm. Baker, Private, Co. E, 7th O. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa about the 1st of August, 1863, on the Rapahannock. Has had the disease constantly since. Has had intermittent fever off and on since May last. Was not prevented from field duty till diarrhœa set in. Has now from 3 to 6 passages per day, these occurring mostly during night. They are preceded by much bloating of stomach and bowels.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin and quite normal in color. Contain many small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter. Torrula cells are abundant, and confervoid filaments are frequently met with.

CASE XXXI. History.—A. S. Bean, Private, Co. E, 9th N. H. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa the last of July, 1863, back of Vicksburg. Soon after the diarrhœa commenced, was taken down with Intermittent fever. Whenever the diarrhœa is checked with astringents, the chills are liable to come on. Has now from two to four passages per day, mostly at night or towards morning. They are preceded by disagreeable distension of the stomach and intestines with wind. Sour eructations. Has some oppression in breathing, with tickling in bronchiæ and cough during night and morning. Palpitation of heart. Legs prickle frequently and are apt to "get asleep." Head feels "mixed up" and sometimes numb. Ears ring at night.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces rather pale and thin; tolerably copious. Filled with small masses and ropes of gelatinous (colloid) matter; filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells are abundant, and confervoid filaments are frequently met with.

CASE XXXII. History.—Samuel A. McKinney, Private, Co. B, 50th Penn. L.; age 19. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa, in the rear of Vicksburg, in June, 1863. Has now (November) from 2 to 6 passages per day. Has been gradually improving for last two months. Has been and still is troubled with much flatulence during evening and night, followed by passages from bowels, which relieves the flatulence. Has some constriction, pain and tickling in chest, with cough and expectoration during night and morning. For the last three weeks has not been troubled as much with flatus as formerly.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces quite normal in color, but thin, and contain small jelly masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, in which are numerous colloid cells. Torrula cells moderately abundant. There are also a few confervoid filaments. There are frequently found casts of the tubular glands of the large intestines, and the peculiar cells, each of which contains a crystal of sugar. Urine scanty and loaded with lithates and crystals of oxalate of lime.

CASE XXXIII. History.—Carl L. Vogt, Private, Co. G, 4th U. S. Artillery. Has had chronic diarrhœa about 9½ months. Was attacked at Fredericksburg, Va. First symptoms, severe pain in lower part of bowels, followed by passages of blood and mucus. Dysentery lasted about 10 days. Followed by a painless diarrhœa. The food eaten, would pass a few minutes after, undigested. Passages thin, watery, and quite profuse. Was troubled with a rolling and tumultuous motion in bowels, and with eructations and passages of wind. This occurred principally at night. Stools pale ash color. Paralytic symptoms show themselves in lower bowels; legs are apt to "get asleep;" head feels numb and "mixed up," and there is ringing in ears at night. Considerable constriction about the chest, with night and morning cough and expectoration of a thick, sweetish mucus. Has now palpitation and pain in heart. Trip-hammer pulsation, indicating Thrombosis. Passages now range from 4 to 6 per day.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin and watery, with whitish-yellow masses and ropes of gelatinous (colloid) matter, containing numerous colloid cells. Torrula cells in multitudes. There are also masses of the Saricina ventriculi. The alimentary canal is in a highly fermentative condition, and is probably coated, from one end to the other, with an adherent, slimy, pultaceous yeast; such as is met with after death in persons dying with chronic diarrhœa. This condition should satisfy any one of the impropriety of using astringents in this disease. Efforts should rather be made to keep the alimentary canal cleared of this yeast layer, and to promote healthy secretions from the alimentary surfaces. In the stools are large quantities of oil globules. Urine scanty and loaded with lithates and oxalate of lime crystals.

CASE XXXIV. History.—George —, Sergt., 2d Bat. Invalid Corps. Was attacked first at Paris, Ky., November, 1862, with simple diarrhœa, attended with no pain. Before this was entirely subdued, by imprudence in eating and drinking late at night, the disease assumed a chronic form; when the diarrhœa was attended with the generation of intestinal gases, with sour eructations and passages of wind at night, followed by early morning evacuations. Remained with his regiment most of the time since the attack, till wounded in Mississippi in February last, when he entered a hospital at Memphis; and soon after came to Dennison Gen. Hospital. Has been gradually improving since wound healed. Is in usual flesh, and has now (Nov. 17, 1863) from 1 to 3 passages per day. Much troubled nights at times with flatulence. A dose of aromatic sulphuric acid at once relieves this for the time being. There is a paralytic tendency in lower bowels, which is very disagreeable at times. Is improving, with prospect of soon being well.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces natural in color, but thin and foamy, like yeast. Passages on account of which appear to be very large, frequently amounting to two quarts. Stools contain little gelatinous (colloid) masses of matter, which are filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells quite numerous. Urine scanty, and loaded with lithates and crystals of oxalate of lime.

CASE XXXV.—History.—Henry Irish, private Co. F, 6th N. H. V. I. Has had chronic diarrhœa about 6 months. Attacked in Kentucky. About 4 months ago was taken down with intermittent fever, which has continued at intervals to date (Nov. 18th). The diarrhœa gradually increased from 1 to 10 and 12 passages per day. Passages profuse, painless and watery. Has had more flatulence recently than when first attacked. This accompanies him principally at night, and is accompanied by sour eructations and passages of wind, and followed by stools towards morning. At first the food would pass soon after eating, undigested. The passages are now thin and watery, and range from 5 to 6 daily. Appetite good. Legs feel often numb, and "get asleep." Lower bowels partially paralyzed. Head feels numb and "mixed up." Ears ring at night. Considerable constriction about chest, with night and morning cough and expectoration of sweetish mucus. Tubercles are being deposited. Pale and anæmic. Some of family have died of phthisis. Nails bent. Has palpitation of heart, which troubles him much at night. Patches of what appears to be diphtheritic exudation in fauces, but which are really aphthous patches or layers of yeast plants, rapidly developing in the glycogenic mucous secretions.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces thin and watery, and from 5 to 6 per day. Appetite good. Has much flatulence at night, with sour eructations. Stools filled with small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, which contain many colloid cells. Torrula cells abundant. There are also many confervoid filaments.

CASE XXXVI.—History.—Alvin B. Williams, private Co. F, 11th N. H. I. Has had chronic diarrhœa since the 1st of September (2½ months).

Followed an attack of ague. Has become considerably emaciated. Muscles soft. Passages thin and copious, ranging from 3 to 4 per day. Pains in lower bowels before and after stools. No tenesmus. Bowels and stomach bloat much during evening and night. Some cough. Not entirely relieved from ague. Legs soft and "get asleep." Head feels numb and "mixed up." Ears ring at night. Lies easier on right than on left side.

Microscopic Examination.—Stools quite natural in color and consistence. Contain many small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter that are filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells are abundant.

CASE XXXVII.—History.—Wm. M. Baker, private Co. E, 7th O. V. I. Has had chronic diarrhœa since 1st of August, 1863. Followed an attack of ague. Is thin, anæmic and feeble. Passages range from 3 to 4 per day, thin and copious. Pain mostly just previous to passage. Troubled somewhat with wind during the night. Has a dry cough, constriction about chest, and much pain in cardiac region. Cannot lay on left side. Has the trip-hammer pulsation, indicating thrombosis. Legs prickle and "get asleep" frequently.

Microscopic Examination.—Stools thin, and contain small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells quite numerous. Casts of the tubular glands and of large intestines are frequently met with.

CASE XXXVIII.—History.—Mich. Mulligan, private Co. F, 61st O. V. I. Attacked with chronic diarrhœa about the middle of July last. Followed typhoid fever. Is reduced in flesh. Not anæmic, but weak. Passages from 8 to 9 daily, thin, copious, and mostly at night and early in the morning. Bloats much with wind evenings and nights. Palpitation and pain in heart. Trip-hammer pulsation, indicating the presence of fibrinous depositions (thrombi). Has difficult and frequent micturation. Legs are apt to "get asleep." Head feels numb and "mixed up."

Microscopic Examination.—Feces have disseminated through them numerous small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, containing colloid cells and filaments. A multitude of torrula cells are present. Confervoid filaments are abundant. The fecal matter is also filled with oil globules of large size, from the surface of which acicular crystals of stearine radiate in all directions. These crystals, under the microscope, resemble cilia. Numerous casts of the tubular intestinal glands are present, and also many masses of highly refractive polyhedral cells, each of which contains a crystal of sugar. Water loaded with lithates and oxalates.

CASE XXXIX.—History.—James Feney, private Co. C, 98th O. V. I. Has had chronic diarrhœa since the middle of March last. Followed an attack of typhoid fever. Is now very thin, pale, weak and anæmic. Passages from 10 to 15 per day, thin, and rather copious. Gripping pains previous to passage, and but little or no tenesmus after. Is troubled with wind only at night. Pain in back. Urine scanty and micturation painful. Water loaded with lithates and oxalates. No visceral enlargement.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces filled with small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, containing numerous colloid cells. Torrula cells moderately abundant. Many confervoid filaments. Oil globules, covered with ciliated or acicular crystals of stearine, numerous. Feces decidedly oily.

CASE XL.—History.—David Ames, private Company I, 21st O. V. I., has had chronic diarrhœa, following typhoid fever, since the middle of June last, (now Nov. 18th). Passages, from eight to ten daily; thin and copious. Pain preceding passages; easier after. Bloats at night, and has eructations and passages of wind. Urine scanty, micturation painful, and urine loaded with lithates and oxalate of lime.

Microscopic Examination.—Stools contain numerous masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, filled with colloid cells. Torrula cells numerous. Feces fatty and offensive.

CASE XLI.—History—Samuel Humphry, private Company H, 92d O. V. I., has had chronic diarrhoea since the middle of last August—over three months. Is thin, rather anæmic, weak, pale, and appetite good. Has now from five to eight passages daily; thin and copious. Pains before stools, which are relieved by passage. Bloats with wind evenings and nights. Stools mostly during latter part of night, and early in the morning. Some cough and expectoration. Legs prickle and “get asleep” often. Head confused, frequently with a numb sensation.

Microscopic Examination.—Feces full of small masses of gelatinous (colloid) matter, filled with the large colloid cells. Torrula cells abundant. Urine scanty, and loaded with lithates and oxalate of lime.

MICROSCOPIC EXAMINATION OF URINE.

In chronic diarrhea the urine is usually small in quantity, rather high colored, and deposits, on standing, a tolerably large sediment of pinkish or brick-colored lithates. The disease is not unfrequently accompanied and followed also by obstinate oxaluria and phosphuria. The presence of purpurine is frequently strongly marked.

SUGAR IN FECAL MATTERS AND IN MUCOUS SECRETIONS.

In all three stages of the disease, sugar is largely present in the fecal matters, and in the mucous secretions of the alimentary canal.* Torrula cells are abundant, and frequently the developing spores of a species of penicillium, and sometimes the cells of the saracena ventriculi are met with. All these are indicative of active fermentative changes in the amylaceous and saccharine matters present. The development so largely of gaseous products during the evening and night, is indicative of active fermentation of the amylaceous food eaten during the day. There is evidence that the secretions of the mucous membranes of the alimentary canal, fauces, mouth, and pulmonary surfaces, eventually become saccharine. This is evidenced in the development of torrula cells and filaments of penicillia in the viscid layer of mucous lining the whole alimentary canal, and in the mucous secretions of the œsophagus, pharynx, larynx, tracheæ, and mouth, in the later stages of the disease. This development on the surface of fauces, pharynx, and mouth, resembles the exudations in diphtheria, for which it is frequently taken.

CHOLESTORINE AND SEROLINE IN FECES.

Cholestorine and seroline occur quite largely in the feces of chronic diarrhea, the latter more largely than the former. The longer the feces stand and ferment, in or out of the bowels, the less cholestorine there is and the more seroline.

CRYPTOGAMIC VEGETATION IN FECES.

The cells of the so-called torrula cerevisia, occur largely in the fecal matters of every well worked case of chronic diarrhea. There is also the cells of what appears to be a larger species of torrula. These are not uniformly met with. The saracina ventriculi, or "wool sack" plant, is often present in large quantities. Such cases are more obstinate, there being greater difficulty in checking the abnormal development of intestinal gases. There is also another species of saracina, which I have met with occasionally. The cells are smaller and more pearly than those of the ventriculi, and occur usually single or in two's, and sometimes in fours. Two or three species of confervæ occur abundantly in all well marked cases. Occasionally the vegetating spores and mycelium of a species of pennicilium, are met with in the colloid matter, especially in cases where the stools are mainly made up of this gelatinous substance, and are of a greenish color.

* Fatty Products, and crystals of the triple phosphates and oxalate of lime are also frequently largely present in the stools.

This colloid or gelatinous matter has a strong resemblance to several low algoid forms. It is uniformly present in all true cases of chronic diarrhea. It occurs, however, much larger in the stools in malarial localities than in non-malarial.

What I have in this paper called colloid cells, resemble in a marked degree the Protococcus Cocoma of Kutzing. Saw that this latter has a brick-redish color, whilst the colloid cells of chronic diarrhea are usually yellowish or some shade of green. They also resemble somewhat those of the Furfuraria Lumbricales of Kutzing, and the cells of the Lemania Incurvata of Hassel, which is found in fresh water. They, however, resemble more strongly the Vauchesia Clavata of Hassel, that is met with in fountains and running brooks, attached to stones and sticks, and is of a green color.

Frequently masses of highly refractive polyhedral cells are met with, each cell of which contains a crystal of sugar. These appear to emanate from the colloid cells, they being the cells that make up their contents.

Experiments Connected with the Producing of the Chronic Diarrhœa of Armies, with its Intercurrent Abnormal Conditions, by Feeding upon Army Biscuit.

It was found that wherever the soldiers were thrown largely upon the use of the hard bread or army biscuit as a diet, a peculiar train of abnormal manifestations presented themselves. These are—

1. Constipation.
2. This constipation is soon followed by fermentative changes and the development of intestinal gases and yeast plants in the food, too long delayed in the alimentary canal.
3. These fermentative changes are always worse towards evening and during the night, and go on increasing from day to day, till
4. Finally, the gases and yeast plants developed, produce so much intestinal irritation that diarrhœa ensues, which soon becomes chronic, and not at all amenable to the treatment of ordinary diarrhœic conditions.
5. Accompanying the fermentative changes is always a paralytic tendency more or less strongly marked. This is manifested in the alimentary canal, and especially in the large intestines; next in the extremities, the legs prickling and "getting asleep" frequently, with ringing in ears, and a numb, mixed up, or confused feeling in head, &c.
6. A cough, with more or less hoarseness, usually sets in, especially during the night and on getting up in the morning, accompanied by the expectoration of a thick cream colored sweetish mucus.
7. This is followed by more or less constriction in breathing, with frequently palpitation of the heart on any excitement.

8. After the diarrhoea sets in there is generally a remarkable tendency to fibrinous depositions in the heart (thrombosis), and to the clogging up of the pulmonary vessels with fibrinous clots (embolia), with pains and aches in extremities and back.

To demonstrate more positively that these abnormal conditions had their origin in the too exclusive use of army biscuit as a food, it was determined, if possible, to institute a series of experiments upon the exclusive use of this kind of food, upon strong, healthy men, in a healthy locality, and free from the enfeebling influences of army life. Accordingly, on arriving in Cincinnati, I engaged the services of two strong, healthy men, of good habits, and in the vigor of life, for this purpose. The experiments were conducted with watchful care, from day to day, and the results were most convincing and conclusive in favor of the previous observations upon the soldiers, as will be seen by the following daily record of the experiments:

EXP. I.—Mr. H——. Age 36. Height 5 feet 10 inches, and weight 150 lbs. October 12th, at noon, commenced feeding him entirely on army biscuit, with a little cheese. For drink, used water, to which, at dinner and tea, about one ounce of good whisky was added.* Seemed to relish the new diet, and ate heartily. Hours for meals, 7 A. M., 12 M., and 5 P. M. The night of 12th slept well. The following morning had a passage from bowels at the usual time, but less free than normal.† Felt well during the 13th, eating heartily, and sleeping well at night. On the morning of the 14th was constipated, having no passage from the bowels, although he repaired as usual to the water-closet. Felt well during the day and night of the 14th. On the morning of the 15th, with difficulty, had a scant passage of pale, plastic feces. During the 15th felt occasionally a slight dizziness and less muscular vigor than usual. Slept well during the night. Had no stool on the 16th. Began to have some rumbling in the bowels towards evening, from the movement of wind, which appeared to be generated in the small intestines principally. During the evening ate a couple of apples. Slept well during the night. On the morning of the 17th had a very scant passage of pale, plastic feces. After passage felt a throbbing and heat in the lower portion of large intestines. Towards and during the evening there was considerable flatus, with some eructation of wind. Before retiring ate an apple and drank freely of water. Slept well. On the 18th had no passage. Felt a dizziness all day, with considerable muscular debility. Appetite excellent. Still relishes the food, but would like it better if he had some meat with it. Lower bowels feel numb, distended and torpid. Bowels distended with wind during the evening and night. Slept well. Had no passage during the 19th. Felt a dizziness all day, with a want of muscular vigor. Exercised freely in walking and felt better. Slept well during night. On the morning of the 20th had a difficult, scant passage of pale, plastic feces; after which had a heat and throbbing in lower bowels, which were inactive and partially paralyzed. On the evening and night of the 20th bowels much distended with flatus, with eructations and passages of wind. Slept well. 21st, had no passage. 22d, had no passage. Yesterday and to-day has had a numb, dizzy feeling in head, which is partially dissipated by walking vigorously. Appetite good. On the morning of the 23d had a difficult, scant passage of pale, plastic feces. Lower bowels more inactive than usual. Passed considerable wind. During evening and night troubled much with flatus. Slept well. 24th, had no passage. Felt well, but not as strong as usual. Head feels numb and legs frequently "get asleep." During evening and night bowels distended much with wind, which appeared to be in constant motion. 25th, had no passage. Felt well, but less vigorous than usual. Peculiar numbness about head. Appetite good. Upper bowels and stomach distended with flatus in motion during evening and night. Ate a couple of apples before retiring, and walked about two miles. Rather wakeful, yet felt well. On morning of 26th had a difficult, scant passage of pale, ash colored, plastic feces. With the exception of numb sensations in head, legs and lower bowels, felt well. Appetite good. Tongue clean. Very eager for meat. During evening and night bowels and stomach much distended with wind, on account of which sleep was disturbed. 27th, had no passage. Felt a heat and throbbing in the lower part of the intestines. Appetite good. Less vigorous than usual. Wakeful during night. 28th, no passage. Tongue clean, with a red border and streak along the center. Appetite good. Considerable muscular debility. Numb feeling in head, and limbs liable to "get asleep." Bowels and stomach distended with flatus during the evening and night. Wakeful. 29th, throbbing and heat about the rectum. Had a rather more free passage than usual during the morning. Appetite good. Considerable muscular debility, with numb sensations. Considerable thirst. During the latter part of day and evening and night bowels much distended with flatus. Wakeful, but felt well. 30th, no passage from bowels. Felt about the same as on the 29th. Wakeful at night. 31st, quite a free passage during the morning. Considerable heat and throbbing about the lower bowels. Large quantities of flatus developed in stomach and bowels during evening and night, with eructations and passages of wind. Wakeful. Aroused about 4 A. M., on the morning of November 1, with a severe bearing-down pain in the lower bowels, and a desire to go to stool. Had a copious passage, which was thin and watery, and of a pale ash color. Passed large quantities of flatus. Heat and throbbing pain about lower part of large intestines. Small intestines and stomach distended with flatus before the stool. The free passage relieved these unpleasant symptoms, so that he fell asleep readily again, and slept till 7 A. M. Got up free from pain and feeling well, save the disagreeable paralytic symptoms. Appetite good. Somewhat debilitated. Tongue clean, with red streak along the center. Flashes of heat over the body, intermitted by chilly sensations. Bowels distended almost constantly with flatus. Much worse during evening and night. Retired early and slept well till 3 A. M., November 2, when he was wakened by a severe bearing-down pain in the lower bowels, with an urgent desire to go to stool. Had a copious watery discharge, with considerable wind, which relieved the pain. Considerable heat and throbbing in lower part of large intestines. Felt well during day. Appetite good. Bowels distended with flatus during the evening and night. At 3 A. M., November 3d, had another profuse passage of pale, watery feces. Considerable heat and bearing down and throbbing in lower part of large intestines. Much debilitated during the day, but appetite good, and free from pain. Tongue clean, with a red streak along the center that felt sore. On examining the feces with the microscope, they were found to have all the peculiarities of those of chronic diarrhœa. During the afternoon, evening and night, the stomach and intestines were very much distended with gases, producing considerable pain. Rather wakeful. Called up on the morning of the 4th about 2 A. M. Had a profuse passage of thin, pale, watery feces, accompanied by much wind. Between this and 10 A. M. had six profuse evacuations of the same character, after which felt better. Fearing to carry the experiment farther in this case, I gave him, on retiring, a cathartic dose of Rochelle salts, which operated freely. The following morning I ordered for him a full breakfast of ham and eggs, with tea and potatoes stewed in milk. Was ravenously hungry and ate a hearty meal, after which felt much better. Had no further evacuations after 10 A. M. during the 5th. At 3 P. M. ordered six soft boiled eggs with water. These lay rather heavy in stomach, producing some sour eructations. Ordered him to walk briskly for two hours, which promoted their digestion. Retired at 9 P. M., feeling quite well. Slept soundly. November 6th, 7 A. M., soon after rising had a copious passage of thin, watery, and rather pale feces, but looking much better than the passages yesterday morning. They still had, under the microscope, the characteristic marks of chronic diarrhœa stools. There was considerable pain previous to the passage, and heat and throbbing in lower bowels after, but no tenesmus. Tongue clean, with red streak along the center and red edges. Made a hearty breakfast on ham and eggs, toast and tea, after which felt better.

From this time on he continued the albuminous animal diet, eating freely. Appetite remarkably good. Each day improvement was noticed in the tone of the bowels and in the appearance of the discharges, and in a lessened fermentative tendency in stomach and intestines, with a decrease of torrula cells and colloid (gelatinous) matter, and in an increased tonicity of the muscles generally.

Nov. 9th, had quite recovered, so that the passages had assumed their normal appearance and consistence; and after this they came on at the usual hour, viz., every morning before breakfast. The tongue became natural in appearance, the countenance flush, the biliary secretions natural, and the feces lost all the characteristics of those of chronic diarrhœa.

Here is an interesting instance of the bringing on of chronic diarrhœa, by the use of dry army biscuit as a constant food. The subject was a strong, healthy man in the prime of life, who had been used to the substantial diet of the active business men of our western cities. From the commencement of the army biscuit diet to the time when the discharges assumed a morbid chronic diarrhœa type, was 19 days. The fermentative condition, and the production of torrula cells in the bowels, commenced and showed themselves in a marked degree on about the 6th day, and continued to increase until the army biscuit was laid aside.

The first abnormal condition produced by this diet was constipation, with a partial suppression of the biliary and intestinal secretions. This left the alimentary matters in the intestinal canal an unusual time, during which fermentative changes were excited. This fermentative condition increased daily, till the alimentary canal became filled with yeast, in a constant state of fermentative excitement, disengaging large quantities of carbonic acid gas, which distended the bowels with flatus. This fermentative influence appeared to be finally imparted to the epithelial tissue of the mucous intestinal membranes; especially was this the case in the large intestines, where the hardened feces accumulated and remained an undue time.

Just previous to the commencement of the diarrhœa and afterwards, there was a general paralytic tendency, especially marked in the intestinal walls, they losing their normal sensibility and contractility, under the ex-citant and poisonous action of the carbonic acid and yeast plants developed during the fermentation of the amylaceous alimentary matters.*

About the time the diarrhœic discharge commenced in this case, there came on a hoarseness of the voice and a dry, constricted feeling about the pharynx and larynx. This was followed by soreness of the throat, which extended into the bronchial tubes and lungs, accompanied by a thick ropy, sweetish expectoration, and considerable night and morning cough, with oppression and tightness about the chest. This affection was different from any cold, and continued while the diarrhœa lasted. There was also, on any excitement, palpitation of the heart. I have noticed the same pulmonary derangements in all well-marked cases of chronic diarrhœa, where I have been able to accurately trace them back to their incubative stage.

EXP. II. This experiment was performed on a strong, healthy, middle-aged man, in the same way as the previous one, and corresponded so clearly in its results with Experiment I., that it is unnecessary here to any more than refer to the preceding detailed description.

The diarrhœa in this case commenced on the 21st day of feeding on army biscuit diet.

EXP. III. This experiment was performed on myself. Diet same as in Experiment I., and in all essential particulars the resulting symptoms were so similar, that it would be repetition to describe them in detail. Flatulence and constipation commenced on the third day. The diarrhœa began on the eighteenth day, by a single profuse passage in 24 hours, and this occurring in latter part of night. Extended the diet to the 24th day, on which the passages had increased to seven in 24 hours. On the 25th day, after a full dose of Rochelle salts, put myself on an albuminous diet, which soon restored the alimentary canal to its normal state.

POST-MORTEM APPEARANCES.

Lungs.—These are usually more or less invaded by either the clogging up of the pulmonary vessels with small fibrinous clots (embolia), or tubercular deposits in the lung tissue, or both. Where the disease has continued for any great length of time, scarcely an instance is found where there is an entire absence of pulmonary complication. The pulmonary and bronchial membranes present indications of more or less irritation; and frequently something like an exudation is noticed creeping up the pharynx into the fauces, and then dipping down into the larynx and trachea. This apparent exudation is not one in fact, it being composed—in every case I have met with—of torrula cells, and developing spores and filaments of a species of penicillium; both of which indicate a saccharine or glycogenic and fermentative condition of the mucous membranes and their secretions. These apparent exudations—composed of yeast plants—creep up along the œsophagus into the pharynx and fauces, and then dip down into the larynx and trachea. They are unfavorable indications, and appear in the most marked degree a few days previous to death. They are more prominent in cases of chronic diarrhœa, which have accompanied and followed typhoid fever. The fecal matter of such patients is invariably filled with large globules of fat, many of which are covered with a crystalline crust, from which radiate acicular crystals in all directions. These acicular crystals resemble ciliae, giving to the large fat globules the appearance of being animalcular bodies.

* In severe forms of the disease, the large intestines and sphincter ani become frequently so paralyzed that the feces pass involuntarily.

The lungs are frequently found filled with small tubercles, and sometimes with large ones, in process of disintegration. At others, the lungs either contain tubercles, or not, and are more or less hepatized; the congestion being directly the result of embolia (fibrinous clots), which have lodged in the minute pulmonary vessels, damming up the blood and preventing its free passage.

Heart.—The heart is nearly, if not always more or less involved in the disease. There is a disposition to the deposition of fibrin in the cavities of the heart, and in the vessels leading therefrom, producing the disease described by Virchow as Thrombosis. Granules, layers, conical masses and ropes of fibrin, usually of a white color, are found attached to the internal surfaces of the cavities of the heart, around the valves; and ropes of fibrin sometimes extend out into the vessels leading therefrom. There is also often more or less serous effusion into the pericardium.

Kidneys.—The kidneys, as a general rule, present no marked organic lesions. They are, however, almost constantly deranged in function, which sometimes results in organic disease.

Œsophagus.—The Œsophagus is often congested and apparently inflamed, and frequently covered with mucus, filled with torrula cells and spores of a species of pennicillium vegetating, forming a coating to the mucous surface not unlike a diphtheritic exudation.

Stomach.—The stomach is usually thickened, the tubular glands and villi more or less enlarged, and sometimes are found projecting beyond the walls, in small fungoid looking masses, wider above and constricted below. These little elevations are from one to several lines in diameter, and rise from $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ a line above the surface. They frequently run together, forming larger or smaller patches, and sometimes are thickly set over the entire internal surface of the organ, and appear not very unlike exudations, save that they have a reddish, vascular appearance. In cleaning the stomach, they are liable to be brushed or torn off, leaving ragged or clean-edged depressions, resembling the bed of ulcers. In this way many stomachs, when they are examined only after being cleaned, have the appearance of having been ulcerated, when really no such lesions existed. The final tendency of these follicular enlargements is to disintegrate, leaving ulcers. Ulceration, however, takes place in comparatively few cases, even where the diarrhœa causes death. These follicular enlargements are, in some way, connected with the formation of large quantities of colloid (algoid) matter, which is voided with the feces, and which contains cells and filaments. The formation of this algoid matter is indicative of a kind of cancerous tendency in the mucous lining of the intestinal canal. This colloid matter does not materially differ from that developed in goitre or broucocele, and from that formed in the fungoid elevations of the mucous lining of the bladder in a peculiar form of chronic cystitis, with pyelitis as a complication.

The intervening spaces on the mucous lining of the stomach, not occupied by the enlarged follicles, are usually more or less of a red beef color, ash or slate color, and sometimes greenish, indicating what appears to be either a high state of congestion and chronic inflammation, or an anæmic, deadened condition. The walls of the stomach are generally covered with an adherent slimy, greasy layer, which appears to prevent the food from coming in direct contact with its mucous surface. The internal gastric walls are usually more or less thickened and red. The organ is frequently considerably diminished in size, sometimes to one-third or one-fourth its normal capacity.

Small Intestine.—The mucous lining of the small intestine is usually covered with a thin, slimy, adherent layer of fecal matter, mucous and oily products, which sticks so closely that it is only removed by washing or scraping. This is a layer of yeast, filled with torrula cells, algoid matter, and decaying food, and is very offensive. With the exception of this layer, it is entirely empty of fecal matter, but distended with foetid gases. On the removal of this offensive coating, the mucous membrane is generally for the most part quite normal in appearance, save that here and there are inflamed streaks and patches, occasionally partially denuded of epithelium and ulcerated. The ulcerations, when they occur, are mostly in the lower portion of the ilium, near the cœcal valve.

Large Intestine.—This is usually very much thickened, and the internal surface covered with a thin adherent, dirty yellow pultaceous layer of slimy fecal matter, very offensive in odor, and of a greasy feel. This adheres so closely to the internal walls, that it is removed only by washing or scraping. It is filled with torrula cells, and frequently the vegetating spores of a species of penicillium, with gelatinous algoid matter, with sometimes the saracina ventriculi, and a peculiar gelatinous (algoid) matter. These all belong to the yeast plant vegetation. They were found more numerous toward the stomach than lower down. The inner wall of the large intestine for its whole length, and that of about one inch of the lower portion of the ilium, adjacent to the cœcal valve, generally are found more or less thickly studded with ragged patches, or fungoid elevations, from one to two lines in diameter, and elevated above the surface about from one-fourth to one-half line. These patches are wide above and constricted below, and are composed of the enlarged intestinal follicles and gelatinous matter. In many instances two or more of these patches are found united, forming larger elevations. In cleaning the intestines many of these fungoid elevations are torn off, producing ragged-edged depressions, not unlike the beds of ulcers. These enlarged and highly congested and vascular follicles are connected in some way with the formation of the gelatinous matter. This matter is more or less tinged with yellow or green. The enlarged follicles may constitute simply a nucleus for its development. It is found disseminated in small lumps and ropes through the feces. In some of the worst forms of the disease, the passages are composed almost entirely of this colloid (algoid) matter. In such cases it is usually of a dirty green color by reflected light, and a dirty greenish-yellow by transmitted light. The solitary glands are enlarged, and are the seat of a blueish-black pigment, which readily points out their location. Frequently these fungoid elevations disintegrate, leaving ulcers in their place. These ulcers are met with of a large size in many fatal cases. Ulceration, however, is not as frequent in this disease as is generally supposed. The inner walls of the intestine become largely thickened frequently, and the calibre lessened. The intervals not occupied by the fungoid elevations are highly congested, and inflamed apparently, having a peculiar dark beef red color.

Sometimes cases occur where the mucous lining of the large intestine is merely of a beef red color, without any fungoid elevations. In others the beef red patches are mingled with others that are greenish, slate colored, or brownish. The intestinal capillaries are more or less clogged up with embolia (small masses of fibrin) which prevent the free passage of blood, and from which results the peculiar congestion and chronic inflammation, the absorbent power of the intestinal walls being more or less impaired or destroyed.

Mesenteric Glands.—The mesenteric glands of the large intestines are always enlarged, congested, softened, and gorged with blood in proportion to the intestinal lesions. The mesenteric glands of the small intestines are frequently also enlarged, softened and congested, but otherwise quite normal.

Omentum.—The omentum is generally entirely deprived of adipose, and is highly congested and red.

Spleen.—The spleen is always more or less enlarged, filled with liquid blood, and softened.

Liver.—The liver is, as a general rule, quite healthy and firm. It has more of a yellowish tinge than normal, but is usually otherwise natural in appearance.

Pathology of Disease.—This as indicated by the microscopic examination of the fecal matters, and of the lining membrane and capillaries of the alimentary canal, and of the pulmonary and cerebral capillary vessels and heart, consists—

1. In the development of fermentative changes in the amylaceous food retained an undue time in the alimentary canal, by which yeast plants, carbonic acid, and the other products of fermentation are largely developed.

2. The fermentative changes and the continued feeding upon an amylaceous food, eventually results in a highly saccharine or glycogenic and fermentative condition of the system.

3. This fermentative condition tends to accelerate cell development and cell transformation. In the spleen, mesenteric glands and blood-vessels, the fibrin cells are more rapidly developed and transformed into fibrin, and there is a strong tendency for it to become organized and aggregated into masses. The result is that fibrinous deposits are formed in the heart, producing the thrombosis of Virchow; and numerous clots (embolia) form and become fixed in the capillary blood-vessels of parts the most sensitive and irritable and the most irritated.* These increase and soon obstruct the free passage of the blood through such irritated parts, damming it up, producing congestions in the intestinal walls, mesenteric glands, and spleen, with more or less congestion of the brain and spinal cord, and a tendency to congestion and hepatization of the lungs from embolia accumulating in the pulmonary capillaries. From the tendency to cell multiplication produced by the fermentative state of the system, there is a marked disposition to the development of tubercles in the lungs.

The disease is primarily eminently a fermentative one, tending to produce blood clots in the heart and capillary vessels, from which result a great variety of peculiar, almost painless, congestions and chronic inflammations, with paralytic conditions.

Here we see why the vegetable acid salts of potassa, soda, and iron, operate so beneficially upon the disease, in acting as a solvent to the aggregated masses of fibrin in the vascular system, and in thinning the blood. We also see why anti-fermentatives are such important and valuable remedies in controlling the fermentative states which are abnormal.

The clogging up of the intestinal capillaries destroys, to a greater or less extent, the absorbent powers of the intestinal walls; hence the reason why it is impossible for the alimentary membranes to either pour out the materials that aid in forming chyme and in producing healthy digestion, or to take up nutrient products. In such cases the conditions are such as to tend to imperfect nutrition and finally to starvation.

* The capillary vessels of the alimentary canal and lungs are generally the first to be clogged up with fibrin. The heart, brain, and spinal cord soon become involved to a greater or less extent.

From the clogging up of the intestinal capillaries with embolia (fibrinous clots), the follicles and villi become highly congested, which results soon in chronic enlargement of these organs. As they enlarge they protrude often in patches beyond the level of the mucous surface, forming frequently fungoid elevations, wider above and constricted below. These resemble somewhat patches of exudation, and with the surrounding and subjacent connective tissue, take on a peculiar abnormal action, resembling that of some forms of tumors (cancerous), where a gelatinous (colloid) matter is developed.* There are two forms of the colloid or gelatinous cancer occurring in the human body: one as a tumor, and the other as an infiltration. The latter is most common in the alimentary canal, particularly in the stomach and large intestines. It also occurs sometimes in the bladder. The latter occurs in the glandular organs, the peritoneum, omentum, cellular tissue, ovary, and bones. In the infiltrated variety the gelatinous matter occupies the meshes of the cellular substance, forming cysts from the size of a mustard seed to that of a hazel nut, which are filled with characteristic jelly-like matter, and which as they increase in volume, so completely subvert the primitive structures as ultimately to leave no trace of them. This colloid or gelatinous matter is either colorless, whitish, yellowish, or greenish, and is usually of the consistence of jelly.

Virchow rather objects to the term colloid, preferring the term mucus. The matter does not, however, resemble mucus nearly as much as it does gelatine, to which it bears a close resemblance in appearance, but which is really algoid. Its most usual seat of development is the epithelial and connective tissue, the distinguishing characteristic of which is its property of affording gelatine. When the so-called colloid matter is developed in connective tissue, the growth (appears to be allied to homo-plasie,) is not usually of that malignant type which it assumes when it is (hetero-plasie) developed in bone, periosteum, or other tissues not yielding gelatine normally.

These colloid growths, when seated on mucus surfaces, appear in the form of enlarged follicles, villi, pappillae, or warts. These are precisely the forms presented in chronic diarrhœa—studding the surface of the large intestines, and often of the stomach, and frequently the lower portion of the ileum. They give rise to or develop large quantities of colloid (algoid) matter, which is found abundantly scattered through the fecal discharges, in lumps and ropes. In the later stages of severe cases, sometimes almost the entire evacuations are made up of this matter, either nearly transparent, or which is of a dark dirty green by reflected light, and a dirty greenish yellow by transmitted light.

In bronchocele, a similar colloid matter is developed. The same substance is also formed in a peculiar, quite fatal form of chronic vesico-renal inflammation. In this disease the bladder is found studded with the same kind of fungoid elevations, as exist in the large intestines of chronic diarrhœa. Frequently, in chronic diarrhœa, these fungoid elevations disintegrate, leaving in their place ulcerating depressions, in which case pus will be found in the feces, frequently streaked with blood. Ulceration, however, is not as frequent as is generally supposed. In cleaning the intestines for wet preparations, the fungoid elevations are frequently torn off, leaving either smooth or ragged-edged depressions, resembling ulcers. These are often taken for points of ulceration.

The diseased portions of the alimentary lining are a dark livid red—a slate color, ash color, or greenish. The solitary follicles are enlarged, and frequently the seat of pigment deposits; so that the locality of each can be readily recognized with the unaided eye, by the presence of a bluish-black dot.

Every and all remedial means that have a tendency to produce an astringent, soporific, or congestive influence, aggravate the disease. The great prime objects are to subdue the fermentative tendency; to dissolve the aggregated masses of fibrin in the clogged-up capillaries, and to supply that kind of diet, the want of which has caused the disease. Hence the reason why an albuminous animal diet with non-amylaceous vegetables in small quantity, anti-fermentatives, and the vegetable acid salts of the alkalies and iron are so valuable, and produce such charming results.

Cause.—The primary cause of the so-called chronic diarrhoea of our army, appears to be the amylaceous character of the diet, which consists in great part, often, of the dry army biscuit. Upon a careful and extended examination, it has been found that when the soldiers are on the march, they have to live mainly on the army biscuit, from the fact that they can carry cooked meats only for a few days' rations, and cannot carry usually the means for cooking on the way. The result is, that a considerable portion of the time, the dry biscuit constitutes their main food. This dry amylaceous diet produces a constipated state of the bowels. The retention of these starchy matters an undue time in the alimentary canal, results soon in exciting fermentative changes, during which large quantities of gaseous products are generated. This fermentative condition goes on increasing from day to day, till the contents of the alimentary canal becomes one fermentating mass of yeast, when the constipated condition gives way to the irritant cathartic influence of the developing yeast plants and constantly increasing gaseous products, and profuse discharges of fecal matters and wind result. Previous to this, however, the fermentation during the constipated stage has, by its irritative influence, produced a peculiar abnormal condition in the follicles and villi of the large intestines and stomach. Simultaneous with this follicular enlargement, quantities of colloid matter are developed. The intestinal canal and stomach becomes coated with a pultaceous, adherent, offensive matter, which excites fermentation in the amylaceous food soon after it is eaten. The food taken during the day begins actively to ferment by evening; and the stomach and bowels become distended with gases, and continue so until the food of the day has been all evacuated, when the flatulence gradually disappears. This daily increasing fermentation produces daily increasing irritation, resulting in a constant increase of the diarrhoea, which soon becomes chronic.

It has been noticed that in warm, malarious regions, the men are more liable to this disease; from which fact it has become quite a general belief that it is a miasmatic malady. In all malarious regions there is a much greater tendency to the development of low cryptogamic forms, and fermentation is sooner excited, and progresses more energetically than in non-malarious localities. This increased tendency in malarious districts to the development of yeast and other cryptogamic plants, and, consequently, to the development of fermentative changes, will undoubtedly explain the reason why, in such places, there is an increased liability to this disease. In such localities, the gelatinous (colloid) products of the feces are peculiarly marked, and seem to aggravate the diarrhœa. The intestines appear to be in a condition to afford a proper nidus for the attachment and development of this peculiar vegetation.* It does not, however, appear to have anything to do as an exciting cause of the disease—it being merely a consequence of peculiar saccharine and fermentative conditions of the system. As soon as these are corrected, they cease to develop. It probably is a parasitic species, developing in the human and animal body whenever it is in certain abnormal states.

It will always be noticed that the men are much more liable to attacks of diarrhœa during and immediately subsequent to long marches, and after having lived for some time on a dry, amylaceous diet, that has produced more or less constipation, than they are when situated so as to cook and feed upon a plenty of good meat and vegetables.

This form of diarrhœa is always preceded and accompanied by active fermentative changes in the alimentary canal, developing large quantities of gaseous products, attended with eructations, which are generally more or less sour. The disease is very liable to run into a chronic form, if not taken hold of early. In the early stages of the complaint, a simple change of diet, from farinaceous to albuminous, is sufficient frequently to cure the disease in a few days. If this cannot be done, a simple cathartic dose of Rochelle salts, to clean out the alimentary ferment, followed by small, highly dilute doses of the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron, will check the disease in the majority of cases.

That the amylaceous food is the principal cause of chronic diarrhœa, is further evidenced by the fact that the officers, who live on more of an albuminous and vegetable diet than the men, and have facilities for carrying and cooking a variety of food, are exempt from the disease, except when they subject themselves to the amylaceous diet of the men.

The active fermentation and development of yeast plants, and the resultant gaseous products in the alimentary canal, acts as an irritant poison and cathartic of a peculiar character. This is evidenced from the cancerous condition which it produces in the stomach and large intestines. They also produce paralytic symptoms in bowels, extremities, head, and in fact over the whole body—manifested in the involuntary discharges; the numb and prickling sensation in limbs; the confused, numb feeling in head; ringing in ears, &c.† They also produce bronchial and pulmonary irritation, with a remarkable tendency to tuberculosis, thrombosis, and embolia.

In the army, there is in all the men a peculiar chronic (cancerous) condition of the alimentary membranes, excited by frequent fermentation of amylaceous matters retained too long and which condition does not run on to chronic diarrhœa unless some enervating cause, such as over-fatigue, dysentery, typhoid, bilious, remittant or intermittant fever, or other cause, debilitates the system and further impairs the condition of the alimentary membranes. This is evidenced by the almost universal condition of the alimentary canal of apparently well soldiers who are shot dead in battle. (See Eng. Surg. and Med. Hist. of Crimean War). The follicles of the large intestines are more or less enlarged, and frequently some have disintegrated, leaving ulcers.

* This will be figured and described in the final report.

† Carbonic acid, when introduced into the system gradually, in abnormal quantities by inhalation, has a tendency to produce ringing in ears, confused numb sensations in head, and more or less paralysis of nerves of sensation and motion.

The amylaceous army biscuit diet of the common soldier, beyond its fermentative and carbonic acid poisoning effects, does not furnish to the system the proper proportion of ingredients for healthy alimentation and nutrition; and hence results a scorbutic condition which renders the disease obstinate to treat, unless this state is recognized and particularly attended to. This explains the reason why the vegetable acids, combined with potassa and iron are so useful in this disease. Rochelle salts are admirably adapted for exciting intestinal epithelial activity and secretion and absorption in the alimentary walls.

Any one kind of food, too long continued, has a tendency to produce derangements in the system of a scorbutic type. Amylaceous matters, too exclusively used, tend to excite abnormal actions in the parent epithelial cells of the mucous and serous surfaces and of the glands; while any one kind of animal food, too long and exclusively eaten, produces derangements that show themselves more strongly in the skin and mouth. A too free use of oils, and fatty food, and alcoholic beverages, produce the red blotched face and swelled carbunculated nose, oily surface, and erythematous swelling and redness of the skin generally.

Salt meats produce a dry, scaly eruption upon the surface, with spongy, swollen and discolored gums, loosened teeth, and a watery, flabby, often bloody tongue; with pains in the limbs and back, resembling those of chronic rheumatism; leaden-hued features; offensive breath; patches of extravasated blood in various parts of the body; hard, contracted condition of the muscles; stiffness of joints; diarrhoea and hemorrhage from mucous surfaces, generally; mental depression, and indisposition to any kind of exertion.

From this scorbutic condition, produced in all the men by the want of the necessary variety in their food, arises a long train of the most fatal and obstinate diseases of the army. Among these may be mentioned chronic diarrhoea, dysentery, the so-called muscular rheumatism, hospital gangrene in wounds, tuberculosis, fibrinous depositions in heart, (Thrombosis), the clogging up of the pulmonary vessels with fibrinous clots (Embolia), paralytic conditions and tendencies, and many of the diseases of the larynx, eye and ear. This condition of the system also renders it extremely subject, when exposed, to the exciting cause; to typhoid and intermittent and remittant fevers. The vital powers are so depressed, that the organism, on slight exposures to cold, is liable also to be frost-bitten, and strongly inclined to attacks of pneumonia and bronchitis, with diseases of the eye and ear. In short, the long list of army diseases may, in a great measure, be traced to an extreme susceptibility to them; which susceptibility is produced by a want of a proper admixture of nutrient ingredients in the food of the soldier in campaigns. All agree that scorbutic states arise from this cause; and no one of any experience in army diseases can fail to trace almost everywhere among the men some symptoms of scurvy. If it is not plainly visible in the man, who appears well, it will make itself manifest in him, as soon as he is placed under treatment for any disease, in the remarkable benefit his system derives from the vegetable, acid salts of potassa and iron, and the free use of those articles of food his system has been deprived of. Without this treatment almost all diseases in the army become obstinate to treat, much more so than similar ones in private practice.

Pincoff's speaks thus of the scorbutic condition of the men in the Crimean war: "Typhus was at that time (the winter of 1854-5) raging fiercely, and I am convinced that if not its main cause, certainly the cause of its great mortality was the scurvy. Of twenty patients admitted during that period, eighteen were usually scorbutic, eight, perhaps, would be so deeply affected (as indicated by sloughing ulcers, gangrene of the mouth, general dropsy and chronic diarrhœa) as to render recovery impossible." He expresses the opinion that out of the 23,587 cases of diseases of the stomach and bowels, 10,970 cases of fevers, and 2,023 of frost bites which occurred, the great majority were scorbutic.

Macleod, in his notes on the surgery of the war in the Crimea, states that scurvy among the men was not usually discoverable by the ordinary signs; by reason of its being so frequently masked behind some other ailment.

In the Med. and Surg. History of the British army which served in Turkey and the Crimea, published by the British Government, vol. ii., p. 171, it is stated that, "from the details now submitted, it will be readily understood that scurvy was an affection of some importance at one period in the army. It is to be observed, however, that the returns convey a faint conception of the disastrous part which it acted among the troops, for, although it was only in comparatively rare instances that it presented itself in well defined forms and as an independent affection; yet the prevalence of the scorbutic taint was wide-spread, and in a vast proportion of cases, evident indications of it existed as a complication of other diseases, fever and affection of the bowels. Indeed, it may be stated that, during the first six months of the siege, all morbid actions in the older residents were more or less scorbutic symptoms; and the fact is constantly commented upon by medical officers. Thus Dr. Marlow, 28th Reg't remarks: "Although there are apparently few cases of pure scurvy marked in the return, nearly every admission into hospital exhibited unequivocal signs of the scorbutic taint."

Mr. Baudens, in the French returns says: "Scorbutus prevailed, under an epidemic form, and was rarely witnessed without being complicated with diarrhœa, intermittant and remittant fever, bronchitis, pneumonia, etc. These complications were the most direct causes of the mortality which scurvy produced."

Seriae states that, "at the end of February more than 3,000 cases of scurvy, in which the disease was well marked, existed. Some patients had only scurvy—in others it was associated with diarrhœa, dysentery, and typhus or typhoid affections—above all, with frost bites, to which it greatly increased the liability. These combinations were all-powerful; the sick were unable to resist them, and succumbed to swell the daily augmenting record of our mortality."

In relation to a complaint which is very common in our army, viz: muscular or chronic rheumatism, we find the following statement in the Medical and Surgical History of the British army, etc., p. 175. "One of the most constant precursory symptoms of scurvy was an obscure form of muscular rheumatism. The individual complained of pains in his legs of an aching character, and his movements were tedious and painful; there was, in these cases, no articular inflammation observed, and, though the feet and legs were generally cedematous, there was little enlargement of the ankle joints, the affection, probably, has been, in some instances, mistaken for rheumatism, and perhaps treated in the ordinary manner, but it was merely one of the signs of general cachexia, and advantageously treated by a return to the comforts of life."

In old cases of chronic diarrhœa, it frequently happens that the diarrhœa somewhat abates, the appetite becomes remarkably good, and the patient fattens rapidly. His abdomen becomes distended and hard—it being either dropsical tympanitic, or distended by enlarged visera—and the whole surface becomes bloated, enthematous, and presenting the appearance of having been produced by an excessive and too exclusive use of alcoholic beverages. The eyes become prominent, red and watery; the thyroid glands become enlarged; the heart gives marked evidence of fibrinous depositions internally;* the breathing is oppressed and there is more or less of a paralytic tendency.

Remarkable Similarity Between the Chronic Diarrhœa of Armies and the Disease in Swine Known as Hog Cholera.

Several years ago, at the suggestion of gentlemen largely engaged in fattening swine, I entered upon a careful and lengthy series of investigations connected with the causes, pathology, prevention and treatment of the fatal and wide-spread disease in animals, known as "Hog Cholera." This disease has been for several years so extended and fatal in districts where large lots of hogs were being fattened, that uniformly from 20 to 80 per cent of them would die. The average loss was from 30 to 40 per cent. It even attacks, in certain localities, hogs and sometimes cattle that are fed largely and exclusively upon good, sound corn. I have made over one hundred careful post mortem examinations in this disease, and have studied the symptoms, in detail, before death, and have conducted extended experiments on a large scale connected with prophylactic and remedial means, and am perfectly convinced that hog cholera is the same disease in animals, as that which is known in the human subject in armies as chronic diarrhœa.

The same colored passages and kind of diarrhœa, preceded by constipation, with a tendency to fibrinous depositions in the heart (thrombosis), to the clogging up of the pulmonary capillaries with embolia, to tubercular depositions and paralysis, occur in hogs when they are fed too exclusively on the acid and fermenting slops of whisky distilleries, or on mouldy, sour or fermenting corn, or even sometimes on good, sound corn, as we find in the chronic diarrhœa of armies. Both diseases are the result of feeding too exclusively upon amylaceous food, or the products of its fermentation.

In hogs the disease begins from the third to the eighth week after they are put exclusively upon this kind of food. If they pass the eighth week without an attack, they begin to thrive and improve rapidly. During the disease, the feces are of a pale ash color, and filled with more or less colloid matter, and a multitude of torrula cells. The follicles in the stomach and large intestines, and especially in the latter, are more or less enlarged and protrude as in chronic diarrhœa. There is a remarkable tendency to fibrinous depositions in the heart (thrombosis), to tubercular deposits in the lungs, and to the accumulation of embolia in the pulmonary capillaries, resulting in a damming up of the blood, hepatization and death. Before death, the heart always beats spasmodically, which is indicative of fibrinous depositions in its cavities, and of the damming up of the blood in the lungs by the accumulation of embolia in the pulmonary capillaries, and of an early fatal result. The body becomes more or less paralyzed—especially is this the case with all the posterior part of the body and hind legs. There is evidence of ringing in the ears, from the fact that the animal carries his head tipped to one side, and every few minutes shakes his head. The eyes become affected, so that there is always, in the later stages of the disease, more or less blindness. The appetite is always good till the spasmodic or trip-hammer pulsation of the heart begins.

* It has been noticed that in certain cases of heart disease, the thyroid glands become enlarged, and the eyes prominent, watery and red. Whether there is any analogy between the condition of the system in this form of heart disease and that producing heart disease, chronic diarrhœa, paralytic tendencies, etc., in the army, I am unable to say. I merely mention the circumstance here, to direct attention in this direction.

The post mortems reveal the same conditions and lesions that are found in chronic diarrhœa.

The tendency to this disease varies with the state of the system, the meteorological conditions and malarious tendency or disposition to the development of low cryptogamic forms; that is—other things being equal—it is more prevalent during those seasons, and periods of the season, when cryptogamic vegetation is the most active, and there is the greatest tendency to fermentative changes.

Those animals that survive and pass the critical period—from the third to the eighth week after full feeding begins—without having the disease, although they thrive and take on fat rapidly, yet their systems are enfeebled, and they present many evident symptoms of being in a diseased condition. The skin becomes red and erythematous over the whole body; the hair partially falls; scrofulous sores and swellings frequently appear; they have more or less cough, with paralytic tendencies in the posterior part of body; their limbs and muscular system become feeble; and any even very moderate driving or exercise is extremely apt to produce pulmonary congestions and trip-hammer pulsations of heart, which are followed by sudden death. On post mortem, the lungs are found hepatized, and the pulmonary capillaries filled with embolia, and the heart with ropes and masses of fibrin, and in the same condition, so far as the lungs and heart are concerned, as when the animals die of hog cholera.

The products of the fermentation of amylaceous matters—such as sugar, alcoholic beverages, carbonic acid and vinegar—when too excessively and exclusively used, have a tendency to produce derangements similar to those which result from the too exclusive use of starchy food.

These investigations throw valuable light upon the bowel complaints of children, especially those where the stools are gelatinous and green, and contain colloid matter. There is no doubt but that all these abnormal states arise from the too exclusive use of fruits, and starchy and saccharine substances, which children are largely indulged in.

Drinking of Vinegar for Obesity.

The same kind of constipation, flatulence, diarrhœa, cough and disposition to tuberculosis and fibrinous depositions in the pulmonary capillaries and heart, occur in cases where vinegar is drank daily to reduce obesity, or for satisfying a morbid appetite. Every observing physician has noticed the tendency vinegar has, when taken largely, and daily repeated, to produce irritation of the intestinal and pulmonary membranes with diarrhœa and cough. Several cases of this kind are published in foreign journals. The following is one in point, taken from the Second Volume of the London Medical Gazette, 1838-'39 :

"A few year since, a young lady, in easy circumstances, enjoying good health, was very plump, had a good appetite, and a complexion blooming with roses and lillies. She began to look upon her plumpness with suspicion, her mother being very fat, and she afraid of becoming like her. Accordingly she consulted a woman who advised her to drink a small glass of vinegar daily; the counsel was followed, and the plumpness soon diminished. She was delighted with the success of the remedy, and continued it for more than a month. She began to have cough, but it was at first dry, and regarded as a cold that would subside. But from being dry, it was presently moist. A slow fever came on with difficult breathing; her body became lame, and wasted away; night sweats, with swelling of the feet, succeeded, and a diarrhœa terminated her life. On examination, all the lobes of the lungs were found filled with tubercles and somewhat resembled a bunch of grapes."

Remarkable Resemblance between the Symptoms and Intercurrent Abnormal Conditions of Chronic Diarrhœa and those of Diabetes.

There is a remarkable similarity between the complications and many of the symptoms and tendencies of chronic diarrhœa and those of diabetes. In both there is a highly saccharine or glycogenic condition of the system, and a peculiar abnormal tendency to fermentative changes. In both there is a remarkable tendency to heart disease (thrombosis of Virchow,) and tuberculosis, with paralytic tendencies, and diseases of the eye and ear. In the one disease there is a highly saccharine condition of the feces and alimentary secretions, and in the other of the urine. In the former, the liquids of the body are flowing off through the bowels, and in the latter through the urinary organs. Torrula cells are developed largely in the increased excretions of each disease. In chronic diarrhœa the urine is scanty, and in diabetes the bowels are constipated. In both diseases there are marked dyspeptic symptoms, with sour eructations; mouth and fauces either dry or watery; tongue clean and red; marked thirst and appetite, and a constantly increasing emaciation, with inability to maintain the temperature of the body up to the normal standard, from which inability results creeping, chilly sensations.

Resemblance between the Colloid Matter developed in the Stomach and Intestines of Chronic Diarrhœa, and that formed in Bronchocele.

In the valleys of Switzerland, where goitre is so common, the inhabitants live almost entirely upon vegetable food. This has been observed and particularly remarked by travelers, and those who are familiar with the people of these Alpine valleys.

This is interesting in this connection, since the colloid matter deposited in the thyroid glands, producing goitre, is closely analogous to, or identical in kind with, the colloid matter developed in the alimentary canal of chronic diarrhœa.

It has been determined by these investigations, that amylaceous food, its fermentation the alimentary canal, and the consequent development of sugar, carbonic acid, yeast plants, &c., rendering the system highly glycogenic and fermentative, are the true causes of those abnormal conditions of the system in chronic diarrhœa, which induce the development of colloid matter, and it is extremely probable that the colloid matter of bronchocele may have a similar cause or origin. The fact that the people of these goitreous valleys of Switzerland live mainly upon vegetable food, is strong evidence in favor of this opinion. The same kind of colloid development occurs, in certain conditions of the system, in the female breast and male testes.

Bronchocele prevails in the Alpine valleys of Switzerland to a greater extent than at any other known point. It is also quite prevalent in certain portions of England—as in Derbyshire and Nottingham; from which fact the disease is known in these localities as “Derbyshire Neck.”

This disease occurs to a most remarkable extent in the deep, warm, damp, malarious valley of the Rhone, in Switzerland. It also occurs in some deep, warm valleys of France, Spain, Germany and Austria, in England, and in some parts of South America. Wherever it is very common among the people, the hygrometric and other meteorological conditions are such as to particularly favor the development of low cryptogamic forms; fermentative changes are active, and the people are eminently vegetable eaters, drinking often much sour wine. This disease is colloid in its character.

Where a people live habitually too exclusively upon amylaceous and vegetable food from infancy—especially in damp, low, malarious valleys—there seems to be a marked tendency to the development of goitre. There is also a disposition to colloid development in the testes and mammary glands, in the alimentary canal and the lining membrane of the urinary and genital organs; and to flatulence, sour eructations, and indigestion. They are subject to diarrhoea, palpitation of the heart, and to fibrinous depositions in the pulmonary capillaries, and congestions in the lungs, brain and intestinal walls. They are also liable to impairment of voice, hearing and vision; and often the lower extremities give more or less indications of paralytic tendencies.

When the goitreous tendency is extreme, a liability for it to run into that extreme idiotic, pitiable form of the disease, denominated cretinism, is present. Goitre may make its appearance at any period of life, though more commonly the thyroid glands begin to enlarge in early years.* In cretinism the disease is congenital—the children being born idiotic and with thyroid tumors, more or less large, and which often become immense as they advance in years. Such persons are diminutive in size, pale, anemic, and have a particular affection for the sun, which they gaze at for hours with a vacant stare. They may really be said to be sun-worshippers by intuition.

Cretinism.—This never occurs except where goitre is very prevalent. It is the extreme state of congenital colloid disease. This disease may not be confined to the thyroid glands. It extends frequently to the mammae, testes, lining membrane of the alimentary canal, and that of the urinary and genital organs. The stature is seldom above $4\frac{1}{2}$ feet, and often much less; the cranium is deformed, and has a conical shape; the forehead thrown backward, narrow and flat, and the occiput on a line with the neck. Flesh soft and flaccid; skin wrinkled, yellow, pale and cadaverous, dirty, and covered by chronic eruptions; the tongue is thick, watery, and hanging out of mouth, which is open, large and slavering. Lower jaw long and prominent; eyelids thick, eyes red, small but prominent, watery, and frequently squinting. The belly is large, prominent and flatulent; the senses are more or less defective, or altogether abolished—the Cretin being often deaf and dumb: and those who possess the faculty of speech, speak imperfectly and with difficulty. Cretins are voracious, and addicted to masturbation. They often pass their feces involuntarily. The mammae are voluminous and pendant, and the testes large, the scrotum extending frequently to the knees. The eyes are small, the pupils contracted and not very sensitive to light. The look is a fixed stare, without expression. The external ear is large and stands out from the head, and the hearing is very defective. The elongated form of the lower jaw of the Cretins, and their thick and padded lips, make them resemble ruminating animals more nearly than man. The thyroid gland is always more or less enlarged, and often enormously so. Other glands, above named, are also enlarged. The abdomen is usually distended with gases, and largely developed toward the chest, and the flesh of the extremities is flabby. The genital organs are largely developed, the menses deranged, and the power of pro-creation defective. They seldom live beyond 30, and often die much younger. They are usually of the lymphatic temperament, with light hair and grey eyes. They are sun-gazers, often looking steadily for hours together at it, as if it imparted to them inexpressible pleasures.

* These investigations appear to throw valuable light upon a great variety of sarcomatous abnormal developments, and especially that type known as gelatinous sarcoma, and other colloid forms of disease. These appear to be expressions of certain systemic conditions, which are abnormal, and must be corrected and the causes removed before such diseased developments can be successfully checked.

The following interesting letter, relating to the diet and habits of the people who live in the goitreous valleys of Switzerland, France, &c., is from Prof. Lesquereux, our justly famed fossil botanist. He is at home among the Alps, and is perfectly familiar with all the habits and customs of this interesting people. His statements, therefore, are particularly valuable in this relation, as they, taken in connection with the observations and experiments here given, render it highly probable, if not certain, that the goitreous diathesis originates entirely from the vegetable diet of the people, aided by those meteorological conditions which favor the development of low cryptogamic forms.

COLUMBUS, O., 9th January, 1864.

Dr. J. H. Salisbury:

MY DEAR SIR:—I am sorry that I am not able to answer all your inquiries concerning the symptoms generally accompanying the appearance and development of the goitre. I studied this peculiar sickness rather as a naturalist, than as a doctor would do it; rather trying to analyze the peculiar causes of its appearance, than to analyze the various modifications to which different parts of the body are subjected. You want to know:

1. In what part of the country of Switzerland the goitre is mostly prevalent?

2. What are the habits of the people generally attacked by it?

3. To what causes is the sickness generally attributed?

1st. The goitre is mostly prevalent along the rivers, and at the bottom of some deep valleys of the Alpine mountains. I have observed it especially in the Canton Vallais, along the valley of the Rhone, from Lion to St. Maurice. I have seen it also in the Jura Mountains, near Montbeillard, in Franche-Compte, and also in some part of Savoy, especially in the Valley d'Aorta. The goitre does not attack the inhabitants of the mountains or of the high valleys of Switzerland. The valley of the Rhone presents a peculiar appearance. It is so deeply incased in high chains of mountains, that, in winter, the sun does not reach the bottom at some parts near St. Maurice, for example; and that in summer, the reflection of the sun by the surrounding walls of rocks, causes the heat to be excessive. In winter time, and also in the fall, the valley is generally and constantly covered with a deep fog. Even in summer time, as soon as the sun is down, the fog covers some part of the valley for the night.

The inhabitants of the Canton Valais, or Valesia, who live in high valleys, or on the slopes of the mountains somewhat above the Rhone, are not subject to the goitre, as I said above. These generally have a splendid development of the body and the most healthy appearance.

It may be remarked also, that along the valley of the Rhone, the goitre is mostly predominant among the inhabitants belonging to the Catholic faith. Thus, from St. Maurice downwards, the left side of the valley is Valaisian, and Catholic—and there the goitre is very predominant. The right side belongs to the State of Vaud, and is Protestant. There are still some cases of goitre deformation, but no Cretinism whatever. This Cretinism appears to be the extreme point of development of the goitre. It is a kind of bodily deformity, accompanied with idiotism, presenting the most disgusting appearance. The Cretins are born idiots—generally from individuals either Cretins, or affected with the goitre in its utmost development. They all bear a goitre of an enormous size—sometimes descending on their stomach. They are of short size, no more than four feet high; have a wrinkled, yellowish pale, cadaverous skin, generally covered with a coat of filth; some are blind, or deaf and dumb; some have the itch, or other ulcerous affections. Their eyes are red, protuberant, and far between; their mouths generally open, and outrunning with saliva; most of the time the tongue is pending; the visage flat and blue, the front very narrow and backward. They live in filth, are voracious, lazy and lascivious. They intermarry, and generally live on the charity of the people.

2d. The inhabitants of the valley of the Rhone are poor. Their only industry consists in the cultivation of vineyards and of small farms. They are all of the Catholic faith, lazy and dirty. The poor ones mostly live on a kind of very black bread made with the flour and bran of oats. They eat very little meat, if any, drink water and some of their acid wine, but no alcoholic liquors. Higher up in the mountains, and on their slopes, the inhabitants are richer, with their fine pastures and large herds of cows. Their industry of cheese making is remunerative. These live especially upon milk in its various decompositions and preparations, and have no goitre. They are the most beautiful, kind and good people that it is possible to find. In the Swiss Jura Mountains, the poor of the inhabitants live mostly on goats' milk; and though they are not very clean, they have no trace of goitre, even in the deepest valleys.

3d. The essential causes of the formation of goitre (of course, I speak, causes appreciable to common observation) is the dampness of the atmosphere. This cause is not simple; it is confined with the filth in which the poor inhabitants of Valesia are generally living, and their poor and bad food. The sickness was at first attributed to water. But as the inhabitants of the mountains drink the same kind of water as those of the valleys, and have no goitre, it is obvious that water has nothing to do with the development of the goitre. A damp atmosphere can also not be considered as the sole cause of the sickness; for on the right side of the Rhone, below St. Maurice, the inhabitants who are thrifty, rich and clean*—a Protestant population—have scarcely any goitre, and no Cretins whatever. In Franche-Comte, near Montbeillard, on the contrary, the locality where I have also seen the goitre, is not a deep valley, and there the dampness of the atmosphere cannot be considered as the essential cause. But here the inhabitants are proverbially filthy, lazy, and poor of course. The women cultivate some patches of corn. Corn meal, prepared in a kind of porridge,

* Prof. Lesquereux tells me, that this Protestant people use more of a meat diet than the poorer class on the opposite side of the river, the food of which is almost entirely vegetable being their essential and, sometimes, their only food. This part belongs to France

The Swiss Government has done much—not only to promote researches concerning the cause of the goitre and of the Cretinism, but also to find the means of curing the poor idiots of Valesia. A kind of hospital has been established under the management of a celebrated doctor, in a high open valley of the Alps. There good food, exercise, cleanliness and education have done much, if not to extirpate this plague, at least to alleviate and diminish its influence.

The inhabitants of Valesia, and of the countries where the goitre is prevalent, do not appear to lose anything of their strength, health and external appearance by the mere development of the goitre. I have seen most beautiful women and men, of the finest and most healthy growth, attacked by it. Even in some valleys of the Pyrenees and of the Alps, where the goitre is general, the inhabitants who are not attacked by it are looked at and pitied as a kind of cripples, or of deformed beings, because they do not bear under their chins this appendage—probably considered as some pleasant apparel.

I could write you much more on the subject; but I think that this letter is long enough. Should you want an answer to some other questions, I shall be always glad to tell you what I know on the matter.

Very sincerely yours,

LEO LESQUEREUX.

Treatment.—The therapeutic means resorted to in treating successfully other forms of diarrhœa, have no permanent good result in this. It seems thus far to have defied the medical skill of all armies, from the very fact that its true cause and pathology have not been carefully studied and made out. To-day a prescription is administered, which for the time appears to produce beneficial results, and the surgeon flatters himself with the hope that he has at last discovered the true therapeutic combinations that control and cure the disease. He administers them in another apparently parallel case, and is disappointed in getting, either no response, or perhaps none that is favorable. By this time, perhaps, his patient, who had been apparently improving under the remedy, begins to get worse. His faith is shaken, and prescription after prescription is resorted to, but always finally with the same unsatisfactory result; and eventually when his patient gets much reduced he falls back on dietetic treatment and nursing, and finds that under this plan the sick man fails no faster, really, than when under the daily influence of medicines.

The almost universal remark is, that the disease does not respond to remedies. That with or without treatment, to-day it will be better, to-morrow worse, this week improving, the next reducing the patient lower than ever.

The reason of all this uncertainty is, that the true cause and pathology of the disease are unknown to the practitioner, and of course all the plans of treatment must be empirical. He may hit upon some good remedial means for answering certain conditions of the disease, but others not being met his treatment fails.

From the previous observations, experiments and microscopic researches the exciting cause, the resulting conditions and pathological lesions and complications appear to be evident. The plan of treatment indicated, is first to remove the cause, next to correct the abnormal actions in the alimentary canal, and in the system generally, and finally to aid nature in repairing the various lesions produced, and in restoring the normal tone of the affected parts.

The first indication, then, is to change the fermentative amylaceous food to a varied, easily digested albuminous animal diet, with which is mixed a small quantity of non-amylaceous vegetables. The next, to check fermentation in the alimentary canal and remove the layer of yeast adhering to the intestinal walls, and to get rid of the fermentative state excited in the epithelial tissue; to correct the saccharine or glycogenic conditions of the secretions and system; and lastly, to repair the lesions and restore the normal tone of the alimentary canal, lungs and heart, produced by causes and conditions favoring zymotic development.

In the early or acute stage of the disease, a simple albuminous animal diet, preceded by a cathartic dose of Rochelle salts, with the moderate use of the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron in dilute solutions, is, in most cases, all that is necessary to rapidly cure the disease. In the chronic stage, after the appearance and development of colloid matter in the feces, the treatment should be extended to meet the alimentary and other abnormal conditions; although even in this stage, an albuminous animal diet of beef and chicken essences, teas and soups, and soft-boiled eggs, oysters, etc., preceded by a cathartic dose of Rochelle salts, to clean out the intestinal ferment, and followed by the free use of dilute solutions of the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron, are all that in many cases are required. If fermentation continues, bloating the stomach and bowels evenings and nights, a dose of dilute sulphuric acid should be administered before supper and bed time. Others require a more extended treatment to meet the abnormal lesions produced in the alimentary canal and excited in other important organs; as the lungs, heart and nervous system.

The first indication in such cases, after removing the intestinal ferment is to keep the parts well lubricated; to allay irritation as much as possible and to gently promote intestinal secretion and absorption. The bowels are kept constantly lubricated with the following emulsion:

R—Ol. Olivæ, ʒii.

Ol. teribinth. ʒii.

Gum acacia.

Aquæ aa, ʒviii., to make emulsion.

S. Dose—A tablespoonful morning, noon and night.

To allay irritation, the following suppository is used:

R—Pulv. opii., 1 gr. x.

Butter cocoa, ʒiiss.

Melt, stir well together and run in moulds, so as to make suppositions x.

S. Use one every night on retiring, and in cases of extreme irritability of the rectum and colon, use one night and morning.

To promote intestinal secretion and absorption, and to excite the flow of urine, give as follows:

R—Rochelle salts, ʒii.

Aquæ, ʒxvi.

M. S. A tablespoonful, morning, noon and night, in half a glass of water.

It is seldom that a case is met with that will not yield to the foregoing simple dietetic and remedial means. In extreme cases, where there are grave lesions and abnormal conditions that do not yield to these means, I have used with marked benefit the following prescription, which seems to operate beneficially in producing an alterative influence in the system and alimentary epithelial surfaces. It also excites hepatic splenic and mesenteric activity, thereby relieving the clogged-up portal vessels and congested intestinal capillaries:

R—Potassa. Bromide, 3ss.

Bromine, grt. x.

Ext. Nux Vomica, gr. iii.

Aquæ, 3viii.

M. S. A tablespoonful every four to six hours.

In addition to this, the following should be given:

R—Either citrate, super citrate, acetate or bitartrate of potassa, ʒi-ii.

Aquæ, f ʒviii.

M. S.—One ounce every two to four hours through the day.

If fermentation continues to recur during the evening and night, a dose of dilute sulphuric acid or sulphite of soda, or nitro muriatic acid may be given about an hour before supper, and another previous to retiring. It will be well to use one of these anti-fermentative remedies daily, as above indicated, as long as there is any trace of fermentative tendency. A dose, especially either of the former or latter, will check, usually, the fermentation readily. Dilute nitric acid answers also a good purpose, given in the same way as the sulphuric. Ten grains of pulverized nutmeg, two or three times a day, or sweet spirits of nitre are also good anti-fermentative remedies.

About once in seven to ten days the above treatment should be suspended, and during the interval a dose of Rochelle salts (preceded, if properly indicated, by a mercurial, to promote hepatic secretion) administered for cathartic and diuretic purposes. The former prescriptions should then again be resumed after an interval of three or four days, and continued and discontinued as before. The patients should be kept as strictly as possible on a variegated and easily digested albuminous animal diet, with which may be mixed a small quantity of non-amylaceous vegetables, and be allowed to exercise in the open air whenever their condition will permit.

They should take a warm saline bath twice a week, and occasionally be sponged with whisky. Patients affected with this disease should be placed in wards by themselves, where they can receive special attention in medical treatment, diet and exercise. Where there is a malarial influence in the system, quinine may be freely used in addition to the foregoing means. It may be given alone or combined with iron when there is much anæmia. In obstinate cases, inunctions of iodine, or the application of its tincture to the surface of the abdomen frequently results in marked benefit.

Dr. Hayes, so well known as a successful Arctic explorer, and who is surgeon in charge of the Saterlee U. S. A. Hospital, West Philadelphia, of 3,000 beds, has had large experience in scorbutic diseases. He has had, also a large number of cases to treat in the West Philadelphia Hospital of chronic diarrhæa, contracted in the Peninsular campaign, and is satisfied that there is a scorbutic condition of a peculiar type to be attended to in this disease, and which is one important cause of the obstinate character of the complaint when treated with the usual remedies and diet for ordinary diarrhæa. He has treated the disease, thus far, more successfully than I have found it treated in any other hospital either east or west.

DIET IN CHRONIC DIARRHŒA.

The diet should be as strictly albuminous as possible; avoiding all dry, amylaceous food, with beans and peas. The food should be reduced to solution, or as nearly so as may be, so that the alimentary canal will have as little as possible to do in digesting it. Chicken and beef essences and soups, and oyster soup, and soft-boiled eggs, with milk, and also non-amylaceous vegetables, in small quantities, should make up the important materials of the diet list. Where soups are made from either chicken or beef, or oysters, the material should be chopped fine (even the oysters), then placed in cold water and brought gradually and slowly to a boil, and finally boiled thoroughly, so that even the solid portions, not dissolved, fall in pieces. A soup made in this way will contain a large amount of nourishment in solution, and will be in a condition to be readily and easily taken up and assimilated without causing unnecessary irritation of the highly diseased lining of the alimentary canal. The patients should not be allowed to overload their stomachs. They should be controlled, so as to take at any one time only a moderate quantity of food, and, if necessary, repeat the feeding frequently. If there is any fermentation and generation of gases in the stomach and intestines evenings and nights, dilute sulphuric acid should be administered before supper and previous to retiring. For further particulars, see foregoing treatment.

While carrying on my examinations at Dennison, U. S. A. G. Hospital, in November last, I obtained permission from Dr. Cloak, the efficient Surgeon in charge, to remove the most obstinate cases of chronic diarrhœa into a ward by themselves. Ward 30, in Dr. Palmer's division, was cleaned and set apart for this purpose. Nov. 19, nineteen obstinate and well marked cases of the disease of long standing were removed into the ward, and placed on an albuminous diet, and on anti-scorbutic and anti-fermentative remedies. The ward was placed in the charge of A. A. Surgeon Palmer. On Dec. 22 I received a report of these cases, which had been under treatment 28 days.

For the purpose of showing briefly the good results obtained from the use of an albuminous diet, etc., I here insert the following letters:

DENNISON U. S. A. GENERAL HOSPITAL,
Camp Dennison, O., Dec. 20, 1863.

DEAR SIR:—I inclose you Dr. Palmer's report of the diarrhœa ward. The treatment is highly satisfactory. Let us hear from you.

Truly your friend,

B. CLOAK,
Surgeon in Charge.

DR. SALISBURY.

The following statements are from Dr. Palmer's Report, referred to in Dr. Clark's letter:

DENNISON U. S. A. HOSPITAL, }
Dec. 17, 1863. }

SIR,—The following is a report of those cases of chronic diarrhœa, examined by you. * * * * * (The detailed report of the cases is omitted.)

I am pleased with the use of an albuminous diet in chronic diarrhœa. It undoubtedly has had much to do with the successful treatment of the above cases. I like it far better than the farinaceous.

All these cases were confirmed chronic diarrhœa. The results obtained met my expectations. An improvement was manifested in every one of the 19 cases. * * * *

The Transfer Board for the Invalid Corps, has just examined Ward 30, and taken several of its number for First and Second Battalion duty; so that I will be unable to report further into the condition of their cases. A few will be fit for their regiments. Hoping to hear from you soon,

I remain, most respectfully,

Your obt. servant,

CHAUNCEY D. PALMER,

A. A. Surg. U. S. V.

DR. SALISBURY.

PROPHYLACTIC MEASURES.

If soldiers could be provided with a plenty of desiccated beef and vegetables, and less army biscuit on their marches, and on all occasions where they cannot cook meats, affording more of an albuminous diet, they would be much less liable to constipation and the resultant fermentation of the alimentary materials, and consequently less subject to the exciting causes of the so-called chronic diarrhœa.

The experiments thus far with army biscuit in producing chronic diarrhœa, have been most highly successful and confirmatory. It, when used as the sole or principal food, produces the same train of symptoms, kind of stools, conditions of the system, and complications, as are characteristic of chronic diarrhœa.

The causes we will here briefly enumerate:

1. Too large a proportion of dry, amylaceous matter in the food for healthy alimentation.

2. This dry, amylaceous food invariably tends to produce constipation, when too largely used.

3. The farinaceous matters remaining in the alimentary canal an undue time, fermentative changes set in, and gradually increase from day to day, if the cause be not removed, and eventually there is produced a highly saccharine or glycogenic condition of the system.

4. Cryptogamic (yeast and algoid) plants are developed in vast numbers in the alimentary canal, germinating large quantities of carbonic acid, which, with the ferment organisms, act as a peculiar irritant poison and cathartic; as is evidenced from the cancerous state excited in the alimentary membranes, the character of the discharges, the paralytic tendencies produced, and the disposition excited to tuberculosis, thrombosis, and embolia.

The prophylactic measures indicated are plain. They are either to avoid, to remove, or counteract the cause, and may be briefly stated as follows:

1. Change the dry, amylaceous diet to one that is more albuminous, and which is less liable to produce constipation, and when it does produce this condition, less disposed to fermentative changes that develop yeast and algoid plants and carbonic acid. The desiccated beef and vegetables makes a very palatable, concentrated, portable, cheap, appropriate and condensed form of albuminous food, that actually requires no cooking, and which could be supplied the men on marches, and whenever they are so placed as to be unable to carry and cook meat and vegetables.

2. The men should not be allowed to become constipated, and retain food an undue time in the alimentary canal.

3. The fermentative condition, in the alimentary canal, should not be allowed to gain an ascendancy. Whenever flatulent tendencies manifest themselves, especially during the evening and night, some one of the anti-fermentatives, mentioned under the treatment of the disease, should be administered before supper and previous to retiring, and followed, if necessary, by a cathartic dose of Rochelle salts, to promote free secretions from the alimentary mucous surfaces.

If these simple prophylactic means were strictly observed, and followed out in detail, there is the strongest evidence for believing that chronic diarrhoea, with all its grave complications, would become a rare disease in armies.

Present Army Ration in the Field, and its modification to meet the emergencies of active campaigns.

PRESENT ARMY RATION.

Daily Ration for	100 men.	1 man.
Pork or Bacon	75 lbs. 0 ozs.	0 lbs. 12 ozs.
Or Salt or Fresh Beef	125 " 0 "	1 " 4 "
Soft Bread or Flour	137½ " 0 "	1 " 6 "
Or Hard Bread	100 " 0 "	1 " 0 "
Or Corn Meal	125 " 0 "	1 " 4 "
Beans or Peas	15 " 0 "	0 " 2¼ "
Rice or Hominy	10 " 0 "	0 " 1⅞ "
Green Coffee	10 " 0 "	0 " 1⅞ "
Or Roasted Coffee	8 " 0 "	1 " 1⅞ "
Or Tea	1 " 8 "	0 " ⅞ "
Sugar	15 " 0 "	0 " 2⅞ "
Vinegar	8 " 0 "	0 " 1⅞ "
Adamantine or Star Candles	1 " 4 "	0 " ⅞ "
Soap	4 " 0 "	0 " ⅞ "
Salt	3 " 12 "	0 " ⅞ "
Pepper	0 " 4 "	0 " ⅞ "
Potatoes	30 " 0 "	0 " 4⅞ "
Molasses	2 " 0 "	0 " ⅞ "

This makes a substantial and good diet, save that the army biscuit part of it is entirely too large, so long as the men are in a position to avail themselves of the means of transporting their food and cooking their meat and vegetables. At such times, however, the men are in camp, and not exposed to the hardships and fatigues of military life. But as soon as they are deprived of these means by active duty in the field, in the way of long marches, they are thrown often entirely upon a dry army biscuit diet, and this at the very time when their systems, overtaxed with arduous and fatiguing duties, require the most nourishing food to support and sustain them. This diet affording but a part of the normal constituents of healthy alimentation, the men on it soon begin to show signs of enervation, and the long train of abnormal symptoms previously described. Here is evidently, at the precise period when the soldiers require the best of nutrients, an important link in their alimentation left out. The very bone, muscle, and nerve of their food are wanting. Can these be readily supplied? We answer, yes! Our desiccated beef and vegetables furnish albuminous and vegetable food of the finest quality, that do not necessarily require cooking, and which are so condensed, by being deprived of water (a useless material), that the men can carry 5 to 6 days' rations of these materials as easily as they now carry one, of their ordinary food. Upon such food the men can travel, and endure hardships and exposures, without becoming enervated and diseased.

We here introduce the ration modified, so as to meet the emergencies of active campaigns:

ARMY RATION FOR ACTIVE CAMPAIGNS.

Daily ration for—	100 men.		One man.
	lbs.	ozs.	lbs.	ozs.
Desiccated beef and vegetables.....	25	0	0	4
Hard bread or army biscuit.....	25	0	0	4
Roasted coffee.....	8	0	0	1 ² / ₈
Or tea.....	1	8	0	1 ² / ₈
Soap.....	4	0	0	1 ² / ₈
Salt.....	3	12	0	1 ² / ₈
Pepper.....	0	4	0	1 ² / ₈

This is a good ration, upon which the men have all the constituents required for healthy alimentation. It furnishes the system with all the nutrient materials necessary for the healthy support of the tissues of the body, when the men are exposed to the fatigues and hardships of the campaign.

With roasted coffee, the daily ration per soldier is $10\frac{7}{8}$ ounces. With tea, $9\frac{7}{8}$ ounces. Thirty days' rations with coffee weigh $19\frac{1}{8}$ pounds. Thirty days' rations with tea weigh $17\frac{3}{8}$ lbs. Twenty days' rations with coffee weigh $13\frac{1}{4}$ lbs. Twenty days' rations with tea weigh $11\frac{3}{4}$ lbs.

The 4 ounces per man per day of desiccated beef and vegetables is equivalent to ten ounces of pure lean beef, freed from all bone and fat, or fifteen ounces with the bone, and twenty ounces of fresh vegetables. This with the four ounces* of army biscuit, coffee and condiments, make up an ample diet for a soldier undergoing the fatigues and labors of campaigning.

The present daily ration, with beef and coffee, weighs 3 lbs. and $9\frac{3}{8}$ ounces. With bacon it is eight ounces less. With beef, therefore, one ordinary ration weighs as much as $5\frac{1}{4}$, or in round numbers, five and a half days' rations of the desiccated food. The men could carry in their haversacks, of the desiccated food, twenty-seven days' rations more easily than they could carry the ordinary ration for five days. The advantage in favor of the former, so far as portability and bulk are concerned, is so great that thirty days' rations of it would not be as bulky and burdensome as would be the ordinary cooked ration for five days.

In executing rapid and long marches, the present ration cannot be carried in full on account of its bulk, want of portability, and weight. The result is that after the first three or four days the soldiers are thrown almost entirely upon army biscuit and coffee. This soon produces constipation and flatulence, which sooner or later results in so much alimentary and systemic irritation and derangement, that diarrhea ensues. This, if allowed to continue for any length of time, becomes an obstinate disease.

Beans and peas, when fed upon to any extent and persisted in, are a grave cause of alimentary irritation and diarrhœa. Like army biscuit, they at first produce constipation and flatulence, which if the food be continued to be used too exclusively, soon results in diarrhœa. Every one is familiar with the almost immediate tendency of this kind of food to produce flatulence. In our soup houses in the large cities, where soup is daily prepared during the winter for feeding the poor, beans and peas enter largely into its composition. This diet excites in those who feed too exclusively upon it, diarrhœic conditions, which are frequently obstinate in their character.

Any one kind of animal food when subsisted upon too exclusively, results in scorbutic conditions, which finally present diarrhœic tendencies. With this kind of food, however, the external surface of the body and mouth frequently are the first to exhibit marked abnormal states; while with amylaceous and leguminose food, the mucous membranes are the first to present striking derangements and lesions.

100 lbs. of desiccated beef and vegetables are made up as follows :

100 lbs. of desiccated beef and vegetables are composed of—	Desiccated beef, free from bone and fat, 50 lbs. ;	250 lbs. of pure fresh beef, freed from bone and fat; or 375 lbs. of beef containing bone and fat,	375 lbs. beef and 425 lbs. of vegetables. } 800 lbs. of fresh food.
	and Desiccated vegetables, 50 lbs. ;	and 425 lbs. of fresh vegetables ; or 7 lbs. of desic. onions.	or 105 lbs. of fresh onions.
	30 " potatoes.	180 " potatoes.
	13 " cabbage ;	140 " cabbage ;
	which are equivalent to—	which equals—

We here see that this desiccated beef and vegetables has in one pound : 8 lbs. of fresh food, $3\frac{1}{4}$ lbs. of which is beef, and $4\frac{1}{4}$ lbs. vegetables. The beef is freed from bone and extra fat, cooked, cut fine, and carefully dried at a low temperature, so as to not destroy its flavor. The vegetables are sliced or cut fine, and carefully dried at a low temperature, so that all the fine flavor is preserved, the potatoes being previously cooked while the onions and cabbage were dried raw. After all are thoroughly dried, fifty pounds of the desiccated meat, seven pounds of the desiccated onions, thirty pounds of the desiccated potatoes, and thirteen pounds of the desiccated cabbage, making in all one hundred pounds, are mixed together intimately, and eight pounds of the mixture placed in a hydraulic press, and with five hundred tons pressure forced into a tablet one foot square and one inch thick. The tablets formed in this way are placed nine in a tin can, and two cans in a wooden case.

When these tables are ready for being coated with gelatine they can be cut through the centre, making two tablets of one. These half tablets measure twelve by six inches, and are of a convenient size for packing in the haversacks of the men. Each half tablet weighs four pounds. They are coated with gelatine to prevent the absorption of moisture, till required for use.

The cost of this food per pound will not exceed forty-eight cents, one-fourth pound, twelve cents. It will hence be seen that this kind of food, when the expenses of transportation are deducted, will cost less than the ordinary ration.

The American Desiccating Company of New York, (56 South Street) have works at Williamsburg and Newburg, N. Y., and are able at present to turn out of this kind of food, 150,000 pounds per month, and by spring could increase their capacity to 200,000 pounds per month. 150,000 pounds per month is 5,000 pounds per day, which is sufficient for 20,000 daily rations. 200,000 pounds per month is 6,666 $\frac{2}{3}$ pounds per day, which is sufficient for 26,666 $\frac{2}{3}$ daily rations. This would probably be sufficient to supply the army for the present, while engaged in active campaigns. If not, other works could be soon constructed for the purpose which could furnish the desired supply.

While armies are in camp, or when they can have the facilities for cooking and transporting their food, the ordinary army ration—with one-half the present quantity of army biscuit—could be issued. The army biscuit should be lessened, as the present amount makes by far too large a proportion of amylaceous food in the ration for healthy alimentation. Peas and beans should be entirely excluded.

The following interesting statements, bearing upon this subject, are from Dr. J. J. Hayes, the Arctic Explorer, who has had large experience in observing the conditions under which scorbutic states are developed, and during his last expedition he was entirely successful in preventing the appearance of this disease among his men :

SATTERLEE U. S. A. GENERAL HOSPITAL,
WEST PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14, 1863.

My dear Sir—I take great pleasure in answering your questions.

During my first voyage with Dr. Kane, scurvy was very prevalent among the crew. This was attributed mainly to a diet consisting of the ordinary Navy Ration; the meat being wholly salted. But little game was obtained.

During the expedition which I commanded in 1860 and '61, we had no scurvy. This was, no doubt, chiefly owing to the abundant supply of game which our guns brought us. Reindeer, foxes, and water fowl, were found in great abundance. I believe, however, that we should have escaped without any symptoms of that terrible disease had we had been obliged to subsist on the supplies which we took with us from home—the most useful of which was the desiccated beef and vegetables, prepared by the American Dessicating Company in New York. This preparation is made by mixing together equal parts of perfectly dried beef and vegetables. The vegetables used were chiefly potatoes, onions and carrots. The mixture was compressed by hydraulic pressure into solid cakes—four pounds in each. Except a small allowance of ship biscuit (two ounces per man per day) this was my only food when traveling with dog sledges over the ice.

On one of my journeys I was absent sixty days. There were four of us in the party; and our two sledges were drawn, each, by seven dogs. The food of men and dogs was the same; and nothing could better suit such traveling in a region where every extra pound is of importance.

I will give you our equipment. Each person had a small buffalo skin, and an extra pair of boots, stockings and mittens. Total weight of extra clothing, for four persons, 30 pounds. A lamp, a kettle, four cups and as many spoons made up our mess furniture. Total weight 6 lbs., or in all 9 lbs. per man; and this in a temperature varying from zero to 68° below it. We had a pot of coffee night and morning, and one pound of desiccated beef and vegetables gave the four of us two good meals per day; that is $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. to each or $\frac{1}{4}$ lb. per meal. Occasionally we required a larger quantity, but never more than half a pound per man per day. We carried no tent; but slept always in a snow hut, for the building of which we carried only a slight shovel. We had, of course, no fire, other than our small lamp for cooking; and this, owing to the smoke, could not be used in the hut. We did not suffer materially from the cold, and none of us were even frost bitten.

I am much surprised that these dessicated meats and vegetables are not used extensively in the army. I paid for the dessicated beef 60c. per lb. (1860); for the dessicated beef and vegetables, 45c. per lb.; and for the dessicated vegetables alone, about 30c. per lb. So you see it is not costly. A soldier could carry in his breeches pockets food enough to last him a week. A four pound cake, stuck in his haversack, would at least last him eight days, and with economy a much longer period. I have lived on one 16 days.

If I were to organize an army I should first build a dessicating establishment, and would sell my commissary wagons to pay for it. The army might then trust to its legs and not to wheels, and would be less liable to be impeded by mud and poor roads.

The larger part of our food, consisting of water, is removed by this dessicating process; and thus 6 lbs. of meat is reduced to one, and vegetables nearly 20 to one; without depriving either of any of their nutrient qualities. The soldier, on the march, can always find a stream, spring or well, from which the needed water may be supplied to swell his beef and his vegetables to their natural size; and wherever there is a fence or a tree he can have a fire to cook his soup, the most refreshing and most useful form in which a soldier or a traveler can prepare his food. If it should so happen that the means for cooking are not at hand, he can eat his little lump of hard food, drink a pint or so of water, and sleep without hunger or indigestion. The food is not unpalatable in its raw state; and I know from practical experience, that it will sustain life as well without ever having seen the fire or pot.

I know that you will agree with me that neither the soldier nor the traveller should seek comfort or luxury in the field; these he may have at home, where they belong.

Believe me, my dear Sir,
sincerely your friend,
J. J. HAYES,
Surgeon U. S. Vols.

Dr. SALISBURY, Girard House, Phila.

Here we have a practical test of this desiccated food in campaigning; showing that it sustains the strength of the system admirably, and protects it perfectly against scorbutic maladies—the constant and dreaded scourge of armies—which have more to do in weakening and decimating them than the necessary accidents of battles, combined with all other diseases. It is a remarkable fact, that at present over 20 per cent. of the rank and file, in every campaign of any extent, are found on the sick list from bowel and other derangements of a scorbutic origin, or arising from defective alimentation. The officers are for the most part exempt from these diseases, for the simple reason that they are able to carry food and means for cooking; and consequently have that variety of food the system requires for healthy alimentation, and to nourish and sustain it under the fatigues and hardships of the march. This is a matter which should have the earnest and careful consideration of those in authority, as early as possible, that arrangements may be made to supply the proper amount and kind of desiccated food to the army by the early spring campaign.

The lines of communication are now becoming so extended, and the means of transporting food so bulky and cumbersome, that with the old army ration celerity of movement and health are both out of the question. This we have learned by a long, bitter and expensive experience. How different it would be if all the cumbersome commissary trains could be dispensed with; each man taking in his haversack and pockets 30 days rations; which, with dessicated food, could readily be done without overloading. If the lines of communication should then happen to be cut for a few days, it would not interfere with forward movements. The importance of this matter, at this time, cannot be overestimated, both as a military and sanitary measure.

RESUME.

The following is a brief summary of many of the interesting and important results arrived at in this inquiry:

1. Vegetable food, and especially that of an amylaceous and leguminose character, when too exclusively and continuously used, produces fermentative and scorbutic conditions.

2. These conditions show themselves in the following abnormal states, viz.: in the formation of fibrinous masses (embolia) in the capillary vessels of sensitive, irritated and irritable parts, resulting in congestions, inflammations, diarrhœa, paralytic tendencies, loss of voice, and diseases of the eye and ear, with pains and aches in the extremities and back, and also a disposition to cell development, from which results tubercular depositions in the lungs.

3. The abnormal conditions excited by an amylaceous and leguminous diet, require, as dietetic and remedial means, albuminous animal food, instead of vegetables, with anti-fermentatives for controlling zymotic action; in connection with which are indicated the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron, for promoting the solution of the fibrinous clots and thinning the blood, and promoting intestinal epithelial activity, absorption and secretion.

4. These conditions are developed mostly during and immediately following campaigns, where the men are confined too exclusively to an amylaceous diet.

5. The officers who can and do carry a variety of food, with means for cooking it, are exempt from this class of diseases.

6. The first manifestation of abnormal tendencies, after beginning to feed too exclusively upon amylaceous or saccharine food, or on any of the products of their fermentation, is constipation.

7. This constipation is soon followed by fermentative changes, and the development of intestinal gases and yeast plants in the food too long delayed in the alimentary canal.

8. That as soon as gases begin to develop in the intestinal canal, yeast plants begin to form in the alimentary matters to an abnormal extent.

9. That this development of yeast plants is evidence of the inauguration of fermentative changes in the amylaceous food.

10. That this fermentation and development of yeast plants continue to increase till diarrhœic conditions are produced.

11. That a peculiar gelatinous, algoid matter—usually in little masses scattered through the feces—shows itself, to a greater or less extent, as soon as the diarrhœa commences. That generally this algoid (colloid) matter is present in direct proportion to the severity of the disease.

12. That this algoid development is not the cause of the diarrhœa, but merely the consequence of certain saccharine and fermentative conditions of the system, in which state the alimentary canal becomes a proper nidus for its development. As soon as these systematic conditions are overcome, this algoid vegetation ceases to develop, and disappears entirely from the feces. It hence may be regarded as merely the consequence, and not the cause, of certain systemic conditions. Its development appears, however, to act as a poison, and increases the intestinal lesions.

13. That the system on this amylaceous diet, becomes highly saccharine and fermentative, so that even the mucus secretions often contain sugar, and rapidly pass into fermentative states, developing yeast plants,

14. That this saccharine condition is abnormal, and appears to be a peculiar type of the so-called scorbutic taint, and yields more readily to an albuminous animal diet, with anti-fermentatives and the vegetable acid salts of potassa and iron, with iodine in small, frequent and unirritating doses, than to any other dietetic and remedial means.

15. The fermentative changes in the alimentary canal are always more active towards evening and during the night, and go on increasing from day to day till,

16. Finally the gases and yeast plants developed, produce so much intestinal irritation that diarrhœa ensues, which soon becomes chronic, and not at all amenable to the treatment for ordinary diarrhœic conditions.

17. Accompanying the fermentative changes is always a paralytic tendency, more or less strongly marked. This is manifest in the alimentary canal, and especially in the large intestines—next in the extremities—the legs prickling and “getting asleep” frequently, with ringing in ears, and a numb, mixed-up, confused feeling in head, &c.

18. This paralytic tendency appears to arise from defective nutrition and the pressure produced by the clogging up of the capillary vessels with fibrinous masses, from which results serious congestions, &c., as in the intestinal walls, nerve-centers, lungs, etc.

19. A cough, with more or less hoarseness, usually sets in, especially during the night and on getting up in the morning, accompanied by the expectoration of a thick, sweetish, cream-colored mucus.

20. This is followed by more or less constriction in breathing, with frequently palpitation of the heart on any excitement.

21. In this condition of the system there is usually a remarkable tendency to fibrinous depositions in the heart (thrombosis), and to the clogging up of the pulmonary vessels with fibrinous masses (embolia), with tubercular tendencies and pains and aches in the extremities and back, simulating muscular rheumatism.

22. The disease so fatal in animals, known as “hog cholera,” is the same abnormal state of the system as the chronic diarrhœa of armies.

23. Both arise from the same cause, viz.: the too exclusive feeding upon amylaceous or saccharine food, or upon the products of their fermentation.*

24. The primary lesion appears to be the clotting of the blood or the aggregation of fibrinous masses in the capillary vessels and heart.

25. There is a strong probability that the conditions of the system which result in diabetes are similar to those producing chronic diarrhœa.

* The diarrhœa is but one expression or symptom out of many of the peculiar systematic abnormal condition excited by such food.

26. There is also evidence, that the conditions of the system which result in bronchocele, are similar to those which give rise to chronic diarrhoea; the former disease occurring in persons habitually subsisting too exclusively on amylaceous and vegetable food from infancy; while the latter has its origin from the too exclusive use of the same kind of food, at any period of life, in those whose systems have previously been accustomed to a mixed animal and vegetable diet.

27. There is strong evidence also, that the condition of the system which gives rise to summer complaints and fluxes in children—especially those where the stools are gelatinous (colloid) and green (the so-called colloid matter)—are similar to those that result in chronic diarrhoea. They appear to arise from the too exclusive and continued use of starchy and saccharine substances and fruits, which children are largely indulged in.

28. The colloid matter of chronic diarrhoea appears to be algoid, belonging to some of the lowest vegetable forms.

29. That this algoid matter is not the cause of chronic diarrhoea, but merely the consequence of certain glycogenic conditions of the system, brought on by feeding too exclusively upon amylaceous food. That after it begins to develop in the alimentary canal, it tends to exhaust the system and aggravate the lesions and the disease.

30. That sugar, vinegar, carbonic acid, and even alcoholic beverages, when too exclusively and continuously used, tend to produce similar conditions of the system, with that of amylaceous food.

31. That amylaceous and saccharine matters, with all the products of their fermentation, when too exclusively and continuously used as food, or taken into the system in any way, result in similar lesions and abnormal conditions, and tend to produce in the heart and capillary vessels, fibrinous depositions, which result in thrombosis, congestion and hepatization of lungs, congestion and inflammation of the intestinal walls, with the damming up of the blood in the capillaries that nourish the nerve-centres and extremities, resulting in paralytic tendencies, with sometimes loss of voice and diseases of the eye and ear.

32. That these make up the great mass of the most obstinate, lingering, pitiful and fatal diseases of the army, decimating it more and bringing upon it and those at home, more suffering and grief than the accidents and casualties of battles and all other diseases combined.

33. That if we would prevent these diseases, we must change the present army diet.

34. That the desiccated beef and vegetables makes an anti-scorbutic, anti-fermentative, highly portable, nutritious and good diet for the soldier, and could be furnished him at a cost not exceeding that of the present army ration.

35. That of this food, he can carry thirty days' rations in his haversack more easily than he can five days' rations of his present food.

36. That with this food, the heavy and cumbersome commissary trains, that so impede an army, may be dispensed with.

37. That at present, the great bulk and weight of the soldier's food is water, a heavy and unnecessary ingredient to carry, and which makes up from five to seven pounds in every six to eight, and which he can supply at the numerous springs, brooks and rivers along his march. In the desiccated food, this water is taken out, and the food compressed into a small bulk, so that he can carry six days' rations of it more easily than one of his present food.

38. That with this desiccated food, he need never be without a good substantial diet, that will sustain him during the fatigues and labors of the march, and protect him from the numerous dreaded scorbutic and fermentative diseases.

39. That this desiccated beef and vegetables has already been submitted to a practical test, in campaigning, in Dr. Hayes' Arctic Expedition, and found to work admirably, as a good, nourishing, anti-fermentative and anti-scorbutic food. In Dr. Kane's Expedition this food was not used, and his men suffered much from scurvy and frost bites. In Dr. Hayes' Expedition, although he reached a more northern point than any previous explorer, yet he did not have a solitary case of scurvy among his men, nor a single frost bite.*

40. That beans and peas have a marked tendency to produce flatulence, indigestion, intestinal irritation and chronic diarrhœa, with its intercurrent derangements; and hence they should be entirely abandoned as army food. The poor of our cities that feed upon the bean and pea soup provided for them at the public expense, are soon affected, if they live upon this food too exclusively, with diarrhœas, which are often obstinate and protracted.

* Frost bites occur almost always in men laboring under a scorbutic taint. Those that are sound are seldom frost bitten.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS.

To His Excellency John Brough, Governor of Ohio :

The Directors of the Ohio Penitentiary have the honor to submit the following report of their management of that institution during the year ending October 31st, 1864 :

1. The officers of the institution are the same as last year, with two exceptions. On the 1st April James H. Barcus resigned his position as Steward, and Robert A. McIntire was appointed in his place. On the 1st October the Rev. James L. Grover resigned the Chaplaincy, and the Rev. A. G. Byers was appointed for his unexpired term of office, viz: until the 5th May, 1865.

2. A detailed statement of the financial condition of the institution is hereto appended. The receipts during the year have been $85,624.96, and the expenses $103,309.17. The excess of expenditures over receipts, $17,684.21.

3. The number of convicts in the Penitentiary on the 31st October, 1863, was seven hundred and forty (740); of these seven hundred and nine (709) were males and thirty-one (31) females. The number of convicts received during the year was one hundred and eighty-four (184), making the whole number confined during the year nine hundred and twenty-four (924).

The number of convicts discharged during the year is two hundred and ninety-five (295), as follows :

By expiration of sentence.....	234
By pardon of Governor.....	41
“ “ President U. S.....	3
By death.....	10
By order of the Governor sent to the Reform School.....	5
By allowance of Writ of Error.....	1
By order of the Supreme Court.....	1

There are in the Penitentiary at the date of this report six hundred and twenty-nine (629) convicts, of whom six hundred and eight (606) are males and twenty-one (21) females.

4. Of the special appropriations the following sums have been expended :

Building for insane convicts.....	$7,738 25
Enlargement and repairs.....	1,584 15
New wire shop.....	60 16
Library and school.....	393 10
Arms for guards.....	180 00

5. The building for insane convicts, the erection of which was authorized by an act of the last General Assembly, is now nearly completed, and will soon be ready for the reception of those for whose benefit it was constructed. The amount expended on it is stated above. The whole amount of the appropriation, viz: $10,000, will be exhausted in its completion.

6. The 27th section of the act of March 24th, 1863, provides that "the Warden shall be allowed to charge and receive, for the use of the State, at the rate of 40 cents per day for the board, the actual cost of clothing furnished, and one dollar per month for each prisoner sentenced to the Penitentiary by the authority of the United States." The Directors estimated that the actual value of the clothing of each prisoner was $20 per annum, and have charged that sum in all bills against the United States for keeping prisoners. The officers of the United States, however, refuse to pay that or any other sum on this account. The attention of the General Assembly should, perhaps, be called to this fact.

7. The act of March 24, 1863, was, in the opinion of the undersigned, enacted without full inquiry into the wants of the Penitentiary, or an accurate knowledge of the force necessary for a strict compliance with its provisions. Experience has shown that it is impossible to comply with all the provisions of that act. The Directors recommend that it be revised, modified, and more lucidly arranged.

8. Complaint has been made to the Directors by some of the citizens of Columbus that the ditch from the east side of the Penitentiary is emptied into a small stream which runs through their premises, and that the value of their property is thereby affected. The undersigned have reason to believe that the complaint is well founded. They therefore recommend that an appropriation be made for building a sewer into the Scioto River.

9. The Warden, in his report, expresses the opinion that the salaries paid to the officers of the institution are too small, and recommends that they be increased. The Directors concur with him in his opinion and recommendation.

10. For more particular information in regard to the affairs and present condition of the Ohio Penitentiary, the Directors respectfully refer to the several reports of the Warden, Physician, Chaplain, Clerk and Matron, which are hereto appended.

11. The officers of the institution have discharged their duties to the entire satisfaction of the Board of Directors. It is believed that the Penitentiary was never in better condition than at the present time.

That the expenditures have been in excess of the receipts, is apparent. That they should be otherwise, in view of the compensation convict labor commands, of the small force on contract, of the condition of the contracts, of the disproportion between the number of prisoners going out and that coming in, of the uselessness of those arriving, but especially in view of the advanced price of subsistence, was not to be expected. Fuel, food and medicines range, as you know, at from two to eight times the price of former years. That the excess is so large, is due, however, in part, to the fact that the coal bill of the preceding year was not audited and paid until after the beginning of this, and that a six months' stock of clothing material, potatoes, wood and coal for the following year, is now on hand and paid for. That it is not much larger is gratifying, when it is remembered that the unsettled condition of financial matters has prevented competition, by bids, for furnishing supplies, causing me to depend upon the open market, and to limit purchases to immediate wants.

Mention has been made of the condition of contracts as having an effect on the expenditures. It is this: No contractor has the number of hands to which he is entitled. Each is trying to carry on the business for which he has made preparation. Hands cannot be brought into less space than was occupied years ago, except when a contract expires which includes an entire branch of manufacture; hence results an inability to maintain a ratio of diminution of guards equal to that of prisoners. Here it may be remarked, that security and order require a force in the State shop, dining-room, wash-house, hospital, on the wall and upon fire-watch, equal to that needful for almost double the number of convicts now here. The uselessness of the prisoners arriving seems to indicate that the prosecuting attorneys for the State have remitted the practice of bringing able-bodied men to trial.

In accordance with your suggestion, the Legislature, at the last session, appropriated $10,000 to be expended in erecting a suitable building for the use of insane convicts. The work was commenced without delay, and the building is now completed and almost ready for use. It is constructed according to the plan of your architect, with sole reference to the object for which it is intended, and combines adaptation, eligibility, ventilation, space and security. A brick structure, wholly built by convict labor, one story high, 55 feet long by 35 wide, roofed with slate and floored with stone, easily kept warm and secure against fire, it seems to meet all the requirements of the case.

The cells are roomy, 24 in number, placed in double tiers, one over the other, and separate the occupants completely. They combine comfort with security, and are made of wrought-iron. The work was done by Martin Krumm, Esq., of this city, to whom was awarded the contract on his bid, which was the lowest, at 13 cents per pound. The weight of iron used in their construction is 51,752 pounds.

To Mr. Peter Schart, of this city, was awarded the contract for window and door grating, and for ventilator pipes. The weight and prices of these follow :

4,833 pounds window grating, at 10 cents per pound.

1,645 pounds iron ventilator pipe, at 15 cents per pound.

345 pounds door grating, at 12½ cents per pound.

The contract for hard building brick, delivered on the ground, was awarded to Conrad Staib, at $5.50 per thousand.

The cost of the whole, when completed, will be near $10,000.

Considerable and somewhat costly repairs have been made, among which may be mentioned a new tin-roof for the front house, which was much needed; a substantial plank floor for the lower snath shop, the old one having become useless; and a coat of pitch and gravel was put upon the blacksmith shop.

Consequent upon the diminished number of convicts, I found it practicable, when the prisoners of war were removed, to vacate the west wing, by which was made needless the services of two guards, and considerable saving of fuel and light secured.

Some kind of labor suitable for females becoming needful, by an arrangement with Brotherlin, Halm & Co., about the 1st of June the attempt to employ females at caning chairs was made. It will be seen by the report of Mrs. Vrooman, Matron, that, under her supervision, what was undertaken as an experiment proved a success. The Company pay 40 cents per day's work.

No disaster from fire has occurred during the year, or, indeed, during my administration. I can scarcely realize the possibility of such a calamity happening while the present system and proper watchfulness are maintained.

A convict who was employed outside made his escape, was retaken and brought back a few days afterwards. One who escaped in 1860 was also returned to custody.

The discipline of the prison is good, and, I think, has been improved. Several cases might be mentioned, but one must suffice. I found the system upon which clothes had been issued open to objection. Occasional imposition was practiced and waste grew out of it. To illustrate: Prisoners had been permitted to retain possession of partly worn pants, &c., after receiving an order to draw new ones. Some took advantage of this to exhibit an old pair when, for any purpose, a new pair was desired. Some, when discharged, disposed of clothes on hand to their associates. Surplus clothes, however obtained, became a medium of exchange for coveted comforts. An extreme case is remembered of as many as a dozen pairs of pants being found at once in a prisoner's possession; another of an order to turn over extra shirts, which brought to the wash-house more than an hundred. These evils have been corrected by simply requiring the old article to be given up by the prisoner when he draws another, and all clothes in his possession, when discharged, to be turned over to the State. Very considerable saving has been made by systematic and judicious mending.

By the 27th section of the act passed March 24, 1863, laws of Ohio, vol. 60, page 39, it is required of the Warden "to receive all criminals sentenced to the penitentiary by authority of the United States, and to keep them at hard labor," &c. This law, when passed, was understood to have reference to criminals convicted in the U. S. Civil Courts. The President having designated this as an Institution for the confinement of persons found guilty in the U. S. Military Courts, a necessity seems to arise of regarding this law as including such cases. It is suggested that the Governor be requested to recommend such legislation as may relieve the subject from doubt.

The health of the convicts has been fair; for particulars you are referred to the Physician's report.

In view of the general advance in all the necessities of life, I submit that the present salaries are too low to secure the services of responsible officers or assistant keepers.

To the report of the Rev. J. L. Grover, who resigned the office of Chaplain because of the insufficient support it affords, I refer you for information relating to the important field in which he labored. It gives me pleasure to know that you join with me in wishing his welfare and success in the line of usefulness to which he has been called.

The Rev. A. G. Byers, whom you have chosen successor to Mr. Grover, is entitled to a cordial welcome on account of the evidence he gives that his intercourse with both officers and prisoners will be a source of mutual advantage.

I cannot close without putting upon record an expression of gratitude to officers, contractors and foremen, for their cheerful co-operation and assistance in my efforts to discharge the responsible duties imposed upon me.

PHYSICIAN'S REPORT.

Directors of Ohio Penitentiary:

GENTLEMEN—I would respectfully report that during the year ending this day nothing unusual has occurred in my department. The health of the prisoners generally has been good.

The total number of prescriptions for the year has been..... 15,707

Of this number there were made for patients outside..... 7,017

“ “ “ “ “ “ inside..... 8,690

The number of patients treated in hospital was..... 301

The number of deaths, including that of the infant of Nancy Ray, female convict, was..... 11

The causes of death were—

Chronic dysentery..... 1

Acute dysentery (the infant)..... 1

Pulmonary consumption..... 1

Pulmonary consumption and psoas abscess..... 1

Caries of the vertebra and psoas abscess..... 1

Cancer of the stomach..... 1

Injury..... 1

Typhoid fever..... 4

The names of those who died were—

1. William Simpson, aged 59 years, died Nov. 2, 1863, of chronic dysentery.

2. William Palmer, aged 24 years, died March 20, 1864, of pulmonary consumption and psoas abscess.

3. John Myers, aged 42 years, died April 9, 1864, of cancer of the stomach.

4. L. M. Price, aged 62 years, died May 6, 1864, of caries of the vertebra and psoas abscess.

5. Joseph Murray, aged 41 years, instantly killed by machinery, (spoke shop) June 9, 1864.

6. John Jenkins, aged 28 years, died Sept. 13, 1864, of typhoid fever.

7. George Artis, (colored) aged 30 years, died Sept. 14, 1864, of typhoid fever.

8. Charles Dibble, aged 21 years, died Sept. 29, 1864, of typhoid fever.

9. Henry Lonzo, aged 20 years, died Oct. 13, 1864, of typhoid fever.

10. ——— Ray, (infant) died Aug. 10, 1864, of acute dysentery.

11. Thomas A. Clark, aged 51 years, died Nov. 15, 1863, of pulmonary consumption.

One birth occurred during the year, Angelina Pitford, received May 12, 1864, and was delivered Sept. 9, 1864, of a male child.

I have endeavored, while allowing every thing necessary for the comfort and welfare of the sick, to conduct the Hospital with the strictest economy, and think the expense of the past year will compare favorably with those of former years, notwithstanding the extreme prices of all articles, particularly of medicines and alcoholic liquors.

I beg leave to congratulate the Directors on the completion of the Hospital for insane prisoners, which is sufficiently commodious for present and all future purposes, and admirably adapted to the use for which it is intended—securing light, warmth, general comfort and safety to an unfortunate class who hitherto have been necessarily treated more as unclean beasts than as suffering men. The completion of this building removes, in my opinion, the only blot upon the management of this Institution.

Proper courtesy and hearty co-operation have been extended me by the Warden and his officers.

The usual tables accompany this report.

Very Respectfully yours,

STARLING LOVING,

Physician Ohio Penitentiary.

HOSPITAL OHIO PENITENTIARY, Nov. 1, 1864.

CHAPLAINS' REPORTS.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, October 1, 1864.

To the Board of Directors of the Ohio Penitentiary:

The undersigned, closing this day his connection with the Institution as Chaplain, submits the following report, covering the time from Nov. 1, 1863, to this date.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

Public services, consisting of singing, reading the Scriptures, prayer and preaching, have been regularly observed at 11 o'clock A. M. on each Sunday (except one), conducted, almost uniformly, by the Chaplain. The deep and serious attention on the part of the congregation, gives evidence of interest and profit.

The Sunday school is regulated according to the manner indicated in the last year's report. The attendance is about 100. The teachers are generally faithful and competent. This branch of our moral and religious instruction is accomplishing a manifest good.

The Chaplain visits the Hospital daily (Saturdays excepted), and seeks such opportunities of religious instruction as the sick bed always affords. He is confident that many of the sick and dying have been greatly comforted and encouraged by these labors.

On Sunday afternoons he usually spends some hours in private conversation with the prisoners at their cells.

He also visits the female prisoners once in two weeks, and catechizes them on a Bible lesson, accompanied with a lecture on the subject of Christian faith and practice.

DAY SCHOOL.

The day school is progressing satisfactorily. The average attendance is about 30. The number ought to be enlarged, but many remain in the shops to do overwork, and thus earn some money for themselves or families.

LIBRARY.

The Library consists of 1091 volumes on the new catalogue, and 1601 volumes on the old; the latter consisting principally of books that are laid aside as valueless. There still remains on hand of the Library fund $489, to be applied to the purchase of Libray books, and meeting the current expenses of the day and Sunday schools.

The German books, numbering 58, are not included in the above estimate.

SALARY.

Having no further personal interest in the matter, the Chaplain calls attention to the entire inadequacy of the salary. No minister can rent a house and live in the city of Columbus, at the present rates of provisions and other necessities, on the sum allowed.

In retiring, he records with pleasure the fact that his intercourse with the prison for more than two years, has not been interrupted by a single unpleasant incident. The officers and men have treated him with the utmost kindness and courtesy. He will always cherish for them the highest consideration.

J. L. GROVER.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, November 1, 1864.

To the Board of Directors of the Ohio Penitentiary:

The undersigned received official notice of his election to the Chaplaincy of this Institution on the 5th ult., and began his labors on the Sabbath following.

His recent appointment, occurring as it did so nearly at the close of the year (dating from the last annual report), renders it unnecessary that he should do more than indicate his occupancy of the position made vacant by the resignation of the former Chaplain, Rev. J. L. Grover, and refer you to the report made by him, dated October 1st—just one month ago.

The order of exercises for chapel and schools, the daily visitation of the hospital, with such other duties and regulations as are set forth in that report, are still observed.

It may be proper to state, as it certainly is a pleasure to know, that in all of his official duties the former Chaplain has been eminently faithful and efficient. His office, as intimated in his report, has been no sinecure; but by his Christian and ministerial fidelity he won for himself the confidence and esteem of all—both officers and men—connected with the prison, and he will be followed by the blessing of many who were "ready to perish."

In entering upon his duties the Chaplain has experienced, and would gratefully acknowledge, that courtesy and co-operation upon the part of the officers of the prison which has been so highly commended by his predecessor.

A. G. BYERS, Chaplain.

MATRON'S REPORT.

Directors of the Ohio Penitentiary:

GENTLEMEN,—Subjoined will be found a statement of the condition of this department at the close of the second fiscal year during which it has been under my management. It shows that the number in confinement now is less than at the beginning of the year; that more labor has been performed this year than last; that a new branch of female usefulness and industry has been added; that moral, educational and reformatory agencies have received attention; and that the health of the inmates has been fair.

To go more into detail:

Number in prison at date of last report.....	31
“ received during year.....	10	— 41
“ discharged by expiration of sentence.....	15
“ “ by pardon.....	5	— 20
“ in confinement at date.....	21	—

Of those now here, 7 are of American parentage, 5 of Irish, 5 of African, 3 of German, and 1 of French. Of these, 9 were convicted of grand larceny, 3 of murder, 3 of arson, 2 of stabbing, 2 of incest, 1 of burglary, and 1 of poisoning mules. Of those received during the year, 7 came for one year, 1 for two, 1 for three, and 1 for five. Of the whole, 4 are partially insane, 3 are orphans by both parents, and 3 cannot read.

I have said that the health has been good. This statement is supported by the fact that only 677 days have been lost by sickness, want of materials, and want of employment suited to the partially invalid state of a few who seem incapable of learning to do anything outside of heavy house-work.

Notwithstanding the diminished number of prisoners, the year has been one of great labor to my assistant and myself. This, in the early part of it, was caused by frequent changes in work, requiring much personal oversight and specific instruction to the class I have mentioned; and more recently, by the introduction of a new branch of labor, that of caning chairs. This was commenced in May last, since which time thirteen prisoners have so fully learned the business as to make their labor a source of present profit to the State, and, it is thought, of independent competence to them.

selves when discharged. An advantage of this business when learned, is, that governing prisoners fully and pleasantly employed has compensations, not to mention the pleasure of doing permanent good. The profit to the State from this source to date is one hundred and forty-six dollars.

A definite portion of work to be performed in a given time—call it a task if you will—becomes an object, a relief and a stimulant, and is, on this account, a kindness to the prisoner. Much of miscellaneous work is reduced to task work with difficulty, and must, in the main, be measured by the circumstances. The weekly task of fixed work for healthy prisoners is: Making 6 white-bosomed shirts; 9 pair of pants; 12 hickory shirts; 12 vests, or 6 coats. That of caning chair-seats is 30.

In addition to the cooking, washing, sewing, care of the sick, and miscellaneous work done for the use of the department or the inmates themselves, there have been made—

For use of discharged convicts.—445 white-bosomed shirts; 141 cravats.

For the Male Prison.—1,182 hickory shirts; 889 pair pants; 297 vests; 256 coats; 241 flannel shirts; 390 over-shirts.

Mending for Male Prison.—3,736 hickory shirts; 316 bed-ticks.

For Contractors.—213 dozen chair-bottoms caned.

For Front House.—6 bed-ticks; 15 sheets; 26 pillow-slips; 27 towels; 14 aprons; 12 fly cloths.

The miscellaneous washing for the Institution has averaged 1,225 pieces monthly, and during the confinement of the rebel prisoners of war here subsequent to the 1st of November last, 2,888 pieces were washed for their use.

Short seasons have occurred in which the usual supply of work has failed. In such, the prisoners have been permitted to work on material procured for the use of some of the charitable associations of this city. Of these I may mention the Mission Industrial School, and the Soldiers' Aid Society, the latter of which realized some thirty dollars from the sale of fancy articles made here, where were also made for its use 25 shirts and 19 sheets. No department of work seems to give so much pleasure to my charge as works of charity and patriotism.

The labors of the moral department of my duties were lightened by attention given to it by the Rev. J. L. Grover, Chaplain, during his connection with the Prison, and are now by that of the Rev. A. G. Byers, his successor. The media through which moral improvement are sought, are: devotional and catechetical exercises once in two weeks, with special reference to the advantage of such as cannot attend church; Scriptural reading every evening, and instruction in reading and writing to all who wish to learn.

From what I have said it will, I trust, be apparent, that the constant aid of an assistant is required, and I wish to add that in view of the faithfulness and ability of Miss N. P. Finley, she is eminently suited for that position.

Fully realizing the kindness and forbearance with which I have been treated, conscious of failure in some things, and claiming credit for only partial success in others, the foregoing is

Respectfully submitted,

L. A. VROOMAN, Matron.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

By-Laws, Rules and Regulations for the discipline and government, established by the Directors and Warden, November 1st 1862 :

DUTIES OF THE WARDEN.

1. It shall be the duty of the Warden to keep a register, in which he shall regularly enter the reception, the previous moral character, habits and education, (so far as the same can be ascertained,) and the discharge, death, pardon or escape of every prisoner.
2. The Warden shall have the entire control and management of the Penitentiary, subject to the authority established by law, and the rules and regulations adopted by the Directors.
3. It shall be his duty to obey and carry out all written orders and instructions that he shall from time to time receive from the Directors.
4. He shall reside at the Penitentiary, and examine daily into the state thereof; visit every department, and see every prisoner confined therein, so often as good order and necessity may require.
5. He shall exercise a general supervision and direction in regard to the discipline and police of the prison, and the business concerns thereof.
6. He shall also see that the prisoners are treated with humanity; that the sick and complaining have proper medical and other attendance, and that they are supplied with such food and medicine as may be prescribed.
7. He shall take proper measures for the health and cleanliness of the prison, and see that the convicts pay proper attention to their persons.
8. He shall not permit any kind of gaming, nor allow profane or indecorous language to be used by the convicts or officers.
9. He shall, when not necessarily engaged in superintending general affairs, and overlooking his assistants in the discharge of their duties, remain during working hours in the Warden's office.
10. He shall pass through the prison before retiring at night, and satisfy himself that all is safe, and that the night watch are properly discharging their duty.
11. He shall inspect the moral conduct of the prisoners, and attend divine service whenever it may be held in the chapel of the prison, unless prevented by sickness.
12. He shall see that the "rules and regulations" prescribing the "duties" of all persons connected with the Institution are strictly observed. He shall report to the Directors all violations of rules by contractors, their foremen or agents.

DUTIES OF THE CLERK.

1. The Clerk shall keep the books of the Institution, and act as an assistant to the Warden in the discharge of his duties.
2. It shall be his duty to attend daily at the prison during the proper business hours.

3. He shall receive visitors—see that they are conducted through the prison without delay—and furnish them with tickets; keep an accurate account of the same, with the moneys received therefor, and the officer of the guard-room shall receive the tickets, and keep an account of the same in a book provided for that purpose, which shall be submitted to the Directors at their meeting monthly.

DUTIES OF THE DEPUTY WARDEN.

1. The Deputy Warden shall attend daily at the prison, from the hour of unlocking in the morning until after the prisoners shall have been locked up at night.

2. In the absence of the Warden from the prison, the Deputy Warden shall perform his duties.

3. He shall spend the whole day in a general supervision of the assistant keepers and prisoners, direct them in their duties, and receive reports from the assistant keepers of all disobedience or violation of the rules by any person connected with the Institution, and report the same to the Warden.

4. It shall be the duty of the Deputy Warden to keep a book in which shall be entered a record of every infraction of the published rules of discipline, with the name of the prisoner so guilty, which record shall be submitted to the Directors at the end of every month.

5. He shall cause the locks, doors and cells of the prison to be examined daily.

6. He shall be constantly moving about the Institution, visiting frequently, but irregularly and without notice, the workshops, kitchen, hospital, and all other departments of the prison.

7. He shall inspect the arms and equipments of the wall guards at least once a week, and report any officer who may be found deficient in the required amount of ammunition, or whose gun or equipments are not in perfect order. He shall inspect all the arms or equipments, not in daily use as often as once in two weeks.

8. The Deputy Warden shall not grant leave of absence to any officer for a longer period than one-half day without consulting the Warden, except in cases of emergency.

9. He shall be present and preside at the meals of the prisoners, unless his place be taken by the Warden.

DUTIES OF THE PHYSICIAN.

1. The Physician shall visit the Penitentiary at least once every day, and personally examine every sick and complaining prisoner that may be reported to him as such, or whom he may find in the cells or hospital, and shall prescribe such medical treatment as their cases require.

2. He shall keep a book, to be called the "Hospital Register," in which shall be entered the names of all the prisoners sick or complaining who require medical treatment, with the disease of each, and his prescription therefor.

3. He shall see that all proper medicine is administered to those who are sick, and perform all surgical operations that may be necessary, and discharge all other duties that properly pertain to his profession; and, if necessity requires it, to pay extra visits, but no surgical operation shall be performed upon any prisoner without his consent, or the consent of two of the Inspectors.

4. When a prisoner dies the Physician shall record the nature of the complaint, and all the circumstances connected therewith that he may deem proper and necessary.

5. He shall in all cases direct the diet to be prepared for the sick; and should it happen that his direction or prescription be neglected, he shall report the same to the Warden.

6. He shall, as often as may be necessary, furnish the Warden a memorandum of such medicines, provisions, and other supplies, as may be required for the hospital.

DUTIES OF THE CHAPLAIN.

1. It shall be the duty of the Chaplain to conform in all cases to general rules and regulations of the prison, subject to the control of the Warden, as to his intercourse with the convicts.

2. It shall be his duty to see that each convict is furnished with the Bible or a Testament.

3. To preach to the prisoners every Sunday, or, when necessarily absent, to engage some regularly ordained preacher to fill his place.

4. To see that the Sunday School is properly attended and supplied, so far as practicable, with suitable teachers and books.

5. It shall be his duty to visit those who are sick in the hospital, and minister to their spiritual wants.

6. He shall have the liberty of visiting any prisoner who wishes to see him, subject to the control of the Warden.

7. He is to use his best exertions to promote the moral and religious welfare of the prisoners, as well as the harmony and general interests of the Institution.

8. He shall not furnish the prisoners with any information or intelligence in relation to secular matters, except by permission of the Warden.

9. Nor shall he have any intercourse with the prisoners other than such as shall be necessary and proper in teaching them the branches of education authorized by law, and in imparting such moral and religious instruction best calculated to promote their subordination, reformation and spiritual welfare.

10. He shall have charge of the prison library, keep a schedule of the books contained therein, see to their distribution to the prisoners, and their return again to the library at the required time; also report to the Directors the condition thereof, in his annual report, or oftener if requested to do so.

11. Sectarian doctrines in matters of religious belief shall not be taught. If any prisoner desires communication with the minister or instructor of his particular faith, on proper application to the Warden, and at his discretion, it shall be allowed, under and in conformity with the general regulations of the prison; but such minister or instructor, on such occasion, must in all things conform to the rules and regulations for the government of the Chaplain; any infringement or departure from which will debar him from future intercourse with the prisoners.

DUTIES OF THE MATRON.

1. The immediate charge of the Female Department shall be under the care of the Matron, who shall reside in the prison, and attend at all times during working hours, except when excused by the Warden.

2. The Matron shall keep the cells and every part of the establishment under her care in good order.

3. It shall also be the duty of the Matron to teach those under her charge such branches as may be authorized by law.

4. She shall also teach the art of sewing to those under her charge, and see that their time is properly employed in its performance together with other necessary labor suited to their condition; and when not thus occupied, will devote her time, while in the prison, and during the hours of labor, in some other manner to the interest of the institution.

5. For any violation of the prison rules by the female prisoners, the Matron shall report the offence to the Warden.

6. She shall be subject to the rules and regulations adopted for the government of the other officers of the prison.

SPECIAL DUTIES OF THE NIGHT-WATCH.

1. The Captain of the night watch shall be stationed in the guard-room, and his assistants stationed according to the direction of the Warden.

2. They shall go on duty in the evening at the sound of the bugle, which is also the signal for the discharge of the day-keepers, and remain on duty until the signal is given in the morning for unlocking the cells of the convicts.

3. The Captain of the night-watch shall be held responsible for the security of the prison, and see that good order is maintained during the night. He shall report in the morning any unusual occurrence, or any violation of the laws or regulations of the prison, that may have taken place during the night. It shall also be his duty to call the Warden at any hour of the night that he may regard his presence necessary.

4. It shall be the duty of the keepers having charge of the halls during the night to be moving around the cells with socks on, in a silent manner, that they may be able to detect any unnecessary noise; and it is strictly enjoined upon them not to hold the least conversation with the prisoners, or to suffer the prisoners to speak to them, except to make known their immediate necessary wants, and to use their utmost exertions to suppress noise of any kind, and to report to the Warden or Deputy any violation of the rules and regulations of the Penitentiary by the prisoners, while in their cells.

DUTIES OF CONTRACTORS.

1. Contractors, their agents and foremen, shall hold no intercourse with any convict other than those employed and superintended by them; nor upon any subject whatever, other than the business carried on by them.

2. They are to confine themselves strictly to their business, and are not to leave the shops where their business is carried on, to visit any other part of the prison.

3. Their intercourse with the officers of the prison shall be such only as is necessarily connected with the prosecution of the business under their charge.

4. They are not under any circumstances to inflict any punishment, or to enforce the discipline in any manner, upon any convict whatever.

5. They are to report to the keepers having charge of the convicts in their department all violations of the rules and regulations of the prison.

6. No foreman shall be employed by contractors within the prison without first obtaining the consent of the Warden; and no persons, other than the necessary foreman, shall be employed, with the convicts, or in any other manner in the prison.

7. They shall not apply any harsh or opprobrious epithets to the convicts, nor use any profane language in their presence.

8. The teamsters or other persons in the employ of the contractors, who may occasionally visit the prison, shall not be permitted to speak to a convict without permission of an officer.

9. Every contractor shall keep in each shop twelve buckets of water, of not less than three gallons each, in a convenient place for use in case of fire.

10. Every contractor shall keep a fire watch on duty for two hours after the men are locked up.

GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS.

1. The Captain of the night-watch shall close the outer doors of the prison at ten o'clock P. M., at which time all the officers who lodge at the prison must be within the walls, unless by express permission of the Warden they have leave to remain out until a later hour, in which case they will be furnished with a watch-word, on pronouncing which they will be admitted by the Captain of the watch; and such officers as lodge out of the prison must be at their residences at and after ten o'clock at night, ready to be called to the prison at any moment their services may be required. Eight of the assistant keepers, who board with the Warden, shall stay at the prison each and every evening; and six of the assistant keepers shall remain on duty as fire watch each evening, for one hour after their other duties are performed.

2. No ardent spirits, wines, strong beer or ale are, upon any occasion, to be used by any officer, contractor or foreman in or about the prison; neither are they to suffer any other person to bring the same within the prison walls except for the hospital, to be used for medicine, under the direction of the Warden or Physician.

3. The convicts shall have at all times the liberty of speaking to the Directors when present at the prison.

4. Any officer who shall sleep while at his post, or while in charge of any other duty, or shall neglect the same, or who shall behave improperly, shall be discharged from the institution.

5. The assistant keepers must yield that ready obedience to their superior officers so necessary to secure the beneficial results of effective co-operation and good government.

6. They shall not allow any persons to go on the walls, or into the prison, without permission from the Warden, Deputy Warden or Clerk.

7. They shall not be permitted to have any unnecessary conversation in the guard-room while the Deputy Warden is taking the report, or in the dining-room while the prisoners are at their meals.

8. No person shall be allowed to be present in the washing-room while prisoners are being washed and changing clothes, except officers of the Penitentiary.

9. All persons visiting the Penitentiary on Sunday, for church service, shall leave the prison yard before the prisoners leave the chapel.

10. No officer of the prison, or other person, shall buy for him or themselves any provisions, fuel or supplies, or any article, in connection with the supplies purchased for the prison, nor shall officers or other persons use for themselves or family, or purchase any provisions, fuel or supplies, or any article whatever, bought for the use of the institution.

11. No contractor shall be allowed to give any assistant keeper any reward or present, and any assistant keeper receiving such reward or present shall be immediately discharged.

DUTIES OF THE PRISONERS.

1. They are to labor faithfully and diligently, to obey all orders promptly, and to observe unbroken silence.

2. They are not to exchange a word with each other, under any pretense, nor to communicate any intelligence to each other in writing; they are not to exchange looks, winks, laugh with each other, or make use of any signs except such as are necessary to convey their wants to the waiters.

3. They must approach their keepers in a respectful manner, and be brief in their communication; they are not to speak to them on ordinary topics, nor address them, except when it becomes necessary in relation to their work or their necessary wants.

4. They shall not at any time, nor under any pretence, without leave, speak to any person who does not belong to the institution, nor receive from them any letter, paper, tobacco, or anything whatever; they are not to leave the place where they are put to work, nor the work they are set to do, without the special permission or orders of the proper officer; they are not to suffer their attention to be taken from their work to look at visitors, nor are they to gaze or look at them when unemployed.

5. No convict is wilfully or carelessly to injure his work, tools, wearing apparel, bedding, or any other thing belonging to or about the prison; nor will any prisoner be suffered to mark, injure, or in any way deface the walls, or any part of his cell, or night-room; nor is he to execute his work badly, when he has the ability to do it well.

6. No convict shall receive or transmit any letter or paper, except under the inspection of the Warden; nor shall such convict converse with any person, except the Governor, Heads of Departments, Members of the General Assembly, Judges of the Supreme and Common Pleas Courts, and Officers of the Prison.

7. Each prisoner, so far as practicable, shall occupy the same cell every night, as they enter their respective cells; each prisoner, after letting down his room-bucket, must draw the door of his cell until it strikes the latch, and in this position stand, holding his door, until the turnkey approaches and enters the key; the prisoner shall then instantly close his door.

8. At the ringing of the bell, every prisoner must go to bed immediately, (but they may go to bed previously, if they choose) and a profound silence must be observed from that time until the sound of the bugle in the morning, at which time every prisoner must immediately dress himself and prepare to march out.

9. They shall always march in military step, and in such order as may be designated by the officers in charge; while in their cells, and while marching, and at all other times, all unnecessary noise must be avoided.

10. No prisoner will be suffered to sleep with his clothes on.

11. If a prisoner becomes sick, or from any cause feels unable to work, he shall report himself to the officer under whose charge he may be.

12. For all willful violations of the above rules, punishment will certainly be inflicted.

DUTIES OF ASSISTANT KEEPERS.

The assistant keepers shall be the agents of the Warden in enforcing the police and discipline of the prison, and in carrying into effect the laws for the government thereof.

1. It shall be the duty of the assistant keepers to attend at the prison at the opening thereof, and not to absent themselves therefrom on any pretext or excuse, during prison hours, except by permission of the Warden or Deputy Warden.

2. While within the prison, the assistant keepers shall refrain from singing, whistling and scuffling, immoderate laughter, boisterous conversation, exciting discussions upon politics, religion or other subjects, provoking witticisms or sarcasms, and all other acts calculated to disturb the harmony and good order of the prison.

3. In their intercourse among themselves, the officers of the prison are at all times to treat each other with that mutual respect and kindness that becomes gentlemen and friends; and are required to avoid all collisions jealousies, separate and party views and interests among themselves; and are strictly forbidden to treat each other with disrespect, or any ungentlemanly epithets.

4. They shall not, while on duty, hold conversation with each other, nor with contractors, or their foremen, except such as may be necessary in the discharge of their duties.

5. Neither shall they be engaged, while on duty, in reading, writing, (other than making necessary entries) or in any other employment calculated to interfere with constant watchfulness and vigilance.

6. They shall not under any circumstances, allow prisoners to speak to them upon any subject not immediately connected with their duty, employment or wants.

7. They shall keep the convicts under their charge diligently at work, at the several occupations at which they are employed.

8. They shall not permit them to hold any conversation with each other, or with any person whatever except those allowed by law, nor to communicate with each other by signs or signals.

9. They shall require the greatest possible cleanliness in the convicts, their persons and clothing, and in their working and sleeping apartments.

10. They shall instruct them in all the rules of the prison necessary for their government, and admonish them on the least appearance of insubordination.

11. They shall not punish or strike a convict with a cane or stick, or with the fist or feet, or any weapon, unless it be in self-defense or to quell an insurrection; nor shall they use any profane or indecorous language to them or in their presence, but shall uniformly treat them in a kind and humane manner.

12. They shall not allow their prisoners to leave their work without permission, nor shall they allow them to speak to or gaze at visitors.

13. They shall not receive from or deliver to a prisoner, any article or thing whatsoever, without the knowledge or consent of the Warden or his Deputy.

14. As soon as the prisoners are locked up at night, each assistant having charge of a division, shall report immediately to the Deputy Warden the number they have locked up or have in charge.

15. The officer in charge of the kitchen shall inspect the table at each meal, and see that every convict has plentiful rations of wholesome food; the officer in charge of each company shall walk in front of each man and inspect his plate before eating, if anything needful is wanting he shall see that it is supplied; and no convict shall commence eating until all are seated.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.

STATE REFORM SCHOOL, Nov. 20, 1864.

To His Excellency JOHN BROUGH, Governor of the State of Ohio :

SIR—The Board of Commissioners for the Ohio Reform Schools, in accordance with law, herewith submit their ninth annual report.

The labors of another year among boys disposed to do wrong ; boys that were the “terror” of the communities in which they lived ; those who showed by their “bad faces” the condition of their hearts ; boys that were naturally depraved from vicious parentage and cruel neglect ; those that have been “spoiled” by undue indulgence by kind parents—have closed.

These labors in this important field of regeneration have been many and severe, but our hearts have often been made to swell with joy and emotion by the acknowledged gratitude of these boys for their improved condition, and for having been snatched from the jaws of pollution and ruin, which were open wide, ready to engulf them.

With many a lad bread and water ; ball and chain ; jail ; penitentiary ; filthiness and rags ; idleness and shame ; have been exchanged for wholesome food ; cleanliness ; steady habits ; industry ; good manners ; education, and a knowledge of christianity.

These unfortunates have been met by a love and interest that has borne and endured much for their sake ; their offenses have been forgiven, their indifference and stubbornness met with kind reprimands and instructions, such as has gained from them a cheerful obedience of all requirements, and has developed a sense of moral principle to such a degree, in most instances in them, as has won love and respect for the Institution that has saved them. A discharged inmate, when far away, said, “No man shall speak disrespectfully of that Institution in my presence.”

The results of the year's operations cheer and strengthen us ; and we are only sorry that the opportunities offered by the Reform School can not reach a larger number, for hundreds are perishing for want of restraint and moral teachings such as is furnished by it.

Earnest and numerous have been the entreaties for us to receive bad boys, who are beyond the control of their mothers, and whose fathers have died in the army or are still in the service ; but we have been able to take but a few compared with the number for whom admission has been sought.

It is with pleasure and gratitude that we can again refer to the uninterrupted health of the inmates during the year. One little boy died. He had been in the Institution but a few weeks, and having come from a sickly district, where he had been in the habit of bathing in the canal many times each day during the summer, there is no doubt but that he brought the disease with him that so quickly carried him away. This and one other case were the only ones requiring the attention of a Physician.

In this connection we refer with pain and sadness to the death of John H. Milliken, who died at Knoxville, Tennessee, on the 23d of Aug. last. Mr. Milliken had been connected with the Institution for nearly three years, and left it only a year since. He was a man of great moral worth, and labored very faithfully, while connected with the school, to promote the temporal and spiritual welfare of the boys under his charge. From his great kindness of heart and purity of motives, he won the affections and veneration of all his associates; and nothing at any time would seem to bring greater pleasure to the Reform School boys, than to be able to serve brother Milliken. The benevolence of his heart led him to engage in the sanitary department of our army; and many a poor boy and soldier has written to us expressing gratitude for the kindness and care he had received at the hands of this departed brother. He lived long enough to see many of the boys, that had been under his care, pass to the duties of life as reformed; and nothing gave him greater pleasure than to extend the hand of friendship to them. We deeply feel his loss, and are reconciled only because we believe that for him to die was his gain.

The new buildings commenced last year have been completed, and are now occupied, adding much to the comfort and convenience of the Institution. The new family building is certainly a very pretty, convenient and comfortable house for a family of fifty boys. Some of the Honor, and best boys of the Institution were selected with whom to start the family, and nothing is esteemed a greater honor among them than to be selected as a member of this family.

The wash houses, which we have so long desired, have been erected, but at an expense, owing to the great rise and cost of material and labor, somewhat in advance of the original estimate. They will add greatly to the comfort of the boys. Running water is furnished for the ordinary ablutions before meals, and good bath tubs for bathing twice a week.

A very complete bake house, for which an appropriation was granted, has been built; also two out-houses—all being substantial structures.

The "old bake house" has been enlarged and converted into a kitchen. With this new arrangement the labor is much more easily performed than formerly, and at the same time we avoid the injury to the building and various annoyances that arose from the smoke, fumes, &c., of a basement kitchen. The old kitchen adds largely to our cellar room. The necessary repairs to prevent a depreciation of the value of the buildings, and the improvements that have been made to better adapt them to the purposes for which they are used, have been items of considerable expense; but not a dollar has been expended that strict economy and prudence did not seem to dictate. Our buildings are now all quite comfortable, and it is not our purpose to ask for further enlargement the coming season, although there is a very great demand for us to receive more boys than we can possibly accommodate.

When the Institution was established it was an experiment, and hence the appropriations made for starting it were, very properly, sparingly granted. As the school progressed in efficiency, and gained the confidence of the people, it became necessary to provide for more inmates. This called for appropriations, from time to time, for the purpose of increasing our room, until the Institution is now one of the largest in the State, being capable of accommodating two hundred and thirty pupils.

The Board can refer to the fact with pleasure, that there is not another instance in the history of the State, where so large an Institution has been established with so small means. The appropriations for all buildings, including barns, out-houses, &c., have not exceeded $25,000 thus far. For the establishment of an Institution that is accomplishing so much good, and that can accommodate so large a number of inmates, the expenditures have certainly been very moderate.

The labor of the boys has been expended, as usual, mostly upon the farm, garden and nursery; only a sufficient number having worked in the shops to manufacture the clothes and shoes of the Institution.

The drouth in the early part of the summer was very severe, but the crops generally have averaged well for this locality. Twenty acres of new land cleared last winter, were planted with corn; also fifteen acres that we hired from a neighbor. The balance of the farm that would admit of cultivation and not already occupied for orchard, garden or nursery purposes, was planted with potatoes, beans, sorghum, turnips, &c. For further information in regard to the amount produced from the farm, we would refer you to the annexed table of "Farm Products."

The peach crop proved an entire failure, from the effects of the severe freezing of the first of January last. We supposed at one time that we might lose many of the trees, but by severe pruning and "heading back," they have thrown out a fine growth of well ripened wood for next year's bearing. Should nothing further happen to the trees, we may expect a crop the coming season. This is the only failure of the peach crop for many years on this farm.

The apple crop was very moderate indeed, furnishing us sufficient merely for fall use, enough to make a few barrels of cider for vinegar, and with a few to dry.

We realized $571.28 for grapes sold, and one hundred gallons of wine, from the vineyard. We also have the bulk of the wine manufactured last year still on hand, which we hope soon to dispose of. When our vineyard is well matured, it will constitute one of our principal sources of revenue. We shall plant several acres more with grape roots the coming spring.

But little has been realized from the nursery yet, as there has not been time for it to develop. We have a few peach trees on hand for sale, of choice varieties; should have had many more had it not been for the great loss of buds from the severe cold of last winter. The condition of all our orchards and plantations of small fruit, is such at the present time as to cause us to feel confident that a remuneration for all this toil in planting, pruning and cultivating, must soon be realized.

At the last session of the Legislature, the Commissioners asked for an appropriation with which to purchase some rich land to attach to the present farm, that corn and grass might be produced in sufficient quantities to meet the necessities of the Institution. The appropriation was asked in good faith, and with a full knowledge of all the capabilities of the present farm, and of what was needed to put the Institution in a condition that would contribute most largely towards its own support. The farm we now occupy is surrounded by beautiful scenery. Being elevated high above the surrounding country, its climate is delightful and healthy. It is also very much isolated. It produces many kinds of fruits, and especially peaches and grapes in great perfection, when properly cultivated. All of these considerations render it eminently fit for a Reform Farm; but it is evident to every well informed person who visits us, that it will not produce grass to any extent; neither will it produce corn, except while the land is quite new, and then only indifferent crops can be realized. The soil, which is quite thin in most places, lies upon a porous sand rock, and is so dry that it is difficult to form a turf upon it, and when formed does not produce a remunerative growth of grass. Nearly all of the level portions of the farm have been cleared and are covered with orchards, which render them unsuitable for general farming purposes. Our future operations in clearing must be confined principally to the slopes, which, from the steepness of the declivities, the barrenness of the soil, and the disposition to wash after being a little worn, are unfit for cultivation. Many of them may be converted into vineyards and fruit gardens, by sufficient labor.

By the acquisition of some rich land, we could produce crops which we are now forced to buy, and frequently at great inconvenience. The labor of our boys is well adapted to the raising of corn, and large quantities could be produced, if we only had the land. We would also be able to keep more cows, of which we now have but a few; and to better enrich our present farm, which is a matter always of constant interest with us.

If it would be consistent policy for a well-to-do farmer to purchase good land for agricultural purposes, it would seem to us eminently fit for the State of Ohio to do so. It is true that the cultivation of a farm three or four miles distant, would be attended with some inconvenience; but a farmer located upon it, who might take classes from the school to labor whenever the cultivation of the crops required such labor, would give us much less trouble than we now experience in procuring hay and corn from the neighborhood.

It is with pleasure that we can again refer to the educational department of our school. Our system is now so arranged that every boy can receive five hours' schooling each secular day during the term, instead of three as under the old system. Nearly as much labor can be performed in the field as formerly, as the half day was so far spent after remaining three hours in the school-room, that but very little could be done in the short space of time left. The boys all labor during the entire morning, with the exception of one class. That class has a morning session of school, and labors in the afternoon. This gives a few boys to perform such labor as must be done in the afternoon. The other classes, after taking a short recreation on the play-grounds after dinner, wash and prepare for school, which continues till supper. This amount of schooling with our classified system of instruction combined with the fact that all classes are taught by experienced teachers, gives these poor boys an opportunity for obtaining an education seldom surpassed by those occupying even higher spheres in life. Experience has taught us, that by the enlargement of the intellectual faculties of these boys, they take a more comprehensive view of the responsibilities and objects of life, and are better prepared to receive instruction such as is calculated to develop their moral powers, and to produce permanent reformation. Some of them are so ignorant when they come to us—having had no previous cultivation—that it is almost impossible to make any lasting impressions upon their minds. Such boys must be educated to a certain degree, or reformation is far more difficult to be attained. We hold that it is the right as well as the duty of the State to provide this education for these boys, for without it, force, prisons, solitary cells, and all the other apparatus of penal laws are the means, and the State is bound to use them in the punishment of its subjects for the violation of the laws, even if that violation is the result of ignorance.

The religious exercises of the school have been continued as usual. Our Chaplain has been very faithful in the discharge of his duties. We have been quite fortunate indeed in securing such help for Elder Brothers and teachers as were moved by a Christian charity to the work of rescuing by a proper intellectual, physical and moral education, the wayward youth under our charge. The word of God has been considered the only foundation upon which a true reformation can stand. Great good has been done to the boys, we believe, by the religious and moral exercises of the Institution. All of these exercises have been a means of cultivating a spirit of devotion, of mastering the convictions, and of enlarging and ennobling the feelings, have tended not only to lead the mind to the wisdom of salvation, but to the duties of life.

Having received many interesting communications within the last year in regard to a reformatory for girls, and having been so frequently solicited to receive such unfortunates, we feel it a duty to again call the attention of the Legislature to the subject, and can not do so better than by quoting the following extract from our Seventh Annual Report :

"From the fact that we have received several applications to take girls during the year, commitments having been regularly made out by courts not knowing that girls were not admitted, as well as several petitions urging us to ask for the erection of a building for them, we are still more thoroughly convinced than formerly, that there is a real necessity for the establishment of a school, either as a branch of our own, or separate from it, for the benefit of juvenile female delinquents and offenders, who are in imminent danger of becoming subjects for the penalties of violated law.

"It would seem reasonable to expect that a State that has legislated liberally for the protection of one sex, would extend her philanthropic and cherishing care to the other. Last winter two girls were sent to the Ohio Penitentiary, who we have been credibly informed, were fit subjects for a Reform School.

"The communications we have received from parents concerning their wayward girls, in several instances, have been such as to enlist our warmest sympathies.

"We remember, not long since, of having seen several small girls, in a neighboring city of the State, locked up with as many boys and men, there awaiting their trial, for small offences which they had committed. How sad that these girls could not have been committed to an Institution which has for its aim the regeneration of the heart ; a school that would enlighten the understanding—that would develop good and repress evil thoughts—that would arrest a career of lawlessness, idleness and crime, and restore beauty and symmetry, by teaching its pupils to become obedient, industrious, intelligent and moral ! We trust there can be no difference of opinion in regard to the necessity of establishing a school for unfortunate girls ; the only question is, When will it be expedient to act ! A philanthropy which laments over records of crime and suffering, and does nothing to relieve it, is not the philanthropy our race demands. With a high sense of what constitutes a proper standard of education and morals, we are satisfied that the intelligence of the State will not be slow in providing an Institution for young girls, that will be the same in purpose as the one already established for boys. An Institution could be located upon the present State Farm, so as to be entirely separate from the boys's school, and at the same time each could be a benefit to the other, as the girls could do much of the making, mending, washing and ironing of clothes, which is now done by the boys, while the boys could raise the vegetables, prepare the fuel, etc., needed by the girls' school."

We earnestly solicit the publishers of other papers to forward their publications if they are willing to do so. The boys are fond of reading, and highly appreciate favors, either of books or papers.

We have received several donations of valuable books from friends during the year, and especially would we notice an acceptable present of histories and miscellaneous works, from James R. Pearce, Esq. For all of these favors we are very thankful.

On account of the great advance in the cost of material, our expenses have been greater in some departments than in former years. While in most of our institutions the inmates are not clothed by the State, in the Reform School nearly everything in the way of wearing apparel is furnished.

A very large majority of our boys come to us very poorly clad, in many instances having nothing on worth preserving. Every boy that is dismissed from the institution must be furnished with a comfortable suit of clothes ; hence our expenses for clothing in these times must necessarily be great.

Some of the public institutions have vacations that equal a fifth part of the year. This reduces their expenses, while we have no benefits of the kind. Unless these matters are considered, our expenses might appear large, as compared with other institutions. The Board have done every thing in their power to develop the utmost resources of the Farm, and to keep the expenses low. The theory of saving and allowing nothing to waste, has been a leading principle with us.

The State assumes to be the parent of these boys : to feed, clothe, educate, and send away as children worthy of public confidence ; and nothing seems more fitting than that they should be so cared for, as to create in them high self-respect, and as to cause them to be well received by the better class of citizens when they go from under our protection.

Owing to the unsettled condition of our country, we have not been able the past year or two to keep so perfect a record of the locations, situations and successes of the discharged boys, as formerly, but still we hear much from them that is truly encouraging. Many have gone into the military service of our country. A few have fallen while bravely defending it. One young man writes us that we "ought to have seen the Farm boys gather about poor Perkins when he fell mortally wounded. It was such an affecting scene." Another recently visited us who has been filling a responsible position for a long time, at three dollars per day. This lad at one time, while an inmate of the school, was regarded as one of the very worst boys in it. Now he is a gentleman, pursuing a legitimate business, laying up his means, with which he hopes soon to be able to engage in a mercantile business for himself.

This same youth not many months ago, kindly volunteered his services to assist an old lady in planting rose bushes upon the grave of her departed daughter. This aged lady recently died, leaving fifty dollars to the young man, who would have remained a stranger to her had it not been for the manifestation of his kind heart.

One boy writes us that he is still one of the principal assistants of a very large fruit garden and nursery in southern Illinois. Another is an excellent hand in a large nursery in the northern part of the State.

A prominent gentleman says to us: "One of your boys is carrying on farming for himself on a large scale in Iowa; that he is more successful than any of his neighbors, from the fact of the superior knowledge which he claims was acquired at the Ohio Reform Farm."

Some of the boys are in school. Many are living with farmers, for whom they are excellent help. One who is now ready to enter college, is acting as Chief Elder Brother of this institution, respected and beloved by all. This same young man was a poor, degraded and ignorant boy of a neighboring city but a few years since. We most respectfully refer you to his report of the Cuyahoga Family.

Some of the absent boys have sent back to the Institution of their wages and bounty money, as high as a thousand dollars, to be held in trust for them.

These cases referred to are only a few of the many that might be presented. The good results from the intellectual, moral, and physical training of the Reform School, serve to strengthen us for renewed energies in laboring more fervently and energetically if possible, in carrying the bread of life to these misguided boys in such portions as will develop them into true manhood. We attach to this report a number of letters received from our absent boys, which we trust will be read with interest.

We would not close without referring to the harmony and fidelity which has so characterized the labors of all the officers now employed. We respectfully refer you to their reports of the several families.

Hoping that kind Providence may still continue to bless the means used for the restoration of the boys of the Reform School, this report is respectfully submitted.

44.—EX. DOC.—PART II.

GARDENER'S REPORT.

To the Board of Commissioners of Ohio Reform Schools:

GENTLEMEN:—Herewith I present for your consideration the report of the Horticultural Department for the year ending November 1st, 1864:

It gives me pleasure to call your attention to the steady and substantial growth of every branch of this department, comprising the orchards, nurseries, gardens and vineyards.

They have received the usual amount of care in culture, pruning, destruction of injurious insects, etc., and the general condition and appearance of the trees and plants is such as to invite favorable comparison with those of other orchards or gardens.

Owing to the unusual severe cold of last January, I have to record a partial failure of the fruit crop, and some injury to small plants in the nursery.

Of peaches and pears we had none; the first complete failure since the establishment of the school, and the first in twenty-five years, according to the early settlers of this vicinity. Of all other fruits, as apples, grapes, strawberries, etc., the yield was more than a half crop.

The apple crop ripened prematurely, and consequently had to be used up, leaving us without the usual supply of winter fruit.

The almost total failure of the peach buds in the young nursery, during the severe cold of last winter, is the subject of much regret on our part, but we are pleased to state that they are all re-budded again and promising well.

I would call your attention to the marked improvement of the old, worn-out fields of the Farm. Four years ago many of them could not produce sufficient grass or weeds to cover their barrenness, have this season produced from fifty to one hundred bushels of roots, as turnips, beets, carrots, etc., per acre. This result was obtained by deep plowing, thorough culture, and using a limited quantity of well-prepared manures, of which the yearly supply is rapidly on the increase.

I am satisfied the most of our uplands can be brought to a condition of fertility not often surpassed, by a regular system of subsoiling, and by economy in collecting, preparing and applying manures.

The following tables are a definite exhibit of the condition of this department, also of the Farm crops, implements, etc:

The principal improvement to be made in this department the ensuing season, is the thorough preparation and planting of a small vineyard of several hundred plants of new, select grapes, to include all kinds worthy of notice. The object of making this collection is, that by fully testing these new sorts by the side of the old, well known kinds, we can determine their true value when grown in this particular locality, and make large plantations of such as prove of sufficient worth.

The peach orchards will be increased by a thousand trees of our own growing, to be set out this fall or next spring.

It will also require about three hundred trees of apple, peach, pear and cherry, to replace failures throughout the various orchards.

There is also a large quantity of strawberry, raspberry, currant and gooseberry plants ready for transplanting.

There is at this time a force of about twenty-five boys employed in trenching two and a half acres of side-hill for vineyard, to be planted next spring.

Of the apple stocks on hand, we expect to engraft from ten to fifteen thousand of the largest roots, during the winter, with choice varieties. They will be set out in nursery rows in proper season.

The general conduct of the boys under my charge has been good; and I am pleased to say that they have been always ready and willing to perform their daily labors with a promptness not usual to boys of their character.

Respectfully submitted,

JNO. D. CLARKE,

Gardener.

REPORTS OF THE ELDER BROTHERS.

To the Board of Commissioners for Ohio Reform Schools :

GENTLEMAN: I respectfully submit the following report of the Muskingum Family for the year ending November 1st, 1864:

Many changes have taken place in this family during the year. A large number of boys have been either discharged or transferred to other families. Those who held the honor badge have been placed in the Union Family, it being considered a favor by the boys, on account of the new building and furniture. Their places have been supplied with boys who had made less improvement, and who need more care and attention.

I have under my supervision, at the present time, forty-seven boys between the ages of eight and seventeen years. Many of them brought to the Institution a knowledge of nearly all vices known in the catalogue of crimes. When we consider that some were uncared for by their parents—perhaps compelled by them to commit crime—is it strange that on receiving them they should appear hopeless subjects for reformation? But with God all things are possible, and we earnestly hope and pray that He will break the power of sin, and enable us to lead their young hearts to Christ.

The ignorance of some of these boys is almost incredible, they professing to know nothing of a Savior. When conversing with them upon this subject they manifest a great deal of interest, and their inquiries about God and the plan of salvation are numerous.

Although some remain careless and indifferent to all influences calculated to make them better, others quickly see that the Ohio Reform School was established for their benefit, and that the officers connected with it are their true friends. In the class of boys which I take to the fields, I am happy to report an increasing interest in their work, and have been often surprised at the amount performed.

My grade of school is composed of boys, some of whom never attended before, and consequently have acquired a distaste for books and study; notwithstanding this, I have been able, during the past term, to advance one whole class to the next higher.

In the department of the Sabbath school, we have zealous, earnest, working teachers, who strive to interest their scholars, and point out to them the way of life.

The love manifested by most of these youth for books and papers is commendable, a fresh supply of which we greatly need. In the exercise of vocal music they take much delight. Many of them have sweet voices, with which they often unite in singing the songs of praise.

Hoping that all efforts to rescue these lads from destruction may be crowned with success, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

W. S. CARPENTER.

Elder Brother Muskingum Family.

To the Board of Commissioners for Ohio Reform Schools:

GENTLEMEN: Permit me to present the following report of the condition of the Cuyahoga Family, at present under my charge.

Not having been connected with the family but for a short time, I am unable to present a report for the whole year. The family at the present time numbers fifty-nine boys, ranging from eight to eighteen years of age. I have endeavored to second them in cultivating that germ of honor which all boys not totally lost possess in some degree, and point out to them the road to true nobleness and honor, from which they have been straying. And it is gratifying to see even those who have been considered as almost lost, after a steady siege, give up their hearts to the good influence which here surrounds them, and work out, with the aid of God and their friends, their own salvation.

The number of boys in B class, third grade, of which I am teacher, is thirty-one, a large majority of whom evince a commendable energy in their studies. My laboring class also pleases me very much by the willingness with which they take hold of work, and the pleasure they seem to derive from constant employment, when once they have shaken off the idle habits contracted outside.

How grateful it must be to you, gentlemen, (burdened as you are with the care of these youth), and to all good men of our State, to see so many evidences of God's interest in your great work of mercy.

Allow me to say that I am truly thankful for what you have done for my reformation, and feel a pleasure in being permitted to lead these, my unfortunate brothers, upon the same path which I have trodden.

Yours, with much respect,

J. C. COFFEY,

Elder Brother Cuyahoga Family.

To the Board of Commissioners for the Ohio Reform Schools:

GENTLEMEN:—Permit me to present for your favorable consideration the following report for the year ending November 1, 1864: It has been my province to have charge of the "Cuyahoga and Scioto Families," alternately, and during the time that I have sustained such a relation in the Reform School, I have been well pleased with the general deportment of many of the boys. The division of school under my charge is known as the A class, or division of the first grade, numbering about forty scholars. The energy exhibited by most of them is worthy of high commendation, and it is with much pleasure, indeed, that I am able and prepared to say that not in a single instance have I been compelled to resort to corporeal punishment. The boys have all appeared willing and anxious to assist me in securing good order; for this noble expression of character I have great reason to be thankful. My experience as a teacher has led me to the firm conclusion that the "prize system" is one of vital importance to the scholars, and it has been my good fortune to adopt this "system" in the school under my supervision, and it has proved an effectual means of emulation in the A division of the first grade. I have, also, introduced into my department of the school "Object teaching" and "Topical recitation," and it is a matter of high gratification that they have been attended with so great success. The boys, too, deem these methods far more interesting than the old way of "asking the questions and waiting for them to guess the answers." It is almost astonishing to those who have never adopted these methods of imparting instruction to mark the rapid progress made by their pupils in the arts and sciences, and with what fluency they will discuss all intricate points pertaining to their studies. Under the belief that composition and extemporaneous speaking have been too much neglected in our schools generally, it has been my aim to make this an important help to the students in learning to think and express their thoughts with ease and system; for how often do we meet with young men, who have, perhaps, acquired the rudiments of an English education, and cannot write an intelligible letter; neither can they acquit themselves in an honorable manner if called upon to address an audience for a period of not more than five minutes. Exercises in declamation, also, occupy a prominent position in my school, and it is really cheering to note the improvement made by those who have participated in these literary exercises. I have an interesting class in the Sabbath School, and it is gratifying in the extreme to know that there are some sincere, humble, faithful and devout followers the Lamb even in this Reform School. Have I not heard the voice of psalms and prayer, in instances not a few, as I have been returning from my visits of mercy among them, and knew that it was not the service of the lips only, their works bearing evidence of the reality of their faith! And have I not seen, manifestly seen, affliction so borne as to prove that it was doing its blessed, its refining work! If I have been honored to be instrumental in bringing one soul to God—leading back one wanderer to the bleeding side of Christ—in supporting one drooping pilgrim—let me rejoice! And even were it not so, let me still be found prosecuting, however feebly, the glorious work of a Reform School teacher! The rescue of a lost world! Away all such thoughts of mortal feebleness! It is the Redeemer's own work, and it must prosper. May the cloud of God's benediction rest upon the Reform School, and all those who labor for the reformation of the youth of our land and nation, is the most fervent prayer of your humble servant.

Most respectfully submitted,

C. W. AINSWORTH,

Elder Brother and Teacher of the A Class of the First Grade.

To the Board of Commissioners for Ohio Reform Schools:

GENTLEMEN:—Allow me to present the following report of the Scioto Family: I took charge of this family in June last, at which time it numbered fifty-seven boys. About one-fourth of them have been honorably discharged, and the same number removed to other families of the school. The places of those removed have been filled, for the most part, by new inmates, and the family numbers at the present time fifty-eight boys, between the ages of nine and nineteen years.

The deportment of these boys, when first admitted to the Reform School, is not unlike that of boys generally who are neglected or treated with too much indulgence. Possibly a few of them will never forsake all of the vicious habits they have acquired in the company of other bad boys; but if they continue the practice of vices, after becoming members of the family, and presume tenaciously to adhere to such vices, they are invariably rebuked or reported by boys who have learned to hate the sins which first led them astray and gained for them a bad repute. Generally a few weeks of discipline effects an entire change in the deportment of these boys, and eventually a change of greater importance is produced in their character. Boys who have hitherto made little or no effort to control their tempers or govern their passions, soon understand the necessity of so doing, and begin to make good resolutions. We labor to convince them that the work of self-reform in which they are now becoming interested, is a noble work, and urge them to avail themselves of every means here offered for their recovery.

The division of school under my care is B class, second division, and numbers thirty scholars.

The progress they make in their studies is satisfactory. If the lessons assigned are accompanied by a few cheering words from the teacher, they begin their task in good earnest, and seldom fail of completion. Many of the reading lessons are specially adapted to the class of boys committed to our care, and prove valuable auxiliaries in fixing upon the moral and religious principles which we are so anxious to inculcate, and which, we trust, will spring up in due time, and "bear fruit to the glory of God."

Respectfully submitted,

GEO. SPEAR,
Elder Brother of Scioto Family.

To the Board of Commissioners for Ohio Reform Schools :

GENTLEMEN:—I respectfully submit the following report of the Union Family for the year ending November 1st, 1864 :

This family was organized August 15th, of the present year, and at this time numbers 44 boys, ranging from the ages of eight to eighteen years, and is composed mostly of Honor boys taken from the other families, or boys who, by their general deportment, have proved themselves worthy of promotion. Since the organization of the family eight boys have received their discharge, most of which have been entrusted to the care of their friends; and I must say that I have been pleased with the cheerfulness and general good temper manifested by the boys while I have been among them, and their willingness to co-operate with me in everything that would advance their interests or tend to reform them both physically and morally.

The grade of school under my charge is known as A class, second division, numbering 42 boys.

Success in every business of life depends mainly on our own exertions, and it is pleasing to us to see these boys, taken, as many of them are, from the Penitentiary, and from the streets and alleys of our cities, where crime walks rampant, becoming reconciled to the peaceful, quiet habits of the school, thus laying the foundation for lives of usefulness; and we trust that God in His goodness will make us instrumental in leading them from the paths of wickedness and sin, and of pointing them to that Saviour who has said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

Respectfully submitted,

CHAS. E. FERRELL,
Elder Brother of Union Family.

To the Board of Commissioners for Ohio Reform Schools :

GENTLEMEN:—Please accept the following as my report and experience since my connection with this institution. It has been my duty to preside alternately over the Union and Muskingum families. My opportunity to judge of the character, aspirations and improvement of the boys in manners, morals, and general habits, has been very good ; and I am happy to notice a decided improvement within the last few months. It has also been my good fortune to teach at different times the respective grades, thus giving me an opportunity to judge of the intellectual capacity, ambition and standing, of every boy. While there are some that are the same as in all schools, who never will become intellectual giants, there are many who manifest a deep interest in study, and are not only anxious to excel in their class, but strive with a perseverance which if continued will surely enable them to make their mark in the world.

I have also superintended the various classes in laboring in the field, and have been much pleased with not only their practical, but scientific knowledge of farming, gardening, &c.

I have a very interesting class in Sabbath school. Nearly all have their lessons well, and are much interested in any Scriptural exposition. There is one subject to which I beg an allusion, that is, the general good health prevailing here, owing in a great measure to the healthiness of the location, and in part to the rigid rules of cleanliness adopted by the institution. I have seen boys who came here but a few months since almost walking skeletons. Now they are rugged and healthy and fleshy. I have a deep interest in the welfare of the boys, and general prosperity of the institution, and trust God will prosper them both for the year to come, as he has in the past.

Respectfully,

E. J. SHUMWAY.

CHAPLAIN'S REPORT.

To the Board of Commissioners for Ohio Reform Schools :

GENTLEMEN :—At the close of another year's labor, I herewith respectfully present you with a brief report.

I have sincerely endeavored to benefit the boys by preaching, distribution of books and tracts, private conversation, social intercourse, visiting, and spiritually ministering to the sick. With the great shepherd of souls I leave the results of these labors, knowing that in fulfillment of divine promise, the Word of the Lord will not return to Him void, but will accomplish the end whereunto it is sent. It is true, we do not see such immediate effects upon the hearts and actions of the boys as we desire, yet "bread cast upon the waters and found after many days" may in the end be equally valuable. I feel confident of this one fact, that under the appliances and circumstances of the Reform School, we see far greater changes for good among the boys than among the same number of boys in communities generally, during the same space of time. Those who conduct the training of the young—in our public schools for example—well know how necessary it is to give them "line upon line and precept upon precept, here a little and there a little," and then, amid hopes and fears, wait for the springing up of the good seed. And the same watchfulness must attend its subsequent growth. So it is at the Reform School. Nay, more : how much time and faithful labor must be expended before there is actual room for the good seed ! What plowing and weeding are necessary to prepare the soil ! and what arduous labor after the best preparation and commencement, to root out the remaining weeds of evil !

I heartily sympathize with the Acting Commissioner and his wife, and the Elder Brothers, in their self-denying toil ; nor do I deem it improper in this report to express this sympathy. I have the opportunity of observing their peculiar trials, and their singular devotion. May the grace of God sustain and prosper them in their labors of love !

Nor need any of the laborers in this vineyard be discouraged. The work is a good one, approved and blessed of heaven. While it involves much wearisome toil and self-denial, it is also cheered by the fact that it has truth, duty, promise, and hope on its side. On the whole, I regard the prospects cheering whenever I look over the crowd of two or three hundred boys assembled in chapel on Sabbath. How differently employed now! Their old habits are giving way, new thoughts arise in their minds, new feelings in their hearts; their nature, their disposition gradually changes for the better. They are inspired with new and better aims and prospects—to become good, strong, and useful men—men approved and blessed of God.

Within the last year there have been some indications of the work of divine grace upon the heart, in the chapel, in the sick-room, and in the letters sent by those who have been honorably dismissed, some of whom are in the army. For these expressions of divine approval we are devoutly thankful.

I am happy to notice that our Sabbath school continues in a prosperous condition. What a blessing to those who had never seen a Sabbath school before!

May our kind Father in heaven continue to smile upon the labors and laborers of the Reform School, and abundantly crown the efforts here put forth to lead unfortunate and criminal boys into the path of virtue, intelligence and industry, and to bring them to a saving knowledge of the great Redeemer.

I feel thankful for the very pleasant relations existing between all the officers of the institution, and my own participation in the pleasures arising from these relations.

Your humble servant,

J. F. REINMUND.

LETTERS.

BIG SHANTY STATION, GA.,
June 30th, 1864.

BROTHER HOWE:

I once more take advantage of spare time to write you a few lines, to let you know that I and all of the farm boys are well, except Charles Perkins, who, in a late engagement, was mortally wounded while serving his country nobly and honorably. I can say that he was a good soldier, and he fell in a glorious cause. He fell while our corps was making a grand charge. The farm boys gathered around him, but could do nothing for him. We were not allowed to pick him up, but dragged him a hundred yards into the woods, and left him. * * *

If there are any boys on the farm that want to go to the army, show them this letter. For my part, I would advise them to stay on the farm; but they probably will not heed my advice. The farm is a paradise compared with the army. The boys don't know the hardships of war.

Brother Howe, I heard that S—— run away. I am sorry. I hope he will be a better boy hereafter. Tell him to write to me.

I send my best respects to the boys and family; also to yourself.

From your friend,

J. McK.

May 1st, 1864.

BRO. HOWE:

Your favor of 25th ult., was received on Friday, with great pleasure. I was very glad to hear from kind friends at the Reform Farm. I was not expecting a letter so soon, for I know you always are so busy that you cannot well answer letters so soon. I shall try and appreciate the kind advice from you. I often think of you and the rest of the good people at the Reform School. I have a brother in the army; when he writes he says he would give any thing if he was at home. The boys at the Farm think it would be "nice fun," as they call it, to be in the army; but they are mistaken. They would soon be like other boys that have gone from the Farm, be very glad if they could get back. They little know what privations the poor soldiers endure.

I have got a nice situation in a book and stationery store, and I am going to be somebody yet. I do not get very high wages; but that is not the object now. My employer says he will raise my wages as I advance. I always spend my evenings at home, and do not attend any places of amusement. You spoke of coming to Chicago in the summer. I hope you will try and come to see us, if you do. I have time and books, and am trying to improve my education.

I am very thankful for what you and the rest of the officers of the Farm have done for me and for other boys, while with you. I shall try and appreciate it all. Our family send their best respects to yourself and family. I must close, hoping that you are all well at the farm.

I send my best respects to yourself and family.

Truly yours,

T. J.

CUMBERLAND GAP, TENN.,

BROTHER HOWE:

I received your most welcome letter, and was interested to hear that you are getting along so well with the boys. I often think of that place; and I know it has been the means of saving many a boy from ruin; it has been the means of making gentlemen of many boys that would otherwise have been loafers. I am satisfied that it is a noble institution. I wish we had several more of them in our noble State. I feel that the Institution has been the means of saving my soul, and may God bless and protect it; and may it be the means of saving many other precious souls. Tell the boys that I wish they would all do what is right, take the advice of the officers, and obey all the rules of the Institution, then they will become reformed. All is quiet here now. All the boys are well. I have no news of importance to write. Give my respects to all the officers and boys. My love to you and your family. Write when convenient. Please send me one of your reports for last year.

Yours, as ever,

H. G.

CAMP STONEMAN,

June 6th, 1864.

BROTHER HOWE:

Dear Sir—I take the present opportunity to drop you a few lines, to let you know that I am well. I am in camp four miles south of Washington. I expect to be sent to Richmond in a few days. I may never see you again, but I hope to. A great many will lose their lives in the coming fight that are not prepared to die; but may the Lord be on their side, and pardon all their sins. Brother Howe, tell the boys to do as they are told, and mind those in authority over them, and then it will be easier for them to obey others, when they leave the Farm. This morning there were two soldiers hung up by the thumbs, for disobedience. I have had no difficulty with any one; the officers all like me, and I highly respect them. This is my duty.

Give my love to all the boys and officers, and to Mrs. Howe and all of your family. Please write soon.

Truly yours,

H. S.

June 9th, 1864.

BRO. HOWE:

Dear Sir—I arrived home safely last Friday, and was greeted with the meeting of kind friends and old acquaintances. This evening it gives me pleasure to drop you a few lines, to show you that I have got into business and am doing well. I am running a steam engine, and receive $45.00 per month. It is a great deal better than I expected to do. In a few months I am going into a store, with a very nice gentleman. He will open his store in a short time. I don't know that there is anything more to write about this time. I feel under a great many obligations to you and your lady for what you have done for me, and I hope some day to be able to repay you for it. My kind regards to all of the officers, and your own family.

I now close, hoping to hear from you soon.

Your obedient pupil,

A. H. D.

June 19th, 1864.

MR. HOWE:

Dear Sir—Our school term is drawing to a close. I have no prospects of making anything during the vacation if I stay here, and as you are the only person who for a number of years has really done anything for me, it is to you that I now look again for further aid. If you need me on the Farm again this summer, I will be happy to go, and will try to do my whole duty. But should you not be able to extend further favors to me, I still shall consider myself as much indebted to you and Mrs. Howe as though you made a college graduate of me; for without the aid you have extended to me, I doubt whether I should ever have attained to what I have. I have every hope of being admitted to college the last of this term. I have an ambition to go through, if I can, with the help of God and my friends.

Please give my regards to Mrs. Howe.

Yours truly,

J. C.

The author of the foregoing letter was picked up by the police of a neighboring city, a few years since, a poor outcast and vagrant. He spent a few years in the Reform School, and is now in college, respected and loved by all who know him, with the prospect before him of being one of the first young men of the State.

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 3d, 1864.

DEAR BROTHER HOWE:—I take this opportunity of once more writing to you. This is the fifth letter that I have written the last year, but have received no answer from any of them. I suppose you think that I have entirely forgotten you; but such is not the case, for I have always thought of you through all the long years of separation that have passed since I was an inmate of the school. I shall always bless the day that I was sent there, for I know that it was for my good. I know you would like for me to give a history of myself since I left you. I was working on the Street Railroad when this war broke out. I did not like to leave a good situation; but, as week after week went past, and all of my friends were leaving for the seat of war, I did not think it any more than duty to go myself. So I enlisted in the 84th Ohio Regiment for three months. We were at once sent to Cumberland, Maryland, where we served out our time (three months) with credit to ourselves and our State. We came back about the time of the first draft in C—.

45—Ex. Doc.—PART II.

Soon after my return, a call was made for more men, and I immediately enlisted for three years. I received $400 bounty, all of which I gave to my father. I have been promoted from time to time, till I now hold the office of Orderly Sergeant. I have been engaged in four different battles, and was badly wounded at the battle of Chicamunga. I have been put in the Veteran Reserve Corps on account of my lameness, occasioned by my wound.

Dear Brother Howe, I would like to hear from you very much, for I know great changes have taken place on the Farm since I left it. Tell me how many boys you have got, and how many new shops you have put up, and how the Farm looks generally, for I would give anything to see it again. Please give my best respects to all of the old officers, if there are any left yet, and especially to Mrs. Howe, for I always thought of her as a kind mother; and I can never repay her for all of her kindness. Please give my best love and respects to all the boys. I think of them often. They have now got a good home, with kind friends to look after their welfare; and everything they want that is proper for them, they have. They ought to be very thankful that they are in such a place, instead of a gloomy prison. Hoping soon to hear from you, I still remain your affectionate friend,

T. C.

The foregoing letter is from a young man that was honorably dismissed from the Institution nearly four years ago. His conduct during all this time has been excellent. He has the confidence of all who know him.

CAMP NEAR PETERSBURG, VA., July 6th, 1864.

BROTHER HOWE—Dear Sir: I take this pleasant opportunity to let you know that I am well, and hope these few lines will find you the same. Bro. Howe, I expect that I am the last one you expected to hear from, as I wrote you one or two hard letters; but now I am sorry for it. I will tell you how I came to do it. I saw some boys at camp that I used to know before I went to the Farm; and when they found out where I had been, they began to curse and swear about the place, and then they went to drinking, and got me to do the same. I got a little intoxicated. They got out of money, and coaxed me to write to you for some; and when I got your letter there was no money in it, and they wanted me to write you a bad letter. One of them wrote the letter and sent it away, and I did not know half what was in it till you sent it back to H—. H— read it to me and talked to me. He asked me why I did so. He tried to get me to do better. D— also talked to me. If it had not been for them, I would have been as bad as any man in the regiment. They told me they would have nothing to do with me if I did not try to do better; and I am now trying to be a good boy and become reformed. We are now in the rifle pits, and I tell you it makes any one feel very queer to be in such dangerous places, if he is not living in the right way. The temptations around us are great to do wrong; but I hope God will now give me strength to overcome everything that is wrong. We have meeting here every Sunday. The boys are happy to join in singing the hymns. Since I have been doing better, I live in the same tent with H— and D—.

I thank Mrs. Howe very much for the kindness she showed me while living on the Farm. We have no such kind nurses like her to take care of us when we are sick here. We see legs and arms taken off every day, and it seems to us as if the doctors were butchering. I hope you and all the rest of the officers will forgive me for what I have done that is wrong. Bro. Howe, I wish you would let the boys know that they ought not to wish to get into the army; also let them know that I am trying to get along and do what is right.

Good-bye,

W. C.

The following letter was received from a colored boy who was discharged from our school about three years since:

Mr. G. E. Howe, Lancaster, Ohio:

DEAR SIR:—I take this present time to write you a few lines. I am not in very good health. I was taken sick in Jacksonville, Florida, last winter, and not expected to live, but, through the mercies of God, I was spared. I am sorry to tell you, that if He had taken me from this world, I would not have been prepared to meet Him in that happier land. I am in hopes that when He does take me, I shall be prepared.

After I left the Reform School and went home to O—, the citizens of that place would not have anything to do with me. They scoffed at me; but I held up my head and bore it. I kept out of bad company; yet, in good company I could not be recognized. I began to feel a little discouraged, but resolved to do my very best. After I had been there about a week, I saw that the people began to feel for me a little. I am sure I needed it. I had not been there over ten days before I was welcomed by everybody. They told me they were proud to see my good behavior since I had returned, and then gave the reason why they had slighted me before. They knew what I was before I left the place, and were now waiting to see what the Reform School had done for me. If it had not done me any good I could not remain in the place.

From that day to this, you may ask any person about my conduct, and they can give such an account of me, that I know will please you and those that have any connection with the Reform School. I can refer you to the names of prominent persons who will vouch for the truth of this statement. I have had a number of temptations placed before me, and have resisted. I must admit that I am not a true reformed boy, for such a boy is one that has given his heart to God. I have reformed about stealing, using profane language and lying. If every boy could say that, I know it would make you feel that your school was a great blessing.

I am sorry I have not written before to express my feelings to you. I have no excuse for not having written before, but shall now begin and write as often as I can.

I saw C. this morning; he sends his respects to you. He is home on a furlough.

I think C. is a very steady young man. He is very kind to me, and comes into the Ward to see me every day.

I suppose you have heard that I have enlisted. I have been in the service now nearly two years. I belong to the 54th Massachusetts Regiment. We have been in several engagements; one was the charge on Fort Wagner, on July 17th, 1863.

My gun was shot out of my hand and I was saved, although stunned.

I have made my letter rather long, and yet have not said one-half as much as I would like; but as it is nearly time for the mail to close, I will only send my respects to all of the boys of the school and your family.

I guess there are a very few faces yet there whom I once knew. I hope that I may be able to visit you some day.

Please write soon, and let me know how the Reform School is getting along, and how many you now have.

I must close my letter. Good bye.

I remain yours truly.

BY-LAWS, RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE
NEAR LANCASTER, OHIO.

ITS OBJECT, AND THE MEANS TO BE EMPLOYED TO ACCOMPLISH IT.

SECTION 1. The State Reform Farm is established for one purpose, to wit: the reformation of the inmates detained therein.

SEC. 2. The means to be employed are instruction and labor, under thorough discipline, accompanied by rewards and punishments, as may be deserved by the inmates.

SEC. 3. The instruction will embrace mental, moral and physical culture—teaching and preparing the inmates, while in the Institution, how to live after they leave it.

SEC. 4. The labor shall be such as suits the capacity and age of the inmates respectively. It shall not be imposed as a punishment. The inmates shall be made to feel that they are taught to labor, so that they may acquire regular habits, a love of industry and aversion to idleness, and thus be fitted to gain a livelihood when they shall go out into the world.

SEC. 5. The discipline shall be that of the family, the school, the workshop, and the farm; and not of a prison. The inmates are to be watched over as pupils, and not guarded as prisoners or criminals; and there shall be no more restraint than shall be necessary to develop them in good, and repress bad qualities. Self-instruction, self desire to labor, and self-government shall be inculcated and encouraged as the best culture, as well as the most effective discipline.

SEC. 6. Every effort of the inmates towards self-improvement, shall be studiously appreciated, and readily and suitably rewarded. Spontaneous self-reform deserves as much the support of the State as the reform produced by teachers and assistants.

ADMISSIONS.

SEC. 1. Parties applying for the admission of youth will address themselves to the Acting Commissioner, at Lancaster, Ohio. The following questions are to be answered, and with the answers must accompany.

the application, signed by the parties, and certified as correct by the Judge of the Probate Court of the county:

Name and age of the boy ?

When born ?

Where baptized ?

Father's name ?

Mother's name ?

Occupation of parents ?

Residence of parents ?

Are the boy's own parents living ?

Has the boy any other relations ?

Can he read ?

Can he write ?

Can he cypher ?

What school has he attended ?

What has he been employed in ?

Offense of the boy ?

Where and when charged or tried ?

Sentence ?

If convicted before state for what offence and how punished ?

1st time ?

2d time ?

3d time ?

4th time ?

Recommended by

What are parents able to contribute towards his maintenance ?

SEC. 2. Boys sought to be admitted into this Institution must be examined by some physician, who will certify as to their health, according to the following form :

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Has the boy perfect vision ?

Has he the use of all his limbs ?

Is he of sound intellect ?

Has he sufficient bodily strength to receive instruction ?

Has he any tendency to scrofula or consumption ?

Is he perfectly free from any cutaneous disorder ?

Is he subject to epileptic or other fits ?

Has he had the small-pox or cow-pox ?

"I hereby certify that I have examined the applicant, _____ and that the answers to the several particulars comprised in the above questions are to the best of my knowledge, judgment and belief, correctly made,

(Signed)

_____."

The above certificate may be furnished by the medical officer of any public establishment in which the boy may be detained, or if not so detained, by any respectable medical practitioner of the neighborhood, the respectability of the physician to be certified to by the Probate Court.

Defects of sight, intellect, or bodily structure, tendencies to fits, scrofulous or consumptive disorders, &c., prevent the young persons laboring under them from learning any of the means of livelihood in which they can be instructed. It is, therefore, necessary to guard very strictly against the admission of any boys so affected; and in the event of any, subject to these mental or bodily defects, being, by oversight or otherwise, admitted, they must be dismissed.

Parents and guardians in obtaining admission of youth to the Reform

Farm, must furnish a certificate from three responsible men of the neighborhood, stating that the facts, as set forth in the commitment are true.

SEC. 3. The following are the forms of the commitments, one of which, as the case may be, must accompany the certificates provided for in preceding sections. No youth should be forwarded to the State Reform Farm, except upon the order of the Acting Commissioner in reply to the application and commitment sent to him as aforesaid :

FORM FROM A COURT.

STATE OF OHIO, }
 _____ County. } _____ Court of _____ County (or City) :

To the Acting Commissioner of Ohio Reform Schools :

WHEREAS, A. B., a minor of the age of _____ years, having been arrested on the oath of C. D., charging said defendant with (here name the misdemeanor), and (tried or examined) in reference to said charge, on the _____ day of _____, 186-, before the Hon. Judge _____, has been sentenced by the said Court to be committed to the State Reform Farm, and there safely kept, under the direction of the Board of Commissioners of the Reform Schools until discharged in due course of law.

You are, therefore, commanded, that you receive and take charge of the said A. B., and him safely keep and detain in your custody, according to the terms aforesaid.

In testimony, &c.

[SEAL.]

_____, Clerk of Court.

FORM FROM PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

A. B., of _____, represents that he is the parent (or guardian) of C. D., a minor of the age of _____, born _____; that his son (or ward) is (here state the cause of commitments), and that said C. D. is a proper subject for the State Reform Farm, and requests that said C. D. may be received into said Institution, according to the provisions of the act to provide for the establishment and government of Reform Schools, passed April 2, 1858.

A. B.

ITS SUPERVISION.

SEC. 1. The Board of Commissioners shall exercise over the State Reform Farm a wholesome supervision, by frequent visits to it. The Acting Commissioner shall reside upon the Farm, and devote all of his time to its interests, and one of the Advisory Commissioners shall personally visit it at least once a month.

SEC. 2. The Acting Commissioner shall carefully record all official proceedings, keep accurate and detailed accounts, and report at every regular meeting; which report shall embrace a statement of the expenditures made, and the unexpended balance of each fund, and other matters upon which the By-laws, Rules and Regulations require him to report.

SEC. 3. The Board shall meet regularly on the first Wednesday of every month, at the "State Reform Farm," unless, for special reasons, a different time or place shall have been designated at the previous meeting. Special meetings may be called by the Acting Commissioner, upon five days' notice, to be counted from and after the day and delivery of the written notice in any postoffice within the State.

SEC. 4. All orders on the State Treasury shall be drawn in favor of the Acting Commissioner, and approved and indorsed by the Advisory Commissioners.

SEC. 5. The Board shall, at each of its regular meetings, pass upon all vouchers for money paid during the preceding month, and issue to the Acting Commissioner orders on the State Treasury for any money due upon purchases made, or expenses incurred which remain unpaid, and to cover the expenses likely to occur during the current month.

The Acting Commissioner shall, as far as is practicable, present to the Board, for its action, all matters requiring payment during said month, so as to have as few purchases made as possible which were not previously allowed by the Board, and such only as could not well be foreseen.

All purchases for the State Reform Farm shall be made by the Acting Commissioner, or under his supervision, and no expenses shall be incurred in excess of appropriation.

SEC. 6. In addition to the accounts kept by the Acting Commissioner, there shall be a second set of books kept by some officer connected with the Reform School, whose duty it shall be to keep a perfect account of all expenditures, and all moneys received, from whatever source, and to present a balance-sheet to the Board at each monthly meeting, in which a clear classification of all expenditures shall be exhibited, and also of all unexpended balances. It shall also be his duty to keep the books in which shall be recorded the admissions, histories, and discharges of the boys, and shall be responsible for the accuracy of said records.

Said book-keeper shall receive his appointment from the Board of Commissioners.

SEC. 7. At each regular meeting of the Board an Advisory Commissioner shall examine the account books of the Acting Commissioner, to see that the vouchers presented the previous month were all correctly entered and posted, and a minute of the examination shall be made by him in the Record Book of the Acting Commissioner.

SEC. 8. All nominations of officers for situations upon the Farm shall be made by the Board of Commissioners, and submitted to the Governor for his approval.

The Acting Commissioner may temporarily appoint officers or assistants when their services are needed, but such appointments shall continue only till the next regular meeting of the Board.

SEC. 9. Removals or dismissals of officers or assistants shall take place only upon the recommendation of the Board.

The Acting Commissioner shall have power, however, to suspend, for good reasons, when the circumstances admit of no delay, from pay and employment, any employee.

SEC. 10. The Acting Commissioner shall be the superior officer upon the Farm, and shall decide upon the admission of every proposed inmate and all dismissals, and no youth will be received upon the Farm except upon his order.

He shall have the general charge of the inmates and business interests of the Institution, and shall present to the Board at each regular meeting a clear record of all business transacted during the month.

He shall see that all officers and assistants are punctual and faithful in the discharge of their respective duties, and that the Regulations and By-Laws are carefully observed and carried out.

THE OFFICERS.

SEC. 1. The following officers and assistants shall be appointed in the manner aforesaid:

Two officers for each family of 50 boys, to be called Elder Brothers; one or more night watchmen, as shall be deemed necessary; a chaplain, physician, matron, superintendents of workshops, gardener and vine-dresser, and man-of-all-work.

SEC. 2. The several officers and assistants shall hold their appointments during the pleasure of the Board, and to be employed or removed only for good and sufficient reasons, and without political or other undue partiality.

SEC. 3. Resignations of any office or situation on the Farm shall be tendered in writing, and shall not take effect until thirty days after being presented, except with the consent of the Board.

Should any officer or assistant leave abruptly, and without consent of the Board, he shall be liable to the State for a sum equal to three months' salary, as damages, and shall lose besides any salary or compensation due him at such time.

SEC. 4. It shall be the duty of all officers and assistants to remain constantly at the Institution, unless leave of absence is granted by the Acting Commissioner.

All subordinate officers, in addition to their specific duties, shall aid the Acting Commissioner in preserving order and quiet among the inmates, in guarding against escapes, and generally in maintaining the rules and discipline of the Institution. They shall also perform such other services, from time to time, as, in his opinion, the interests of the Institution may demand.

SEC. 5. The Board shall appoint, once in three months, one of the Elder Brothers of the Institution as superintendent of the laboring forces. It shall be the duty of this officer to have such a knowledge of the labor required on all parts of the farm, as to be able to intelligently detail for each day the requisite number of boys, under proper supervision, to perform such work. He shall also give directions how the labor shall be performed, and in case of any indifference or carelessness on the part of those assigned to any special duty, he shall immediately report the same to the Acting Commissioner. Said officer shall also detail the teams to such duties as the farm demands, and shall have work so planned that the teams shall not be idle, but shall see at the same time that they are not overworked nor maltreated in any way. He shall also attend to the distribution of clothing each week, and shall see that every boy has his portion of clean clothes, and that new garments take the place of old ones when necessary, and shall see that no boy suffers for want of sufficient clothing either by day or by night.

He shall also have a general supervision of the buildings and yards, and cause them to be cleanly kept; shall look after all boys that are employed in and about the buildings, who are not under the immediate supervision of others.

He shall receive and attend visitors, and see to the proper intercourse between the boys and their friends, and shall perform such other supervisory duties as the Acting Commissioner may assign him from time to time.

Two officers, called Elder Brothers, shall be appointed for each family of 50 boys.

One or both of these Brothers must be present with the boys at all times, and have charge of them in all things. They shall instruct them in such branches of education as may be directed by the Board of Commissioners, and in the arrangement and classification of studies shall follow the general direction of the Acting Commissioner.

They shall strive to inspire the boys with a love of study, and lead them justly to estimate the value of a sound, practical education, and shall make an effort, by precept and example, to impress upon their minds the importance of good order, self-government, and purity of body and mind.

They shall attend to the cleanliness of the school-rooms, dormitories, halls, yards, etc., and shall be responsible for the safety, care and preservation of all books and furniture belonging to their respective buildings, and, by strict personal examination, see that no injury nor waste is suffered.

They shall teach the boys proper manners for the table, good order for the dormitory, and politeness towards each other.

Each Elder Brother shall pass to the table with his class at all meals, to see that the boys are properly seated, and necessary wants supplied. One or more officers shall remain in the dining-room during meals, that perfect order may be maintained.

Slovenly and hasty eating will not be allowed, and the boys must be polite and gentlemanly in their deportment. Any violation of the rules of strict propriety at the table must receive the immediate attention of the officer in charge.

The Elder Brothers shall lead the boys in saying grace before each meal, and shall also take charge of the morning and evening devotions.

They shall spend a portion of each evening in moral review of their respective families, at which time a record of the conduct of each youth shall be made in a book kept for that purpose. This book shall be the basis upon which the standing of any boy shall be determined. The Elder Brothers shall go to the field with their respective classes, to perform such work as may be designated by the superintendent of labor.

The work shall be so arranged, if possible, that all the boys will get a practical knowledge of farming and gardening, and each one shall be required at all times to perform his work well. The Elder Brothers shall be allowed a half day each week for recreation and self-improvement.

MATRON.

The Matron shall have the general charge and supervision of all the domestic arrangements of the Institution. The sewing-rooms, laundry, and hospital, shall be conducted under her direction, and she shall see that cleanliness, order, and propriety, are uniformly maintained in these apartments.

She shall see that all female assistants are diligent and faithful in the discharge of their appropriate duties, discreet in their deportment, and strict in their observance of all the rules of the Institution, and shall report to the Acting Commissioner any remissness that may come to her knowledge.

She shall see that the sick receive proper attention, and shall have a maternal regard for the health and physical welfare of all the boys.

She shall see that there is no unnecessary waste in the kitchen department, and that a sufficient quantity of clean, wholesome food, is furnished for all the tables at each meal.

SUPERINTENDENTS OF WORK SHOPS.

The superintendents of work-shops shall take charge of all tools, machines, stock, and materials, manufactured or used in the shops, and see that the same are carefully preserved, worked with prudence, and economically and properly manufactured.

They shall keep accurate accounts of all work performed, and present to the Acting Commissioner monthly tabular reports of all articles manufactured, and how disposed of; also, report the number of boys and time employed, and the value of their labor.

They shall have charge of the boys during work hours in the shops; shall exercise a prudent and judicious oversight, see that industry and good order are constantly observed, and return the boys to their respective buildings at the ringing of the bell for labor to close. They shall also assist the Elder Brothers in taking care of the boys in the evening, when called upon to do so, and shall render aid on the Sabbath in the Sabbath school.

The superintendent of the shoe shop shall see that every boy is supplied with two pairs of shoes, properly fitted, each pair to be worn every alternate week. He shall also, each week, cause all shoes not in use, to be properly oiled, and placed in their appropriate boxes, for use on the following week.

The superintendent of the tailor shop shall exercise especial care in causing all garments manufactured to be neatly made, properly fitted and in good repair when given out.

WATCHMEN.

The night watchmen shall watch over the youth at night from the time they retire until they rise in the morning. At the ringing of the morning bell, they shall cause the boys to rise, make their beds neatly, and wash and prepare for breakfast. Any case of sickness or disorderly conduct during the night shall be immediately reported to the Acting Commissioner. They shall perform a regular patrol through and around the buildings during the night, for the purpose of using due vigilance of all occurrences, to prevent escapes, and to discover and prevent danger from fire.

They shall watch over the boys during play hours after dinner; shall go out with classes to the field for labor two half days in the week; and shall perform any other duties assigned them by the Acting Commissioner.

GARDENER AND VINE DRESSER.

The gardener shall, under the direction of the Acting Commissioner, take charge of the garden and vineyard.

He shall have under his control as many boys, with suitable assistants for supervision, as the wants of his department may demand. It shall be his duty to raise, if possible, sufficient to supply the tables bountifully at all times with vegetables of the season; and shall keep an accurate account of all articles furnished from the garden.

He shall take care of all seeds and plants used in his department, and shall know what he has on hand at all times, and whatever he may need in addition shall be immediately made known in writing to the Acting Commissioner. He shall have the entire charge of the vineyard culture, the trenching, planting, pruning and gathering of the grapes.

He shall also have charge of all plantations of small fruits, and all nursery stocks and trees, and shall make a monthly report of the condition of the same to the Board of Commissioners.

He shall have charge of the tool house, in which all the tools of his department are kept, and shall be so arranged, when not in use, that he may know at once when any are missing. He shall make a monthly report to the Acting Commissioner of the number and condition of the tools under his care.

He shall have, under the direction of the Acting Commissioner, the control of one team for the use of his department, and, when more teams are needed, shall apply to the superintendent of labor, whose duty it shall be to furnish teams sufficient to perform the labor required.

The gardener shall have charge of all compost heaps, and it shall be his duty to see that nothing is wasted which, if properly composted and applied, would tend to enrich the soil.

He shall keep an accurate account of all labor performed, and shall see that all rules and regulations of the Institution are strictly observed by those under his care, and shall promptly report any one who may refuse or neglect to comply therewith.

MAN-OF-ALL-WORK.

The man-of-all-work shall have charge of all barns, sheds and tool houses of the Farm. He shall see that all buildings under his care are kept in good order.

He shall attend to the feeding of all stock of the Farm, and exercise a watchful care to prevent unnecessary waste. He shall have charge of the milking of the cows, cleaning of the stables, the care of all harness and wagons, and all the farming implements not included in the gardener's department.

He shall perform such labor upon the Farm as cannot be conveniently done by an Elder Brother with his class; such as washing and shearing sheep, butchering, sowing grain, ditching, or any rough work at which only a few persons can labor at a time with profit.

He shall, whenever boys are detailed to labor with him, be accountable for their conduct and safe return to the buildings.

He shall call at the dormitory each morning, in proper season, for the boys that drive the teams and those that do general barn work, and shall remain with them till all their duties are performed, causing them to be at their respective buildings in time to be ready for breakfast at the ringing of the bell. He shall also remain at the barns in the evening till all the work is done, and accompany the boys under his charge to their respective school rooms, reporting any disorderly conduct that may have occurred during the day.

He is specially charged to exercise great care about fire, allowing no lights to be used about the barns except those that are enclosed in glass.

He shall make a monthly report to the Acting Commissioner of the condition of the farming implements.

PUNISHMENTS.

Punishments shall be imposed as a public judgment, and never under the excitement of the moment.

It may be inflicted by the deprivation of amusement, or recreation, by withholding some favorite article of food, or by substituting bread and water for the regular meal, by loss of rank or standing in the class, by the performance of some irksome duty, by solitary confinement for a limited period, or, in extreme cases, by the infliction of corporeal chastisement.

In all cases care should be taken to impress the delinquents with the conviction that the object in administering punishment is to subdue the vicious passions and to promote their welfare individually, and secure the good of the Institution, and at the same time to convince them beyond a doubt that discipline and good order will be maintained at all hazards.

For all minor offenses and indiscretions, gentle admonition and reproof should be adopted; but any officer or assistant having charge of youth may use all judicious force necessary to repress any violent or obstinate and persistent resistance to his orders; and in all such cases the offending youth shall be confined in the lock-up, or otherwise secured, and the fact reported to the Acting Commissioner at the earliest opportunity.

ESCAPES.

In all cases of attempts at escape, it shall be the duty of all employed on the Farm, that can be spared, to follow at once on fresh pursuit of the fugitive or fugitives, and all persons so pursuing shall have full power to use any and all means necessary to retake him or them.

Means shall also be taken to post the fugitive or fugitives along the railroad lines and other places to which he or they would be likely to resort. The several Commissioners shall be early informed of the facts of the case, and they too shall employ all means in their power for their recapture. Should recapture or fresh pursuit fail, then the Acting Commissioner shall place the proper process in the hands of some constable or police officer, with a suitable reward, not to exceed $25, for the recapture of the youth.

An attempt to escape shall wipe out all merit marks due such fugitive, and he shall, when recaptured, be degraded to class eight. He shall also be liable to such punishment as the Acting Commissioner, with the advice of the Elder Brothers, may inflict, which may extend to solitary imprisonment for two weeks in a dark cell. He may also be expelled from the Farm.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

Visitors shall, at all seasonable hours, be welcomed to the State Reform School, under such regulations as the Board may prescribe.

No spirituous or intoxicating drinks shall be brought to the Institution, except for medicinal purposes.

No officer or assistant shall at any time make use of such liquor, unless ordered by a physician; nor shall any one make use of tobacco, in any form, on or about the premises.

No tobacco shall be furnished or allowed to the inmates under any circumstances.

No experimenting in food will be allowed. The food approved by the common custom of the country shall be the food of the Farm.

Bathing and instruction in swimming shall be practiced on all proper occasions and opportunities.

Gymnastic and athletic exercises shall be encouraged; and especially shall instrumental and vocal music be fostered.

The clothing of the inmates shall be comfortable, according to the season—woolen in winter, cotton in summer.

The clothing shall be neatly made, and care taken to have a good fit, and shall be mended as often as needed.

Wearing torn clothes shall not be allowed. Attention to the person shall be constantly encouraged—vanity and extravagance repressed.

The person and clothes of each youth shall be carefully examined before every meal; indifference and slovenliness shall be duly noted and reproofed.

The boys of each family shall be designated by numbers, to be marked upon their clothes and bedding, which shall, if possible, not be changed.

No person regularly employed at the Institution shall be absent from his duties without permission from the Acting Commissioner.

Each officer should feel it incumbent on him to see that all the rules and regulations are strictly observed, and should promptly report any failures therein.

Any officer having charge of boys shall see that a kind and proper tone of feeling is observed among them at all times, and that they do not use any improper language, or do violence to each other, or injure their own or the clothing of others, or mark or deface the buildings or furniture, or injure the trees or shrubs on the premises.

All persons employed at the Institution shall attend the daily devotional exercises when practicable; shall also attend all religious services on the Sabbath, unless special leave of absence is granted.

All officers of the Farm shall take charge of classes at labor, when other duties do not claim their attention.

No officer will be employed merely as overseer, but all will be expected to teach, not merely by precept but by example.

No officer shall be required to perform duties inconsistent with those regularly assigned him, but all shall strive to carry out the spirit as well as the letter of the regulations of the Institution, and hold themselves in readiness at all times for any emergency; and by general and constant acts of accommodation, firmness and kindness, and in advancing the reformation of the boys.

These by-laws may be altered, amended or repealed at any regular meeting of the Board of Commissioners.

Approved:

DAVID TOD,
Governor.

TENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF TRUSTEES AND OFFICERS

OF THE

SOUTHERN OHIO LUNATIC ASYLUM,

TO THE

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF OHIO.

FOR THE YEAR 1864.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

H. JEWETT, M.D., Dayton, President.

G. W. ROGERS, Esq., Dayton, Secretary.

L. DUNHAM, M.D., Camden, Preble county.

J. SCOTT, M.D., Lebanon, Warren county.

A. WADDLE, Esq., South Charleston, Clark county.

G. N. GARD, M.D., Greenville, Darke county.

RESIDENT OFFICERS.

RICHARD GUNDBY, M.D.

STEWARD,
P. F. KESSLER, Esq.

MATRON,
MRS. S. KESSLER.

To His Excellency JOHN BROUGH, Governor of Ohio :

The Trustees of the Southern Ohio Lunatic Asylum respectfully submit for your consideration the tenth annual report of the Institution committed to their charge, together with the accompanying reports of the Superintendent and Steward.

They have great pleasure in stating that the Institution is in good condition, and that the inmates are made as comfortable as their mental condition will allow. The officers have labored with commendable zeal for their improvement and comfort.

Several important improvements have been made during the past year. For a detailed account of these and for suggestions of others, yet needed, they refer to the report of the Superintendent, whose recommendations they fully approve. The improvements have been made in an admirable manner, are permanent in their character, and will add materially to the comfort and well-being of the Institution. The appropriation for the improvement of the steam apparatus has nearly all been used. Only a small balance will be unexpended. The exact sum they cannot state, as the work is not quite finished and the bills are not all settled, but will be in a few weeks.

The estimate of expenses of the coming year made in the Superintendent's report, is perhaps as nearly accurate as can be made; but it is impossible to foresee what may be the exigencies of another year. If the value of many articles shall increase, as they have done the past twelve months, the sum named will barely be sufficient. Whatever sum placed at their disposal, they will use, as in every past year, with due economy and care so far as consistent with the comfort of those assigned to their protection.

The Trustees beg leave to call the attention of your Excellency and the Legislature to the exceedingly low remuneration at present paid to the officers of the Institution. The wages paid for all kinds of labor have been raised everywhere, and have not yet probably reached their limit; yet the salaries at present paid to the officers of this Institution remain the same as they were fixed by the Legislature in 1862, when a material reduction was made upon the amounts formerly paid. While every article of merchandize and every kind of labor has increased largely in value.

since the war commenced, these officers actually receive salaries very much less than at that period. They feel that they need only allude to this anomalous state of affairs, and that the Legislature will devise plans to rectify the inequality. They will only add that the office of Assistant Physician is now vacant, and much difficulty has been experienced in getting a suitable person to fill it on account of the small amount they are enabled to offer as a remuneration.

H. JEWETT,
G. W. ROGERS,
L. DUNHAM,
J. SCOTT,
J. N. GARD,
A. WADDLE,
Trustees.

S. O. LUNATIC ASYLUM, Nov. 1, 1864.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Board of Trustees of the Southern Ohio Lunatic Asylum :

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit the Tenth Annual Report of the condition and operations of the Southern Ohio Lunatic Asylum.

TABLE 1.—General results for the year ending 31st Oct., 1864.

Of 1,079 patients received into this Asylum, since it was opened, 565 have recovered: a proportion of 52.36 per cent. upon the admissions, or of 61.61 per cent. upon the whole number of discharges. Of 535 men admitted during the same period, 289 recovered, or 54.01 per cent.; calculating the proportion upon the total number of males discharged, the percentage will be 62.42. Of 544 females admitted, 276 recovered, being 50.73 per cent., or 60.79 per cent. of the total number of females discharged. It will also be observed that the proportion of deaths of the males is much larger than that of deaths of females. So that, judging from the experience of this hospital for nearly ten years past, more males recover or die than females, and, therefore, that at the end of a given period, in the history of an equal number of both sexes of insane, there will remain a greater proportion of insane women than of insane men. And this will explain to some extent how it usually happens that in a census of the insane population of a country, the number of insane women exceeds that of insane men, and this, also, notwithstanding that a careful analysis of all cases occurring in the same region would show that more men than women actually become insane.

We have had abundant cause for gratitude for the general good health that has prevailed among our household during the past year, especially if we consider that a very much larger proportion of the cases admitted during the year than usual were of a low type of vitality. In illustration of this, it will be observed by reference to the foregoing tables, that the number of persons with melancholia is greater than usual; and though the term may be and doubtless is objectionable if used to denote any special variety of mental disease, it is sufficiently precise to indicate a well marked group of symptoms connected with a state of depression, and a want of innervation in the individual affected. A large number of these cases, in addition to other distressing features, had refused food for some time before they were brought hither, and in several of them this was the prominent symptom which had excited the apprehensions of their friends. A more or less exhausted condition was the natural result of this protracted abstinence. It is among this class of the insane that the suicidal impulse is so often manifested, and it is always with peculiar satisfaction that we are able at the close of the year to record that all such attempts have been successfully guarded against.

It is, however, with deep sorrow that I have to report a terrible catastrophe, resulting from the homicidal propensities of a patient in the Institution. On the 27th of July last, John Bunk, an attendant, was killed under the following circumstances: He was assisting the patients at their supper, and was in the act of pouring out the tea, when a patient seized a carving knife lying on an adjoining table, and instantly stabbed him in the chest and abdomen, before assistance could be rendered by the other attendant and patients present. The first wound, which proved fatal, penetrated the chest, cutting through two ribs, and inflicting a deep wound in the substance of the liver. Death occurred after a few hours of suffering. The sad event cast a deep gloom over our whole household. The deceased was an intelligent and faithful man, and had been connected with the institution only a few weeks, but had won the respect of all those associated with him. The tragedy was the result of a purely homicidal impulse, without any special delusion associated with the unfortunate victim. The patient has been in the Institution more than nine years, and had made several sudden and violent attacks upon some of the officers and attendants. In none of these attacks was there any premonition or warning, and immediately after them he subsided into his usually quiet and docile demeanor. He still remains under our care. An inquest was held the following day, when a verdict in accordance with the above facts was returned. In this connection I cannot omit to mention the promptness shown by some of the patients present, at great risk to themselves, in seizing the offender and taking the knife from his hand.

The alteration and improvement of the steam apparatus, for which an appropriation was made at the late session of the legislature, have occupied much time and labor. Two fine boilers, eighteen feet in length, and fifty-four inches in diameter, with five flues each, were substituted for the old boilers, which were very defective and beginning to be quite unsafe. They have only just been placed in their position, owing to the delays occasioned by the difficulties in procuring labor during the past season. Extensive alterations were required in the boiler and engine rooms, and a great amount of labor was expended upon these necessary changes. The result will, I think, abundantly justify all the outlay of money and toil, in the increased efficiency, comfort and economy of the new apparatus. The old boilers were thirty-six feet long, forty-two inches in diameter, and had two flues each. The present are eighteen feet long, fifty-four inches in diameter, and have five flues each. The supply of water passed directly into the old boilers. It now takes place through a proper mud-pipe under each boiler. We formerly were obliged to burn coal and wood together, on account of the limited draught occasioned by the manner the flues were connected with the smoke-stack. We shall now consume coal alone—a great convenience and probable economy in the future, as the difficulty of obtaining wood increases every year. We formerly depended upon the water supplied to the house, the greater part of which was spring water impregnated with the salts of lime, which were deposited upon the heating surfaces of the boilers. The injurious effects of these incrustations are well known, and were sufficiently evident in the boilers removed. Happily we have, as we hope, overcome this difficulty by the following arrangement: One of the old boilers was made into a tank by taking out the flues. In this tank is now received the condensed water from all the steam coils of the house, equal to three-fourths of the water required for the boilers. A direct connection is also made with the rain water pump and the tank, to make up whatever deficiency may exist. Thus our new boilers are supplied with pure water from this tank, and one great source of wear and tear hitherto present has been avoided. This improvement alone will probably add several years to the duration of the boilers. Our power of generating steam is greatly increased, without increasing, and perhaps diminishing our consumption of fuel. We have now, therefore, the foundation of an excellent system of heating our house by steam. To carry out the plan to its full extent, so as to realize with the greatest economy all the benefits of the system, it will be necessary to change many of our steam coils, to substitute numerous short for the present long coils, and to render them independent in their operation of each other. At present the whole of each wing depends for its warmth on the same long coils, instead of the various stories and rooms in each story being heated from independent sources. I recommend, therefore, that an appropriation be asked for this purpose. If the work be delayed long, additional expense will be incurred, by replacing the long pipes from time to time as they wear out. Before leaving this subject, allow me to express my obligations to Messrs. Brownell, who constructed our boilers, for many suggestions of great value, and the efficient manner in which their contract was performed. Our faithful engineer, Mr. Carlisle, is worthy also of more than a passing remark. He superintended all the alterations rendered necessary by our new arrangements, and introduced many very excellent improvements in his department. He has entirely remodeled our apparatus for supplying hot water to the house, whereby greater efficiency and comfort are obtained at a very decreased cost; and he suggested and carried out the admirable plan by which our boilers are now supplied with pure water.

Many of the male patients and our own employees were engaged in assisting in this work; most of the alterations of the building rendered necessary by the change, having been effected within ourselves.

Many other repairs have been made. The floor of the large kitchen was literally worn out. This was replaced with a good ash floor. The floor of the lower male ward was also entirely renewed. The lumber used was thoroughly seasoned and dried in our steam heating chambers for more than a year. Several other rooms were also re-floored. The greatest care was taken in the selection of the material, and in the manner of performing the work. We can at last congratulate ourselves that we have one ward with a good floor! Nearly all our floors need a similar renovation. The work should be done as fast as we can properly prepare the lumber. The old rail fence around our pasture fields was removed, and a good board fence substituted. The whole of it was built by a gentleman under our care, assisted by other patients.

We have had abundant occupation for such of the men as could labor. In the carpenter's shop; in excavating for the boiler room and the repairs previously mentioned; in making new roads; in the gardens and on the farm many have found useful and pleasant employment. The females have also, as usual, contributed their share in making and mending the clothing for the house, and bedding, assisting in the kitchen and the washing and ironing departments. A large number of useful and fancy articles were made by them for the sanitary fair held in Dayton last Christmas.

While we have encouraged all useful employment as much as possible, we have by no means neglected the amusements which contribute so much to relieve the monotony of such a household as ours. Two evenings a week have been regularly devoted to amusements in our large hall. One of them was regularly given to the exhibition of stereoscopic views of celebrated places of our own and other countries, and of many works of art, by means of our stereopticon, with the oxycalcium light, and each week a large proportion of our household have met together in our social dancing parties. The usual in-door games were carried on in the wards, while out-doors the men indulged in foot-ball and other sports, and the ladies are beginning to cultivate the new game of croquet. Last Christmas day thirty of the patients visited the sanitary fair to their great enjoyment. As usual, also, they visited the agricultural fair by the courtesy of the officers of the Montgomery County Agricultural Society.

Our financial exhibit will show that our expenditures have been strictly confined within the limits of our appropriations. To do this, great care and attention were required, for the disturbed state of the market has, at times, set all calculations at defiance. The Steward, Mr. Kessler, has, however, given unremitting attention to this department of his labors, and great credit is due to him for the judicious management of his expenditures.

I must call your attention to the dilapidated state of the coridor connecting the engine and laundry department with the main building. I fear that it will not stand very long. The foundation is very defective placed on made land, and the walls are cracked in every direction. Its present condition is unsightly if not dangerous. In any repairs to it advantage might properly be taken of the opportunity to build in connection with the coridor an excellent kitchen, in lieu of the room now used for a kitchen in the central building. This would be a great advantage and could be effected quite easily. The outside fences and the exterior of our building remain as they were last year. The same recommendations made in my last report are again urged.

For the ensuing year, it is impossible to make any close calculation. Everything changes in value from day to day. Uniformity seems to obtain only in one respect, that the changes is from high to higher. I submit, however, the following rough estimate of the appropriations required:

For current expenses.....	$45,000
For Library pictures, &c.....	200
For improvement of steam apparatus.....	3,000
For repairs to Corridor, flooring, &c.....	2,000
For Officers' Salaries.....

Mr. and Mrs. Kessler, the Steward and Matron continue with zeal, their efforts for the good of the Institution. I am indebted to them for their kind co-operation and their strict attention to the duties of their departments.

To the attendants, who, with few exceptions, (and those were promptly disposed of) have in a year, more disturbed than usual, by external circumstances of disquiet and commotion, devoted themselves with diligence to further the great interests of this noble scheme of benevolence, I am greatly indebted for much of the success that has crowned the past year.

In August last, Dr. F. M. Andrews, after two years of faithful and efficient services resigned his position as assistant Physician, to accept a position as assistant Surgeon in one of the volunteer regiments of the army. He joined his regiment at Atlanta, full of life and vigor, but only served with it a few weeks, when he was prostrated with disease, and died October 8th. His sad and unexpected death so soon after leaving us, was keenly felt by all of us, who had known him so intimately. He had many noble qualities, very respectable attainments, and talents by no means inconsiderable, which gave promise of future usefulness in his profession, had length of days been given to him. The gentleness of his disposition and uniform courtesy had endeared him to all connected with him. The position of Assistant Physician is still vacant.

Another year has engraven its record in the annals of this Institution. If we have had much sorrow, many short comings, many errors and much disappointment to regret, we have also had much cause to rejoice, and much, very much for gratitude that the objects of the Institution have been advanced, that many have been restored to health and vigor of mind, and that the less happy lot of others has been cheered and ameliorated.

With unfeigned thanks to our Heavenly Father for the protection and support vouchsafed to us in the past, I commend the Institution with all its varied wants to His continuous care; and through you, I respectfully and confidently ask of the General Assembly of our State, for this Asylum, that liberality of support for the future, which has, in the past so eminently characterised the great State of Ohio towards her afflicted people.

SOUTHERN OHIO LUNATIC ASYLUM, NOV. 1ST, 1864.

STEWARD'S ANNUAL REPORT.

RICHARD GUNDEY, M.D., Superintendent S. O. Lunatic Asylum :

SIR—Herewith I submit my report of moneys received and disbursed for this asylum during the fiscal year ending 31st October, 1864.

With the general account I have given an abstract; also a classified statement in detail.

Respectfully,

P. F. KESSLER, Steward.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES.

John Brough, Governor of Ohio :

The Trustees of the Northern Ohio Lunatic Asylum respectfully present their Tenth Annual Report.

For the practical management of the Institution and the detail of the expenditures, we refer to the accompanying reports of the Superintendent and Steward. Considering the extraordinary increase of price of all articles of consumption during the year, we are satisfied that the appropriations made by the last Legislature have been economically and judiciously expended. The Superintendent and resident officers of the Asylum have been faithful and untiring in their endeavors to promote the best interests of the unfortunate inmates.

It will be seen by the report of the Steward that the quantity of coal consumed has been greater than in former years. We are informed by the Superintendent and Steward that they have found it impossible to obtain as good a quality of the article as heretofore. We have no other way of accounting for the increased consumption. The question as to the best method of supplying the Institution with fuel has been, and continues to be, an embarrassing one. Owing to the combination among the miners to increase their wages, which are now exorbitantly high, and the fear that they might at any time "strike" for higher pay, the proprietors of coal mines have refused to enter into a contract to supply us in advance, and we have been compelled to purchase a car load at a time. The price of coal at present, delivered at the Asylum, is eight dollars and twenty-eight cents per ton for the strip vein tunnel coal, and eleven dollars for Brier Hill coal. We have formerly contracted for the latter article at two dollars and sixty-five cents, delivered on the railroad track at this place. It should be borne in mind that our largest consumption of coal for the last year was during the fall and winter, which cost us but four dollars per ton. We commenced the next year without a supply on hand, and must purchase at the present advanced prices.

The increase of price of nearly all articles of consumption, and the prospect of still farther advance, and the advanced wages of employees, will require an increased appropriation for the next year. We have made a careful calculation of the amount required, and agree fully with the estimates of the Superintendent. We therefore ask for a special appropriation of five thousand dollars for general repairs and refurnishing the house. It is proper for us to say that in many parts of the main walls blocks of stone were used containing large quantities of iron pyrites. The action of the frost and elements have caused these blocks to crumble away and crack; and as some of them are in important positions—over windows and doors—they must be replaced or secured in some manner to render the building safe.

We have in the State Treasury an appropriation of six thousand dollars for current expenses of the first quarter of the next year. This will prove insufficient. We therefore ask for the following appropriations:

For the last three-quarters of the year ending November 15th, 1865.....	$39,000 00
For the first quarter of the fiscal year commencing November 15th, 1865.....	10,000 00
For officers' salaries.....	2,300 00
For Moral Instructor and Library.....	200 00

The term of service of the Superintendent, Dr. O. C. Kendrick, expired at the end of the current year, viz.: on the 2d day of the present month. In view of this fact, the Board met at an adjourned meeting on the 4th day of October last, and elected Dr. W. W. Wythes to the position of Superintendent for the term of six years, from the first Tuesday of November, A. D. 1864.

We commend the interests of the unfortunate class for whose benefit this Institution was established, to the fostering care of the Legislature, with full confidence that they will be safe, and with the further belief that the people of Ohio demand liberal appropriations for the support of our Benevolent Institutions.

NORTHERN OHIO LUNATIC ASYLUM, November 2d, 1864.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Board of Trustees :

GENTLEMEN—The following report closes the first decade in the history of this institution and my official term of service.

Through all these years, under a beneficent Providence, this great charity has been silently but successfully fulfilling its mission and returning to the hearts of the people, in distress relieved and mind restored, a more than golden interest.

While the country has been convulsed with war, and every household made to feel the weight of its iron hand, the great public heart has only swelled to the occasion; forgetting no class of suffering, it has found in these fresh demands upon its benevolence but new channels for sympathy, and accepted, in faith, this ordeal of trial and affliction as a means of preparation for the greater demand upon its resources when the contest shall be over.

It is not during the progress of great events that we look for mental or physical failure, but in the reaction which follows; when the mind pressed to the highest point of human endurance, suddenly losing the tension of excitement, becomes bewildered in the mazes of an overwrought imagination; or in sympathy with a diseased body, falls into brooding melancholy.

The possibility of such results gives rise to grave questions. When the war is over, will the General Government provide accommodations for all insane soldiers? If so, will friends cheerfully submit to their removal to distant localities, away from home influences or the chances for frequent personal inquiry; or in case of illness and death, from the friendly visit and the last kindly offices of affection? If not, is the State prepared for such an exigency? It may come suddenly, we should be ready to meet it come when it may. Our brave defenders must not return home in their great need, with shattered frames and disordered intellect, to find less hospitality than we extend to strangers.

The lessened number of applications in behalf of males, during the year just past, indicates an increased draft from that portion of the community, which usually furnishes its proportion of subjects, while the fact that many who have been inmates of the asylum are now in the ranks of the army, assures us of a large accession to our number when peace shall again be restored.

The following general and special tables contain the personal statistics for the year.

The last annual report shows 143 patients as remaining in the Asylum October 31, 1863. Sixty-nine of these have been discharged during the year; eight males, ten females as recovered; two males, five females as improved; twenty males, twenty-three females as unimproved; one female as deceased. The prospects of the remaining seventy-four are unfavorable.

Of the number (104) admitted during the year just expired, seven males, twenty females have been discharged as recovered; one male, one female as improved; three males, seven females as unimproved; three males, two females as deceased. Of those left, thirty may recover, while there is little hope of a favorable result for the others. This number, added to the doubtful cases transmitted from last year (74), furnishes an aggregate of one hundred and four out of one hundred and thirty-four inmates to be provided for as incurables.

To the number (143) in the Asylum October 31, 1863, there have since been added seventy-nine recent and twenty-five chronic cases, making two hundred and forty-seven under treatment during the year. Nineteen of those admitted this year had been, previously, inmates of this or a like institution one or more times.

Hereditary predisposition existed in twenty-four, and the suicidal propensity in twenty-seven when admitted.

Application has been made for the return of but one patient discharged as recovered during the year. This is a case of recurrent insanity with unequal intervals of perfect rationality.

Twenty-four of the recovered were insane less than three months before admission; five between three and six months; six between six months and one year; seven more than one year. Twelve had resided in the Asylum less than three months; fifteen between three and six months; eight between six and twelve months; six between one and two years; one between two and three years.

Twenty-two when admitted were affected with mania; sixteen with melancholia; four with dementia.

Of the improved, six had been insane less than one year when admitted; two between one and five years.

Subsequent information satisfied us that the last two cases had been insane from fifteen to twenty years, although represented in the medical certificates and by the testimony of interested parties, as favorable for treatment. They were discharged as improved because restored to a condition of usefulness, which, having existed many years without outbursts of violence, was considered by the friends as normal.

Three had resided in the Institution less than one year; three between one and two years; one between two and three years; one between three and four years.

The disease assumed the form of mania in three females; that of melancholia in three males, two females.

Twenty-one of the unimproved had been insane less than three months previous to admission; five between three and six months; four between six and twelve months; eight between one and two years; eight between two and five years; three between five and ten years; three between ten and twenty years.

Five had been residents of the Asylum less than three months; five between three and six months; two between six and twelve months; ten between one and two years; twenty-two between two and five years; eight between five and ten years.

In addition to the necessity of discharging a certain number of this class to make room for recent and favorable cases, not a few were removed for special reasons: One by "habeas corpus," owing to the disagreement of friends as to the extent of insanity and the necessity of restraint in an asylum; two on account of epilepsy; one contrary to advice and for whose safe keeping and care it was thought best to exact a bond; one introduced as a recent case, but paralytic and incurable.

These are illustrations of a class of cases not only embarrassing in their relations, but important in their bearing upon the successful results of treatment.

Of the unimproved, fifteen males, twenty-four females were subjects of mania; four males, four females of melancholia, and one male, four females of dementia.

Five persons have died during the year, and one committed suicide. Of the former three were males and two females; the last a male. Four were insane less than three months previous to admission; one between three and six months; one between six and twelve months. One, a male, was brought to the Asylum on a bed, in a paralytic condition, and after a residence of only two days died. Another, a male, formerly an inmate of the Asylum, but discharged from it recovered, while engaged in the service of his country, was seized with "camp diarrhoea," and after nine months continuous illness, insanity supervening, was brought to the Asylum in a state of utter prostration, and lived but forty-eight hours after admission. The third, also a male, died of gradual exhaustion consequent upon chronic mania. Of the females, one had inflammation of the lungs of such extent and lengthened duration, as to preclude all hope of benefit from treatment, and survived but two weeks after admission. The other when admitted was covered with bruises and found to have a dislocated shoulder. Subsequent inquiry showed these injuries to have been received by a fall from a carriage while riding in the country. The shock of these injuries, in her enfeebled condition, no doubt hastened her death, which occurred on the fifth day after admission. The suicide occasioned us great regret. The only fatal casualty for more than six years, the blow fell upon us with all the suddenness and force of a great calamity. Much of its bitterness, however, has been removed by the entire exoneration from blame, which a full investigation of the facts in the case established, of those who were more immediately responsible for his safe keeping. A review of this class of cases can only lead to surprise, that in so large a number annually admitted to the Institution, many of whom had previously made almost successful attempts upon their lives, but one should have succeeded in accomplishing his purpose here. On this point, one long engaged in this specialty, has truly said, exemption from such accidents, through a series of years, is not always indicative of excess of vigilance, nor their occurrences necessarily the result of carelessness on the part of those in charge. Sooner or later, with longer or shorter intervals, they will come upon every institution of the kind, and fortunate is that one upon which the evil falls least frequently.

The insanity was developed as mania in three males and two females; as melancholia in one male.

The application table shows a great disparity in the number of male and female applications. The same relation has existed within the Institution during the past year. The female department has been kept constantly full, while at no time have the male wards had their full complement. Only seven males have been rejected. Of these, two were epileptics—the remainder clearly custodial cases, whose removal, under the law, would be made necessary at any time to make room for more favorable cases.

The policy of the Institution has been to refuse no one, whatever the duration of the disease might be, if the county from which the application was made had not its full quota in the Asylum, and the case in its presentation exhibited any features indicating the slightest susceptibility to relief from treatment. Again, incurables have not been discharged to relieve the Institution from the burthen of their care, although some have been voluntarily removed by friends, but in abeyance to those necessities which the act governing the Asylum clearly recognizes. The statistics of the Institution will be very much affected by the course which may be pursued in such cases. It can be seen at a glance that if none but recent and favorable cases are admitted, the average of recoveries must be large, based upon the admissions. This is permitted under the law, simply in the way of preferment, and not to the exclusion of all other cases when there may be room in the Asylum; and if the incurables are only discharged to make room for those of recent origin, the average of recoveries, as estimated upon the discharges, will again be large. On the other hand, if the strict letter of the law is complied with, and chronic cases admitted to take the place of those who are in all probability incurable, the average of recoveries upon both admissions and discharges will be unfavorably affected. This feature of preference in our Asylum act, when the applications are numerous, gives the State Institutions a great advantage over those of a mixed character in these particulars; and if their recoveries are large, as compared with similar institutions conducted under less favorable auspices, honesty compels us to acknowledge the true cause of the difference in results.

The general and personal course of the Institution during the past year has been uniform with that of former years under its present organization. For the first time in six years we have had a sickly season. Until June last the general health of the inmates remained good. About that time bilious disorders began to prevail, and although assuming very serious forms in but a few instances, spread generally through the house. In addition to these ordinary diseases, that scourge of humanity, small-pox, made its appearance. By isolation and hygienic precautions it was restricted to two cases, these in the persons of the kitchen man and woman. No cases occurred among the patients, and no words can express our feelings of gratitude for so evident an interposition of Providence in behalf of our helpless charge. This condition of the household, with the necessary outlays contingent upon it, increased our ordinary expenses for medicines, stimulants, &c., over those of former years, but an ample return has been made us in the full re-establishment of the general health and with no unusual increase of mortality.

Some changes have occurred during the year in the subordinate offices of the Institution. Dr. Wray Grayson, for two years previously connected with the Asylum as Assistant Physician, resigned his situation in June last for a more lucrative and enlarged field of professional labor. During his association with us he fully sustained the high character given him as a courteous gentleman and able physician in the discharge of the responsible duties devolving upon him. Dr. Hanson Hard was appointed his successor early in July last. Long experience in general and hospital practice was a strong recommendation for the post, his fitness for which has been fully established during the past four months.

By the removal of Rev. Dillon Prosser to another charge, the Institution lost in him, as Moral Instructor, a most active and zealous co-laborer in the work of benevolence. It is under great obligation to him for much material aid in the way of books, pictures, &c., obtained through his agency from persons whose contributions only needed to be directed into right channels.

This vacancy has been alternately filled during the year by the Revs. Wm. C. Turner and R. M. Warren, gentlemen every way qualified for the position. Mr. Turner, in obedience to a higher call, a short time since, gave himself to the service of his country, and at the head of a company of his townsmen is now enduring the privations of a soldier's life, that he may participate in the glorious triumph, we trust, near at hand. Mr. Warren continues to discharge the varied duties devolving upon the Moral Instructor, to the great satisfaction of our household. This department, if properly filled, can be made an essential element of success in the treatment of the insane. It is not from the exposition of religious tenets that we expect good results in such an assemblage of different faiths, but in the inculcation of those great moral truths which are applicable to all, no matter what may have been the individual social or religious life, and which can be accomplished better by one who is recognized as their faithful representative in the character which such an influence, rightly exerted, gives the Institution abroad, and in the harmony which is more likely to exist in an institution where such ministrations are exercised and properly responded to.

Again we have an opportunity to reiterate our acknowledgments to the press for newspapers and periodicals gratuitously furnished the inmates during another year, and to the following persons for substantial favors. These acts of kindness on the part of the public are not lost.

He who numbereth each hair of our heads and notices a sparrow's fall, will not forget these expressions of love to his helpless ones :

Mr. and Mrs. John Hofsto (Newburgh) for 25 steel engravings and one large lithograph; Mr. Hart, (Cleveland), 2 large engravings; Miss. A. Ballard, shells, Chinese puzzle, shell picture frame, and geological specimens; Mrs. Burgess, (Bedford) several engravings; Dr. Sackrider, (Cleveland), botanical specimens; Daniel Briggs, number of periodicals; Mrs. M. A. Bronson, (Medina), one large oil painting; F. K. Reed, (Newburgh), 3 fine house plants; F. Quayle of the navy, shells, sea-weed, etc.; Mrs. Shumway, (Cleveland), 12 engravings and lithographs, Washington's Dream, President Lincoln, etc.; Miss E. North, (Geneva), 6 fine steel engravings; William E. Waterman, (Cleveland), one year's contribution of Daily Morning Leader.

The farm and garden have received the usual attention. Only a small part of the former has, as yet, been brought under cultivation, being better adapted to grazing. Thorough drainage is needed to make this heavy clay soil productive. The garden, since its under-drainage with tile, has been yielding fair returns in vegetables and fruits. The gardener reports the value of the products, at market prices, to be about $2,733.00.

A large number of patients have been engaged in labor of various kinds during the season. Suitable employment for both male and female we deem essential as a curative agent in the treatment of the insane, and the subject is often adverted to in hospital reports. As a difference of opinion in respect to this matter can only exist in relation to the extent to which any system of labor for the insane may be carried, we may be allowed to express our own convictions, in a general way, that employment should be furnished to patients only in kind and to that degree as to be made profitable to them. If the theory of physical debility, upon which, in a great measure, the modern treatment of insanity is based, be true, great discretion should be exercised in adopting a general system of labor. Patients are sent to our asylums to be restored to health. If, in our excess of zeal to make an exhibit of profitable results from their labor, we tax them beyond their powers of endurance, we assume a fearful responsibility. They should have an unlimited range of amusements and occupation, compatible with their individual capabilities of enjoyment and within the measure of their strength :

APPROPRIATIONS.

Special.—The balance of the appropriation for repairing the roof and removing the bathing apparatus has been expended in completing the work in progress at the time of making our last annual report. The change is a great improvement over the old arrangement in point of convenience, cleanliness, etc.

At the last session of the legislature, the following special appropriations were granted to the asylum, viz: $1,000 for renewal of steam pipes and $500 for new floors. The former sum has been entirely expended in the purchase of material and for labor up to the present time. In ordinary times, or if the funds could have been reached at once when called for, the sum appropriated would have been sufficient to accomplish the entire change so much needed in the distributing portion of the steam heating apparatus. But the increased price of material and labor during the six months intervening between the demand for means and the time of its reception, has placed it out of our power to perfect the work contemplated, with the amount thus limited.

Most of the material for the new floors has been obtained, but owing to the constant employment of the carpenter on work connected with the new bathing rooms, it has been found impossible to lay them up to the present time. Of this appropriation, $385.67 have been expended, leaving a balance on hand of $114.33.

General Appropriation.—A balance of $1,615.72 remained on hand at the date of our last annual report. This sum was expended to meet liabilities to November 15, 1863, the end of the fiscal year. The amount of appropriation for current expenses for the year just expired, was $35,000. This increased by the receipts from all other sources, $638.36, gives an aggregate sum for general purposes of $35,638.36. Of this amount $35,315 70 have been expended, leaving a balance at this date of $322.66, agreeably to the Steward's statement. It seems proper to say, in this connection, that while the most rigid economy has been practiced in the expenditures for the year, it has not been done at the expense of the inmates; the same generous provision has been made for them as heretofore, and to-day, in all respects, the Institution is as well supplied with every needed comfort as at any previous period in its history.

There are, however, wants which are imperative. A substantial ice-house, or refrigerator, in which meats, butter, milk, &c., can be kept during the warm weather, is indispensable. The main building needs refurnishing. The structure itself needs permanent repairs. The entire wood work should be repainted. The fences newly put up must be painted for their preservation; and other items of minor importance, yet essential to the efficient management, demand attention. These things cannot be done without money, and as no provision is made for the use of the current fund in this way, it seems advisable to ask of the Legislature $5000, for permanent repairs and to refurnish the house.

The following brief statement has been prepared to exhibit at a glance the financial condition of the Institution during the past six years:

In asking for an increase of general appropriation for the coming year, we present the following facts as a basis for such demand :

On account of the gradual advance of all commodities in the fall of 1862, and the anticipation of a more rapid rise during the current year, an increase of appropriation—of 11 per cent.—was made at that time, and nearly one half of it consumed. In the fall of 1863, on similar grounds, an increase of 16½ per cent. was made for the current year. All kinds of goods advanced gradually, until the passage of the Internal Revenue bill in the spring, when all goods affected by it, such as sugars, teas, coal, meats, dry goods, &c., took a sudden upward tendency, and are now fully 100 per cent. higher than when our last appropriation was made. So long as the war continues prices must increase, and, to meet the demand, our appropriations must be greater. In view of these facts, I deem it necessary to call for the following sums :

For the last 3 quarters of the current year, '64 and '65.....	$39,000 00
For general repairs and refurnishing house	5,000 00
For Officers' salaries.....	2,300 00
For Moral Instructor and Library	200 00
Total.....	$46,500 00

In closing this report justice demands, and my own inclination prompts, an acknowledgment of indebtedness to those who have been associated with me in the various duties of hospital life. The several officers of the Asylum, as well as the attendants and assistants generally, have done their part in promoting its best interests, and deserve the highest commendation for the faithful manner in which they have discharged their obligations to the Institution.

The Board of Trustees merit my warmest gratitude, for the generous support which they have extended to me in the performance of my executive duties. May their counsels ever be directed by wisdom, and this noble charity, under Providence, finally attain to its full measure of success.

REPORT OF COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY.

OFFICE OF COMPTROLLER OF THE TREASURY,
COLUMBUS, O., November 15, 1864.

To His Excellency John Brough, Governor of Ohio :

The annexed report for the fiscal year ending the fifteenth day of November, instant, which I have the honor to present, consists chiefly of tables for reference: showing the financial transactions during the past year, and the present condition of the Treasury; also giving balances remaining to the credit of the several funds.

Attention is called to the allotment account, to which considerable care has been given, believing it to possess some general interest. The expenses attending the execution of the law having been paid from the public Treasury, it is considered proper to make an exhibit in form, as in all other classes of expenditure.

The aggregate returned by the agents respectively, during the year just closed, should not be considered as discriminating in favor of, or against, either, as the time of service must be considered, but, more especially, the peculiar circumstances attending these collecting trips or visits to the army. Nor should the amount shown in the table to have been received into the Treasury during the current year, for distribution, although very large, ($2,251,556.46,) be taken as the whole sum returned by Ohio soldiers to "their families and friends," as it is well known that a large amount has been carried by Express, of which the State has no official information.

The law, therefore, in that particular, may be considered imperfect. If the State is responsible for the acts of her agents in the case in question, a return sheet should be required, showing the amount received, from whom and to whom forwarded by Express. And I may here say that the law contemplates full returns.

The first year, (fractional) 1862, there was received.....	$820,947 01
The second year, 1863	961,824 81
The third year, 1864.....	2,251,557 16
Total.....	$4,034,328 98

The total receipts in two and three-quarters years, amount to four millions thirty-four thousand three hundred twenty-eight dollars and ninety-eight cents.

The amount returned to the Treasurer during the same time, under the provisions of the act, as "uncalled for within nine months," is.....	$822 36
Of which there has since been paid	753 36
Balance	$280 00
Total Balance	$753,585 74

In the bank table will be found the amount and kind of securities; also the blank or unsigned notes now in the Treasury; also the amount of bills in circulation. The changes, when compared with former years, that may be observed, are, doubtless, owing to the very general adoption of the National system of banking.

The discrepancies in the circulation account of the City Bank of Columbus, occurred prior to the establishment of this office. The bank is now in the hands of a receiver, for settlement; but, until authority is given, no final adjustment, by the Officers of State and of that bank, can be accomplished, unless so ordered by a decree of the court having jurisdiction.

Many of the securities for bank circulation, now held in the Treasury, are not assigned to the "Treasurer and Comptroller for the use of the Banks," therefore they may pass out of the Treasury without the signature of either officer designated by the law. It is, without doubt, a convenience to the banks, but it is in violation of law.

After seven years' service, the furniture in the office requires to be renewed. I therefore recommend a reasonable appropriation—three hundred dollars—for a carpet, much needed to make the office respectable for the incoming officer.

Respectfully,

JOS. H. RILEY, Comptroller.

FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

OF

LONGVIEW ASYLUM,

TO THE

GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF OHIO,

FOR THE YEAR 1864.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

JUDGE JOHN BURGOYNE, MARK E. REEVES, Esq.,
HON. JOHN F. TORRENCE.

OFFICERS.

SUPERINTENDENT AND PHYSICIAN,
O. M. LANGDON, M.D.

ASSISTANT PHYSICIAN,
J. A. HALL, M.D.

STEWARD,
R. T. THORBURN.

MATRON,
MRS. LOUISA W. JONES.

REPORT OF DIRECTORS.

To His Excellency JOHN BROUGH, Governor of Ohio :

SIR—In conformity to the law reorganizing Benevolent Institutions of the State, passed April 25, 1852, the undersigned, Directors of the Longview Asylum of Hamilton county, beg leave to submit this their fifth annual report.

The receipts for the current year have been as follows :

From State Treasurer.....	$20,000 00
“ County “	54,000 00
“ board of pay patients.....	11,938 39
“ last year's balance and other sources.....	388 84
	<hr/>
	86,427 23
Total expenditures.....	86,253 61
Balance at close of year.....	$173 62

The cost of each patient to the county is about $3.00 per week, being a small increase over last year, occasioned by the continued advance of almost every article required for the use of the Institution.

We deemed it expedient, during the past year, to purchase a lot of ground immediately in front of the Institution, containing about eight acres, in order to have more room for out-door exercise for the inmates, pasturage, &c. This purchase will add greatly to the appearance of the grounds, and prevent, what we had reason to fear might happen, objectionable occupants, if not grievous nuisances.

The outlay of money for this property, it will be recollected, is included in the Steward's report of current expenses for the year. Yet nothing, in our opinion, has been extravagant or unnecessary, but on the most economical plan.

The number of patients at date of our last report was 356; there is now 367; of these 332 are supported at county expense.

At the opening of the Institution there were 320 inmates dependent on the county for support, so there has been an increase of only 12 persons in five years. This very moderate increase is due mainly to the increased facilities for the treatment and care of the inmates since we have occupied the present building, as the same class of patients are received now as formerly.

With our old accommodations there was an increase of 113 in three years, or over 37 per cent., instead of a fraction over 2 per cent. per annum, which has been the rate for the last five years.

It is very gratifying to find that the liberal expenditures which have been made for the support, care and treatment of the insane of the county, shows so favorable a footing.

The health of the household has been good; no epidemic or unusual sickness has visited the inmates.

Many of the inmates have been employed about the house and grounds, with profit to the Institution and great advantage to their own health. The ornamenting and improving of the grounds has been largely the work of the patients.

It is our melancholy duty to put on record the death of our 1st Assistant Physician, Dr. J. B. Hall. He died in June last, after a brief illness.

The Institution, nor Dr. Langdon, could not easily have sustained a greater loss, or one that was more deeply deplored by all. For more than 15 months Dr. Hall devoted his whole professional ability to the specialty, feeling a deep interest in all pertaining to the welfare of the patients and the interests of the Institution. His urbane manners and sympathizing heart endeared him to all.

Owing to the vacancy occasioned by the death of Dr. Hall, the Superintendent, Dr. O. M. Langdon, was left without an assistant for several months, during which time he had unusual difficulties to surmount; in fact the duties and cares of two persons, to say nothing of his very laborious executive duties necessary in conducting so large an Institution, yet the Dr. surmounted all difficulties and has performed his most arduous duties to our entire satisfaction.

The term of service of Dr. C. G. Comogys, as Director, having expired in June last, Hon. John F. Torrence was appointed to fill the vacancy. And it gives us great pleasure to bear testimony to the efficiency and faithfulness with which the Dr. discharged his duties.

Dr. J. A. Hall, who is now discharging the duties of Assistant Physician with commendable zeal and efficiency, comes favorably recommended from the Pennsylvania Hospital for the insane, at Philadelphia.

Other officers and employees have very generally discharged their duties in the most satisfactory manner. The Steward and Engineer deserve especial commendation.

The house has been kept in most excellent order during the year. The patients have been comfortably clothed, well fed, and very kindly treated.

The percentage of cures have been large, being 57 per cent. on admissions; while that of deaths is very small, being only $5\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. on the total number treated.

We would respectfully call the attention of the Legislature to the act of a deficiency in the last appropriation to this Institution of $3,024 95, as appears from the calculation of the Auditor of State, and hope the next will make the correction.

The general administration of the affairs of the house and the conduct of all employed, has been everything that could be desired. Of these facts we have assured ourselves by frequent visits and observation.

For a more particular account of the expenditures, &c., we beg leave to refer to the reports of the Superintendent and Steward accompanying this.

J. BURGOYNE,
M. E. REEVES,
JOHN F. TORRENCE.

LONGVIEW, Nov. 1, 1864.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Board of Directors of Longview Asylum :

In compliance with the law I have the honor to submit this my fifth annual report.

The following tables give a general view of the state of the Institution, and of our operations during the year ending October 31st, 1864 :

At last report there were in the house 179 males and 177 females ; total, 356. Received during the year, 60 males and 81 females ; total, 141. Of these there were committed by court, 36 males, 53 females ; total, 89. Sent in by friends, 24 males, 28 females ; total 52. Discharged or died, 64 males, 66 females ; total, 130. Remaining, 175 males, 192 females ; total, 367.

No. of patients treated during the year,	239 males, 258 females ; total	497

The following is a tabular statement of the per centage of deaths and discharges during the year :

Per cent. of cures on admissions	57½
" deaths on whole number treated	5.24
" " average "	6.84

Quite a large poportion of those admitted were old cases, some of them incurables, sent from other asylums. This, of course, reduces the per cent. of cures.

Considering the unusually high prices of all the necessary dry goods, groceries and provisions, I believe this to be a very economical expenditure.

The amount expended this year has been considerably increased by the purchase of a lot of ground in front of the Asylum, which was much needed as additional space for recreation and to improve the appearance of the Institution.

The entire number of patients in the house dependent on the county for support is 332. At the opening of the Institution there was 320, so that there has only been an increase of twelve patients in five years; whereas, at the old Asylum at Lick Run there was an increase during the last three years prior to the opening of this house of 113, being an increase of 101 more in three years in the old Institution than in five years in the present one. This number would cost the county for their support at say $3 per week, $15,756 per annum. Facts like these go far to prove that it is economical in a pecuniary point of view to provide in the best manner for the care of the insane, to say nothing of the benefit to the public of returning so large a number of producers to their respective avocations or the benefit to themselves and fruits of their restoration to health. It is fortunate that the humane impulses of the community in this direction need not be restrained by economical considerations.

I have, during the past year, labored under many disadvantages in consequence of the loss of my valued assistant, Dr. J. B. Hall, which left me to bear alone for nearly four months the whole burden of the establishment.

I cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing my high sense of the worth and ability of Dr. J. B. Hall. It is rare to meet with an officer so conscientious and devoted, always willing and anxious to do everything in his power to alleviate the condition of those under his charge, industrious and faithful, an able physician and a true hearted gentleman. His death was to me and the Institution a loss which it will be difficult to repair.

I have also been much hindered by the loss of several of my best male attendants, who volunteered for the service of their country, and there has been great difficulty in supplying their places with good men. I have been compelled to take such as I could get, without choice or chance of selection. There has been great difficulty, also, in obtaining female help, in consequence of the Government supplying so much work suitable for females at much more remunerative prices than I could afford to give, and also on account of the general disinclination to go to the country, especially to an Insane Asylum.

In consequence of these hindrances, the affairs of the Institution have not, perhaps, been as well managed as is desirable, though I have done the best in my power under the circumstances. Whilst, therefore, my conscience acquits me of any neglect of duty, I cannot help regretting that matters have not been better managed.

I now have with me Dr. J. A. Hall, from whom I expect much assistance during the coming year, as he has had a year's experience in the Pennsylvania Insane Hospital, and comes highly recommended by Dr. Kirkbride.

The other officers and the employees generally have performed their duties satisfactorily, and given me much valuable aid. The Steward, R. T. Thorburn, especially deserves my thanks for his judicious purchases and general prompt attention to business. To the Board of Directors I am under lasting obligations for their uniform kindness, valuable advice, and pleasant social visits. Their warm sympathy for the inmates and earnest desire for the prosperity of this noble charity have been of great assistance and encouragement to me in the performance of my duties.

In the treatment of our patients, we find it expedient, while fulfilling other indications, to endeavor to restore former feelings and habits of thought, and detach the mind from unreasonable ideas, by occupation both in the way of useful employment and amusement. The advantage of bodily labor, as a means of discipline, having a secondary though powerful effect upon the mind, is generally admitted, and the returning desire for employment is always a favorable sign. The body, exercised by labor, is thereby invigorated and strengthened, and the mind, sympathizing, begins, as in health, to form intellectual combinations and to regain the power of changing the train of ideas. On all these accounts patients should, by every possible means, be encouraged to occupy themselves in some way but should not be forced to work. Coaxing and persuasion should be used, but not compulsion. Whilst the constant regular employment of the insane is one very efficient way of increasing their comfort and promoting their cure, it has at the same time been a means of saving expense to the Institution. This I have been able to accomplish to a considerable extent by employing the patients as carpenters, shoemakers and tailors, in the kitchen, laundry, engine-room and stable, and in knitting and sewing. It is much easier to find employment for females than males, as they all have some knowledge of the usual feminine occupations, such as sewing, crocheting, embroidery, etc., whilst many of the men have no knowledge of any trade or business at which they can be employed in the Institution.

In this connection, I wish to urge the importance of having a farm attached to the Institution. It would furnish abundant opportunity of healthy employment to the inmates, and at the same time save much of the expense of maintaining them.

Much has been said of the advantage to be derived from amusement in the treatment of the insane, and it is an adjuvant by no means to be overlooked. I have, therefore, furnished billiards, ten-pins and magic lantern, birds, rabbits, and animals of various kinds, games of ball, dancing parties, and indeed everything that will have a tendency to excite the mind to healthy action, divert it from its absorbing idea, and interest it in surrounding objects.

The adoption of any regular system of divine worship I have not attempted, for the reason that I do not think, under all the circumstances, with the class of patients I have, any good would result from it. Over one-half of the entire household are Roman Catholics; the rest are of all other denominations of Christians and Jews; with all the bigotry and intolerance of sects aggravated by their peculiar infirmity. I have, however, encouraged ministerial visitation, when desired by the patient, or in my opinion likely to be beneficial. I also send patients to the churches in the neighborhood when they desire it and are in a condition to be benefited by it.

Most of the patients are fond of reading either books or newspapers, and almost all are interested by illustrated papers and the like, which strike the eye, and as it were force themselves upon their attention. I have endeavored to supply this want as far as possible, but our library is as yet rather limited.

Many of the inmates, like their sane brethren, have an extreme dislike to anything like work, and cannot be induced to engage in any kind of useful employment. In order that these also may enjoy the benefit to be derived from exercise, I send them out to walk over the hills and fields in the neighborhood, accompanied by an attendant, and find the practice to be attended by very beneficial results on their bodily health, and it also tends to excite their minds to more healthy and vigorous action, and is often largely instrumental in promoting recovery.

One of the most disagreeable duties of the Superintendent consists in resisting the importunities of patients and their friends to allow frequent visiting. As a general rule, I allow no visits for the first two weeks after admission, and after that I am governed by the condition of the patient. When convinced that visits are positively injurious I peremptorily refuse admittance to every one, notwithstanding the fact that it generally gives great offence to friends and relatives, who are apt to attribute my conduct to an unaccommodating spirit and a desire to display my authority. Relatives and friends are also apt to cause inconvenience by choosing holidays to make their visits, not remembering that the attendants, who are ordinarily kept at work every day, including Sunday, need a little relaxation, and ought to be allowed the opportunity afforded by the holidays.

There have been a number of improvements made in the heating and draining arrangements, but none of them of sufficient importance to particularize. The grounds about the house have also been much improved by planting, grading and sodding.

Our system of ventilation, which is a forced downward and outward one, connecting with the smoke stack, continues to prove successful, working to our entire satisfaction. It is, in my opinion, superior to any other system that I have seen, furnishing a pure and sweet atmosphere to every part of the house, and acting constantly without any expense, and preventing any odor being perceptible even from the water-closets.

The condition of the country during the past three years caused great apprehensions of a large increase in the number of cases of insanity. Thus far, however, the experience of this Institution, I am happy to say, has not verified these fears. Out of the whole number received, and this has not been greater than usual, but few have been attributed to the war, and most of those, in my opinion, had another origin. In other cases, the length of time the disease had existed precluded the supposition that they owed their origin to the disturbed state of the country, and the excitement dependent thereon. As yet, the minds of the people are stimulated by the excitement of battles, the anticipation of success and the hope of the cessation of war with all its exciting terrors and griefs, and the return of peace with its quiet pleasures and tranquil homes. This state of mind tends at first to keep the mind aroused and active, and prevent that brooding over troubles, which is so productive of mental derangement. It is to be feared that when peace does again bless the land, there will be many sad hearts that will not find that tranquility for which they so fondly long and anxiously anticipate. Then will come a period of depression in which the loss of friends and fortune will be most keenly felt and sadly realized. It is to be feared that so forcibly will these losses be felt, and so persistently dwelt upon, that in many reason will totter and in some cases be overthrown.

The Virginia State patients received last June from the Ohio Central Asylum have all been removed to their own Asylum just completed at Weston, Virginia.

The law regulating the admission of patients and the administration of the affairs of this Institution has thus far worked well and does not seem to demand alteration.

It is a fact which may justly excite the pride of every citizen of Hamilton county, that there is no place, either in this country or Europe, which surpasses this county in its ample provision for all classes of insane, when all are received and cared for at the public expense until they are restored to reason or released by death. The liberal and humane plan upon which the Institution was founded has been well carried out. All the insane, rich and poor, curable and incurable, are amply and comfortably provided for, having kind and faithful attendants, varied amusements and all the comforts of a home attainable in a public institution. Indeed, but few, and those the wealthiest, of our citizens can command the means of recreation, amusement, care and attendance provided in this Institution, at no cost to those of the inmates who are residents of the county—nowhere else is there such free provision made for the care of the insane during their whole life-time, if need be.

Some pay patients are received from neighboring States, but only as a favor, because they cannot be accommodated in their own Institutions, and not for the sake of the pecuniary remuneration.

The expenditures for the coming year will be large on account of the high price of labor and all the materials consumed in carrying on the establishment. It will probably amount to $90,000

For particulars with regard to last years' expenditures, I beg to refer to the Steward's report, accompanying this. I also append a set of tables showing cost and consumption of gas, coal, &c., and a set of meteorological tables.

O. M. LANGDON.

APPENDIX.

For the benefit of those who seek admission for pay-patients, we append a form for a Physician's certificate, the form of a bond of security to be given to the Superintendent, and a list of questions which it is desirable to have answered as fully as possible.

The charge for board and all necessary attention, including medicines, is from four to twenty dollars per week for residents of Hamilton county, and for all non-residents it is from six to twenty dollars per week, payable every four weeks in advance.

FORM OF PHYSICIAN'S CERTIFICATE.

I, ———, of ———, do hereby certify that I have carefully examined ———, of ———, in the county of ———, State of ———, and believe ——— to be insane, and a proper person to be sent to an Asylum.
———, 186—, M. D.

REQUEST FOR ADMISSION.

We, ———, and ———, of ———, hereby request that ———, of ———, be admitted as a patient into Longview Asylum.
———, 186—.

The above request is to be signed by the guardian, or two of the near relatives or friends of the insane person.

FORM OF BOND.

KNOW ALL MEN BY THESE PRESENTS, That we, ———, of the county of ———, in the State of ———, are held and firmly bound unto ———, Superintendent of the "Longview Asylum, State of Ohio," Hamilton county, and his successors in office, in the sum of one thousand dollars, for the payment of which we jointly and severally bind ourselves by these presents.

Sealed with our seals, and dated this ——— day of ———, 186—.

WHEREAS, ———, of the county of ———, in the State of ———, and who is insane, has been admitted a patient in the Longview Asylum: Now, therefore, the condition of this obligation is, that if the said obligors shall pay to the said Superintendent, or his successors in office, the sum of ——— dollars per week, for the board of the said patient, so long as ——— shall continue in said asylum, and shall pay for all requisite clothing and other things deemed proper for the health and comfort of said patient, and shall pay not exceeding fifty dollars for all damage ——— may do to the furniture and other property belonging to said Asylum, and shall pay for all necessary funeral expenses in case of death, and reasonable charges in case of elopement, and shall remove ——— from said Asylum within thirty days after notice has been given by the Superintendent to one of said obligors, or to either of their sureties, and if taken away against the advice and consent of the Superintendent, before the expiration of three calendar months after the reception, then if said obligors pay board for thirteen weeks, unless ——— should be sooner cured, then not less than four weeks, such payment for board and clothing to be made monthly in advance, and at the time of removal, with interest on each bill from and after the time it becomes due, then this obligation to be void, otherwise to remain in full force.

U. S. Stamp, 50 cts.

_____, [SEAL.]
 _____, [SEAL.]
 _____, [SEAL.]

Should the signers of the above bond be non-residents of Hamilton county, it will be necessary to have the clerk of the County Court of the county in which they reside to certify as to their responsibility.

Questions necessary to be answered by the physician or friend on sending a patient to Longview Asylum :

1. Patient's name?
2. What age?
3. Where born?
4. Present place of residence?
5. What occupation? (if a female, her father or husband's occupation.)
6. When did the symptoms of insanity first commence?
7. What number of attacks?
8. Is there any physical disease or derangement?
9. Had the patient attempted suicide; and if so, in what manner? Is there a disposition to injure others, or property or clothing?
10. Have any of the patient's immediate relatives been insane; and if so, who of them?
11. What is the supposed cause of this or previous attacks?
12. Is the patient addicted to the use of opium, tobacco or spirituous liquors? Are they used moderately or intemperately?
13. Is the patient subject to epilepsy, or has he received any injury of the head?
14. What treatment has been used in the case?
15. Name any and all other circumstances that are supposed to have any bearing on the case.
